DUCE ASKS NEW PEACE OFFER

W-G-N BUILDING IS COMPLETED; PREVIEW TODAY

Prize Winning Studio Open to Public.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Enter fairyland.

Enter it any time from 10 o'clock this morning till 2 this afternoon for the public preview that marks completion of one of the most intricate and exacting achievements during the last decade of American architecture and engineering.

THE TRIBUNE'S new radio building, just north of Tribune Tower, is finished after 276 days of intensive toil by 550 engineers, artists, and artisans, and after the expenditure of half a million dollars.

In writing about radio one does not say that anything is "the last word in radio," but this newspaper does sincerely believe that its Gothic radio structure and equipment are the up-to-the-minute words in radio and that they will reward inspection by you.

Admission by Ticket.

The preview—accompanied by music, and admittance to which will be by ticket applied for in advance—will be repeated tomorrow and on Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 o'clock in the morning till 2 in the afternoon.

And so again we invite our friends to view fairyland.

A fairyland of music, of discourse, and of color; a laboratory of miraculous-seeming inventions, devices, contrivances, and gadgets that utter radio's up-to-the-minute message. (And if that sounds like o'er zealous ballyhoo it is nevertheless the exact truth.)

Here, in a luxurious but restful studio auditorium seating 588 persons, the public will see the wheels of radio go round through the medium of what are called "visible shows."

Hear and See Performers.

Notables of radio will not only be heard but seen on a platform so large that it will accommodate an orchestra the size of the Chicago Symphony.

All these platform programs will be carried by huge concealed amplifiers and transmitters to the outside world—into, in other words, your home wherever in the United States you dwell.

In addition to the main studio—or "public observation room," as it also is called—there are in this radio palace of Bedford stone two more studios that are open to the public when it wishes to enjoy an especially intimate experience in seeing and hearing radio's wheels go round. One of them seats 22 persons, the other 18. Thus we have for our guests a total seating capacity of 628.

Shows Will Be Free.

Always these "visible shows" will be free from the time you step in from Michigan avenue—no admission fee, no tipping at the receiving windows of the spacious checkroom, no charge at the numerous public telephones. Ten uniformed ushers and pages in dark blue coats with silver buttons and powder blue trousers will look after your comfort. The 25 members of the principal orchestra will wear uniforms of white and black.

In short, fairyland run like a well ordered club.

You will hardly believe how large a staf is busy in the graystone palace that covers one-fourth of a city block. Counting everybody—directors, artists, production men, operators, electricians, carpenters, firemen, guards, ushers, and hostesses—from 150 to 200 persons will be on duty when the plant is going full tilt in its total of three public and three private studios. And in addition to those six, W-G-N will continue to maintain its three studios now housed on the eleventh floor of Tribune Tower.

Gift to Readers and Listeners.

About that matter of free admission—it will be free to the last penny. It will be by ticket, and after application for them the tickets will be mailed free of charge to your home. Details about that further on in this article. Suffice to say at the moment that W-G-N's new radio home will also be the people's radio home and always free to the people—THE TRIBUNE'S gift to its readers and listeners.

When you take your preview this week—the first of what we hope will be many visits—a dozen phrases of description will come to your lips.

Especially will the lighting bewitch you.

For in this cathedral of radio the

Cubs Win 17th; Lead by 3½ Games

BEAT PIRATES AS CARDINALS LOSE; TITLE TO TIGERS

The Cubs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, 4 to 3, for their 17th straight victory. The Pirates knocked Roy Henshaw from the game in the ninth when they scored two runs on four straight hits. Lon Warneke retired the side. Augie Galan hit his 12th homer of the season. Attendance was 38,624.

The victory gave the Cubs a 3½ game lead over the second place St. Louis Cardinals, who lost to Cincinnati, 9-7.

The Detroit Tigers clinched the American league pennant yesterday by winning two games from the St. Louis Browns, 6-2 and 2-0.

SENATORS FIND U. OF WISCONSIN HAVEN FOR REDS

Also Flay Ouster of Dean Snell.

1. That communistic activities are prevalent in the State university under encouragement of members of the faculty.

2. That the ousting last autumn of Dean Chester D. Snell by the university administration was so unfair as to have a parallel only in medieval inquisitions and present day Russia.

Senators Revise Report.

The report on red activities in the university condemned a "change or overthrow of the constitution." Then Democratic members of the senate committee realized that the condemnation would cover the present New Deal administration in Washington, which was not their wish, so they recalled the report and added the words "by force" to the phrase "change or overthrow of the constitution."

It was an hour after the committee had released its report that Senator E. F. Brunette [Dem., Green Bay] hustled among senate clerks and newspaper reporters to make the amendment and to keep clear of a seeming attack on the Roosevelt policies. Members of the committee are Senators Brunette, chairman; H. W. Griswold, William H. Shenners Jr., and H. W. Bolens.

Recommendations Made.

In the report as finally given out four recommendations were made, as follows:

"1. That hereafter the board of regents of the university and the boards of other state educational institutions, frown upon the activities of all societies not clearly organized as American societies under the constitution, and any society organized with the intent or purpose, full or in part, to change by force or overthrow the constitution, or the American form of government; that individuals or societies offering or expounding un-American doctrins be expelled from the university or other state educational institutions, or refused their facilities.

"2. That the University of Wisconsin coöperate with any organization or society whose purpose is the furtherance of Americanism.

Asks "Constant Vigilance."

"3. That constant vigilance be maintained so that the university will promote and coöperate in every effort to secure full and complete information as to anti-American activities to the end that the name and prestige of the university as a strictly American institution of high ideals and purposes, may be known and recognized in Wisconsin and in the nation.

"4. That the board of regents prevent with strict disciplinary action the efforts of any member or groups in any department to undermine the position, or character of any individual, or take part in inter-institutional political maneuvering."

Each of the five senators on the committee signed the report, but

NOW STEALTHY STEEDS OF NEW YORK POLICE WILL DON GUM SHOES

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The police department, suiting action to its recent pledge to assist in the city anti-noise campaign to be started Oct. 1, announced today that its horses used in trafic work were to be shod with rubber shoes.

Tests made for the last month have shown that such equipment, besides being noiseless, is nonskid and wears longer than iron shoes. For some time many milk wagon horses have been equipped with rubber shoes for their work in the early hours, but this is the first move to apply the principle to the police department.

85 MEN, 15 WOMEN SEIZED IN SUBURB GAMBLING RAID

One hundred persons, 85 men and 15 women, were arrested yesterday in a raid by police of the state's attorney's office and of the Forest Park force, under Chief Fred Licht, on an alleged hand book at 7206 Circle avenue, Forest Park.

All were taken to the Forest Park station and booked as inmates of a gambling house. No one was found who would admit being keeper of the place. The prisoners were released later on bonds of $15 each and will be arraigned next Saturday before Justice of the Peace Otto Gorky.

In Chicago, police took 34 prisoners in eleven alleged handbooks, ten of them in the loop district. The places invaded are: 17 North Wabash avenue, 1 prisoner; 14 West Washington street, one; 180 West Washington street, one; 27 North Franklin street, six; 318 North Michigan avenue, seven; 25 East Adams street, five; 25 East Jackson boulevard, three; 219 North Michigan avenue, two; 152 North State street, one; 76 West Van Buren street, two, and 835 North Ashland avenue, five.

Grand Slam in Bridge May Cost Holder Finger

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A grand slam at bridge may cost C. J. Westcott, Boise oil man, the index finger on his right hand. Elated at the play, he grasped the bottom of his collapsible chair and leaped to his feet. His finger caught and was almost severed.

Chicago Pilot Flying Sea in Hop to Europe

BULLETIN.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 22—(Sunday).—(AP)—The Free State radio station, after its usual closing hour, broadcast early today a special weather report and forecast for Lieut. Felix Waitkus, believed somewhere over the north Atlantic on a flight from New York to Kaunas, Lithuania. It was generally believed the airman would arrive over Ireland about noon today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Sept. 21.—A plane believed to be that of Lieut. Felix Waitkus, Chicago born pilot of Lithuanian parentage, who hopped from New York for a nonstop flight to Lithuania this morning, was heard but not sighted by residents of Bell Island, Conception bay, at 3:46 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time. Visibility was poor and because of a heavy fog the listeners were unable to tell the direction in which the flyer was proceeding.

Kaunas Is Destination.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Somewhere out over the Atlantic this afternoon a white and orange colored monoplane was streaking its way toward Europe. At the controls is Felix Waitkus, a United States army trained pilot of Lithuanian descent, and his destination is Kaunas, the capital of the land of his forefathers.

With the calm of one taking off on a little pleasure jaunt rather than a 4,500 mile nonstop dash across the Atlantic, the former army air corps lieutenant sent his monoplane early today roaring down the mile runway at Floyd Bennett field and headed toward the rising sun at 6:45 a. m.

Wife Sees Takeoff.

The little brown eyed wife of the pilot stood staring at the sun streaked skies for several minutes after the plane disappeared, then she turned toward one of her husband's mechanics and with a sigh of relief said: "Well, he's off, and on his way."

The flyer's course is posted along the "Great Circle" route, which was the course Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew on his solo dash to Paris.

The flight across the Atlantic will start at St. John's and he expects to strike the Irish coast at Athlone, crossing England at Liverpool, and thence across the North sea, following the German coast to Memel, the Lithuanian port on the Baltic. His route then will be in a northeasterly direction to Kaunas.

Born in Chicago.

Waitkus is 28 years old, born in Chicago of Lithuanian parents, and took his flying training at army fields at March Field, Cal.; San Antonio, Tex., and Selfridge Field, Mich. The flight is being sponsored by the American Lithuanian Trans-Atlantic Flight association, and is backed by a Lithuanian newspaper in Chicago.

Waitkus' plane carried 650 gallons of gasoline and his take-off was the first that has been made on the east-west runway in the direction of the bay. Heretofore flyers have taken off in the other direction.

RAYMOND ROBINS, EDUCATOR, INJURED IN FALL FROM TREE

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Raymond Robins, nationally known educator, suffered injuries to his back this afternoon in a fall from a tree at his home near Brooksville.

Robins suffered a spinal fracture, according to Dr. A. C. Coogler, his family physician. He said his patient's condition was serious but not critical.

Robins was brought to Municipal hospital here for treatment. He had been pruning trees and fell about ten feet.

Robins disappeared several years ago when he failed to keep an appointment with President Hoover at the White House. He was found later dressed in working man's garb in the North Carolina mountains. Relatives said he had been a victim of amnesia.

'Store Teeth' Are Hungry; Used in Testing Money

Staples, Minn., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Advertising the finding of a set of "store teeth," the local editor wrote that "they're hungry for a home cooked meal." He added: "The upper plate bites the change that goes into the cash register to test for counterfeit money."

MOSCOW, Sept. 21.—(AP)—United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois is ill today of bronchial pneumonia at the National hotel. Senator Lewis arrived a week ago, suffering from an asthma condition which grew worse and developed into pneumonia.

Doctors said the illness had affected his whole right side. His condition was described as serious but not necessarily grave. Dr. Adolph S. Rumreich of the American embassy and Russian doctors are in attendance.

Attended Debt Parley.

Senator Lewis came here from Berlin, accompanied by his wife, his niece, and a daughter of his niece. He had attended a parley on defaulted German municipal bonds held by Americans.

Doctors decided against transferring him from his hotel, where he is quartered on a floor below the suite Edward A. Filene, Boston philanthropist, occupied when he was ill of pneumonia last month.

ILL SEVERAL TIMES.

Senator Lewis, who was reported seriously ill in Moscow yesterday, has suffered several spells of sickness since he defeated Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick [now Mrs. Albert G. Simms] for a seat in the senate in 1930.

His speaking tour in that campaign was partially responsible for a throat ailment. In 1932 the senator underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils. He recovered slowly. Later, while on a government mission to Paris, he became ill and delayed his return. Even after he came back to the United States he was under the care of physicians. He declined, however, to let his poor health interfere with his duties as a legislator.

Senator Lewis has never indicated whether he intends to be a candidate to succeed himself in 1936.

FINE 2 STUDENTS; PLAYED BALL IN SWIMMING SUITS

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Although they insisted upon their right to work out their fines on the streets, John Stansfield, Mount Carmel, senior, and William Salus, Harrisburg, sophomore, in the Southern Illinois Teachers' college, were today compelled to pay $15.55 each for playing baseball in the yard of their boarding house while attired in bathing suits. They were charged with public indecency in a complaint signed by Mrs. T. E. Harmon, W. C. T. U. adherent, who lives across the street. A member of the faculty loaned the students money with which to pay the fines.

Husband Rating Is Low, but How He Can Cook!

Newark, N. J., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Elizabeth Van Leiden rates her husband, Adrian, pretty low as a husband, but as a cook he's aces with her. She got a divorce today for desertion, but Adrian will continue to cook in her lunch wagon. When he quit their home two years ago she fired him. The customers kicked so she hired him back. For two years they spoke rarely.

MUSSOLINI SAYS NO! TO LEAGUE; THEN HE HEDGES

Geneva Tries to Find Out What He'll Take.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—Thinking of those big guns of the British fleet in the Mediterranean, Premier Mussolini today took his finger off the trigger and turned to diplomacy.

His first move in the battle of wits—and nerves—in which the Fascist régime, and probably his own skin, are at stake, was a shrewd piece of strategy that had the league of nations guessing tonight.

In lieu of an answer to the league's compromise plan for settlement of the Italian-Ethiopian dispute, he issued a press communique in Rome announcing that the offer was unacceptable, but seemingly leaving the door open for further negotiations. The compromise plan he rejected provided for economic, financial, and military advisers to Ethiopia to be appointed by the league.

Text of Communique.

The text of this communique, which was promptly telegraphed to Geneva and presented to league delegates, follows:

"The cabinet met this morning at 11:00 under the presidency of Il Duce.

"Present were the ministers [Cesare Maria] de Vecchi, education; [Thaon] di Revel, finance; [Arrigo] Solmi, justice; [G. C.] Gigli, public works; [Antonio] Benni, communications, and Fascist party secretary Achille Starace. Count Galeazzo Ciani, minister of propaganda, was absent. [Seven other posts in the cabinet are held by Mussolini.]

"The head of the government made an extensive report lasting an hour on the political and military situation as it has developed in the last few days.

"He then read and explained a report communicated by Prof. Salvador de Madariaga, president of the committee of five, to the head of the Italian delegation at Geneva.

Turns Down Proposals.

"The decision taken by the cabinet is the following:

"The cabinet has taken note of the proposals contained in the report of the committee of five.

"The cabinet has attentively examined them.

"The cabinet, although appreciating the attempts made by the committee of five, has come to the conclusion to consider the proposals inacceptable inasmuch as they do not offer a minimum basis sufficient for a conclusive realization which would finally and effectively take into account Italy's vital rights and interests.

"The cabinet adjourned at 1:00 o'clock. In order to follow developments in the political situation and to complete the order of the day on administrative affairs, the cabinet will convene Tuesday, Sept. 24."

Seeks Opening from League.

Then this afternoon Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief Italian delegate to the league, indicated to Salvador de Madariaga, chairman of the league's committee of five [France, England, Spain, Turkey and Poland] that Italy would be very glad to have an invitation from the league to state what its minimum demands in Ethiopia are.

At the same time an Italian delegate informed de Madariaga that the Rome communique should not be considered as an answer. He explained that instructions from Rome for an official answer would arrive tomorrow morning.

This apparently caught the committee a little off guard. As soon as the Rome communique was released here the committee of five had decided to meet at 6 o'clock this evening to study the situation created by the decision of the Italian cabinet. Lobbies of the league took on the animation of crisis days and everyone was set for a dramatic meeting of the five. The general impression, especially in British circles, appeared to be that Mussolini had said no and meant no.

Find Nothing to Work On.

When the five actually got together at 6:30 o'clock, however, they found they had no Italian answer to work on. Various efforts were made to interpret the Rome communique.

Alexis Leger, sitting in for Premier Laval of France, who returned to Paris yesterday, stressed the moderation of the wording of the Italian communique and the fact that the Italian government for the first time appeared to recognize officially the committee of five and even said a few kind words about it.

After trying in vain to read between the lines, the committee decided that, since the communique might be given various interpretations, it should suspend judgment until the official answer had been received. Since the Ethiopians announced that their answer will not be ready until Monday, it was decided not to meet again until Monday afternoon. A somewhat peevish communique was issued, indirectly rebuking the Italians for not giving the league its answer before telling the world.

League Is Puzzled.

The Italian delegation has unofficially given various diplomatic callers to understand that the official answer will be more explicit than the communique in leaving the door open for negotiations.

The Italian delegates now seem to have discovered great charm in the panorama of the Geneva lake front and talk as if they expected to continue enjoying the scenery for a long time to come. This contrasts sharply with the speculation earlier in the afternoon—even among Italian correspondents—as to whether the Italian delegation would leave Geneva tonight.

This change of attitude frankly has the league guessing. Some observers are hopeful, others are gloomy. The bird-like little de Madariaga, when questioned after the meeting, chirped sweetly:

"While there is hope there is no despair."

Think Duce Is Stalling.

Around some of the delegation headquarters it is believed that Premier Mussolini is panicky over the concentration of the British fleet in the Mediterranean and that his last hope of out-bluffing the British was killed by his talk with the French ambassador, Count Charles Pineton de Chambrun, yesterday. Chambrun is said to have warned Il Duce that France would join Great Britain in military as well as economic penalties if it came to a showdown.

Another view, which seems sounder, is that Premier Mussolini is playing for time—first, because there is nothing else he can do, but also in the hope of breaking up the Franco-British front. Every time he appears to waver, the French have an argument for slowing down the machinery of the league and he gets a breathing spell. This also rattles the members and prevents them from agreeing on a definite plan of action.

Aims to Turn Tables.

There is every reason to believe that the Italian policy for the next few weeks will be to avoid an open break by always seeming ready to make concessions. In this policy, Italy can count on the support of France, and a determined effort will certainly be made to alienate French public opinion by making it appear that it is the British who want war and that Mussolini is trying to save the peace.

The British know this and they are not going to let the maneuver succeed if they can help it. Therefore, the battle in the committee Monday over whether to start new negotiations with the Italians or simply turn their answer over to the league council for definite action is likely to be a strenuous one.

INCREASE ARMS, BRITAIN IS URGED BY CHAMBERLAIN

KELSO, Scotland, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain told a conservative rally here today that the nation "must keep its temper," meanwhile trusting that Italy will prove willing to assist in maintaining peace in Europe.

He said, however, that Great Britain must "face realities and bring its defensive strength up to the minimum required for its own self-defense."

Britain, he said, is "greatly handicapped by the fact, the knowledge of which is quite widespread on the continent, that our defensive forces have fallen to a dangerously low level.

"That is not a tolerable situation for a great country. If Great Britain's words are to be listened to with respect, if it is to make good any obligations it might undertake, then it must be recognized to be strong enough to make good those words."

KING'S SOLDIERS HARDY, BRAVE, SWIFT AND WILY

Somalis Are Prepared to Fight Italians.

This is the third of a series of articles by Will Barber, Tribune correspondent, on Ethiopian preparations for war. Mr. Barber penetrated into the Ogaden desert to get a first hand view of the Ethiopian front lines. He is the only American correspondent who has been permitted to visit the Ethiopian front.

BY WILL BARBER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 21.—The Somalis will be good soldiers and formidable enemies of the Italians if they are like the ones I had with me on my trip to Ethiopia's front lines in the Ogaden desert.

They are young, eager, well disciplined and smart, even in their poor uniforms, of cheap khaki shorts, khaki tunics, blue puttees, and round caps with little tails falling down to protect their napes from the sun. They are tireless, fast and can live on almost nothing at all.

That is the impression they gave on the first 24 hours they accompanied me as escorts after leaving Jigjiga for the Ogaden district. This impression remained a week later after another group escorted us on our way back to Addis Ababa.

Contemptuous of Danger.

Getting them stowed away in a truck was a mansized job for Feliek Erguetou, interpreter; Mohammed Aga, handy man; the driver, his helper, the mayor of Jigjiga, and sundry others. For the Somali escort, with contempt for danger, scorned all efforts to make them sit so their heads would not bump against the roof and risk fracturing their skulls.

"We are used to that," they said. "What do we care for a few bumps as long as we get at the Italians."

So they threw in their 200 pound bags of grain and their light kits, climbed on top of the luggage with a scant inch between their heads and the roof of the truck. Then they hauled in their wives—two of them—and one baby and stuck their rifles between their knees. Also aboard the truck were the writer, the handyman, the driver, and two helpers. There wasn't room left for even a sardine.

Fire Rifles in Salute.

The Somali tribesmen were like children, and 15 perfectly good bullets were wasted in the air as they fired their rifles in salute at their departure for war.

Because they are fast, strong, and tough, and if they stick with their fellow Ethiopians, the Italians will have a hard time beating them even when they use their own Somalis against them.

The Somalis showed their speed in the way they pitched their tents, started the fire, and helped cook supper in the 15 minutes after the truck bogged more than hub deep in a mud swamp. They demonstrated their strength by shoving the truck 100 yards through thick, clinging mud in 20 minutes.

Somalis Skip Breakfast.

Eat? They had practically nothing for supper except a bit of bread and nothing at all for breakfast. When the sun came up over the camp in the wilderness where none could walk ten feet without turning aside, they jumped up, tossed off their cotton coverings, grabbed tent supplies, piled everything into the truck and we rolled off.

They knew they could not eat until noon, and they knew there was tough going ahead with plenty of mud, but they didn't care. With nothing in their stomachs they swung shovels when we were bogged again in the midst of dense, thorny brush. When the truck reeled clear into the open bushland they sang of war and love.

At first glance the open land looked good after the twisted woods this expedition had been in, but for the Italian soldiers, if they get that far, it will be tough. The ground looks as if every rock and pebble in creation had been dumped there. Every bush is a mass of thorns. There is no shade. There is no water. When the rocks and sparse grass cease, they give way to dry, brittle and hot sand.

Hunt Grass and Water.

We passed inhabitants of Somaliland on their eternal quest for grass and water. They were leading camels on which they piled all their scanty belongings, including their homes made of hide and semi-circles of wood which serve as framework for igloo-like huts.

Grass and water for their camels, goats, humped cattle and bagtailed sheep are still the hardest things to find as they were 1,000 years ago when the Somalis first entered Ogaden from Arabia.

Just before noon we came upon a truck. It was out of gasoline. Somali roadmenders were standing around. Four of them wore chains on their legs because they had refused to obey an order of their chief. An hour and a half later, as the truck jolted through the desert, we picked up two soldiers who had been sent to get gasoline 30 miles away. They jumped on the running board and one gave me his antique rifle so I bumped into Daggah with a Somali rifle between my knees with its butt resting on a bag jingling with silver thalers. When one travels in Ethiopia one takes silver coins along because the Ethiopians are all hard money men.

Anthills 20 Feet High.

It was 2 o'clock in the afternoon and blistering hot in the village which lies almost naked in a sandy plain where the chief feature of the landscape is giant anthills. Some of them rise to a height of 20 feet.

The brigadier general in command of the outpost at Daggah turned out his best food for us. The red hot berberi—hunks of meat surrounded by red pepper—tasted good as we ate with our fingers; by pinching up the meat sauce between lips of spongy bread. That is the daily diet of Ethiopian civilians and soldiers, and they wash away the burning pepper with lusty draughts of honey wine. It is called tej. Happily, it is permissible to cut the tej with water.

Daggah is an important point in the defensive position of Ogaden. It is located on the main line of communications. From that village reinforcements can be rushed down into the triangle formed by the British and Italian Somalilands enclosing a corner of Ogaden. All around it, especially to the east, soldiers lie encamped and a system of trenches is being built around the village. In front of the trenches there is plenty of the "native barbed wire" of Ogaden—intertwisted branches of trees with long, sharp thorns nearly as tough as real barbed wire.

The brigadier general who holds the town is not the sort of general ordinary armies possess. He will be in the thick of the battle with a rifle in his hand. Three cartridge belts with rifle bullets are hung on his wall besides two more for revolver bullets. Colonels holding waterholes along the front also will be in the midst of the fighting. They will wield rifles like any private soldier.

Mohammed, the handy man, hoisted a 40 pound ram into the truck for it was New Year's day in Ethiopia. We had to feast even if the Somalis do not celebrate the day with the rest of the Ethiopians. A half hour later a pebble road shimmered pink in the distance.

Warriors Guard Writer.

The Somalis received orders to be sure nothing happened to me. They took their orders so seriously I could not go five feet to gather firewood or have a look around without a barefooted, silent Somali popping up behind my back. They guarded me as if I had been some precious gem instead of a wandering newspaper man. They would have been delighted if a lion had showed up so they could shoot the beast down.

In the light of a brilliant moon, Mohammed killed the ram with Islamic rites and we ate until the Somalis leaned back and broke into a song of love.

In the morning the desert shimmered purple outside the tent. A half dozen whiteclad, lithe Somali priests, who had seen the camp fires in the night, came to call. Before they could get within 100 feet, the Somali corporal ordered them to stop with a crisp French "Halté."

In response to my salaam—peace—they kissed my hand.

We camped near waterholes dug deep in the bank of the river. They were the sort of waterholes for which the Italians fought Ethiopians at Uauual, Gerlogubi, Afdub, and Ado last December. In the dry season when the river bed is nothing but sand or clay baked as hard as pottery, the water hole is the only thing that keeps the Somalis in the country and the only way they can water their flocks.

These holes are 30 feet deep. Throughout Ogaden it was necessary in most places to go that deep or deeper for water. If war comes there will be a struggle for each of them.

The breakfastless Somalis drank camel's milk, which was offered by priests and herdsmen. The rest had nothing until a pause at noon in the meager shades of a mimosa tree overhanging the bed of the river. There we sat on brittle red clay.

Reach Thriving Settlement.

Between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. there was only one other sign of human habitation, but at 4 o'clock the truck reached a thriving and abundant settlement.

Just as the truck approached the community a couple of camels galloped down the road, kicking up a choking dust, and a woman sprang out of the bushes. Suddenly a broad plain appeared. The road ended in the trees. We turned westward and halted on the bank of a river. This sight lay before us:

Town Perched on Hill.

Dust swept across the river bed as the Somalis came to greet the expedition. A short distance beyond lay a town perched on a hill. It was surrounded with stout stone breastworks. Not counting the outposts, many rifles defend it along with machine guns.

A sturdy Amhara brigadier general who fought at Adowa as a boy insisted upon us drinking barley beer with him. He said he would be happy if he could see just one more Adowa. [The Italians were defeated at Adowa in 1896.]

"We'll get our chance, too," he said. "Don't forget it was our men who won Tripoli for the Italians—our stock from Eritrea."

VALETTA, Malta, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Italy's rejection of Geneva's peace proposals was received today with grave apprehension as to what it may signify for this island outpost of the British empire.

Authoritative sources said Malta had no need of concern in view of the energetic measures taken for defense. These precautions are a closely guarded military secret, but the doubling of the destroyer and submarine flotillas based here and the tremendous increase in anti-aircraft facilities are visible to every eye.s

Besides, it was known technicians have been sent here for development of measures to protect the civilian population against aerial and gas attacks.

Prepared for Worst.

"Malta has never been so well defended," said one informed source. In the words of the Malta Chronicle, "We hope for the best but are prepared for the worst."

An official communique tonight announced plans for new aerial defense maneuvers over the island Tuesday night, with civilian participation. The populace is requested to extinguish lights between 9 and 10 p. m. All trafic will be suspended during the maneuvers.

Defense preparations, including the construction of gasproof chambers, were hastened today. Government officials gave instructions to the public in the use of the shelters and how to defend themselves in case of an air raid.

All public meetings were forbidden and strict anti-sedition and press control laws were invoked.

The situation has resulted, tourist agencies said, in a marked decline in trafic.

Strength of Fleets Compared.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The biggest peace time concentration of the British navy in the Mediterranean gives it a present strength there of five battleships, three battle cruisers, 20 to 25 cruisers, two aircraft carriers, 60 to 65 destroyers, 10 to 15 submarines, 12 minesweepers, and numerous sloops, mine layers, auxiliary and miscellaneous craft.

The best available unofficial reports indicate this as compared with Italy's four battleships, seven big cruisers, 20 cruisers, 20 large destroyers, 40 destroyers, 50 to 65 submarines, 17 mine layers, 38 mine sweepers and many smaller armed craft.

In the air, however, Italy appears far superior in that region, and activities of Italians in Libya and Leros left British strategists with no few qualms in that respect.

3,000 Italian Planes Ready.

There are only about 150 airplanes with the British fleet in the Mediterranean and perhaps twice that many more gathered at secret rendezvous in Egypt and adjacent areas. Against this the Italians are generally understood to be able to put nearly 3,000 planes in the air and most of these are believed concentrated in the Mediterranean and east African sector.

Activities reminiscent of war times continued apace at Gibraltar, Malta, Alexandria and Aden, four key British stations for control of the Mediterranean. At Gibraltar huge red crosses are being painted on the roofs of hospitals as protection in case of air raids. Numerous pamphlets have been distributed to the civilian population with instructions as to where to take refuge in case of attack. Plans made for air maneuvers tonight included the darkening of the whole fortress.

A critical week will open in London Monday with a cabinet meeting. In contrast to the last cabinet session on Aug. 22, when the admiralty was forced to report the navy was not prepared to enforce the British will in the Mediterranean, the ministers will find the government ready for any eventuality.

320 on Ile de France; War Talk Is Blamed

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The French liner Ile de France sailed today with only 320 passengers. Officials of the line blamed the small list of passengers on public apprehension over conditions in Europe.

ITALY ABANDONS ITS HARSH VOICE TOWARD LEAGUE

Tries to Give Impression It Wants Peace.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Sept. 21.—A change in the attitude of Italian government officials was evident here tonight following the publication of the cabinet's polite communique which replied "no" to the compromise proposals of the league of nations for a solution of the Italian-Ethiopian dispute.

Gone was the defiance with which officials have hitherto commented upon the league of nations, Great Britain, and others who have sought to restrain Premier Mussolini from embarking upon his projected conquest of Ethiopia. In fact, tonight these same officials went to great lengths to emphasize that the cabinet's communique "left the door open" for further discussion.

Belligerent Attitude Gone.

This is very different language from that which has been used on previous occasions. There is no talk tonight about Italy refusing any compromise in advance, as did the communique of last Saturday. Nothing is said about the only possible solution being a military one. Nor is there any talk of Italy being prepared to fight all comers. Mussolini seems to be trying to convey the impression that if only the league will offer him a "minimum" sufficient to afford an elegant way out of the deadlock in which he finds himself with Great Britain, he is ready to take it into consideration.

Nor are the words of appreciation in the communique of the efforts made by the committee of five at Geneva without significance as an indication of the more conciliatory spirit that now seems to animate the Italian government. Only a few days ago the committee was being held up to scorn before the Italian people as at best a set of incompetent nincompoops and at worst a cabal of anti-Fascist intriguers.

The interpretations given in authorized circles to the decision of today's cabinet council all emphasize that the decision is not to be viewed as a complete rupture with the league.

Await New League Offer.

On the contrary, it is said that it is now up to the league to reëxamine the question in the light of the Italian refusal and to see whether some new proposals more favorable to Italy cannot be made.

The league, it is declared, has implicitly recognized that Ethiopia requires European nations to help her on the road to civilization. Britain, on the other hand, has recognized Italy's need for expansion, it is said. What remains to be done, in the viewpoint now being stressed here, is to fit these two needs, which are held to be not in conflict, into a common picture.

There is every reason to believe negotiations aiming to achieve this object are at present in progress. France, it is said, has let Mussolini know it was no longer willing to follow him on a course that could lead only to war, but it informed him at the same time that it was ready to interpose its good offices in an attempt to conciliate the British and the Italian views. That offer apparently has been accepted, and Italy places much hope on Premier Laval's ability as a peacemaker to throw oil on the troubled waters.

Press Criticizes Proposals.

The newspapers today dedicated far more space to criticizing the report of the committee of five than to commenting on the decision of the cabinet council.

"Ethiopia," said the Giornale d'Italia, "is to be placed under the tutelage, control and exploitation of every one except Italy. One might think that the principal concern at Geneva is to stretch a friendly hand to Ethiopia, which has remained in a state of barbarism, disregarding all the moral and judicial engagements she has undertaken and violating all the agreements she has concluded with Italy.

"Ethiopia receives a prize for her misdeeds and is protected because she is barbarous. Italy, instead, is to be punished for her tolerance and left defenseless because she is civilized. By this means moral principles would be outraged as much as our vital interests. This is not the right way to go about guarding the prestige and asserted justice of the league of nations."

While awaiting the next move in Geneva, Italy continues sending men to east Africa. A total of 4,500 soldiers and 1,000 workmen left Naples today and 3,000 more soldiers will leave tomorrow.

READY TO FACE ITALIANS

Armed with spears and long knives, these smiling warriors are typical of the primitive Ethiopian fighting men who, Emperor Haile Selassie has said, would excel in guerrilla warfare in case of a clash with Italy.

GREECE RECALLS NAVY; TURKEY IS REPORTED FORTIFYING COAST

ATHENS, Sept. 21.—[U. P.]—The Greek navy, cruising in the Sea of Marmora, was ordered today to report at once to home waters as a precaution.

The navy was paying a friendly visit to Istanbul, Turkey. The fleet will be concentrated at the Salamis naval base, near Athens, and units will patrol the Ægean Islands, where British and Italian naval activity is under way.

Turkey was reported to be feverishly fortifying its Mediterranean coast, opposite the Dodecanese Islands, where Italy has concentrated 32 large bombing planes. The Turks were said to be assembling troops and munitions and creating air bases.

Seek to Settle Strike of Elevator Operators

Members of a special committee of the Chicago real estate board met yesterday with representatives of the Elevator Operators' union in an effort to settle a strike of elevator operators at a 15 story apartment building at 6 and 12 Scott street. Louis Orr, head of the real estate board committee, said it was decided at the meeting that eight elevator operators and about a dozen elevator maintenance workers, who went on strike Thursday at the Scott street building, would return to work pending the committee's negotiations to adjust their demands.

POLISH SESSION IS STORMY ONE; READY TO VOTE

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21.—(AP)—After a day of factional bickering the convention of the Polish National Alliance prepared tonight to begin its long delayed primary balloting.

The delegates' insistence on interrogation of officers, a custom of quadrennial meetings, held up the ballot all day after it had appeared assured.

The decision came in the wake of the sudden appearance last night of Jan Romaszkiewicz, president. He had left his hospital to return to the floor where he previously had suffered a heart attack.

Romaszkiewicz is running for reelection against Francis X. Swietlik, censor of the organization. After he appeared the primary was expected to reach a quick end. Those favoring interrogation carried their motion, however.

Medard Ruszkowski, secretary of the grievance committee; Marian Tirajski, chairman of the publication committee; Stanley Stawksi, member of the audit and budget committee.

HULL SETS UP NEW OFFICE TO CONTROL ARMS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today established an office of arms and munitions control to carry out the provisions of the neutrality act and direct federal control of the munitions trafic.

The office is to be under the direction of R. Walton Moore, assistant secretary of state. Joseph C. Green will be chief of the office and will have as his assistant Charles W. Yost.

An official announcement from Secretary Hull listed the duties of the office as:

"Regulation of manufacturers, exporters, and importers of articles proclaimed by the President to be arms, munitions, and implements of war, the export or import of which without a license would be in violation of any law of the United States.

"Such supervision of international trafic in arms, ammunition, and implements of war as falls within the jurisdiction of the secretary of state under treaties and statutes."

State department officials were emphatic that the announcement has no direct relation on the threatened European situation.

ETHIOPIA DEFIES ITALY; PREPARED TO FIGHT INVADER

Emperor Says His Troops Are All Set.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Ethiopia is ready with sufficient troops at vital points to offer the stiffest resistance should Mussolini follow his rejection of the Geneva peace plan with hostilities, Emperor Haile Selassie said tonight.

The little ruler said he hoped the increasingly grave relations between Great Britain and Italy might halt Mussolini in his threatened Ethiopian campaign.

Italy's action in refusing the plan caused little surprise here. Ethiopia, it was explained, has accepted the proposals in principle, but has telegraphed Geneva for clarification of certain proposals, especially those giving the league the exclusive right to appoint a chief supervisory delegate over various expert commissions and also suggestions that the entire civilian population be disarmed.

This proposal would be difficult to fulfill because in Ethiopia, where "every man is a soldier," the question if arms is a point of honor.

Ethiopia's long rainy season ends next week and then, many predicted today, the "zero hour" will be at hand.

Weather has never been a topic of more vital interest to any country. If native tradition is fulfilled, the rains will cease a week from today, the day of the festival of Mascal, as suddenly as if a plumber had turned off a faucet. A fortnight probably will be required for the sun to dry up the dense mud, permitting extensive overland movements.

Europeans in Addis Ababa, realizing the urgency of the race between African weather and struggling Geneva diplomats, anxiously scan the skies. Residents say the deluges will continue unabated until the eve of the Mascal festival, after which there will not be more than one or two light showers.

Open Religious Festival.

Count Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, the Italian consul, and other foreign government attachés today attended the colorful religious festival of "Little Maskal," presided over by Haile Selassie, who was seated on crimson cushions on the gold draped throne in the old palace.

Hundreds of richly garbed priests with umbrellas over their heads sat near the emperor in a large hall known as "the soldiers' banqueting hall," where the ceremonies were held. The services, which began with the priests chanting prayers in a low voice before a party of three of them advanced to the throne with a Bible, which the emperor kissed, ended in a riot of noise.

Drums were beaten, silver bells rang out and staves were beaten against the floor while the crowd engaged in a wild dance to the accompaniment of a wilder chant.

Claims Mussolini Dreams of Seizing Egypt, Suez Canal

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—"Premier Mussolini's great dream is to dominate the Mediterranean, seize the Suez canal and finally capture Egypt," said Brig. Gen. John Nation, British military attaché at Rome from 1920 to 1931, in a speech at Hull today. He described Ethiopia as "not the end but just a step."

Friend of Emperor Visits City.

Capt. Edward A. Salisbury of Los Angeles, retired naval officer who was dubbed a knight of the Abyssinian court in 1908 by Haile Selassie, arrived in Chicago yesterday and expressed the belief that Italians face utter destruction if they go to war with Ethiopia. Capt. Salisbury said his views were based on observations during three visits to Addis Ababa as the guest of Emperor Selassie.

The captain, who calls himself a tropical tramp, has made several scientific expeditions to the tropics aboard his yacht, the "Sea Gypsy." He came to Chicago from Washington, D. C., to meet his wife, who arrived from Los Angeles. They plan to remain about three weeks in Chicago and are staying at the Congress hotel.

Gets Letter from Emperor.

Capt. Salisbury received a letter from Haile Selassie last month. Typewritten, and in French, it expressed the emperor's belief "that of all the nations I know, America is the one closest and dearest to me," but ignored all mention of the Italian invasion, Salisbury said.

"What Mussolini does not seem to realize," the captain added, "is the grave scarcity of water in his projected theater of operations in Abyssinia. Because of that it will be very difficult for him to consolidate the land he takes by air, for the Ethiopians will not hesitate to poison the water wherever they are driven back.

Water Holes 75 Miles Apart.

"It is 800 kilometers from the coast to Addis Ababa—a continual climb over blistering rocks under a merciless sun, with 75 miles between water holes. I have made it three times—and I know."

The most important obstacle of all, he believes, will be the wiliness and shrewdness of Haile Selassie, whom Capt. Salisbury first met during an expedition in 1908.

The captain declared he believed Abyssinia is the poorest country in the world. Steers sold there for $3.50 and goats for 35 cents, he said. He paid his second visit to Selassie in 1918 and the third in 1934, he said.

ITALIAN MONARCH REPORTED IN PLEA TO KING GEORGE

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch from Geneva said a rumor was current there tonight that King Victor Emmanuel had written a letter to King George of Great Britain appealing for "better understanding" between the British and Italian peoples.

Italy's ruler, the rumor said, also referred to the comradeship of the two kingdoms during the world war. Alarm at the growing tension in Anglo-Italian relations was reported to have inspired this unusual step, the dispatch said.

British circles here said they had no knowledge of the report.

lights become a varied scheme of decoration, subtle, fluent, elusive, and providing not only illumination but also a kind of curtain for the "visible shows" or "audience performances."

Jewel Box of Color.

Now it is as soft as flute music, now as strong and bold as the grand diapason of an organ.

Rainbows while you wait! When the full glow is on you will think of the large "public observation hall" in your radio home as the sunshine chamber and, leaning back in your deeply upholstered chair—which is much wider than the ordinary run of auditorium seats—you will be pretty content with the picture. For the place is not fussed up with decoration. In the simplicity of the lines it is in a good modernistic style—reticent but neither austere nor angular.

Built like a jewel box—inlaid woods, gleaming metal, and rich tapestries—though the interior is, it is also as strong and as intricate as a battleship. At first glance you find chamber after chamber, lobby after lobby, corridor after corridor as simple as a modernistic drawing room and, when the lights go on, as beautiful as a garden in full bloom.

Place Pulsing with Dynamos.

But the more you prowl around the more you get the feel of a vast machine shop—a place pulsing with dynamos and whispering with delicate mechanisms.

Those last were the things that astounded me and laid humility upon me. I could not always understand them, but I could appreciate the effects they created and could see that they must have cost a heap of money.

Before taking two afternoons to go over the plant I did not see how half a million dollars could be spent on four floors of radio and I suspected that my shopmates were drawing a long bow when they declared that such was the price of perfection. To talk of the cost of a great project may be vulgar, but it is news, and the news here is that not only has the sum of half a million dollars gone into W-G-N's temple but that the total will run to nearly $600,000.

A Laboratory, a Studio.

The result is a laboratory of observation for scientists, a seat of instruction and entertainment for the people, and a dramatized newspaper.

In this setting you shall hear the voices of kings and comedians, presidents and prelates, industrial magnates and men of letters, scientists and pugilists, singers and explorers. And all of those you shall from time to time see in person when they mount the platform for one of the visible shows—all except the kings, they not traveling much nowadays lest their thrones slip from under them.

The interior of the structure is from designs by John Mead Howells—son of that great limner of American life, William Dean Howells—and the lamented Raymond Hood, architects of Tribune Tower, and by their associates, J. Andre Fouilhoux and Leo Weissenborn. It is a cascade of "frozen music" which, 'tis said, is what great Gothic architecture should be, and the cloister connecting it with the tower is charming.

Brings History to People.

The exterior instantly stirs the imagination because a building which, by its comprehensiveness and its ingenuity, makes history in a new science and a new art also utters in stone a story of the ages. This is the result of our chief's ardor in bringing momentous history intimately home to the people, especially to children. Embedded in the limestone of the building are stones and a bronze that voice architectural and national annals of 5,600 years. Here is a big block from the Great Pyramid of the year 3700 B. C. And yonder a bronze panel from the "Holy Door"—A. D. 1900—of St. Peter's, Rome, with the papal arms and the date engraved upon it. And there a stone from the Roman Colosseum, A. D. 87, and another from the Great Wall of China.

And so on down the ages—stones from the Stabian baths in Pompeii, from the cave of the Sibyl at Cumæ whom Ænas consulted before his descent into Hades, from Rouen cathedral, A. D. 1220, from St. Peter's at Rome, from the Clementine hall in the pope's palace, from the Tainitzkaya tower of the Kremlin, from the battlefield of Bunker Hill, from Fort Sumter against which the first shot of the civil war was fired, seashells embedded in the fragment, from Douglas Hall—1856—of the old University of Chicago, and from our great World's Fair of 1893.

That vivid way of touching history to life was first tried on the walls of Tribune Tower and it has been a success. Passersby, young and old, pause for minutes to study the silent but not voiceless relics.

The instant you step from the avenue into W-G-N's fairyland silence is laid upon you like a cool cloth. Everything every step of the way is soundproof. Every door is felted and every door air controled. They close with a soft whisper.

Corridors are noiseless to the footfall.

Those corridors lead to rest rooms and smoking rooms for artists and visitors, to clients' rooms and executives' offices, to a chamber for organ recitals, to music archives containing thousands of compositions, and to air conditioning lofts.

Endless devices!

At the touch of a button grand pianos noiselessly disappear from the main platform.

Synchronized clocks, some of them costing as much as $100 each, all over the place so that a performer shall know every minute what time it is. For in radio there is no such thing as "holding the show."

Special Bricks of Glass.

Note the large glass window in the south wall of the "business lobby"—as distinguished from the main studio auditorium lobby—which opens off the lovely connecting cloister. That window is set with a novel composition called brick glass. Every brick is four inches thick and contains a vacuum, thus keeping heat out in summer and heat in in winter. New machinery had to be built for the fabrication of the special types of brick we ordered. It admits light beautifully, but is not transparent.

See that drapery of eggshell white velvet that hangs behind the platform of the main auditorium. It is 48 feet 4 inches wide and 29 feet high. It can silently move forward like a white cloud, thus cutting the depth of the stage in half and permitting a more intimate show. Touching a button makes it move.

Rainbow Lighting Effect.

Look aloft to the silver ceiling of the principal auditorium—the room that will be thrown open to THE TRIBUNE's guests this morning—and there you will see a ponderous panel that moves noiselessly to reveal a battery of ten spotlights, each light equipped with a wheel containing five colors that descend upon the exhibition platform like a Niagara of rainbows.

W-G-N's new station can take parts of its shows from eight different microphones controled individually or by one master control. This is the largest installation of the kind that our people know of.

From the master control room on the station's second floor, W-G-N has wires running to the Chicago Board of Trade, the Drake, the Blackstone, the Aragon and Trianon ballrooms, and the Palmer house which are called "remote control points." These wires are leased from the telephone company by the month at so much a mile, and are bound in one telephone cable capable of giving us a hundred pairs of circuits. Their purpose is to bring in programs that originate outside W-G-N's studios. There are also emergency cables to be used in case of floods or a street accident.

The builders took measures to meet the demands of every emergency.

By a system of dialed electrical boxes TRIBUNE executives and clients can dial from offices in Tribune Tower into the main control room of the station and instantly hear any one of eight programs of our own or other stations.

All this was—to me—terribly intricate, and listening to it I went kind of silly in the head. "Look," said one of the eager explainers, "where at home you have to go over and turn your dial to control your volume, in this new W-G-N layout it is done by pressing a button—a device of which the principle has been used for two years, but never before so successfully. See what I mean?"

"Yes, indeed," said I with the polite mendacity we dumb laymen display when a technical enthusiast speaks.

Latest in Sound Insulation.

The latest sound insulation devices such as transite, which is a composition of asbestos and cement, and rockoustile, which comprises cork, mica, and cement, and others so new that their names are not yet in the dictionaries, were explained to me as they may be to you. But all that, like the telephonic devices and the air cooling devices, was such highly specialized stuff that my principal interest in it was in observing the rapturous reaction of the staf to it.

In other words, my interest was in the men and women of the staf, on both its technical and its art sides. They are alert. They speak many words, but short ones, and they release them rapidly. They are working in a new world and they face some fresh problems, some glad, unexpected opportunity every day.

That impressed me deeply.

Staf Keeps on Tiptoe.

The readiness, the certitude, and the opulence with which Americans rise to the demands and develop the potentialities of a new invention are truly astounding. This staf is on tiptoe eight hours a day, expectant, eager, prompt. Some of the younglings of some American and English stations sometimes incline to the slapdash and take the marvels amid which and with which they are working with an almost ribald matter-of-factness. A workman, it seems to me, ought to revere his tools—especially such miraculous tools as have been vouchsafed this generation. The first message sent over the magnetic telegraph—"What God hath wrought"—sounded the right note.

Such a feeling, such honest piety in utilizing the mighty discoveries of science and invention would do much to better the quality of all radio programs. The medium is so great, so wonderful as to seem heaven sent. The product is too often middling.

Chronology of Building.

Let us drop technicalities and description for the moment and do a bit of chronology on this marvelous building that has been completed in 13 months plus a week.

The story reads thus:

Aug. 15, 1934—Subterranean work amid foundations laid—with an eye to the future—a decade ago, begins. It is not visible to passersby in Tribune Square. To follow will be 276 actual working days of 8 hours each—5 days a week—and each day, almost every hour indeed, will be fraught with new and delicate problems in engineering, in architecture, and in decoration.

Aug. 19.—First public announcement of the project, the news being that THE TRIBUNE is receiving the steel for a half million dollar broadcasting building for W-G-N, to be erected just north of Tribune Tower. Announcement made under the anti-depression slogan, "The way to help business is to keep busy."

Aug. 23.—Dozens of workmen, happy to be busy again, start the outdoor preliminaries to construction.

Sept. 24.—Huge derrick for swinging steel girders into place is set up. The sight puts new heart into the throng of onlookers in Tribune Square.

Oct. 11.—Cement mixers, masons and steel workers are on the job.

Nov. 9.—Foundations are being "squared off" with Polaris, the north star, as a sighting point—this to insure accurate building lines. First use of the expedient on a Chicago commercial structure.

Nov. 19.—First steel column is swung into position and riveted to the foundation. Thus actual aboveground construction starts.

Competition for Designs.

Nov. 24.—In a nation-wide $5,000 competition for designs for the decoration of the main audience chamber seating 588 persons, Ernest A. Grunsfeld Jr., Chicago, who designed the great Adler Planetarium, on the lake front, wins first prize, $2,500. Nearly 200 designs are submitted and prizes and honorable mentions are won by 34 competitors.

Jan. 3, 1935.—Topmost girder is riveted into place and, in accordance with the ancient custom of builders' guilds, the workmen fly the flag of their country from the structure's peak.

April 1.—The delicate interior work on this temple of science and invention begins.

May 29.—Count Mazzaglia Cutelli, internationally famous synchronist, completes the station's sound effects department, most of the devices originating with him, but several being imported from Germany and one from Luxor, Egypt. The quaint devices reproduce every sound from the chirp of a cricket and the sizzling of bacon to the roar and throb of a cannonade.

Doors Open Today.

July 18.—Beginning of the end in sight and the 550 workmen and their wives receive invitations, exclusively for them, to be THE TRIBUNE's guests at the first dedication broadcasting performances on Oct. 1 and 2. "The men have richly earned this acknowledgment of W-G-N's gratitude," says THE TRIBUNE's editor, Robert R. McCormick, adding, "Their spirit has been fine, and their work has shown their appreciation of the idea behind the building. They have put their hearts into a difficult and exacting job and the first audience shows will be dedicated to them."

This morning!—Structure finished, and its doors will be thrown open to the public from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. for a preview of Ernest A. Grunsfeld Jr.'s prize winning main audience studio in silver, powder blue and Morocco red. This preview will be repeated on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week and will be enlivened with music.

The story of the call letters W-G-N is interesting.

Those letters came from THE TRIBUNE's slogan, "The World's Greatest Newspaper," and the W-G-N call initials were acquired from Mr. Carl D. Bradley, who was operating a coal carrier, named for him, on the Great Lakes. In March of 1924 the call letters were established as those of THE TRIBUNE's radio station and the opening of THE TRIBUNE's station on the Edgewater Beach hotel—old station WEBH—came on March 29, 1924, with the new call letters W-G-N going out to the world for the first time from an entertainment radio station.

The ship owner relinquished the letters as a courtesy and without argument, as the ship was not in service at the time of the transfer of letters, but was wintering at a Michigan port.

Tribune's First Broadcasting.

THE TRIBUNE has been vitally interested in radio broadcasting almost from the inception of that art. As long ago as December, 1921, negotiations were begun between KYW, the first Chicago broadcasting station, and THE TRIBUNE with reference to THE TRIBUNE's entrance into radio broadcasting. These negotiations with KYW culminated in January, 1922, with the inauguration of regular programs of current events, stock market reports, and sports summaries, which were furnished by THE TRIBUNE and broadcast over KYW as TRIBUNE-Westinghouse programs. Due, however, to dissatisfaction on the part of THE TRIBUNE over the territory covered by KYW, this arrangement was discontinued.

Call Letters Changed.

The genealogy of W-G-N extends back to May 19, 1922. On that date station WDAP, then owned by the Midwest Radio Central, Inc., was first licensed by the secretary of commerce to operate with the most power then allowed, 1,000 watts. A year later WDAP was purchased by the Chicago Board of Trade and subsequently by the Whitestone company, owner of the Drake hotel, Chicago, on top of which the station was located. From the Whitestone company THE TRIBUNE acquired WDAP in 1924, when the call letters were changed to W-G-N.

The license issued by the secretary of commerce to THE TRIBUNE on July 15, 1924, changed the call letters of station WDAP to W-G-N and authorized the use of 1,000 watts of power. THE TRIBUNE operated station W-G-N on the Drake hotel under this lease until Jan. 11, 1929, at which time it purchased the apparatus and equipment.

Two Stations Purchased.

On Oct. 2, 1925, THE TRIBUNE and its subsidiary, Liberty Weekly, Inc., purchased from Charles A. Erbstein two broadcasting stations, WTAS and WCEE, both located near Elgin, Ill. WTAS at that time operated with 2,500 watts power and WCEE with 500 watts. The call letters were changed from WTAS to WLIB on the one station, and W-G-N and WLIB alternated on the same broadcast channel, 990 kilocycles, until in 1927 they were shifted to the clear channel of 980 kilocycles and five months later to the cleared channel of 720 kilocycles upon which W-G-N is still operating.

On Oct. 2, 1926, a new transmitter using a power of 10,000 watts was placed in service. On Nov. 3, 1928, W-G-N commenced using 25,000 watts of power. The consolidation of the three stations, W-G-N, WLIB, and WTAS, into the one station, W-G-N, was accomplished on Sept. 26, 1928.

On Oct. 16, 1928, the federal radio commission issued a license to the consolidated stations under the call letters of W-G-N, authorizing the use of full time on the channel 720 kilocycles.

New 50,000 Watt Transmitter.

On March 29, 1934, the new 50,000 watt transmitter of W-G-N was put in service with a gala two hour program for the public in the grand ballroom of the Drake. The celebration continued for another three hours via remote control programs.

In fine, W-G-N has acquired all its wave lengths by purchase and not by favor or influence. It wears no governmental collar.

A feature of the new home of W-G-N which will interest our visitors from the art world is the mural adornment of the four main studios. Each one of them was decorated from prize winning designs in the $5,000 nation-wide competition. Hence their variety, their arresting originality, and their racily native spirit.

The first public performance in the cathedral of radio will be given on Thursday evening, Oct. 3, and special performances sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will continue till Sunday evening, Oct. 6.

Free to Public Every Night.

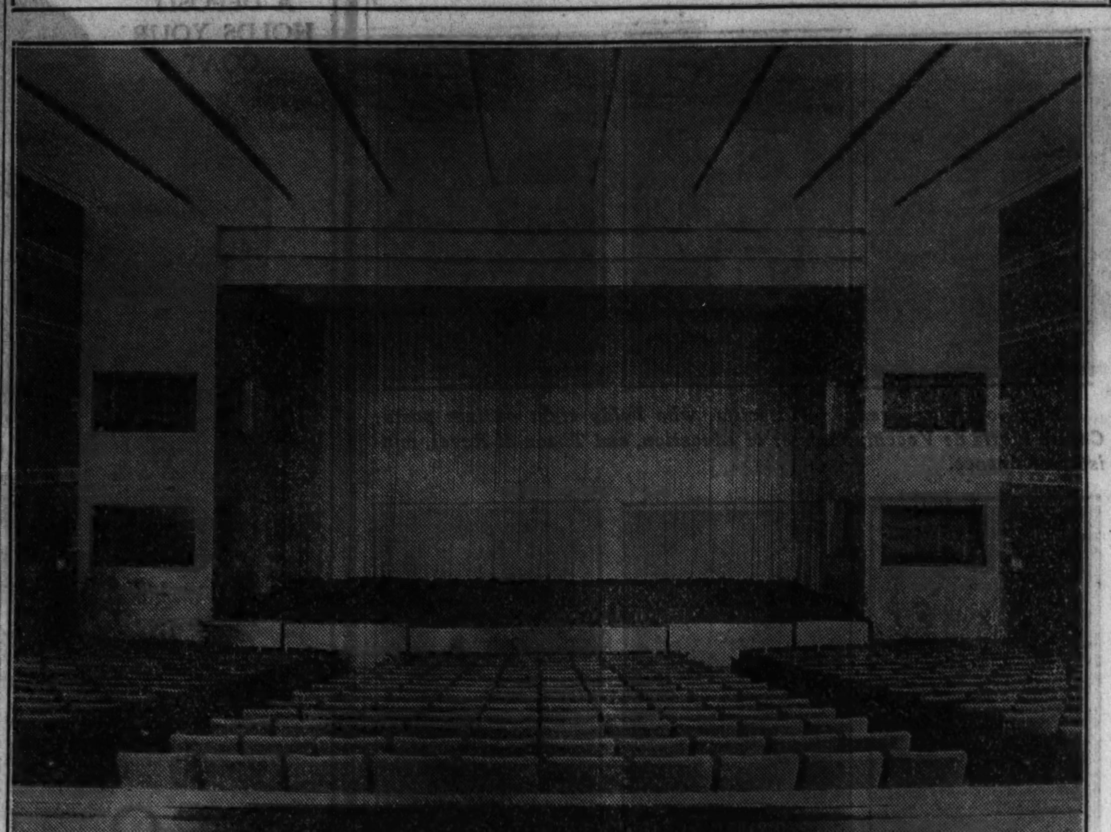
After that the regular order of broadcasting will be offered, with a free "visible show" every night, to which the public is invited.

On Sunday afternoons carefully selected church choirs representing every denomination in Chicago will give free audience performances in the main studio seating nearly 600 persons.

Admission to all public performances will be by free tickets to be applied for by letter addressed to "Station W-G-N, Chicago" or by card application, the card to be filled out at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, or in the lobby of Tribune Tower on Tribune Square.

Tickets will then be mailed without charge to the applicants.

STUDIO OPEN FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION TODAY



The main auditorium of the new W-G-N building, adjoining Tribune tower, which will be shown at a preview from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. today. The seats are morocco red, the walls powder blue with bands of light, the ceiling and platform abutments in silver leaf.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Grand opera is "dying on its feet," Lawrence Tibbett said today. He thinks it needs "stirring up in a good row."

Asked if old line opera goers would not resent changes movies might make in opera's presentation, the screen and opera star exclaimed:

"Let 'em resent it. That's what we need—conflict, controversy. Without controversy we have stagnation. That's what is wrong with opera now. It's dying on its feet. It needs stirring up in a good row.

"Hollywood has plenty to offer grand opera and the opera would be wise to take all it has to offer. The opera needs to be humanized and popularized, and Hollywood is the medium to accomplish this."

The singer, here on a picture, pointed to the "sets" on which he was working, a richly appointed mountain scene with towering peaks. Tibbett said:

2 CHILDREN DIE AFTER BEING HIT BY AUTOMOBILES

One Driver Charged with Reckless Driving.

Two children died yesterday from injuries incurred when struck by automobiles.

Marvin Kinney, 12 years old, 2452 North Lorel avenue, died in the Belmont hospital from injuires incurred Friday night when he was struck by an automobile at Lorel avenue and Altgeld street. Gotthard I. Peterson, 1011 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park, driver of the car, said the boy dashed in front of his machine and he was unable to avoid hitting him. Peterson was released on $200 bond by Cragin police on a charge of reckless driving.

Second Child Dies.

Ramona Herrera, 9 years old, 4342 South Paulina street, died in the County hospital from injuries incurred Thursday when struck by a car driven by Norman J. Goldbrath, 21 years old, 6850 South Union avenue, in front of 4346 Marshfield avenue. Goldbrath was ordered to appear at the inquest tomorrow.

Stanley Rogers, 10 years old, 68 East 78th street, incurred a possible skull fracture and lacerations yesterday when he fell from the rear of a moving ice truck in front of 322 East 80th street. Patrick Doyle, 7330 Stewart avenue, a passing motorist, took the boy to the Auburn Park hospital. The truck driver, who did not stop, was sought by Burnside police.

Three persons were injured and fifteen others were severely shaken yesterday when an automobile driven by Lester Jackson, 35 years old, 530 Arlington place, sidewiped a westbound street car on Center street near Larrabee street.

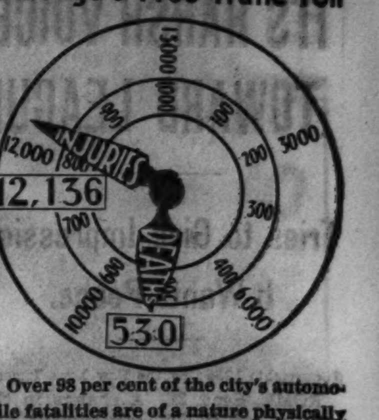
Driver Most Seriously Hurt.

Jackson was most seriously hurt, incurring a fractured collar bone. He was taken to St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Edwin Penda, 21 years old, 2056 North Leavitt street, and Clem Rakowski, 19 years old, 2218 Lindale avenue, passengers on the street car, were cut about the face. Motorman Herman Kugelberg, 34 years old, 2107 Karlov avenue, was operating the street car.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday the total automobile deaths in Cook county since Jan. 1 stood at 678, according to figures from the coroner's office. In that period there were 530 trafic deaths and 12,136 persons injured within the Chicago city limits.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

LEGION LUNCHEON SPEAKER.

De Loss Walker, a director of the national recovery crusade, will speak on "America Never Retreats," at a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Men's Post of the American Legion, in the Hotel Sherman, tomorrow.

Five Freshmen Burned by Hazing Sophomores

Stockton, Cal., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Five College of Pacific freshmen were reported by college authorities today to be under medical treatment for caustic burns received when they were painted with laundry ink by sophomores. The freshmen said they underwent the hazing a week ago for refusing to wear "dink" caps and for talking to women students.

Miss Barrie Quits Chase; Will Fly Home.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Miss Elaine Barrie, 19, admirer and former protégé of John Barrymore, the 53 year old screen lover, was so discouraged tonight by another failure to overtake the actor on his flight westward that she made reservations to fly back to New York.

"I love him dearly and I know he loves me," said the disappointed but still smiling brunette, as she gave up the chase.

"Everything is bound to come out all right, but when I do not know. I am convinced he has no idea I have been trying to reach him since Thursday when we quarreled in New York and he was escorted away."

Eludes Her Second Time.

Barrymore scored here again today in his trans-continental game of hide and seek with Miss Barri, duplicating his skillful elusion of her in Chicago yesterday. Tonight he was speeding by train towards California where his wife, Dolores Costello, has filed suit for divoroce.

Accompanied by a bodyguard, the movie actor boarded the Santa Fe railroad's California Limited at Holliday, Kas., west of here, after leaving the train from Chicago in North Kansas City and dashing about in taxicabs.

Miss Barrie, who happily left Chicago on the Santa Fe Chief thinking she was on the same train with Barrymore, discovered her mistake eventually and doubled back at Emporia, Kas. She arrived in Kansas City while her quarry was here, but she failed to catch him.

She Waits Tearfully.

She waited tearfully at the Union station while Barrymore, with several days growth of beard on his face, his eyes bloodshot and his clothing wrinkled, rushed away to catch the Los Angeles bound train at Holliday. She still wore the smoked glasses she has used in an ineffectual disguise.

"He doesn't realize what he is doing," she said tearfully when informed that the stage and screen actor again had slipped through her grasp. She denied ner cross country chase was a publicity stunt, and vehemently asserted she was trying to save "Jawn from those who would destroy him."

Third Consecutive Escape.

"We planned to be married when he was free. O, he doesn't know what he is doing."

But whether the actor knew what he was doing he was making a great success of his efforts to avoid Miss Barrie.

He got away from New York before she even realized he was stepping out of her life. At Chicago yesterday he remained behind closed doors while the former Hunter college student of journalism passed herself off as a reporter and made futile efforts to get into his stateroom.

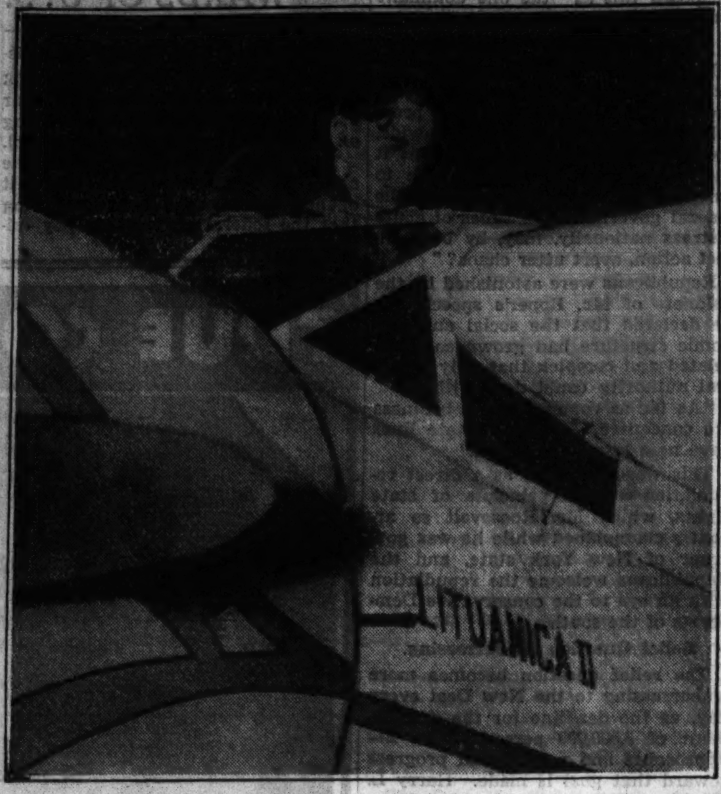
But at Kansas City he didn't even let her get close to him. Catching the west bound Burlington railroad's American Royal at Mendota, Ill., 80 miles southwest of Chicago, last night, the actor and his bodyguards rode to North Kansas City where they left the train and took a taxicab. A cab driver drove them to Holliday where they caught the Santa Fe's California Limited.

Returns to Kansas City.

Meanwhile Miss Barrie had speeded through here last night, but had doubled back when she finally learned that Barrymore was not on her train, as she had confidently expected. Returning here, she learned that her quarry had entered a taxicab at the Municipal airport in north Kansas City.

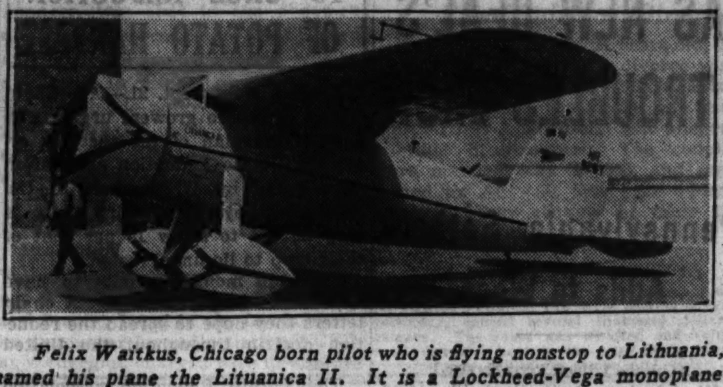
She hurried to the airport in a cab and found he had again eluded her.

CHICAGOAN STARTS NONSTOP FLIGHT TO LITHUANIA



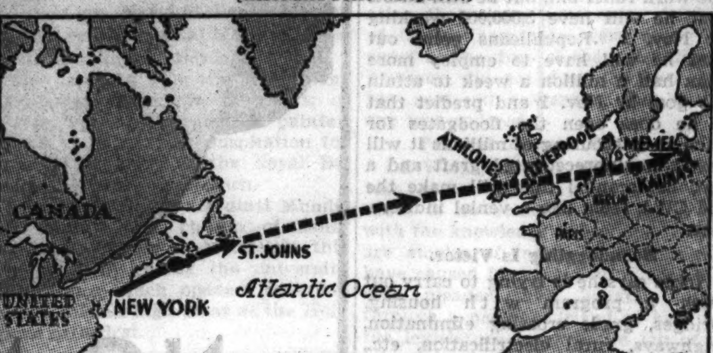
Felix Waitkus, born in Chicago and now a resident of Kohler, Wis., as he appeared a moment before he took off from New York yesterday morning on nonstop flight to Kaunas, Lithuania.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]



Felix Waitkus, Chicago born pilot who is flying nonstop to Lithuania, named his plane the Lituanica II. It is a Lockheed-Vega monoplane with a Wasp motor of 550 horsepower.

[Acme Photo.]



The above map shows the route over which Felix Waitkus, Chicago born flyer, is racing toward Kaunas, Lithuanian capital. A heavy fog prevailed over St. John's, Newfoundland, last night, but a plane, believed to be that piloted by Waitkus, was heard as it headed out to sea at 3:46 p. m. Chicago time. It was believed in Ireland that the Chicagoan would arrive over that country some time this morning.

PLANE NOSE WEIGHT REPORTED CAUSE OF POST-ROGERS CRASH

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The department of commerce today formally attributed the cause of the Wiley Post-Will Rogers crash in Alaska to nose heaviness of the plane.

This explanation was given some time ago by Eugene L. Vidal, air commerce chief, in a memorandum, and today's report represented the official finding of the department's aviation accident board.

After noting the change of pontoons, the report said:

"A study of the effect of the various changes made on the airplane indicated that it was decidedly nose heavy and must have been extremely difficult, if not impossible, to properly control without the aid of the engine [which failed almost immediately after the take-off]. A statement made by the pilot after the change to pontoons confirms this conclusion.

"The exact cause of the engine failure cannot be determined."

POLISH WOMAN'S ALLIANCE TO GO TO MASS TODAY

Members of the Polish Woman's Alliance of America will attend a solemn pontifical high mass at noon today in the St. John of God church, 1234 West 52d street, in preparation for the opening of a week's convention tomorrow in the alliance auditorium, 1309 North Ashland avenue. The 560 delegates represent 70,000 Polish women and 15,000 Polish children in 22 states.

A procession of 400 children will start ceremonies at the church today. The Most Rev. William D, O'Brien, junior auxiliary bishop of Chicago, will celebrate the mass, to be attended by 50 Roman Catholic priests. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Boleslaus Goral of Milwaukee will preach the sermon and the Rev. Thomas A. Reed, secretary to the bishop, will be master of ceremonies. The Rev. Ludwig Grudzinski is pastor of the church.

Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, consul-general of Poland, will represent his nation at the ceremonies today. The convention, which will continue through Saturday, will mark the 25th anniversary of alliance service for Miss Emily A. Napieralski, Chicago. She has been president of the organization for 15 years and previously was general secretary for 10 years.

All Park Police Put on Same Working Schedule

Michael C. Hayes, chief of police for the Chicago park district, announced yesterday that the entire park police force of 700 men is now under one schedule of working hours and shifts. "The former south park force and the west and north divisions have been on different shift schedules," he said. "All day park police now work from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. with an hour off for lunch. The evening schedule is from 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. and the early morning shift covers the remainder of the night. Before the standardization west and north park police worked from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., getting their lunch in brief rest periods."

MOTHER KEEPS VIGIL WHILE SON SKIMS OVER SEA

Father, Too, Is Confident Waitkus Will Win.

Mrs. Mary Waitkus, 52 years old, mother of Lieut. Felix Waitkus, arrived in Chicago yesterday from Milwaukee to await news of her son's attempt to fly from New York to Kaunas, Lithuania. She went to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Antoinette Russell, the wife of Dr. John Russell, at 2515 West 69th street.

Anton, the flyer's father, was at his plumbing shop at 10 West Superior street, cheerfully weighing the odds for and against his son's success and confident that "he'll win through unless the weather is against him." Lieut. Waitkus' two brothers, Adolph, 33 years old, and William, 18 years old, live in Milwaukee and for the last two years Mrs. Waitkus has made her home there with William.

Will Pray for His Success.

Mrs. Waitkus said she made no effort to dissuade Felix from the project.

"'You know I'll be back ma,'" she quoted him as telling her.

"I'm going to church this morning and pray and pray for my Felix," she added. "He is a fine boy and capable and I know he will be back."

Lieut. Waitkus was born in Chicago 28 years ago. He attended the Parker and Lindblom High schools, and the University of Chicago four years, failing to get a degree because of one incompleted course.

After leaving the university in 1929 he enrolled in the army engineering corps, but soon obtained a transfer to the United States flying corps.

Married Year Ago.

With the rank of first lieutenant he left the flying corps in 1933 and since has been operating a flying school at Kohler, Wis. More than a year ago he married Miss Martha Brotz, daughter of Anton Brotz, chief engineer in the research department of the Kohler company. His father-in-law aided Lieut. Waitkus in preparing his plane for the Lithuania flight.

The flyer's brother, Adolph, an amateur pilot, was a former president of the Wisconsin Flying club, and through him Lieut. Waitkus had his first plane trip less than ten years ago in Milwaukee.

Lieut. Waitkus' father and mother came to America thirty years ago. The elder Waitkus prior to that was a railroad engineer on a line between Milan, Italy, and Riga, Latvia.

"My son is having a long, tough stretch, but I used to have them, too, on that rail line in bad weather," he said.

Wife Gets Divorce and $2,000 from N. R. Warner

Lillian R. Warner, 37 years old, 910 Lawrence avenue, was granted a divorce by default by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday against Noble R. Warner, also 37, sales manager of the G. U. Angevine company, a manufacturing concern, 141 West Ohio street, on grounds of habitual drunkenness. Under an out of court agreement Mrs. Warner will receive $2,000 in cash and an allowance of $500 for attorney's fees. She was granted the right to resume her maiden name of Reinke.

BRITISH FLYER SEEKS RECORD ON HOP TO SO. AFRICA AND BACK

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Tom Campbell-Black, Great Britain's "aviator in a hurry," hopped off at 4:10 p. m. (10:10 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time) today on an attempted record flight to Cape Town, South Africa, and back. J. H. G. McArthur accompanied Campbell-Black as co-pilot in his plane, the Boomerang, which headed for Cairo. After a brief stop there he resumed his flight.

Campbell-Black, who with C. W. A. Scott won the Melbourne Air Derby, said he hoped to make Cairo nonstop. From there he planned to fly to Kisumu, on Lake Victoria; Kenya, and Cape Town, with an alternate route by way of Rhodesia if necessary.

The flyer recently was balked in a similar attempt by engine trouble. He hoped to reach the South African city by Monday, possibly within 48 hours. The total distance for the round trip flight is 6,910 miles. Campbell-Black's actress wife, Florence Desmond, gave him her photograph in a small silver horseshoe as a luck token just before he took off.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS ELECT TO STAND ON STATE ISSUES

Hold Convention; Prepare for Campaign.

Endicott, N. Y., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Addressing one of the largest Democratic audiences ever assembled in New York state, Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national and state committee, raised the curtain for the 1936 presidential campaign here this afternoon.

Almost his first utterance was to deny that the Democratic party "ever dreamed of attacking" the federal constitution, or has an intention of undertaking; a change in that document, "unless the people themselves demand a change as they did when they repealed the eighteenth amendment."

Strikes at Republicans.

The next major strategem of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign manager was to undertake to connect the Washington utilities lobby with the Republican party with the charge that the "sinister interests" responsible for "whispering campaigns, forged telegrams and editorials dictated by advertising" are engaged in the "secret collection of "a vast fund to influence elections." He said the Democratic party would demand state and federal laws to prevent the Republican national committee from "concealing the persons and interests to whom it owes its financing."

Mr. Farley was one of a score of orators at the joint annual convention o fthe Union of Democratic Clubs of the State of New York, the Democratic Lawyers' Group, and the Democratic Veterans' league, which launched the assembly campaign.

Nearly every Democratic leader in the state was present, and thousands of voters, with bands and drum corps, swarmed in by train and automobile from all parts of the state.

Platform on State Issues.

The convention adopted a platform adhering strictly to state issues for the fall campaign, but Mr. Farley declared the Democrats were entirely ready to take on the Republicans with the New Deal for an issue if the Republicans so desired. "They're defeated before they start," he said.

Both Gov. Lehman, in an address, and the platform urged the adoption of the proposed county home rule amendment to the state constitution and favorable action by the voters on the proposal to issue $55,000,000 of bonds to carry on the necessary relief work.

Virtually all the speakers appealed to organized labor to support the Democratic party on the basis of legislation favorable to workers passed by the last legislature.

Held in Health Park.

The meeting was held in the En-Joie Health park, owned by the Endicott-Johnson Shoe company at Endicott, a suburb of Binghamton.

Designed particularly to stimulate this year's campaign for the retention of control of the state assembly, the convention also had as a goal to put the party in a state of preparation for the presidential and gubernatorial campaigns next year.

After conferring with virtually every county chairman, Mr. Farley expressed satisfaction at the outlook and declared he was more certain than ever of the accuracy of his prediction of the reëlection of Gov. Lehman and his prophecy that President Roosevelt would carry New York state and would be reëlected.

Boy Bicyclist Is Killed; Harvard Students in Car

G. O. P. TIMBER IN ILLINOIS

This is the fourth of a series of sketches of Illinois Republicans who have been mentioned as timber for party nominations for state offices in next year's election.

The name of Oglesby has been well known in Illinois politics since civil war days. Richard J. Oglesby was governor of the state during the reconstruction period. He was elected first in 1865. He was elected again in 1873, was chosen United States senator in that same year, and was returned to the governorship in 1885.

JOHN G. OGLESBY.

John G. Oglesby of Elkhart, his son, is ready to run for the Republican nomination for governor next year. He has not definitly announced his candidacy, but almost three months ago publicly announced his willingness to seek the nomination.

Places Party Interests First.

"As things stand now," he said at that time, "I am a candidate for my party's nomination. My plans, however, are subject to the welfare and best interests of the Republican party. Harmony is more important than ever this year and I shall hold my personal ambition subordinate to my party's welfare and the interests of the people of the state."

Since that utterance, so far as the public knows, Oglesby has done nothing to advance the ambition he mentioned and there have been no open efforts to line up strength for him. Therefore he still is listed as among the unusually high stock governorship timber that is said to be available this year.

In Politics Since His Youth.

John G. Oglesby entered politics in his youth. After serving as an officer of the First Illinois infantry in the Spanish-American war he became secretary to Gov. Richard Yates. Then in 1904 he was elected state representative from the 28th district. The family residence then was at Decatur. He served two terms in the lower house.

Before the close of his second term he was nominated for lieutenant-governor on the Deneen ticket and served four years in that capacity during the second term of Charles S. Deneen. In the famous Bull Moose year, 1912, the split in the Republican party gave the Democrats the state house for four years. But when the G. O. P. came back in 1916, Oglesby again was lieutenant-governor, this time under Gov. Frank O. Lowden.

Lost to Len Small.

In 1920, when Gov. Lowden determined not to seek a second term, he brought Oglesby forward to become his successor. The state primary campaign was a vicious one. The governorship nomination went to Len Small by a margin of less than 8,000 votes.

That margin came in returns from Chicago precincts which had been delayed three days, supposedly under the directions of the old city hall machine. Oglesby was urged to contest on grounds of fraud. He started to do so, but those were the days of the September primary, and it was doubtful that a recount could be ordered and completed in time for a November election. Oglesby announced he would support the entire ticket.

Landowner and Practical Farmer.

Since that time, his friends admit, Oglesby has not been active in politics. His name was among several considered for the governorship race in 1924, when an agreed elimination process united several factions on Thurlow G. Essington.

Oglesby now spends almost his entire time supervising the farming of about 6,000 acres which have come under his control as a part of the 20,000 acres handed down as a heritage from his maternal grandfather, John D. Gillett. His own home, called Oglehurst, is on high ground near Elkhart, not far from Springfield, which overlooks the surrounding country for miles in every direction. His friends sometimes called Oglesby "Farmer John," and he is proud that he is a successful farmer.

NEW DEAL FOOD RESTRICTION HIT BY FR. COUGHLIN

British Cleric Joins in Denunciation.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—[U. P.]—It is the duty of every Christian to openly and actively condemn the destruction of food and the restriction of output as one of the worst types of sacrilege, Father Charles E. Coughlin and the Very Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, dean of Canterbury cathedral, England, said in a joint statement tonight.

"God's gifts are flung back into his face," the joint statement of the visiting British clergyman and the priest said in condemnation of governmental crop and livestock restriction.

Purchasing Power Lacking.

The statement was made after the two clerics had conferred for several hours at Father Coughlin's Shrine of the Little Flower in suburban Royal Oak.

"The world," the statement added, "has an abundance of goods sufficient to give every person in western civilization a good standard of living.

"The reason why this abundance is not consumed by the people of the world is because of the shortage of purchasing power, and until this unbalanced purchasing power is equated with the productive capacity of industry, the total output cannot reach those who produced it."

Tell Duty of Church.

The statement concluded with the charge that "it is our duty . . . to point out from every pulpit that there is this great abundance of goods, and teach the people to demand the distribution of such abundance to the starving millions by the introduction of scientific reform in our monetary system."

Dean Johnson called upon the priest en route to a Canadian speaking tour which will eventually take him to Alberta where he will confer with Premier William Aberhart on the latter's social credit program.

G. O. P. CHEERED AS NEW DEAL'S TROUBLES GROW

Pennsylvania Setback Adds to Woes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Recent developments regarded as profoundly significant politically will be discussed with gratitude and optimism by members of the Republican national executive committee when they meet here on Wednesday to consider plans for the 1936 campaign.

Of greatest significance, Republican leaders declare, was the overwhelming defeat of the Democratic proposal in Pennsylvania to modify that state's 61 year old constitution along New Deal lines, in order to launch a "social security" program and follow the example of the Washington spending orgy. But the Republicans also regard as highly favorable to their cause the "cracking up" of the 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief program and President Roosevelt's apparent unwillingness at this time to go before the country with a series of political speeches on his western trip.

Cite Causes for Change.

The Republicans, in fact, believe that Mr. Roosevelt abandoned earlier plans for half a dozen major speeches because of these devolpments which indicate an increasing distrust of the New Deal—the Pennsylvania rebuff, the widespread criticism of the work relief program, and the failure of American business to accept the President's promise of a "breathing spell." Committees of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which have been at work since Mr. Roosevelt made that promise, brought sharply critical reports to the meeting of the board of directors on Friday.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, who also is chairman of the Democratic national committee, urged the President to make a series of major speeches on his forthcoming trip to San Diego, in which he would outline his achievements to date and discuss his plans for the future. Farley particularly wanted the President to address the American Legion convention at St. Louis. Although White House aids gave the impression that Mr. Roosevelt would open the 1936 campaign with this trip, speaking at half a dozen places, the President now says he plans to speak only at Boulder Dam and San Diego, while he discounts entirely the political significance of the trip.

Pennsylvania Upset Significant.

A major reason for this change of front, the Republicans feel, was the Pennsylvania upset, which they regard as even more important than the recent congressional election in Rhode Island. A Democratic majority of 60,000 for Gov. George Earle and 125,000 for Senator Joseph F. Guffey, only a year ago, was turned into a Republican majority of approximately 200,000 when the New Dealers attempted to call a convention to rewrite the constitution. Gov. Earle, a fervent New Dealer, had demanded this convention to make possible the "more abundant life," borrowing Roosevelt's most cherished phrase.

New Dealers, notably Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, have scoffed at the political significance of the Pennsylvania referendum, contending that it affected only a state constitution. Republicans point out, however, that the advocates of the constitutional convention made their sole issue the question of carrying out President Roosevelt's policies. They told the electorate that it would be impossible, under the present "horse and buggy" constitution, to take advantage of many provisions of the new social security act, including old age pensions, and that the state could not borrow any more money to match federal PWA and WPA grants because it had reached its bonding limit.

Point to Rural Vote.

The Republicans see deep significance in the fact that Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, under the influence of the Democratic machines since the overthrow of the old Republican bosses, voted for the proposal to rewrite the constitution, but smaller cities and rural districts turned it down. This is taken as a sign that, although the passions of the mobs in the metropolitan areas, with gigantic relief rolls may be aroused by attacks on the constitution and the Supreme court, the rural districts will not countenance any scheme to change the American form of government.

The Republicans are particularly gratified by the results of the Pennsylvania referendum because on the very day the vote was taken, last Tuesday, Constitution day, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper was making a plea for broader federal authority to deal with social and economic problems. Roper's speech, the first administration pronouncement since President Roosevelt's "horse and buggy" press conference after the Supreme court's NRA decision, was written by John Dickinson, the New Deal's ace prosecutor in the department of justice, and was generally regarded as representing the President's own views. In this speech he laid down what Republicans have accepted as the chief issue in 1936. He posed this as "the one dominant question."

The "Dominant Question."

He asked: "If there is not sufficient constitutional authority for the federal government to deal properly with a devastating, nation-wide, economic and social emergency, is it the will of the American people to amend their constitution so that the federal government in times of acute distress nationally, may, by bold, direct action, avert utter chaos?"

Republicans were astonished by the boldness of Mr. Roper's speech, for he declared that the social and economic structure had grown so interrelated and complex that only a central authority could deal with it.

"As far as commerce and business are concerned," he said, "state lines have now largely vanished."

This was construed as a direct repudiation of the principle of state rights, which Mr. Roosevelt so ardently championed while he was governor of New York state, and the Republicans welcome the repudiation with an eye to the conservative Democrats of the south.

Relief Question Embarrassing.

The relief question becomes more embarrassing to the New Deal every day, as the deadline for the employment of 3,500,000 persons—Nov. 1—approaches and no material progress toward that goal is made. Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, admits that only 350,000 persons are working on WPA projects, nearly six months after the President signed the work relief bill, but he still insists that he will have 3,500,000 working by Nov. 1. Republicans point out that he will have to employ more than half a million a week to attain his goal by Nov. 1 and predict that if he does open the floodgates for such an outpouring of millions it will result in unprecedented graft and a national scandal that will make the old CWA seem like a venial indiscretion.

Boondoggling Is Victor.

Ickes says he is trying to carry out such a program with housing, bridges, grade crossing elimination, highways, rural electrification, etc., but the President has cut Ickes down to $300,000,000 and Hopkins is to spend 2 billion on such things as golf courses, bird sanctuaries, art projects, and the taking of censuses of the unemployed by the unemployed.

Aside from these New Deal embarrassments, the Republicans say they are encouraged by the increase of contributions since the passage of President Roosevelt's wealth confiscation tax measure. While the Democrats still have a deficit of $417,000, as of Aug. 31, the Republicans have wiped out a $200,000 deficit and now have a surplus of $24,000. The question of financing the 1936 campaign will be one of the chief subjects at Wednesday's meeting.

PLAN CHAIN LETTERS TO URGE REDUCTION OF POTATO HARVEST

Mitchell, Neb., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Chain letters to potato growers urging support of the plan of the recently organized Potato Reduction association were voted by 47 members of the Mitchell-Calley Community club as they agreed to allow 10 per cent of their crop to lie unharvested.

The club members claim to have 2,500 acres in potatoes. With chain letters they hope to spread the reduction doctrin throughout the United States.

The Potato Reduction association proposes to reduce the nation's potato crop 10 per cent by voluntary action of commercial growers.

The directors refused to permit the children to attend school when it opened three weeks ago, demanding that the federal government pay tuition for them.

LONG'S COHORTS SEEK PERSONAL POLITICAL GAIN

Democratic Caucus Picks Slate for 1936.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Louisiana is emerging from the shock of the Huey Long assassination by a politically unknown young doctor into a scene of ordinary American politics. Within a week after the death of the political colossus of this state, his followers are maneuvering secretly along lines of personal ambition.

The old flat political landscape becomes alive with new figures. The lesson that Long taught his subordinates, that of tight organization subject to one wish, seems forgotten or impossible of fulfillment. There are signs of major breaks in the camp, with the Piney woods section jealous of the south, and backroom bargaining going on.

Allen Ticket Is Named.

Tonight after 24 hours of bitter wrangling Gov. O. K. Allen announced the Long-built political machine, represented by his administration, would support Judge Richard W. Leche for governor. Leche was the choice of Long, made a few hours before he was shot.

Others on the Allen slate include Earl Long, brother of Huey, for lieutenant governor; Allen Ellender for the regular term for senator beginning in 1937; Wade O. Martin for Long's unexpired term; A. P. Tugwell, chairman of the highway commission, for state treasurer, and the remainder of incumbents for reelection.

Noe Is Deserted.

This action was a direct affront to Lieut. Gov. James Noe, who earlier in the week announced his candidacy for governor, with the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, Long's "share-our-wealth" organizer, and Martin as his backers. Allen was selected by the caucus to be Democratic national committeeman and chairman of the state Democratic central committee.

Tonight Noe threatened to split the organization by running as an independent. He had been deserted by the Rev. Mr. Smith and Martin, the former because the organization is backing the "share" program and the latter because he wants to be Long's successor in the United States senate.

Noe was very bitter tonight and very determined, but Allen's followers planned to induce him to withdraw from the campaign, so a solid front may be offered.

Situation in Few Words.

One of Long's legislators may have unwittingly described the situation when he said at the inquest into the death of Dr. Carl A. Weiss Jr., Long's slayer:

"Senator Long was in good humor a few minutes before the shooting. He was joking and talking loud. I loved the man and my attention was centered on him. But when the bullets began, my attention was centered on myself."

It is not of bullets but ballots that Long's men are now thinking. They are preparing for the election of Jan. 21 next, when every state and national office must be refilled. They hope to divide those to their satisfaction.

"Long left us plenty of laws, anyway," said one of his followers.

Vested in the governor's office, under the 464 special laws passed at Long's dictation by a subservient legislature, is every power that a politician could dream of, a gigantic web of patronage and police power, and the machinery of elections. But the question is whether any one will have the nerve to use such of these laws as have proved unpopular, those that have taken away from communities the right to elect their own citizens to office.

It takes a ruthless hand, backed at times by the state militia, to do those things. Gov. Allen is a kindly man and does not like to hurt people's feelings. He was a sort of office boy for Long and gloried in it.

The big stick will not come from him.

Pleasant "Jimmy" Noe, the lieutenant governor, who always was at Long's side saying, "yes, senator," wants to step into the skyscraper capitol at Baton Rouge, but he never would become a dictator.

Noe and Martin pulled a coup this week by announcing their candidacies, to the apparent surprise of the governor. The governor had intended to call a caucus, but these gentlemen did not wait for such a decision.

Inquiries on Wane.

Investigations seem to be on the wane, the old Long group would like to hold an ex parte hearing in the best style of their departed chief and get a smattering of evidence before the public concerning an alleged plot against the senator's life. This would be fine for political purposes.

Many persons, particularly the followers of the Rev. Mr. Smith, who has inherited the evangelistic efforts of the senator in the countryside, believe there was such a plot. He has told them so with fine dramatic intensity. He visions himself as now in danger of assassination and tells over the radio of threats made on his life and that he will not live another twenty-four hours. But he still is hale and hearty.

The Rev. Mr. Smith says that no one can be elected without his group and sits in with the midnight political conferees. The upshot of all this, however, will be just another governor and another senator. Louisiana has quit worrying about the threat of state politics to its liberties.

The Rev. Mr. Smith nearly set off a powder keg at the Weiss inquest when he charged District Attorney John Fred Odom as a plotter. It has since been rumored with good foundation that there were many friends of Odom there who were ready to shoot at the drop of the hat. Odom, however, did not drop the hat. He just sent out a warning that every one was covered.

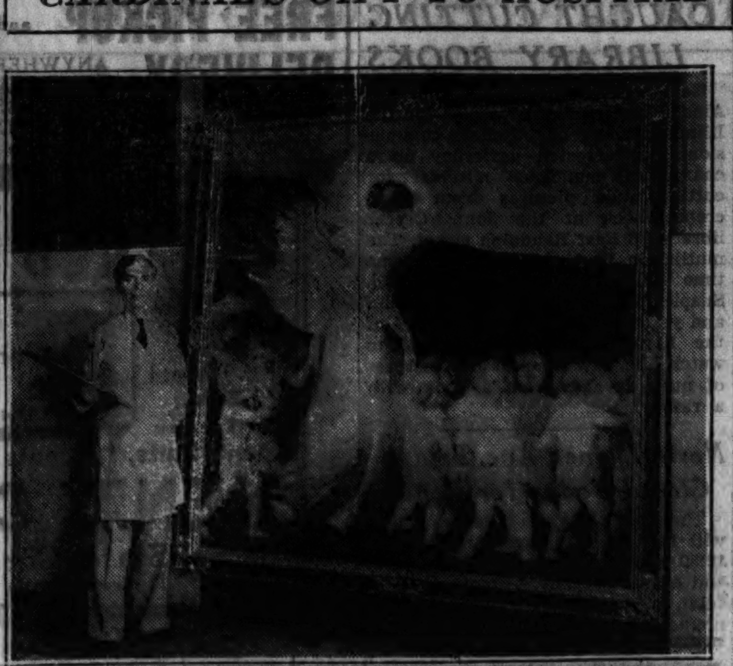
Political Picture Changed.

Dr. Weiss changed the political picture of the state by his shot, but there is no evidence that he acted with the knowledge of any one. There are stories of incidents that might have caused his act. One is that his wife pleaded with Senator Long through a personal friend of hers in the legislature to save the job of a school teacher friend who was the support of a family.

The story is that Long refused to act and swore in his tempestuous way that all anti-Long people would have to get out.

The legislative intermediary is said to have taken Long's hard words back to Mrs. Weiss. Another report is that Long made serious remarks reflecting on Dr. Weiss' father-in-law, Judge Benjamin H. Pavy, whom he was gerrymandering out of office, and that these words reached the young doctor.

CARDINAL'S GIFT TO HOSPITAL



Warde Traver beside his mural called "On the Way to the Bethlehem Babe," which was unveiled yesterday in the Lewis Memorial Maternity hospital. The painting was presented to the hospital by Cardinal Mundelein in observance of the 26th anniversary of his consecration as a bishop.

Star of Bethlehem

A mural depicting the Star of Bethlehem at dawn, the gift of Cardinal Mundelein in commemoration of the 26th anniversary of his consecration as a bishop, was unveiled yesterday in the Lewis Memorial Maternity hospital, 3101 South Michigan avenue.

The painting, "On the Way to the Bethlehem Babe," is the work of Warde Traver, the portrait painter, who says he received inspiration for it while studying at the Royal Bavarian academy in Munich.

The dedication by Cardinal Mundelein of the new church of Santa Maria del Popolo at Mundelein this morning will climax the university celebration, which opened yesterday with a solemn high mass at the Holy Name cathedral.

FOUND KILLED BY TRAIN.

A man, 45 years old, was found killed yesterday on the tracks of the Milwaukee railroad near Lehigh avenue, where he apparently had been struck by a train. The body was clad in a blue coat and trousers brown vest, khaki shirt, and gray cap.

3 TO FACE COURT IN SHOOTING OF AIR ANNOUNCER

Dr. Michael Lewinski, 42 years old, 1113 Milwaukee avenue, and two other men present early Saturday when Anton Bednarczyk, a radio announcer, was shot in the abdomen during an altercation in the Leonard cafe, 1166 Milwaukee avenue, will be arraigned in felony court Tuesday, Racine avenue police said last night. Bednarczyk, 45 years old, a resident of the Lewis hotel where the cafe is operated, was reported improved yesterday at St. Mary of Nazareth hospital.

Dr. Lewinski, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, Roman Hanasz, 5323 Agatite avenue, a druggist, and Stanley Nastl of the Lewis hotel, an announcer for radio station WCBD at Waukegan, charged with disorderly conduct, were all released on bonds yesterday. Dr. Lewinski is said to have accidentally shot Bednarczyk, an announcer for station WSBC, after Lewinski drew a gun on another announcer, Walter Rzewski, of station WGES.

Mrs. Francis Huebsch Files Suit for Divorce

Mrs. Janet Huebsch, 21 years old, of La Grange, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Superior court against Francis Huebsch, son of the late senator, Arthur J. Huebsch. She alleged habitual drunkenness. The couple were married May 5, 1933, and separated on Aug. 30, this year. Mrs. Huebsch seeks custody of their 13 months old son, Arthur.

FIRE DAMAGES ST. PATRICK'S.

Fire, which started in the boiler room of St. Patrick's church, 718 West Adams street, yesterday, caused several thousand dollars damage. The room was wrecked and valuable vestments kept in the altar boy's room upstairs were ruined by smoke and water.

WPA CRIPPLES ILLINOIS RELIEF; CRISIS AT HAND

IERC Slashes Rolls; Aid Is Refused Transients.

New evidence appeared yesterday of an approaching crisis in the administration of unemployment relief in Illinois. The failure of Works Progress administration to put men to work with the President's $4,880,000,000 of easy money before the withdrawal of federal grants for direct relief was regarded as the chief cause of the dislocation of relief machinery which may put hardship on thousands of Illinois families.

With the Illinois Emergency Relief commission facing a $1,000,000 deficit by the end of September and with the government's refusal to supply more funds for direct relief, Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, yesterday ordered drastic economies, which will postpone the day of reckoning. The situation is comparable to that of last May, when all relief was temporarily halted followed by soaring relief costs in June as the cumbersome commission machinery was put in motion again.

Food, Coal, Rent Cost Cut.

Food, coal and rent orders, ordinarily issued to cover a month, will cover only a two weeks' period, effective at once, the commission announced. Unless the WPA begins to put men to work, the balance will become an October obligation—and Federal Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, although assuring the commission that the government will provide some funds, has given no indication that the state's full needs will be met.

During the current month, the IERC has received $6,600,000 from the federal government and $1,500,000 from the state sales tax. These receipts are approximately $1,000,000 less than the needs of the state for the month and probably $2,000,000 less than estimated October needs.

An immediate effect of the economy orders was the refusal of the commission to take over the handling of transient relief. The transient relief service, caring for unemployed who have not resided continuously in the state for one year, has been administered by the IERC, but funds have been provided directly by the federal government.

Disregards Hopkins' Orders.

The IERC announced yesterday that it had refused to follow Hopkins' instructions that this service be taken over by the state agency. Friday, when intake of transients was halted by federal authority, there were 1,700 families and 4,727 unattached persons receiving transient aid. The monthly intake has averaged 397 families and 1,187 unattached persons for the year.

This leaves these persons stranded without means of support, other than private charity. Police and social agencies expressed fears of an increase in street begging.

In another order directed toward reducing expenditures, Mr. Reynolds terminated work relief projects which gave employment to 30,000 men in Cook county. The families of these men will have to live on their final week's wages until after Oct. 1. At that time they will receive direct relief—or the employment promised by the slow moving WPA.

Reduce Crossing Staf.

As a result of all this, the staf of 800 crossing guards who have given invaluable protection to school children at dangerous street intersections will be reduced to 324, Police Commissioner James P. Allman announced. Oscar Hewitt, city building commissioner, said his department will lay off 2,042 work relief clients employed on city projects.

WPA headquarters was still awaiting news from Washington of the approval of projects which will place a large portion of the state's relief clients on public pay rolls. Torn with internal strife, WPA is many weeks behind its schedule in getting projects approved and men to work, although federal direct relief funds are being curtailed.

Jury Disagrees in Trial of Parent Killing Youth

Woodward, Okla., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The jury trying Russell Boley, farm youth, accused of having slain his parents and then burning their bodies so he would be free to marry, reported itself deadlocked today and was dismissed. Officials said they had not decided whether to re-try Boley on the charge of having slain his father or to proceed against him for killing his mother.

U. S. TRADE BODY ORDERS STUDY OF FEDERAL TAXES

Members Hear 6 Point Attack on New Law.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The United States Chamber of Commerce today ordered a study of "the whole field of federal taxation and expenditures" after its directors heard the new 250 million dollar "soak the rich" tax law attacked as discriminatory and inequitable.

The announcement came as the directors were preparing to leave Washington following their one day meeting yesterday at which they authorized a nation-wide poll of the chamber's membership on New Deal trends.

Plans Definite Program.

From the taxation and expenditure survey the chamber expects to prepare a definite program which it will sponsor in congress. Such a program has been demanded of chamber representatives by New Deal congressmen on their appearances before committees to protest against administration measures.

The attack on the tax law was delivered to the directors by Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis., chairman of the group's committee on federal finance. He declared the time has come for a general review of the federal tax system with a view to elimination of present "inequitable" features.

In his statement to the directors, Clausen said: "Deep concern must be felt over the adverse effects on business enterprises of national policies which resist rather than promote employment in private industry."

Six Objections Raised.

The Clausen statement raised six objections to the tax law, which provides for increased taxes on incomes over $50,000, gifts, estates, corporation income, excess profits, intercorporate dividends, capital stock, and personal holding companies. These are:

"1. Violation of the fundamental principle that the primary purpose of taxation is to raise revenue for the legitimate expenditures of the government. Recent tax proposals have been avowedly for the purpose of accomplishing wide reaching social and economic reforms.

"2. Failure to bring forth an adequate tax program that would combine reduction in public expenditures, a balanced budget and the imposition of new taxes in a manner that would least retard business recovery.

Hits Hasty Action.

"3. Hasty and inadequate consideration without sufficient prior notice to the country of administrative intentions.

"4. Disregard of the prerogatives and rights of the states for raising necessary revenue.

"5. Proposals based on the principle that growth of industry to large size is inherently contrary to the well being of the nation.

"6. Taxation at such excessive rates that going concerns would be disrupted without suggesting to business any substitute for the methods which are now employed."

FIND BODY ON TRACK.

Valparaiso, Ind., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The body of an unidentified man, about 40 years old, and believed to have been a world war veteran, was found on the New York Central railroad track in northwest Porter county early today. It is believed he fell from a train.

PRESIDENT BUSY ON SPEECHES AT HYDE PARK HOME

Denies Himself to Callers; Desk Piled High.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today in the privacy of his study drafted the first of the speeches which he is to make on his trip to the Pacific coast, starting late next week. For the first day in the busy three weeks the executive has spent in his summer residence on the Hudson, all visitors, political and social, were barred.

On the desk of Mr. Roosevelt was heaped a huge pile of memoranda gathered for him by his secretariat to aid him in the preparation of the talks in which he will voice a defense of New Deal activities in the two years and nearly seven months of his administration.

Gets Views of Advisers.

The President also had a sheaf of notes taken during conversations with more than a score of political leaders who have called upon him here and extended their opinions on the state of mind of the nation in regard to the administration "recovery and reform" program. These notes he consulted as he set about the delicate task of phrasing the speeches which many believe will be among the most momentous addresses of his career.

Mr. Roosevelt will leave here tomorrow night for Washington. He will remain at the White House for four or five days before departing for the west. He has a mountain of official business to dispose of before the journey.

There was some amused speculation today about a possible conflict in speaking engagements in California between the President and his old Blue Eagle war horse, Gen. Hugh Johnson, who yesterday in New York in his usual refreshing fashion referred to certain "lousy aspects" of the administration's relief and reemployment program.

Two California Speeches.

Mr. Roosevelt is scheduled to talk in Los Angeles and San Diego about the time that Gen. Johnson makes a speech on Oct. 2 at San Diego.

A very quiet celebration was held in the big mansion on the 1,000 acre estate in honor of the 81st birthday of its owner and mistress, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President. Her great-grandchildren, Eleanore and Curtiss Dall, staged a playlet for the elder Mrs. Roosevelt. She chose not to be interviewed by newspaper men.

ICKES REPORTED AS FEARFUL OF LOSING HIS JOB

Planning to Fight for Peace, Friends Say.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes has confided to intimates, it was learned today, that he knows his "number is up" and he may be eased out of office any day. He added that if the end comes it will be no fault of his own, as he proposes to fight for his job if it takes all winter.

Ickes said that he is virtually certain that if he should send in his resignation to President Roosevelt he would receive almost by return mail a letter beginning "Dear Harold," which would express regret at the action and appreciation for his services, but contain a ready acceptance. Such first name letters are the customary form for demanded or voluntary resignations with the President.

Loses Battle with Hopkins.

Since Ickes lost his battle with Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins for control of the 4 billion dollar works relief program New Dealers have made several pools on the date the secretary will receive a letter of dismissal. Bets range from weeks to months.

The secretary told his intimates if such a letter gets into his mail it will only be because his resignation was asked and not because it was offered.

Those close to Ickes say he is confident that if he can weather the storm for a few months he will survive. His confidence rests on a belief that the Hopkins made work program will be subjected to bitter attack and that presidential reaction will swing to Ickes, so that his public works program may return to favor.

Ickes Sure He's Right.

Ickes is confident that he is right in his position and that time will bear him out, but is not certain whether he can hold his job against those desirous of removing him as he sits tight, according to associates of the secretary. Following Hopkins' victory many bearing animosity to the secretary have been bending every effort to bring about his downfall.

RELIEF WORKER CAUGHT CUTTING LIBRARY BOOKS

George Gerardin, 31 years old, 1718 Ainslie street, a case worker for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, was arrested yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief for cutting nude pictures from a reference book at the John Crerar library, 86 East Randolph street. The mutilation has been going for some time officials at the library said. Suspicion was directed at Gerardin and yesterday John Ogar, employé of the library who had been told to watch him, saw him cut five pictures of nude savages from a book with a razor blade.

13 SENTENCED FOR PREVENTION OF FARM SALE

Terms Range from Day to Three Years.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 21.—[U. P.]—Thirteen Missouri farmers today admitted their guilt, asked to publicly apologize and explain their part in a farm riot and then heard a federal judge sentence them from one day in jail to three years in the penitentiary.

The men were accused of having participated in a riot at Plattsburg, Mo., Aug. 13, in which United States Marshal Henry Dillingham and three aids were manhandled by a mob. The mob prevented sale under a foreclosure proceedings of the farm of Sam Divelbiss Sr., one of the men sentenced.

Harrison N. Jones, the fourteenth man accused by the government in the resistance, was not sentenced today. Jones collapsed in the courtroom late today. He suffered nervous shock.

Farm Leader Given 3 Years.

Clifton Gall of Turney, Mo., secretary of the Farmers' Protective association, drew the heaviest penalty from Judge Albert L. Reeves. He was sentenced to serve three years in prison on a charge of contempt of the federal court and two years on the charge of conspiracy to obstruct federal officers in their line of duty. The sentences are to run concurrently.

The government charged the Farmers' Protective association fostered the assembly that seized the officials, beat them, and held them prisoner until after the legal time for the sale had passed.

Those who received two-year sentences were Randall T. Arnold, Lathrop; C. A. Jones, Plattsburg; Homer Crowley, Lathrop, and Dan Stoffel, Cameron.

Two Get Day Sentences.

Ivan Divelbiss and Allen Handley of Plattsburg and Frank Hixon of Gower received three-month jail sentences. Marvin Arnold of Plattsburg and Charles Anderson of Starfield escaped with one-day jail sentences.

In passing sentence Judge Reeves severely arraigned the defendants for attempting to interefere with orderly discharge of the law. He was particularly severe in his condemnation of the leadership of the Farmers' Protective association.

In enumerating offenses the mob committed Judge Reeves said the defendants were guilty of holding federal officers captive, damaging a motor car, mayhem, felonious assault, robbery, disturbance of the peace, rioting and resisting an officer.

The defendants, after they had been identified by government witnesses as members of the mob, today changed their pleas to guilty.

Declares State Disgraced.

Declaring that the infamy of "this insurrection against the government" has been spread to the corners of the nation, Judge Reeves insisted that value of Missouri farm lands has been decreased.

"This thing has done more damage to Missouri and to the nation than flood, fire and pestilence; more than an enemy battleship could do shelling New York City," the judge thundered.

Gall, particularly, was denounced for having tried to tell a reporter what he could write about the riot and for his effort to coerce Mrs. Edna Pollard, editor of a newspaper at Maysville.

NEAL DECLARES ENGAGEMENT TO INEZ NORTON OFF

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Thomas C. Neal Jr., son of the retired Chicago banker of that name, phoned THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE bureau tonight, to announce that he had "got a job," and that his engagement to Inez Norton, former Broadway showgirl, might be "all off." He was pretty sure of it, in fact.

"I am beginning to see the wisdom of not marrying a woman so much older than I am," he explained. "So there may not be any wedding, after all."

The "job," Neal explained, is with the theatrical company which is to open a Broadway production of the Rev. John Haynes Holmes' new play, "If This Be Treason," at the Music hall, Sunday night. The Chicagoan will play the rôle of a young diplomat in the cast, he said.

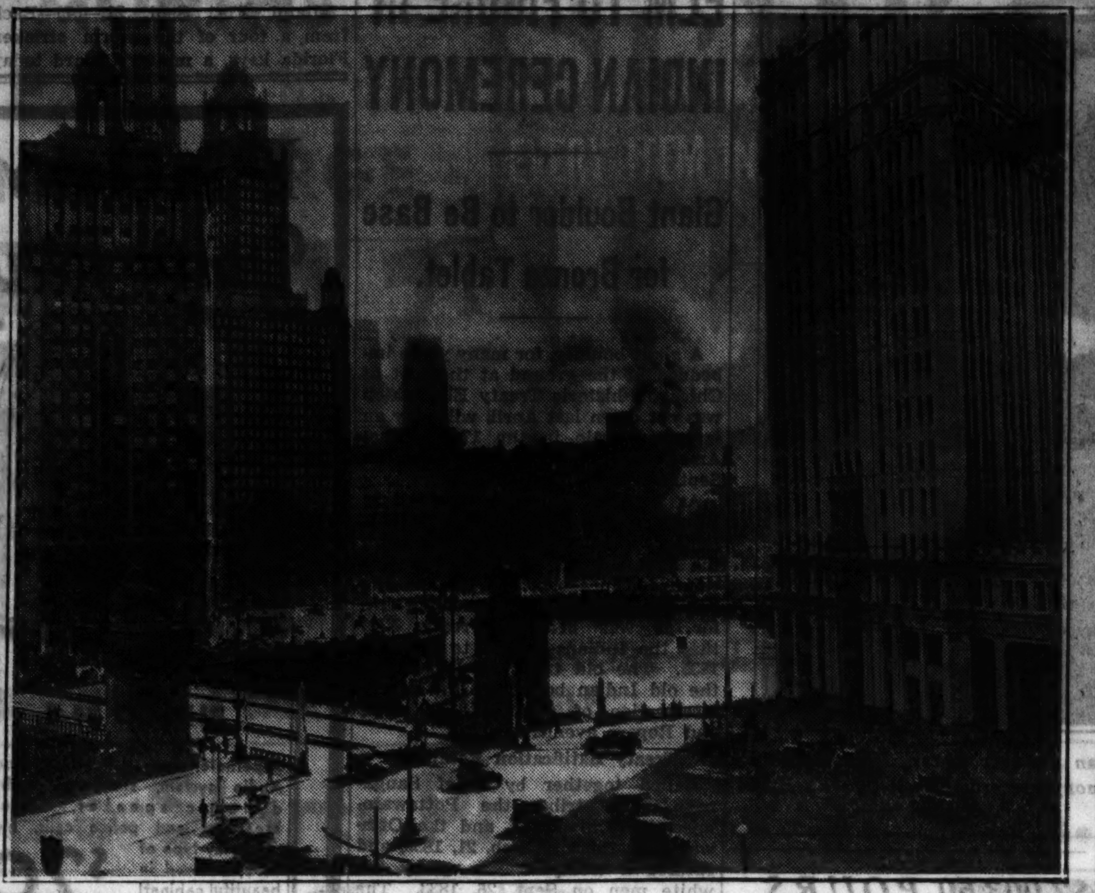
SMOKE CLOUDS RISE OVER HOTEL SHERMAN



Looking toward the Hotel Sherman from Michigan avenue yesterday as smoke billowed over the upper floors from a grease fire in the basement kitchen. The smoke was carried up a chute to the 18th floor, where it poured from a ventilator. The fire was extinguished with little damage.

HOTEL SHERMAN BLAZE THRILLS RIALTO CROWDS

Kitchen Grease Smoke Pours from Roof.

A grease fire in the main kitchen in the basement of the Hotel Sherman late yesterday afternoon caused crowds to jam the intersection of Randolph and Clark streets as the thick smoke was carried up a chute to the 18th floor where it poured from a ventilator.

Quick work by hotel employés and firemen prevented any panic among the 1,000 guests of the hotel as the smoke billowed over the upper floors and seeped through the lobby. The fire, which started in three "deep frying" fat vats, was extinguished with little damage.

Operators Stay at Posts.

Although the smoke filled their room, which is located immediately above the kitchen, all of the switchboard operators stuck to their post notifying guests in upper rooms not to worry about the fire. In the College Inn, which opens into the main kitchen, several dozen couples kept on dancing in the smoke.

Drinkers in the Celtic bar went on sipping their drinks for a time, but the smoke finally drove them to the hotel lobby.

Every one in the lobby, employés and customers alike, assumed blasé attitudes about the whole situation. While the smoke was so thick visibility was difficult, loungers remained talking in their chairs, wives waited for husbands, and dice shakers at the cigar counter continue to tempt luck.

Outside, street car and motor trafic was paralyzed for half an hour. The sidewalks remained crowded for almost an hour as spectators watched the big fire trucks, which were not needed after all.

Actor Prevents Panic.

A block away in the Selwyn theater Henry Hull, star of "Tobacco Road," who plays the part of Jeeter, put a quick stop to symptoms of a panic at the matinée when smoke from the fire eddied into the theater. Several women arose and began talking excitedly about "the fire." Others took up the talk, drowning out the actors, and in a few minutes half the audience was preparing to leave.

Hull, an old trouper, stepped out of character and spoke to the crowd:

"Are you all as crazy as Jeeter? If there were a fire here, you would be notified and the theater cleared. Stop talking and sit down."

Some one in the audience cried: "Okeh, let the show go on."

"That's fine," said Hull. "Where was I?" A prompter in the audience spoke up with the proper cue, Hull laughed, the actors took up their parts, and the audience relaxed.

Autoist Takes Step to Sue Young Son of Roosevelt

Malden, Mass., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The first step in a suit against Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jr., son of the President and a Harvard student, for damages growing out of an automobile collision in Boston, was taken in District court today. Hyman Barlow of Malden filed a writ claiming he was injured and his car damaged in a collision with young Roosevelt's car April 27.

CITY WARNS PUBLIC TO BURN LEAVES AND NOT BLOCK GUTTERS

Instructions were given to the police department yesterday by Mayor Kelly to warn property owners and janitors not to rake falling leaves into gutters. The leaves not only interfere with proper drainage through the gutters, but eventually block the sewers.

"I saw one man this morning whisking the leaves from his lawn with a stream of water from his garden hose," said the mayor. "The sewerage system can't be kept efficient if continually clogged with leaves. Property owners will benefit themselves if they burn the leaves."

The mayor also ordered police to continue the drive against the display of posters and signs on electric, telephone, trolley, and other posts and trees.

Colored Rail Workers Flee Wrath of Whites

Bluefield, W. Va., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Thirty colored track workers threatened by white mountaineers laid down their tools and marched out of Buchanan county, Va., declining to wait for the single train which comes each day from Devon, W. Va. Norfolk and Western railway officials said the men quit their jobs of their own accord. The crew was threatened Tuesday night by a group of 200 whites, who declared the Negroes would be "blown into the Levisa river" if they were not taken out of the county.

KILL 5 MEXICAN POLICE OFFICIALS AND LOOT TOWN

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Five police officials of San José de Gracia, state of Jalisco, were stood against a wall and shot by a band of insurgents who assaulted and looted the town, it was reported in telegrams received tonight from Guadalajara. The raiders also killed a young law student whom they kidnaped after the assault.

Headed by a chieftain named Lauro Rocha, the band rode into the town on Thursday, shooting off rifles to terrorize the inhabitants. The police commissioner, his two assistants, and two gendarmes defended the municipal building until their ammunition was exhausted and they were forced to surrender.

After setting fire to the building the insurgents stood their prisoners against the wall and killed them with a volley of rifle bullets. A strong force of federal troops was sent after the band.

LIHME-WHEELER WEDDING STAGED IN FALL SETTING

Fabian Sisters Become Brides in Dual Fete.

BY JUDITH CASS.

In one of the prettiest of the early fall weddings yesterday afternoon in Lake Forest Miss Eleanor Ward Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, became the bride of Edward Hegeler Lihme, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bai Lihme of New York, formerly of Chicago.

The ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, where the Rev. Herbert E. Prince read the ceremony between the pulpit and lectern, which were covered with a green hedge and guarded by two gardenia trees. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a simple white satin gown with a braid of satin framing her dark curls and holding a tulle veil to her head. The dress was made simply with a high neckline, long sleeves, and train. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley. For something old she wore about her neck the seed pearls of her grandmother, Mrs. Joseph F. Ward.

Sister Is Maid of Honor.

Preceding the bride down the candle-lit aile were seven attendants, including the bride's sister, Miss Christabel Wheeler, as maid of honor. The attendants were gowned alike in gray velvet with matching square little hats that tied under the chin. They carried white carnations. The honor maid wore a wine velvet hat and carried wine carnations. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Alfred Uihlein, Mrs. Eugene du Pont III., Mrs. Joseph Terbell, Mrs. John P. Porter, Miss Edith Behr, and Miss Jane Brooks.

Harold H. Lihme served his brother as best man, and ushering were Charles S. Dewey Jr., John P. Porter, Philip B. Hosmer Jr., W. Edwin Stanley Jr., all of Chicago; William Shroeder and William B. Trainer Jr. of Sewickley, Pa., and William McElroy of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler gave the wedding reception in their house on Elm Tree road in Lake Forest. Mrs. Wheeler, at the head of the receiving line which formed in the living room, wore wine bagheera, trimmed with a gold belt and gold roses under the chin, and a matching wine colored hat.

Two Sisters Are Brides.

Evanston society yesterday was interested in a double wedding which took place at 4 o'clock in St. Mark's church when Miss Dorothy Fabian and Miss Cornelia Fabian, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Fabian, became brides respectively of William Porter Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Sullivan of Evanston, and Corwith Davis of New York. Bishop Harry S. Longley of Iowa, assisted by the Rev. Harold Bowen of St. Mark's, read the ceremony first for the elder bride, Miss Dorothy, and immediately after she and her attendants had left the altar he repeated it for Miss Cornelia and Mr. Davis.

Miss Jill Fabian served her sisters as maid of honor, and her costume of rust colored velvet with gold accessories and the gold dahlias she carried blended perfectly with the gowns of the two sets of attendants. Dorothy wore a wedding gown that belonged first to her great-aunt, Mrs. Charles G. Fall of Boston. Of heavy corded silk, the dress was made with the skirt drawn back to form the suggestion of a bustle before sweeping behind into a train. She carried lilies of the valley and brides' roses.

Second Bride's Gown Modern.

Miss Cornelia was a more modern bride, for with the exception of her veil, which belonged to her great-grandmother who was married in London many years ago, yesterday's second bride wore a completely present-day gown of white satin. It was made with a high neck and long sleeeves and train, and she carried calla lilies. Her attendants wore leaf green gowns trimmed with dull gold buckles, and gold hats, gloves, and slippers. They carried gold dahlias.

Mrs. Fabian, at the head of the receiving line at the reception which was held at the Evanston Country club, wore a rust crepe gown, a brown hat, and dahlias. Mrs. Sullivan was in gold crepe with a brown hat and orchids.

Following a wedding trip north, Mr. Sullivan and his bride will be at home in Evanston, and after the honeymoon in the east Mr. Davis and his bride will make their home in Jacksonville, Fla.

MEXICANS ACT TO KEEP CALLES OUT OF THE COUNTRY

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21.—Inquiry into rumors that former President Calles, who recently arrived in the United States after a prolonged holiday in Honolulu, will not be allowed to return to Mexico finds evidence, although unofficial, that the former dictator will likely be forced to continue to reside abroad.

The left wing of the chamber of senators, studying a number of communications received from labor groups, placed itself on record against granting permission for the return of Mexico's former iron man.

In addition the Union of Veterans of the Revolution has addressed a communication to President Cardenas declaring, "Our union, conscientious of its patriotic obligations, petitions you not to allow the return of Calles to Mexico for surely the same would result in a disturbance to public peace and the spilling of blood."

RELIC OF TREATY ELM TO FIGURE IN INDIAN CEREMONY

Giant Boulder to Be Base for Bronze Tablet.

A giant boulder, for many years imbedded in the ground at the foot of Chicago's historic Treaty Elm which was cut down last April, will play an important rôle in the 17th annual American Indian day celebration on Sept. 27.

As the day, annually observed in Illinois on the fourth Friday in September, is coincident this year with the 100th anniversary of the "evacuation" of Chicago by the Indians, the boulder becomes doubly important, for it was beneath Treaty Elm that the Indians agreed to leave in 1835. The old tree was located on the old Indian boundary line at the intersection of Caldwell, Kilbourn, and Rogers avenues.

Treaty Ratification Recalled.

Called together by Chief Sauganash, three tribes—the Pottawatomies, the Chippewas, and the Ottawas—met there on Feb. 21, 1835, and ratified a treaty drawn up by the white men on Sept. 26, 1833. The treaty ceded to Chicago the Indian lands in return for annuities and "a tract of country west of the Mississippi."

The Indian day celebration, of which Walter E. Olson, president of the Olson Rug company, is chairman, will mark the first time since 1835 that a piece of Chicago land will be figuratively deeded back to the Indians.

Indians to Be There.

This land is the Olson rock garden and memorial park at Diversey avenue and Pulaski road, where the celebration will be held. Members of the three original Chicago tribes will be there, as well as members of ten other Indian tribes.

Three waterfalls in the rock garden will be dedicated to the three original tribes, while the Treaty Elm boulder will be used as the base for a commemorative brass tablet to be unveiled by the Chicago Historical society. The stone will be moved from the Treaty Elm site to the park this morning.

All the ceremonies, which will range from Indian rites and tribal dances to a pageant and addresses, will be under the auspices of the Indian Council Fire, an Indian welfare organization with headquarters in Chicago.

$2,003.50 POURS IN ON CAMP AND FREE ICE FUNDS

Two "reader" contributions totaling $3.50 and a CHICAGO TRIBUNE donation of $2,000 yesterday brought Indian summer riches to THE TRIBUNE'S two summer charity funds, the free ice fund, and the Camp Algonquin fund.

The "reader" contributions both were for the free ice fund, which still is operating, even in late September, for the benefit of mothers with sickly babies. Roderick and Virginia MacArthur of Oak Park sent in $2.50, while Tena Koerner, 4933 Dorchester avenue, sent $1. The two donations bring the ice fund total to $1,678.88.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE contribution was for the Camp Algonquin fund and came from a fund raised by Golden Glove tournaments and other charity benefits. Camp Algonquin, now closed for the summer, is a 43 acre camp on the Fox river, supported by readers of THE TRIBUNE and operated by the United Charities of Chicago, where worn mothers and undernourished children from the tenement district are given summer outings.

The TRIBUNE donation brings the Camp Algonquin fund to $9,674.47. This is the second TRIBUNE donation of the season, $5,000 having been contributed earlier in the summer.

ROBBED ENTERING GARAGE.

Two gunmen robbed Harold Schiddel, 29 years old, 3616 Irving Park boulevard, of $12 early yesterday as he was about to drive his car into his garage at 4110 North Central Park avenue.

Louis M'C. Little Named Major General of Marines

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Claude E. Swanson today announced promotion of Brig. Gen. Louis McCarty Little, 57, of the marine corps to major general. The promotion has been approved by President Roosevelt, Secretary Swanson said.

SIFT CHARGES OF LOOTING IN FLORIDA STORM

Miami, Fla., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Back from a tour of the storm stricken Florida keys, a military board today continued its inquiry into the activities of the national guard following the Labor day hurricane in an attempt to determine if innuendoes of looting, inefficiency, and negligence are justified.

USE POWDER

DR. LYONS TOOTH POWDER

100% Cleansing Properties
Twice that of tooth paste
No Grit — No Pumice
Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel
Lasts Longer—Costs Less
Outlasts tooth paste 2 to 1

Do as your dentist does—
when he cleans your teeth

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans off all stains and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

ANOTHER AUSTIN WOMAN BEATEN BY DEGENERATE

Police Intensify Search for Cruel Morons.

Another attack by a moron in the Austin district yesterday morning added to the anxiety of that community and spurred the police to more strenuous efforts to capture the criminals. Four women have been maltreated in the neighborhood in five weeks. Extra police in civilian apparel patroled the area last night as Capt. Willard Malone sought to trap the degenerates.

The victim of yesterday morning's beating is Miss Anna Swanson, 47 years old, 1732 North Keating avenue, an employé in the kitchen of the Danish-American hospital.

She was found unconscious in the weeds in a vacant lot behind the Best Built company, 4440 North avenue, by Frank Klebenow, foreman for the company.

Thrown Into Weeds and Beaten.

She told the police her assailant struck her in the jaw as she was walking along the sidewalk on her way to the hospital about 6 a. m. Then he tossed her into the weeds and beat her to unconsciousness.

At the Danish-American hospital Dr. Lewis K. Eastman found she had been pommeled about the face and legs and her underclothing had been torn, but he said she had not been raped. The physician believes that she was the victim of a sadist, who desires to inflict cruelty.

One blow of the moron broke the upper plate of her false teeth. Because of a weak heart Miss Swanson was in a serious condition at the hospital last night.

Sergt. Ray Levine of the Cragin station has ordered a search for a man 45 years old as Miss Swanson's attacker. The description she gave of the moron differed from that of the chuckling maniac, about 24 years old, who has lashed and raped three women in the last month.

Scenes of Attacks 2½ Miles Apart.

Two of the whipman's depredations occurred at the Westboro Manor apartment hotel, 148 North Mayfield avenue, about 2½ miles from the scene of Miss Swanson's beating.

The first of the two hotel residents to be whipped and raped is Mrs. Fletcher Madison, who was assaulted on Aug. 17. She suffered a nervous breakdown after the attack. Last Friday she underwent an operation at the Illinois Research hospital and last night her condition was critical.

The second attack in the hotel occurred early Thursday, the victim being Mrs. Helen James. The third object of the young degenerate's cruelty is Mrs. Sylvia Rebicek, 6139 West 19th street, Cicero.

Hold Captive for Investigation.

Police arrested nine suspects Friday night, but the victims could not identify them. Nevertheless one of those arrested, Ludwig Adamski, 24 years old, 1821 Hastings street, was held for further investigation when it was learned that he had served three years in the Pontiac reformatory for robbing and beating a woman.

Three additional suspects were seized last night and were questioned at the Austin station. One was a poolroom employé who resembled the description given of the rapist. The second and third were taken into custody when policemen found them studying clippings relating the moron's crimes.

All were viewed by Fletcher Madison and by Orlando James, husband of Mrs. Helen James. They could not identify any of the prisoners and the investigators said they were satisfied the rapist had not been caught.

Capt. Malone ordered detectives yesterday to make a careful search of the parole records for rapists who may have been paroled recently.

Lowden to Talk Tuesday to 6th District Bar Group

The 20th annual meeting of the Federation of Local Bar associations of the 6th supreme judicial district of Illinois will be held at the Rock River Country club in Oregon, Ogle county, on Tuesday. John R. Snively of Rockford, secretary of the organization, announced yesterday that former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Oregon would preside at the association banquet in the evening.

FALLS DEAD BEFORE HOME.

Heart disease caused early yesterday the death of William Maculedinch, 45 years old, 2420 West 46th place, a laborer. He was found dead in front of his home.

3 WHO HARBORED DILLINGER DRAW LIGHT SENTENCES

Face Lifter Sent to Serve Old Term.

Three of the few remaining cases against persons who harbored members of the notorious John Dillinger gang were disposed of yesterday before Federal Judge William H. Holly. Because the defendants had aided the government as witnesses in similar harboring cases they were given light sentences and in two cases the sentences were suspended.

Dr. William Loeser, who performed face lifting operations for John Dillinger and his lieutenant, Homer Van Meter, was sentenced to one day in the custody of the United States marshal, but he was remanded to Leavenworth penitentiary as a parole violator to finish serving 18 months of a previous term for a narcotic law violation.

Second Doctor Wins Probation.

Dr. Harold Bernard Cassidy, who assisted Dr. Loeser in the operations through which the gangsters sought unsuccessfully to evade identification, was sentenced to an eleven month term, but the sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for a year. Arthur W. O'Leary, former investigator for Louis Piquett, Dillinger lawyer, was given a like sentence and allowed probation.

The defendants pleaded guilty to the harboring charges some time ago and O'Leary and Cassidy had spent about eight months in jail while they were waiting to appear as witnesses against Piquett, convicted of harboring Van Meter. Piquett was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $10,000. Piquett is free on bond pending appeal. Loeser had spent about eighteen months in jail.

Special Prosecutor Here.

Assistant United States Attorney Brien McMahon, special prosecutor in the Dillinger and Van Meter cases against Piquett, came here from Washington especially for the sentencing yesterday. He told Judge Holly that the three had rendered the government "a very valuable service" in their testimony against Piquett and consequently he recommended a light sentence.

In Chicago only two cases of conspiracy to harbor members of the Dillinger gang are pending and it appeared likely they would not be prosecuted. William Finerty and his wife of Calumet City are free on bond in those cases.

Body of Woman Suicide Taken from Outer Lagoon

The nude body of Mrs. Edna Cronin, 37 years old, 1533 North Crawford avenue, the mother of three children, was recovered from the outer lagoon near the jackknife bridge on the outer drive in Lincoln park yesterday. She jumped into the lake three days ago from a jetty about four blocks north of the bridge while two men who saw her start to undress ran to get police. A note which she sent to a nephew before she disappeared blamed the unemployment of her husband for her despondency.

PLAN CONSPIRACY INDICTMENTS IN FLORIST BEATING

Give Victim Chance to Free Self of Contempt.

Indictments charging conspiracy to obstruct justice are to be sought because of the evident intimidation which thwarted prosecution of the union officials involved in the beating of an Oak Park florist, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty announced yesterday. The slugging case involved Peter Javaras, the florist who was beaten and forced to join a union, and who then went to jail for contempt of court rather than prosecute the men who "recruited" him with pistols and blackjacks.

Mr. Dougherty said Javaras, who identified Fred Bohlman and Lawrence Monahan, union officials, as his assailants in a hearing in the Oak Park police court and then refused to identify them before Criminal Court Judge Cornelius Harrington, will be given an opportunity tomorrow to purge himself of guilt. But he must tell everything that transpired, the prosecutor declared.

"Time to Do Something."

"If union officials can force a business man into an employés' union by half killing him and then so frighten him that he prefers jail for himself rather than for the sluggers, it's high time something was done about it," said Mr. Dougherty. "The grand jury should and must take steps to end this terrorism.

"This office is in favor of honest legitimate trade unionism, but not the blackjack and brass knuckle variety."

Javaras, who was sentenced to 10 days' imprisonment for contempt of court when he refused to identify Bohlman and Monahan in Judge Harrington's court, refused to reveal his intentions when interviewed in his cell in the county jail yesterday. He is to be questioned in the state's attorney's office tomorrow.

Officials Previously Identified.

In the hearing before Justice Martin McGrath of Oak Park on June 18, Javaras, who operated a florist shop at 1145 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park, testified that on June 12 he was assaulted, struck on the head with a revolver, and kicked severely while he was on the ground in a helpless condition. He pointed out Bohlman and Monahan, officials of the teamsters' union, as two of his assailants.

After that he joined the florist drivers' union, paying $25 of a $100 initiation fee. The unionists were held to the grand jury and indicted for assault with a deadly weapon.

"His refusal to repeat his identification before Judge Harrington is evidence that something was done to obstruct justice," Mr. Dougherty said. "Whoever had a hand, or a gun or a fist or a voice, in changing Javaras' mind is subject to indictment. Labor should not be permitted to intimidate the agencies of the law."

Hundreds Going from City to Eucharistic Congress

Led by Bishops Bernard J. Sheil and William D. O'Brien, hundreds of Chicago Catholics will entrain tonight and tomorrow to attend the opening tomorrow of the National Eucharistic congress in Cleveland. The Rev. Edward M. Burke of the chancery office of the archdiocese has been appointed by Cardinal Mundelein to take charge of arrangements. A feature of the congress will be a message from Pope Pius by radio from Castelgandolfo, Italy. The pontiff will confer the apostolic blessing in the course of the broadcast, which has been set for 5 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time on Thursday, the closing day of the congress.

CLEVELAND DONS PAPAL COLORS FOR CONGRESS

Cleveland, O., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The papal colors, gold and white, fluttered on downtown buildings today in welcome to thousands of Roman Catholic dignitaries and laymen expected here for the seventh national Eucharistic congress Monday.

Workmen speeded up their decoration of Public hall, where many of the ceremonies will be held, and St. John's cathedral, the diocesan church of Bishop Joseph Schrembs. One large central altar and 128 smaller altars are being constructed in Public hall.

The parochial schools in the fourteen counties of the Cleveland Catholic diocese will be closed next week, providing a vacation for 68,000 children. The children will have a prominent part in the congress.

Constipated?
DO AS DOCTORS DO
For Years Over 50,000 Doctors Have Used or Recommended
PLUTO WATER
for Quicker, Safer Relief

When a doctor is constipated, what does he take for relief? That ought to prove beyond question how safe, how gentle, how effective a laxative is.

Now here's an amazing fact! For years, over 50,000 doctors have used or recommended Pluto Water. For they know, from personal experience, that Pluto is the sure way to eliminate dangerous accumulated poisons. They know it is not a habit-forming medicine. They know its action is gentle and quick.

What Doctors Say

For instance, Dr. C. E. B. of Indiana says: "Have prescribed Pluto for years." Then Dr. W. M. of Michigan advises: "Pluto is the only laxative." And Dr. L. R. E. of Ohio says: "By taking Pluto Water mornings, I always stay in good shape."

Your own doctor, too, will tell you there is nothing better. And—will warn you against habit-forming drugs of all kinds. That's why you also can always depend on this famous laxative.

So, the next time you are constipated, do as doctors do. Follow the gentle "water way" to relief. Take the tasteless, non-habit-forming dose—1/5 Pluto with 4/5 glass hot water. In one hour or less you'll get relief. And what a remarkable difference it makes!

Remember, too, Pluto Water is simply a saline laxative mineral water bottled at famous French Lick Springs, Indiana. All drug stores have it. Two sizes—25c and 50c. Two hundred million bottles of Pluto have already been used—millions more each year. One of the most economical, most effective laxatives you can buy! Get some today.

"I don't think we could have found a nicer apartment!"

MRS. E. ANTOLIN RAVENTOS,
2000 LINCOLN PARK WEST

"My husband is a specialist in interior decorating and a designer of furniture. He often has pieces made up and tries them out in our apartment before they are put on sale. Naturally we pride ourselves on having a nice apartment.

"We wanted an apartment in the modern trend. Something thoroughly up to date which would be an adequate setting for our furniture. You have no idea how hard it is nowadays to find an apartment of that kind.

Look in Tribune Want Ads

"After looking around for several Sundays we almost gave it up as a hopeless job—until we thought of looking in the Tribune want ads.

"We looked through the Sunday issue and made up a list of the apartments which we thought might be desirable. We made a few calls and finally came to this apartment which we recognized at once as being exactly what we wanted. It had five large, sunny rooms and two baths. It was thoroughly modern and well kept up.

"We told Miss Magnuson of the renting department of Peter F. Reynolds, 2000 Lincoln Park West, agents for the building, that we would take the apartment. She made out a lease. We signed it.

Happy In Their New Home

"I don't think we could have found a nicer apartment. I am sure that there is no better means of getting the kind of an apartment you want than through the Tribune want ads."

There has been practically no building in Chicago and suburbs since 1930, but the population has gone right on growing. As a result, there is a shortage of apartments. If you delay your search for an apartment, you may be disappointed.

Attractive apartments in all price ranges and in practically every neighborhood are to be found in the Tribune. Rental agents list their best values in the Tribune, because it reaches their best prospects.

Start reading Tribune want ads today. Make up a list of apartments which interest you. Then visit them. This method is your best assurance that you can find quickly the kind of an apartment you want, at the price you want to pay.

ALWAYS GETS SATISFACTORY RESULTS WITH TRIBUNE WANT ADS

"We have used the Chicago Tribune regularly for the past several years in advertising our apartments in all of our various buildings located in the Lincoln Park district and have always received most satisfactory results, which justifies a continuance of this policy.

"We are happy to report that our new sixteen story fireproof residential building known as 2000 Lincoln Park West, containing 211 apartments, is 97% rented, having only six vacancies at this time. We attribute a good percentage of this occupancy to the credit of the Chicago Tribune."

CHAMPION
EXTRA-RANGE SPARK PLUGS

Nuvolari, in his sensational Champion-equipped twin-engined Alfa-Romeo, recently set a new world's record of 199.73 m.p.h. for the flying mile.

If Maximum Performance is Important, Spark Plugs are Vitally Important and new Champions every 10,000 miles will give that maximum performance. When all the evidence of better performance stacks up on the side of one spark plug, that spark plug must make every engine perform better. We feel that the use of Champion Spark Plugs by practically every victorious racing champion, for the last twelve years, nails that point down pretty firmly and makes the prevailing preference for Champions obvious and logical.

125,000 PEOPLE IN THE CHICAGO AREA ARE LIVING BETTER BECAUSE OF GAS HEAT

Gas heat ends all this drudgery, banishes dirt and grime. It provides time for rest and pleasures. And all it costs is a few cents more a day.

CROWSFEET. Lined faces. Rough, red hands. These are the rewards for women who tend furnace, who shovel coal and haul ashes, who trudge up and down stairs a dozen times a day to keep fires burning. But in the homes that are happily heated with gas there is none of this. Gas heat ends the kind of work that makes women look old.

Carefree living with gas heat

Tending furnace, firing up is not a woman's job. And no one knows it better than the women who have to do it. That's why thousands of homes are installing gas heat. With gas heat there is no dirt, no endless cleaning. No dust to make a mess of the house. No grime to cover curtains and drapes. And easiest of all, gas heat is automatic. Just set a thermostat, conveniently placed in the house, and the temperature is always maintained where you want it night and day.

No shoveling to keep fires burning. No early morning rising to warm the house. No constant fear that fires will die when you're away. With gas heat, there's no worry, no work. Just even, pleasant heat exactly as you want it. For this luxury of carefree living, gas heat costs only a few cents more a day.

Get the facts now

Investigate gas heat now. Get the facts on how little it will cost you to enjoy the benefits that only gas heat can bring. Your nearest Gas Company office will provide you with all the details. And you may have a free, accurate estimate of cost for the asking. Call today and enjoy the countless advantages of gas heat all through the Winter.

The name of this Song is: ____________________

DO YOU remember the famous old songs that are sung everywhere? Can you solve a picture riddle? Then you can try for one of the big cash prizes offered by the Chicago Tribune to its readers! $1,000, $500, $250—and 427 other big cash prizes—will be paid for best answers. Simply name the old-time songs pictured each day in the Chicago Daily Tribune.

If you have not yet started, you can BEGIN NOW with the first six Riddles reprinted here from last week's Daily Tribune. Each of these riddles represents the name of an old-time song. Simply solve each riddle and write the title of the song below the picture. Then continue with Riddle No. 7 in tomorrow's Chicago Daily Tribune.

Tune in W-G-N tonight for a dramatization of Riddle No. 7. Hear the mysterious fiddle play the songs that live in your memory. These clues will help you.

This offer is open to every man, woman, boy and girl. It is FREE!

FOLLOW THE RULES BELOW:

1. Each weekday for 42 consecutive days, the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Fiddle Riddle representing the name of an old-time song. The public is invited to cut out these riddles and name the songs they represent. The songs will be dramatized over W-G-N each evening preceding publication of the Riddle in the Tribune.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly named, complete sets of Fiddle Riddles in accordance with these rules. (See Prize List.)

3. This offer is open to everyone, everywhere—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. It does not matter where you live. No work to do, no subscriptions to solicit, nothing to pay.

4. Just prove your skill. Accuracy will count. Fiddle Riddles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Hold all riddles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Fiddle Riddles," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. With your entry send a letter of 50 words or less, giving your name and address and telling which one of the 42 songs in this series is your favorite—the one you like best—and why. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Fiddle Riddle No. 42 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by first class mail—postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may send in as many sets of Fiddle Riddles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

6. You need not purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the riddles from the originals and use the copies you have made. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

LITHUANIA TOLD HITLER IS READY TO SEIZE MEMEL

German Leader Warns Open Break Is Near.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TILSIT, East Prussia, Sept. 21.—Unless the principal signatory powers—Great Britain, France, and Italy—compel the Lithuanian government to conduct the Memelland elections next Sunday in accordance with the Memel statutes, the Memel [Klaipeda] government will not recognize the elections and will continue to appeal to the league of nations for justice.

This statement was made today by Richard Meyer, ousted head of the Memel school board, who is living in exile in East Prussia and who represents Memel's interests abroad.

Meyer, who recently submitted Memelland's protest to Geneva, also will visit Rome, Paris, and London in an effort to persuade those signatory powers to take a stronger action against Lithuania. He declared war is near in northeastern Europe unless Lithuania changes her policy of attempting a complete annexation of the one time German district.

Says Russia Aids Lithuania.

"Thousands of East Prussian families have close relatives residing in Memel and their indignation against Lithuania is steadily increasing here," he reported. "The situation is already so strained that very little is needed for a complete open break and Lithuania's provocative attitude, which has the open support of Moscow, is headed toward war.

"Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's declaration at Nuremberg has given Memel people assurance that their plight has not been forgotten by the German government and we are confidently waiting for aid from Germany. The situation of Memel people becomes more intolerable every month. Unless the Lithuanian government cancels its laws concerning the way the new elections will be held and reinstates the directorate of 1932 giving us back some autonomy guaranteed us by the statutes, I am afraid to predict what will happen in that country which, since its inception, has been steadfastly opposed to the realization of a secure peace in northeastern Europe.

(London dispatches yesterday said that Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Germany, had been instructed to inform the German government that Lithuania had made assurances next Sunday's elections will be conducted in a proper manner. Memel was set up as a separate territory by the treaty of Versailles and later was incorporated as an autonomous territory in Lithuania.)

"Today the world is discussing the Italian government's ambition to bring civilization to the Ethiopians and place them under a cultural form of government. Nevertheless, the world has forgotten that 124,000 Germans residing in the Memel territory, whose culture is many generations ahead of that of the Lithuanians, were victims of a putsch in 1923 by Kaunas [Lithuanian capital]. The Lithuanian government employed mass arrests and faked trials and terror in an attempt to cow the population.

German Leader Escapes.

"Behind the actions of the Kaunas government, we discern the intrigues of Moscow, which has consistently supported Lithuania.

"Lithuania was the direct cause of the failure of the eastern security pact upon which Moscow has placed such importance. Neither Germany nor Poland will consider signing this pact as long as it guarantees Lithuania a right to continue her present policies. We claim Lithuania is Moscow's agent provocateur in northeastern Europe and that bolshevism and Lithuania are conspiring against European peace."

Two years ago, when Meyer was residing in Memel, he denounced the steps Lithuania had taken to undermine Memel's autonomy. After the publication of this interview he was arrested and held in prison for several weeks. After being arrested a second time, Meyer, who is one of the chief defenders of the right of Memel inhabitants, escaped abroad.

East Prussian officials have declared that Germany's new army already has prepared a plan to occupy Memel and reannex it to Germany.

LEGIONNAIRES DEPART FOR CONVENTION

Another Train Today

Chicago legionnaires began advancing yesterday on the American Legion convention at St. Louis. A special train left the Dearborn Street station and another will leave this morning at 11 o'clock. Heading yesterdays' contingent were Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan and Dr. Hugh Scott, director of the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. Past commanders, their friends, and various drum and bugle corps will fill today's train. Mayor Kelly plans to depart tonight for St. Louis to carry Chicago's invitation to hold the 1938 convention here.

POLISH LEADERS SEE GOERING ON SECRET MISSION

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—Strict secrecy veiled the Berlin visit today of high ranking Polish officers. Shortly after their arrival they were whisked off to the hunting lodge of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, at Schorfheide, near Berlin.

The secrecy convinced diplomatic circles of the special political importance of the meeting and revived talk of a closer Polish-German alliance based on the opposition of both countries to Lithuania and Russia. The German campaign against Lithuania continues with great vigor in view of next Sunday's elections in Memel.

Gen. Goering, who is "master hunter of the hunting guild of Germany," was a guest of the Polish government at a hunt last spring and has maintained close relations with Polish statesmen ever since. His associates declare he has invited the Polish officers to hunt on his estate. They call the visit one of international amenity.

BELGRANO OPENS FIGHT ON BONUS WITH INFLATION

Convention Report Hits House "Propaganda."

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 21.—(AP)—National Commander Frank N. Belgrano Jr. of the American Legion tonight threw the weight of his office against payment of the bonus through inflation of the currency.

In a report prepared for presentation at the annual convention Monday, the commander charged that a "nation-wide campaign of propaganda," directed by a group in the house of representatives, "had a most telling effect in the defeat" of the Legion supported Vinson bill, which did not specify a method of financing the bonus.

Patman Bill Is Target.

The Patman bill, which provided the currency expansion to pay the adjusted compensation certificates, passed congress, met President Roosevelt's veto, and could not muster sufficient overriding votes in the senate.

"It is my considered opinion," Commander Belgrano said in his report, "that had the issue of payment of the adjusted service certificates been presented to and considered by congress on its own merits, any bill would have had a fair chance of passage.

"But when loaded down with a provision for expansion or inflation of the currency, a question more controversial than that of the payment of the certificates, it was doomed from the very beginning."

Cites "Sharp Criticism."

Introduction of the Vinson bill, he said, brought "sharp and biting criticism and denunciation from a group in the house of representatives who sponsored a bill calling for the payment of the certificates through a system of expansion or inflation of the currency.

"A nation-wide campaign of propaganda was immediately entered into by this group, attacking the Legion and directing personal assault upon the national commander and the national legislative committee.

"Through the long period when the issue was before the congress the attacks continued through every channel of propaganda and publicity. I am not concerned and did not concern myself about the personal malignment, but I am vitally concerned about its effect on the pending legislation and am convinced that the campaign had a most telling effect in the defeat of the veterans' cause."

Commander Belgrano said that the Legion "may look forward with confidence" to the enactment by congress of the Legion's plan of conscripting "capital, industry, labor and all the national resources on the same plane with manpower if called upon to serve in another war."

He recalled the McSwain bill, which would put the plan into effect, passed the house with only fifteen dissenting votes, but the senate adjourned before it was able to take action on the bill.

GERMANS OF CITY HONOR OLD FLAG ABOVE SWASTIKA

The Nazi swastika, which Hitler made the national flag of Germany last week, will have no preëminence over the black-white-red of the republic at tonight's festival of the German Day association in the Chicago Stadium, 1800 Madison street.

On the contrary, Gustav Brand, general chairman, announced that the old flag, the "flag of our fatherland," will have a slight edge on the new one, for, coupled with small American flags, it is arranged in clusters all over the stadium.

"First and foremost, we are Americans," Mr. Brand explained yesterday, "and the American flag comes first—always. But we are sentimental, and we cannot get away from the flag of our fatherland."

The pageant will be a colorful historical portrayal, enacted by 2,000 persons, beginning with medieval Europe and continuing to the present, showing German representation in all the American wars.

Review of the Week: Chicago: The Nation: The World

Foreign

War.

Last June Premier Mussolini told Anthony Eden, British peace minister, that Britain no longer controled the Mediterranean sea. Last week the British showed Mussolini they are still the policemen of the seas. British warships poured into the Gibraltar harbor [See map, next page] and spread over the Mediterranean.

Mussolini's answer was to divide the Italian fleet into two sections. He also menaced the British with large numbers of troops in Libya, on the border of Egypt. While thousands of Italian troops sailed for Africa the cabinet voted a huge war loan.

During the week a special five-nation committee of the league of nations [England, France, Spain, Poland, and Turkey] suggested a new peace plan to Italy and Ethiopia. On Friday it was rumored that Italy might accept the plan, but yesterday Mussolini said "No," but is reported to have left the way open to further negotiations.

In Ethiopia Emperor Haile Selassie began storing food while his troops howled for war. Selassie said that no agreement that gives Italy control over Ethiopian independence will be accepted. Here is the week's news, summarized:

The committee of five nations worked on its peace plan all day Sunday. Six ships, with 14,000 troops aboard, sailed from Italy to Africa. It was a one day record. In Addis Ababa 2,000 troops, led by veterans of the Adowa massacre, begged for arms and cried, "We want war!"

Reports from London on Monday said that 145 of Britain's 150 first line ships were in the Mediterranean or on the way. The home fleet at Portland was down to a skeleton. War risk clauses in shipping insurance policies were canceled. Booms were placed across the harbor at Gibraltar. Mussolini divided the Italian warships into an Adriatic and a Mediterranean fleet. Fifteen hundred more troops sailed for Africa. In Addis Ababa Selassie was advised to call out his troops. The peacemakers quarreled at Geneva. In the league of nations assembly Stasys Lozoraitis, Lithuanian foreign minister, scolded Hitler for his speech on Memel at Nuremberg. [See Memel.] Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, objected to Commissar Maxim Litvinov's speech of the previous Saturday saying Russia was worried about treaties between Germany and Poland. When Litvinov tried to reply the Polish delegation walked out.

Most of the English home fleet arrived at Gibraltar Tuesday. English newspapers said nothing. In southern England 50,000 British troops began their annual war games. Britain notified Greece that British warships would arrive in Greece some time within the next month. Mussolini called for automobile drivers and mechanics of the class of 1910 to report for duty as 3,400 more troops sailed for Africa. Selassie served a raw meat banquet to 8,000 troops in Addis Ababa. India was told to be ready for war. The league committee finished its plan. The plan said that Ethiopia is to be placed under the control of the league. European advisers are to be appointed to reform Ethiopian finances, army, and police. It gives Selassie the right to reject advisers recommended by the league. He may also refuse to accept the advice of those appointed by the league. The plan was not an action of the league but a suggestion by the committee.

The next day the plan was officially adopted by the committee. Then it was given to the Italian and Ethiopian representatives to send home.

The English admiralty called off the fall maneuvers of the home fleet. Most of it was in the Mediterranean. Lord Ponsonby, resigned as Labor party leader in the house of lords. He said that he is opposed to war for peace. Sir Stafford Cripps, Socialist leader, resigned from the national executive committee of the Labor party for the same reason. Most of the younger members of the Labor party want Britain to stop Italy, with war if necessary. The Italian cabinet voted a war loan. New and higher taxes were ordered. Reinforcements were sent to Libya, where 30,000 troops, under Gen. Italo Balbo, were reported ready to attack the Egyptians under King Fuad, if war comes. Selassie ordered that food and clothing be stored in case war creates a famine.

Thursday the league was waiting for replies from Mussolini and Selassie. From London came the report of an interview with Mussolini. Mussolini was reported to have said that the Italian troops were "not on an excursion to Africa." London reports also told of the bribing of French newspapers by the Italians to gain sympathy in France for Italy.

Friday the league was still guessing. Rumors of all sorts were reported. Most of them said that Mussolini would weaken before the British show of strength. Selassie said that the plan would be accepted by Ethiopia if the Italians were not given any special place in Ethiopia.

Yesterday the Italian cabinet met and said the plan did not provide for Italy's interests in Ethiopia and was not acceptable. [See Main News Section for latest details.]

Germany.

The convention of the National Socialist [Nazi] party closed Monday in Nuremberg, Germany. On Sunday Adolf Hitler met with his hand picked reichstag [legislature]. Hitler, in a 12 minute speech, called for new laws and spoke against communists and Lithuania. [See Memel.] Three new laws were passed. The first makes the Nazi emblem, the swastika [red background, white circular center, black swastika on white], the official national and merchant flag of Germany. In his speech Hitler referred to the comment of Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky in New York. Brodsky, in releasing five men accused of tearing the swastika from the bow of the liner Bremen last July 26, had called the swastika "a flag of piracy." Hitler said this was a sign that Jewish officials in other countries disliked Germany. The second law forbids Jews to marry Germans. It also provides penalties for sexual relationships between Jews and Germans. The third law deals with citizenship. Under the law Jews may be subjects but not citizens of Germany.

On the last day of the convention Hitler saw 16,000 soldiers. They drilled for the dictator to show him how efficient the German army is. In the evening Hitler told the convention that the German people must be blindly obedient to the Nazi party.

Obeying the first new law, three German liners in New York harbor raised the new national flag Tuesday. One of them was the Bremen. Strong details of New York police guarded the ships to stop any one from again tearing down the swastika. There were no disturbances.

The next day Bernhard Rust, German minister of education, said that every German school boy and girl must take part in the Hitler youth activity and the study of Naziism one day a week.

Last March Berthold Jacob was kidnaped from Switzerland and taken to Germany by the Nazis. The Germans had called him a traitor for writing about the secret rearming in Germany. On Thursday Jacob was released and allowed to return to Switzerland.

Foreign Notes.

Lord Alfred Douglas was known as Oscar Wilde's most intimate friend. He was also Wilde's biographer. Last Wednesday Douglas was awarded $2,000 in London. F. B. G. Bowin had treated Douglas' right eye for cataract. Douglas had glaucoma. The treatment caused him to lose the sight of one eye and damaged the other. Bowin was ordered to pay the $2,000.

George Martin Wunderlich wants to marry the stepdaughter of former Kaiser Wilhelm. Her mother, Princess Hermine, gave her consent last year. This year Hermine ordered the engagement broken. Wunderlich is still trying to win the girl. He arrived in London Tuesday to look for a job so he can support Princess Caroline. Wunderlich was Hermine's secretary until he decided to marry her daughter.

Nelson Rounsevell, editor and publisher of the Panama American of Panama City, charged that Fort Clayton was a suicide post. He published his charges last July. On Wednesday he was acquitted of charges of criminal libel brought by Maj. Gen. Harold B. Fiske, commanding the Panama Canal department, and Col. James V. Heidt, commander of Fort Clayton. Rounsevell had accused the two officers of being responsible for conditions at the fort which guards the Pacific end of the Panama canal. Friday the two officers were relieved of their posts by the war department.

Two spies were convicted and sentenced to prison in France Wednesday. At Marseilles Elsa Bruck, tall German blonde, was sent to prison for two and a half years when she confessed being a German spy. In Toulon Paul Rolland, young naval aviator, was sent to prison for two years by a naval court for trying to be a spy. He was also dismissed from the French navy.

In the Japanese navy war games nine men have been killed, it was announced last Monday. Eight of the dead were burned in a turret fire that injured 32 sailors. One aviator was killed when his fighting plane fell during a night flight.

The Russian army, both officers and men, is to be taught the English language. The soldiers will use what is known as the "basic English" system. The system's inventor, a Cambridge professor, claims that any thought can be expressed with a vocabulary of 850 words.

Washington

AAA.

During prohibition many citizens went to prison for possessing liquor. But people still drank. Prohibition was repealed. Today, under the New Deal, citizens may possibly be sent to prison for growing and selling potatoes.

Under the agricultural adjustment act, administered by the Agricultural Adjustment administration, the government tells several million farmers how many potatoes they may grow and sell. Those who grow and sell more than their allotment may be taxed 45 cents on each excess bushel, or they may be fined as high as $1,000 or sent to prison for a year.

Last week the revolt began. At Rochester, N. Y., Monday, James W. Wadsworth, Republican congressman and former senator, and his cousin, Porter R. Chandler, advertised "strictly illegal" potatoes for sale. The act limits their potato crop to five bushels. They are ready to sell six or more bushels. Mr. Chandler said he was willing to go to jail to test the law in the United States Supreme court.

On Tuesday the Wadsworth-Chandler advertisment was answered by Norman C. Norman, a New York jeweler. He informed Chandler that he would buy the six bushels and risk the penalties to test the law.

However, the test may never come. On Wednesday Controler General J. R. McCarl hinted he would not grant any more funds to the AAA. "Without funds we cannot enforce potato control," admitted Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. Public hearings will be held Oct. 3 on the future of potatoes.

The potato crisis arose over the trend of farmers to grow potatoes in the place of cotton, wheat, corn, and tobacco, which they had curtailed. An example: In 1933 North Carolina grew 7,315,000 bushels of potatoes and in 1934 10,672,000 bushels. Today the general increase is even larger.

Generally, however, crop and live stock production has been cut down by the agricultural adjustment act. This has boosted prices. It also has inspired cattle rustling and crop thievery.

Farmers near Chicago have suffered from thieves recently. Early last week more than 1,000 farmers met at Joliet, Ill., and agreed to form vigilante committees to patrol the highways at night. On Friday Kendall county farmers formally completed the organization of their group, and the Pure Milk association gave them $1,000 toward the work. The farmers were urged to shoot thieves on sight. Early Wednesday Steve Medvedik, a farmer of Franklin Park, Ill., shot and killed Herbert Johnston, 38, an ex-policeman. Medvedik accused Johnston of stealing corn from his farm.

At Des Moines, Ia., Thursday, the Iowa Farmers' union heard resolutions condemning the agricultural adjustment act as well as the rest of the New Deal. The resolutions asked that Secretary Wallace be dismissed, and that the program of hunger be halted. They charged that the agricultural adjustment act had increased poverty among the farmers. The law was referred to as infamous, vicious, and worthless. Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia spoke. He attacked the agricultural adjustment act, the President, and the New Deal.

The Brookings institution, in a report given out at Washington on Sunday, declared that the agricultural adjustment act has not done much good. Charles Quinn, secretary-treasurer of the National Grain and Feed Dealers' association, speaking in St. Louis on Thursday, said he hoped the Supreme court would kill the agricultural adjustment act. C. D. Sturtevant of Chicago called the act an economic tragedy. Many courts already have ruled against the law. One Circuit Court of Appeals virtually has laid it low. At Madison, Wis., Thursday, Federal Judge Patrick Stone stopped the Agricultural Adjustment administration from collecting processing taxes from the New Richmond Roller mills. In New York, on Friday, J. B. Thomas, organizer of the Foreign Exchange Trade institute, showed 53 different taxes on a loaf of bread.

President.

Public works, the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, and a west coast journey chiefly took President Roosevelt's time at Hyde Park, N. Y., last week. On Sunday he learned latest developments on the war situation from Secretary of State Cordell Hull. On Monday he heard more about it from Norman H. Davis, an American agent. Norman told him war in Europe is probable. [See War; also Neutrality.]

On Tuesday the President approved promotions for 280 foreign service officers. Later he received Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, and Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York City. They talked about the 4 billion dollar public works program. Afterward Gov. Lehman hinted that there was little hope of getting the program under full swing by Nov. 1. [See Works.]

On Wednesday the President disclosed he would not begin his trip to California until late this week. He told reporters on Friday that the trip was for pleasure and not politics. He suggested he would make several brief speeches en route.

On Thursday the President went over the Italo-Ethiopian situation again, this time with Jesse I. Straus, American ambassador to France, and others. It was said that war, if it breaks out, would interfere with his plans for an ocean cruise. On Friday he accepted the resignation of Joseph P. Kennedy, effective tomorrow, as chairman of the securities and exchange commission.

Coal.

The District of Columbia Supreme court on Monday refused to grant an injunction to the Carter Coal company against the Guffey coal control law. The court pointed out that the law was not yet in effect, and that the request for an injunction was premature. The court therefore did not pass on the legality of the act. However, at Louisville, Ky., on Thursday a group of coal companies won the right to test the constitutionality of the act in federal court there on next Friday even though there is a question of prematureness.

On Friday the President appointed members to the national soft coal commission, under the Guffey act. He also appointed members to the soft coal labor board. George E. Acret, Charles S. Hosford Jr., Walter H. Mahoney, C. E. Smith, and Percy Tetlow were named on the commission. On the same day a national strike of 400,000 soft coal miners was threatened when producers and labor leaders reported disagreement on new working contracts.

Works.

Uncertainty still existed last week as to whether 3,500,000 men now on relief would be placed on public works jobs under the 4 billion dollar program by Nov. 1. About two-thirds of them are to be put on temporary jobs. So far about 343,000 are working; only 95,000 were put on in the last two weeks. On Monday Harry L. Hopkins, head of the Works Progress administration [WPA], insisted 3,500,000 men would be on jobs by Nov. 1. The next day, following a talk with the President, he admitted that not much might be done before Jan. 1. Some progress has been made, of course. On Tuesday Vermont had enough WPA or Public Works administration [PWA] jobs to be taken off direct relief, joining Alabama and Wyoming in this regard. In Chicago, Tuesday, 780 men were taken off direct relief and put on street repairing; 1,200 more were put on the same work Wednesday and Thursday. The street repairing is made possible by an outright gift of $32,543,000 in federal funds.

Neutrality.

Secretary of State Hull on Thursday called a meeting of the national munitions control board for Tuesday. The board was provided for by the recent neutrality bill. Under the bill all makers of munitions must register with the state department and get licenses to export. Mr. Hull is keeping a close eye on the Italo-Ethiopian situation. He confers often with the President at Hyde Park. All his statements are first approved by the President. On Friday Italian Ambassador Augusto Rosso talked with Undersecretary of State William Phillips. He told reporters later that he had given Phillips the latest Italian views on the war situation. [See War.]

Notes.

The United States Chamber of Commerce announced on Friday that it would ask a vote from 750,000 business men on their feelings toward the New Deal.

The national lawyers' committee of the American Liberty league on Wednesday held unanimously that the Wagner-Connery labor relations act was unconstitutional. The committee is made up of fifty-eight prominent lawyers. Some time ago Donald Richberg, then a high New Dealer, said he would stake his reputation on the legality of the act.

In a formal ruling on Thursday, Controler General J. R. McCarl, watchdog of federal funds, said that the government could not pay out any funds to build a furniture factory at Reedsville, W. Va. The New Deal is experimenting with subsistence homesteads there. The experiment is described as the pet of the President's wife.

The federal board of tax appeals on Thursday heard income tax appeals from the estate of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Krenn & Dato, Inc. The McCormick estate is appealing a $50,558 tax assessment, and Krenn & Dato a $37,019 assessment. Edwin A. Krenn and Edward A. Dato were business associates of Mrs. McCormick.

The City

Noise.

Big cities have become more conscious of man-made noise. Almost all the big European cities have strict laws against automobile horns. New York started a campaign this year. Illinois passed a law against indiscriminate horn blowing. Week before last Mayor Kelly said the elevated railway in the loop is a nerve-racker. He suggested that the loop "L" be torn down and passengers transfer to loop bound street cars and buses at more remote points. [See Transfers.] The American Medical association journal pointed out that nature has provided no defense reaction in the ear against clamor.

Monday, at 1 a. m., the explosions which have mystified and alarmed north siders this summer rose to battle field proportions. Residents complained. Police told them it was a "church celebration with fireworks." The Deputazione Lauretano lay society was observing the feast of the nativity of the blessed virgin. Catholic priests explained that use of fireworks on saints' days is a tradition brought from Italy, but noise was not a part of the original methods. They accounted for the day to day explosions. Every town in the old country has its own big feast day for its patron saint. Also, said one priest, there is rivalry to see who can "put on the biggest blowout." Political indulgence prevents police control. The Sunday affair cost about $3,000 and was paid for by contributions.

Schools.

Unless the tenants on 12 pieces of school property in the loop pay $2,315,000 in overdue rent within 60 days their 99 year leases will be canceled. That was the decision of the board of education Wednesday. The leases drawn up in 1880 provide that the annual rent be 6 per cent of an appraised valuation made every 10 years. Renters ignored appraisals of 1925 and 1935 in favor of the 1915 valuation. With a 25 per cent penalty added most of the amounts now owed are more than the value of buildings.

Transfers.

Mayor Kelly's efforts to make Chicago's elevated, street car, and bus lines coöperate with each other leaned toward unified ownership last week. But the first definite step will be taken today, when transfers between surface cars and the "L" will be permitted at 52 designated stations. A 10 cent fare will permit one "L" ride with a street car ride at either or both ends. Left out of the new system, the bus company is fighting to be included. Wednesday, surface, elevated, and bus officials met with a city council committee and agreed to begin work on a new traction ordinance on Sept. 30. Both unified operation and unified ownership were discussed at the meeting. It took a long time for city and company officials to get together on ordinance plans. Now they fear that bondholders in the companies will stop operation of a new law by suing, as they did after the discarded 1930 ordinance was adopted. Mayor Kelly probably will not push any local ordinance until the home rule utility bill is submitted to popular vote next April. It permits the city to control its transportation systems.

Highways.

Mayor Kelly, his city engineers, and other persons interested went up in a dirigible Tuesday and had a look at Chicago's scuttling trafic. They wanted to see where elevated highways would do the most good. The $13,750,000 project now awaits the approval of the WPA in Washington. The little blimp made two flights over the city at an altitude of 1,000 feet. Massacre streets, where the accident toll is highest, were pointed out. Expensive widening had not cut down their death records. The need of short cut speedways in the directions of the North Western railroad and Chicago Rapid Transit "L" line was cited.

Income.

The collector of internal revenue announced Wednesday that income taxes paid in the Chicago district during the three months ending Sept. 15 totaled $16,455,584. Collections for the same period in 1934 were $11,426,004. So far this year $76,232,797 has been taken in. Last year it was $54,693,768.

Anzelevitz.

Ben Bernie's real name is Benjamin Anzelevitz. That became generally known on Wednesday when the "Ol' Maestro" of radio orchestra renown won a divorce from his wife, Rose, in a secret hearing in Superior court. Mrs. Anzelevitz, who is in New York, did not contest his charges of desertion in 1931. She was given custody of their 16 year old son, Jason, and an unrevealed settlement. Bernie, who is 43, said he might soon marry Dorothy Wesley, a swimmer now at Miami Beach, Fla. Bernie is one of a large Jewish family from New York. He got his start after the war playing a fiddle with Phil Baker, now a radio comedian, and soon organized his own orchestra.

Booze.

There were two versions of how one of Chicago's largest illegal stills was discovered Thursday on the tenth floor of a building at 610 Van Buren street: James T. Igoe, owner of the building and former congressman, said that he returned from a vacation and went up to see about getting a lease from two men who made a rental deposit a month ago. Igoe said he found no one and had to break in. There he found a 25,000 gallon still. Then Igoe said he called Police Captain Patrick Collins, who sent three policemen. Friday Capt. Collins said Igoe never called his station. Collins said that he and a squad raided Igoe's building on their own information. He said Igoe ran out of the building and asked, "What the hell are you doing here?"

Strange

Officials of Tallahassee, Fla., wanting to save bird life, two weeks ago offered a reward of 25 cents for each dead cat. The first week's results showed only $1.75 paid out.

Joe Studney, 21 years old, of Cleveland, loved Mrs. Helen Bonewicz. She didn't love him. He threw acid on her face. "I wanted to disfigure her so nobody else would want her," Studney explained to police. "Then I could marry her, no matter what she looked like."

A relief agent and a deputy city marshal arrived at the home of Edward Geisinhainer, 42 years old, in New York City at the same moment. The agent called to see if Geisinhainer needed help. The deputy called to put Geisinhainer out of his home for nonpayment of rent. Both were too late. Geisinhainer was dead, hanging in the kitchen.

Trafic came to a dead stop at 6th and Grand avenues in Des Moines, Ia., at 9:30 a. m. Monday when a four foot snake calmly wiggled across the pavement. No one tried to kill or capture the reptile.

Roman Bomiak will go to trial in Winnipeg next Tuesday on a charge of cruelty to his wife. Police say he bit her nose off. The nose has been preserved in alcohol for exhibition at the trial.

Twelve relatives journeyed from West Virginia to Lizton, Ind., to attend Charles Brumfield's funeral. They found him alive and working on his garage. They don't know who started the false report of his death.

Mr. and Mrs. Estoy Cody walked 45 miles from their mountain homes to Erwin, Tenn., on Tuesday to get married. They walked back the same day.

The inventory of R. E. Coburn's estate was filed at Des Moines, Ia., Wednesday. It listed 1 billion 630 thousand marks' worth of German bonds, and 390,000 shares of various gold, copper mine and oil stocks. The total value was $450.

News-Names

Alice White, motion picture actress, gave $2,000 on Tuesday to Bob Warner, a Los Angeles interior decorator. This was in settlement of a damage suit for $30,000 that he had filed against her for injuries he incurred when hit by Miss White's automobile.

The prince of Wales stopped off in Vienna, Austria, on Tuesday to let Prof. Heinrich Neumann look him over. The prince has been suffering from a slight infection of the ear.

If Charles Evans Hughes had defeated President Wilson in November, 1916, Wilson would have resigned at once to allow Hughes to take office. Wilson would have made this possible by naming Hughes to his cabinet and then resigning with his next in command, Vice President Marshall. This well known story is confirmed in a book called "The War Memoirs of Robert Lansing," published Wednesday. Its author was secretary of state under Wilson.

Homer S. Cummings, United States attorney general, now in Europe to study crime conditions, nearly lost two boxes of American cigars to a French customs agent on Monday. The agent threatened to seize the cigars, ignoring Cummings' special passport, which entitled him to rush his baggage through without inspection. The agent wouldn't look at it. Finally one of his superiors intervened. On Wednesday and Thursday, in Brussels, Cummings studied crime.

A motion picture entitled "Annie Oakley" is now being made with Barbara Stanwyck in the title rôle. It relates the life of Annie Oakley, the Ohio backwoods girl, who became one of the world's famous rifle shots. She could split a playing card held with its thin edge toward her; could puncture a card sailed into the air thirteen times before it hit the ground. Once she fired nine hours at little balls thrown into the air and hit 4,772 out of 5,000. Free tickets are punched. Waggish press agents compared the punch holes to bullet holes. Hence passes became Annie Oakleys.

Politics

The constitution of the United States, adopted 148 years ago last Tuesday, affects every person in the country. Neither Presidents nor congress may violate it.

Reports from every part of the country seem to show that the people do not want the constitution changed. On Tuesday, for instance, the people of Pennsylvania voted in a state, county, and city primary. The big issue was Gov. George H. Earle's proposal to call a constitutional convention to change the state charter, now 61 years old. Republicans asserted that this would open the door to New Deal dictatorship. The plan was beaten by more than 150,000 votes.

New York, New Jersey, and New Mexico also held primary elections Tuesday. New Mexico voted down three proposed changes in the state constitution. New Jersey elected a 1936 assembly pledged to repeal the state sales tax, put through because of Democratic demands that it was needed for relief. New York elected regular party candidates, showing no particular trend.

Tuesday was celebrated throughout the nation as Constitution day. Speakers called upon the people to uphold the constitution and to fight the New Deal dictatorship. The biggest celebration was held in Chicago. The principal speakers were Col. R. R. McCormick, chairman of the meeting and editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE; Frank Knox, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News; Julius H. Miner, general director of the meeting committee, and former Senator James A. Reed.

A number of other Constitution day speakers elsewhere in the country were: Former President Hoover, who said the New Deal is taking away human rights; Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who warned against loss of liberties; former Gov. Albert Ritchie, of Maryland, who warned against dictatorship; former Solicitor General Beck, who warned against allowing the constitution to become just a scrap of paper; Henry P. Fletcher Republican national committee chairman, who said New Deal practices are foreign to the constitution; Frank N. Belgrano Jr., national commander of the American Legion, who urged that the constitution be kept out of politics; Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, who defended the right to amend the constitution, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Sr., who said the country is in langer of losing its liberty.

The political situation in Louisiana took a sudden turn on Thursday. The organization of Senator Huey P. Long, slain two weeks ago, split. Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe announced he would run for governor in January. Wade O. Martin, chairman of the Louisiana public service commission, said he would run for United States senator. This shocked Long's chief lieutenant, Gov. O. K. Allen. Reports last week were that he wanted Long's office. But now all the Long organization men are announcing themselves as candidates.

The American Legion, which holds its national convention in St. Louis this week, last Monday persuaded Bainbridge Colby not to speak at the convention. He had been invited to make the principal speech. Colby, a former secretary of state, is anti-Roosevelt. Legion chiefs feared his presence might involve them in politics.

McAdoo

United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, 71 years old, and his 25 year old bride, the former Doris Cross, who were married near Washington last Saturday, arrived in Los Angeles on Tuesday. They journeyed by plane.

They stopped off a short time in Kansas City on Monday night. Reporters touched on the fact that the senator is much older than his bride. He replied he is as active as when he was 30. He likened the care of the human body to the care of an airplane motor, adding "Don't overtax the motor."

Senator McAdoo has led an active life. As a young lawyer in Knoxville, Tenn., he became interested in street cars. He became head of the car company there, but lost his fortune when he tried to install overhead trolleys. He went to New York. He thought trafic tunnels ought to be bored under the Hudson river. Experts said it couldn't be done. But McAdoo gave New York the first of four McAdoo tunnels in 1904.

Through his son, Francis, a student at Princeton, he met Woodrow Wilson, the university president. They became friends. When Wilson became President he made McAdoo secretary of the treasury. As such McAdoo handled billions of dollars. During the war he originated the idea of Liberty bonds, and war savings stamps. He resigned Nov. 22, 1918.

In 1920 he turned down a possible chance to run for President on the Democratic ticket. In 1924 he and Al Smith fought three weeks for the nomination. It went to John Davis. In 1932, he again fought Smith, and supported Roosevelt. In 1933 McAdoo was elected senator from California.

McAdoo was married twice before. His first wife, Sarah, died in 1912. His second, Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the President, divorced him last year. They were married in 1914.

Flying

Lieut. Charles Keith Palmer, 27 years old, United States naval flyer, was killed near San Diego, Cal., on Monday when he was unable to bring his plane out of a mile high dive. . . . The bodies of Lieut. Lincoln C. Denton and Mechanic C. Hart, naval reserve flyers, were found on Sunday in the wreckage of their plane on the top of Lamb's hill, Beacon, N. Y. They crashed the night before. . . . Pvt. George H. Brinkley, 22, was killed Thursday when he fell through the trap door of an army bomber at Point Reyes, Cal. The plane was up 3,500 feet.

Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky of Farmingdale, N. Y., flew an amphibian plane [one that can alight on water or land] 230.03 miles an hour at the Wayne county airport, Detroit, on Sunday. This bettered the old record of 191 miles an hour for this type of plane. De Seversky, a former Russian world war flyer, was accompanied on his record flight by Vodka, a cocker spaniel.

A hint of what future wars may hold was given by the Soviet Russian army air corps in war games at Kiev on Sunday. This was a mass landing of armed troops with parachutes. Thirty soldiers, carrying rifles or machine guns, jumped from each of a squadron of transport planes. At one time 358 jumpers were in the air.

Thirteen balloons from many countries shot skyward at Warsaw, Poland, on Sunday in the twenty-seventh Gordon Bennett international race. The German bag Deutschland landed first, on Monday, near Riga, Latvia, 375 miles from Warsaw. The American entry, the U. S. Navy, landed on Tuesday in the Elsk region of White Russia, 295 miles away. The bags from France, Switzerland, Germany, and Belgium also came down that day. The last balloons remaining up were the Polish and the Belgian. On Thursday the last one—and the winner—came down near the Caspian sea, 1,054 miles from Warsaw. It was the Polish balloon Polonia, piloted by Capt. Z. Burzynski.

Felix Waitkus, 28 years old, Chicago born former army flyer, took off in a monoplane at New York at dawn yesterday for a 4,500 mile flight to Lithuania, land of his forefathers. He was far out over the Atlantic last night. [See Main News Section for latest details.]

Mooney

Tom Mooney's fight against life sentence for the Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco in 1916 which killed ten persons was carried before a California Supreme court referee in San Francisco last week. Mooney was taken to the hearing. It was one of the few times he had been removed from San Quentin prison in nearly 20 years. He wept as he arrived in San Francisco.

"It's the shock—coming back here where it all happened," he said.

The hearing technically is on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. If the state Supreme court denies him his freedom on the writ, he may then appeal to the United States Supreme court. This court has hinted it might hear such an appeal.

The San Francisco hearing brought up a review of the entire case. On Tuesday Mooney's lawyers and the state's lawyers fought over legal details. On Wednesday and Thursday Mooney testified. Much of his testimony centered on large photographs. Both show Mooney and his wife watching the Preparedness day parade from the roof of the Eilers building.

The pictures are Mooney's alibi, for the Eilers building was 1¼ miles from the scene of the shooting. Equally as important, the pictures show a large street clock in the distance. One shows the time to be 1:58 p. m. and the other, 2:01 p. m. The bombing occurred at 2:06. Mooney's lawyers say the pictures are correct and that Mooney could not have been at the scene of the bombing.

Mooney's wife, Rena, testified on Friday that she knew that Martin Swanson, in 1916 a private detective, was plotting against her husband. During her testimony John Finerty, one of Mooney's lawyers, shouted Swanson had conspired against Mooney and Warren K. Billings. Billings was convicted with Mooney.

It was reported yesterday that Billings might fight Mooney in his freedom fight, since Mooney did not appear to be helping him.

Science

Fire Walker.

London scientists gathered last Tuesday and watched a barefoot young native of India, Kuda Brux, walk twice through 12 foot pits of live coals having a surface heat of 800 degrees Fahrenheit. Fire walking is a religious rite in the Hindu religion to prove faith. Brux said it was faith that protected him. The scientists examined his feet before and after the ordeal and could find nothing unusual about them except that their temperature was unchanged. Two medical students tried it and were severely burned. In Chicago on Wednesday James C. Sherman, world traveler, said that he had seen Indian fakirs do the trick. They protect their feet by rubbing alum on them, he said.

Celebrity.

Dr. Alexis Carrel of Rockefeller institute was a Legion of Honor winner as a major and a Nobel prize winner as a surgeon. But the public knew nothing about his many sided brilliancy until Col. Charles A. Lindbergh designed an artificial heart this summer to help Dr. Carrel keep detached flesh alive and growing. Dr. Carrel returned Tuesday to New York from a trip to Europe. Now a celebrity, the small, bald, 62 year old researcher discussed his new book, "Man: The Unknown." He said there ought to be an institution for remodeling men into supermen with more brains.

Defense

Navy.

It was learned on Sunday that, while the United States is hurrying the building of new ships, not much total gain is being made, since many of the navy's present ships are over age and some of them are almost unfit for service. Periods of service range from 12 years to more than 16. All except six of the navy's 211 destroyers are over age; so are 41 of its 84 submarines. This condition of the navy is charged to the 1921 Washington treaty. On Wednesday Admiral Wiliam H. Standley, chief of naval operations, complained that the navy has built practically no tankers, repair ships, ammunition ships, mine sweepers, and tenders since 1921. "We are woefully lacking in such craft," he said. Speaking in Atlantic City, N. J., the day before, Admiral Standley said that communists largely control the "peace at any price" groups. He said that for 13 years pacifists have blocked all efforts to increase the navy.

Army.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced on Wednesday that he would retire Dec. 15 as chief of staf of the army. He will become director of the national defense of the new commonwealth government of the Philippines.

Thirteen generals and 200 lesser officers have been holding theoretical warfare—on blue prints—in San Francisco. The paper exercises will end next Saturday. The problems have been on how to defeat enemies attacking the west and east coasts.

The army is still looking for thousands of recruits. The men have not been joining as had been expected. Officials say this is because cities and towns have quotas. Otherwise, large cities, restricted to hundreds, could supply thousands. There are still 150 vacancies to be filled by Chicago this month.

Romeo

On May 12 Juan Ignacio Pombo took off in his plane from Santander, Spain, and headed across the Atlantic. His destination was Mexico City and his object Señorita Maria Eleana Rivero. Newspapers at once called him the Romeo of the air. A Romeo [from Shakespeare's play Romeo and Juliet] is a lover. Pombo landed safely in Brazil, but troubles began. Going northward, he crashed. He had to get a new plane. At Costa Rica he was stricken with appendicitis. He was now four months behind schedule. A week ago Friday he reached Tejeria, Vera Cruz, Mexico. Mexico City is but two hours from there by plane. But he got lost in the clouds, and had to land at San Marcos. On Monday Pombo started out once more and reached Mexico City. At least 6,000 Mexican señoritas welcomed him, including Señorita Marie Eleena Rivero. She later went to Havana, Cuba, a bit cool to his love flight. He had tarried too long. She would sail to Spain. But on Thursday her iciness melted. She announced she probably would meet Don Pombo in Spain and perhaps marry him.

Crime

On June 12 two hoodlums beat Peter Javaras, owner of a florist shop at 1145 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park, because he would not join a florist drivers' union. Police arrested Fred Bohlman and Lawrence Monahan, union business agents. Javaras identified them. On Tuesday the men went to trial before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington. Javaras testified he is now a member of the union. He said he could not identify Monahan or Bohlman. They were freed. Judge Harrington said Javaras' story was "barefaced perjury." On Wednesday he sentenced Javaras to ten days in jail for contempt of court.

Early in 1933 Glenn Murray, 30 years old, and Florence Turner, 20, who posed as his wife, went to prison at Sioux Falls, S. D., for twenty and ten year terms respectively on charges of robbery. Recently Murray sent word to the girl that they must meet somewhere in the prison. Then he would kill her and end his own life. Last Sunday she agreed. On Tuesday they met on the prison chapel stage. Murray stabbed her to death with a knife he had made. But he did not try to kill himself. He will be tried for first degree murder.

Noel C. Scaffa, a famous New York private detective, must spend six months in jail for perjuring himself over the recovery of $185,000 worth of jewelry. The gems were stolen at Miami, Fla., last Jan. 26 from Mrs. Margaret Hawksworth Bell, a former dancer. She and Harry Content, 74 year old Wall street broker, who had rushed to her rescue, were bound hand and foot by the robbers. Mrs. Bell and Content were married Aug. 17. Detective Scaffa recovered the jewelry. The government suspected him of complicity and indicted him along with half a dozen alleged bandits. The worst they could find against him was perjury. For twenty years Scaffa has been famous as New York's ablest recoverer of stolen jewelry. It is estimated that he has got back $10,000,000 worth of loot.

The government doesn't give guns to its department of justice agents the minute they are sworn in. A period of training has been established. The new men are put through physical training courses. Then they are taught jiu jitsu—Japanese wrestling. Along with this they are taught snappy ways of disarming criminals and tricks of self-defense.

Philippines

Manuel Quezon was elected the first president of the new Philippine commonwealth last Tuesday. Four persons were killed in election riots. One of Quezon's opponents was Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the uprising against the United States at the end of the Spanish-American war. The other was Bishop Gregorio Aglipay, head of the Independent Catholic church of the islands. When Quezon is inaugurated Oct. 15 the Philippines will begin ten years of self-government under the supervision of the United States. If the experiment succeeds the islands will be given complete independence.

Of the 12,000,000 Filipinos in the islands Mrs. Aurora Quezon is typical. She is bronze skinned, short, and plump. The eight tribal groups, all of Malayan descent, that make up five-sixths of the population, have become well educated through the public schools set up in thirty-five years of American rule. Most of them speak English or Spanish as well as their tribal language.

The islands have an area three times that of Cuba. There are nearly 7,000 islands in the group, but only 2,441 of them are big enough to have names. Most of the people carry on their farming on the eleven islands that are more than 1,000 square miles in size. The biggest crops are rice and sugar. The Filipinos eat all the rice, but sell nearly half the sugar in the United States.

WILL ROGERS.

The estate of Will Rogers goes to his widow, Mrs. Betty Blake Rogers, according to his will, filed in Probate court in Los Angeles on Monday. The estate is believed to be about $2,500,000.

Education

In June President Roosevelt created the National Youth Administration [NYA]. He gave the NYA 50 million dollars from the 4 billion dollar work relief fund. He said that NYA is an experiment in helping needy students, training unemployed young people for jobs, and providing additional recreation for them. Wednesday NYA announced that plans had been completed for correspondence courses designed for pupils who cannot get NYA cash help because their families are not on relief. William J. Campbell, Illinois director announced Thursday the appointment of a board to carry out the NYA program in Illinois.

Many youngsters would rather work with their hands than study. More than 1,700 of them are numbered among the 334,000 pupils who enrolled in Chicago elementary schools when they opened last Monday. They are attending pre-vocational schools, where they learn to work with their hands as well as follow the regular courses of elementary study. Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan asserts that these schools will keep in regular attendance children who might otherwise lose interest.

Alice Jackson, colored, was a graduate student at Smith college last year. This year she applied for admittance to the graduate school of the University of Virginia. The board of visitors of the university directed that the girl's application be respectfully refused. Frederic W. Scott, director of the board, said that Virginia does not mixed colored and white students in the same schools.

Chicagoland

Indiana.

Work was begun on Monday to make a Christmas paradise on 32 acres of land in the tiny town of Santa Claus in the southern part of the state. A 25 foot statue of Santa Claus will be erected. A reindeer lake will be made. A park will be landscaped and dedicated to the children of the world. There will be a doll house and toy shops. Carl A. Barrett, Chicago insurance man, gave the land. ●● Bernard Pfeiffer, 22 years old, of Covington, Ky., was convicted at Jeffersonville on Tuesday of kidnaping David Bloom, 32, an Indianapolis produce dealer. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. ●● Adolph Seidensticker, Indianapolis postmaster, announced on Tuesday that 56 substitute postal employés would be put on full time jobs Oct. 1. ●● Officials of the Bendix Products corporation at South Bend on Thursday confirmed reports of the removal of 25 per cent of the machinery from the South Bend plants to other plants. This was done because of the fear of a strike by a small group of agitators who do not represent the union majority. ●● Judge Earl R. Cox, sitting in Indianapolis, on Thursday said the Indiana 1935 milk control law was legal. Under this law a milk commission may fix prices. ●● Experts of the Purdue University agricultural experimental station at Lafayette on Tuesday predicted a bumper crop of corn. The estimated crop is 141,330,000 bushels—or 47 per cent larger than last year's.

Wisconsin.

Gov. Philip F. La Follette at Madison Monday vetoed a bill exempting Chicago and New York stocks from examination by the Wisconsin public service commission. Until 1933 there was no regulation on those stocks in the state. ●● Gov. La Follette on Thursday received a 50 million dollar budget bill for his approval or veto. The budget appropriates about 6 million dollars more than the last budget. ●● The governor last week listened to protests against a bill designed to end the city government of Milwaukee and make the city a part of the county government. Max Raskin, Milwaukee city attorney, said the bill was not constitutional. ●● A 15 minute freak storm that resembled a cyclone damaged property in Oshkosh on Monday. On Wednesday a hailstorm struck Oshkosh. The next day heavy rains flooded Whitehall. ●● James H. [Sunny] Stover, 87 years old, a lawyer, who as a boy shook hands with Lincoln, died in Milwaukee Monday. ●● William Ferguson, 70, known as the hobo journalist, was killed by a train at Stevens Point Sunday night. ●● The Rev. Msgr. William J. Peil, 86, died in Manitowoc Monday. ●● Milwaukee police opened a new drive last week to reduce automobile accidents. On Thursday Judge R. S. Cowie sentenced Joseph Jungbluth and Frank Borsch to one to two years each in the house of correction for killing people with their cars. Police said both had been drinking.

Michigan.

Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea asked permission of Recorder's court in Detroit on Tuesday to drop murder charges against Mrs. Florence Harding Goodrich. She is held for the killing of 11 year old Lillian Gallaher, for which her husband, Merton Ward Goodrich, is now serving a life term. "We haven't enough evidence against Mrs. Goodrich," said McCrea. ●● Morris D. Kirby, deputy commissioner of pardons and paroles, resigned at Lansing on Tuesday. A. Ross Pascoe succeeds him. ●● James M. Crosby Jr. was reëlected on Monday as president of the Grand Rapids Association of Insurance Agents. ●● Independent dry goods dealers organized a coöperative corporation to be known as the Michigan Wholesale Dry Goods company at Grand Rapids on Tuesday. ●● The city council of Zeeland approved an appropriation of $27,500 for the 1936 budget. ●● Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien of Detroit resigned Tuesday as executor of the estate of Honora Collins. He filed an accounting and inventory of the estate. The judge had been cited earlier for contempt by the Probate court for not having filed his report. ●● The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, will begin his winter lectures on Nov. 3. For the first time his network will reach from coast to coast.

Iowa.

Thirty-three garbage collection men went on a 90 minute strike in Des Moines on Monday. They said they would not work as long as Sam Cohen was superintendent of garbage collections. They complained he was unfair. Safety Commissioner Roscoe Bane finally persuaded the men to stay on the job, but made no promises. ●● George Steele, 76 years old, of Clinton, prominent in railway and Masonic affairs, died Sunday. He was stricken at a Knights Templar picnic at Eagle Point park ●● L. W. Housel, 61, of Humboldt, Democratic candidate for governor of Iowa in 1928, died at Rochester, Minn., Sunday. ●● E. F. Rahn, secretary of the state permit board, stated Monday that the board has no power to restore retail beer permits which have been canceled by city or county authorities. ●● District Judge W. W. Scott at Sioux City on Tuesday ordered the reinstatement of W. D. Hayes, suspended mayor of Sioux City. It had been charged that the mayor knowingly failed to enforce the liquor and gambling laws. Hayes said he was too busy with his direct duties to act as a "cop on the corner." Judge Scott held Hayes had not violated his duties. ●● Bernard Manley, Democratic chairman of the Iowa liquor control commission, was indicted on Tuesday by the grand jury at Des Moines on a charge of violating the state liquor control act. It was said that he sold 20,000 state liquor seals to Mike Mercurio for $1,000.

Memel

The territory of Memel is about two-thirds the size of Rhode Island. The principal city is the seaport of Klaipeda [Memel]. Before the world war the territory belonged to Germany. For four years after the war the territory was under the control of the allies. In 1923 the Lithuanians drove out the French garrison and took over Memel. Since that time Memel has been a separate district of Lithuania with its own legislature and courts. In the past few years Germany has been insisting that the territory should be given back to her. Since Klaipeda is the only seaport on the coast of Lithuania, the Lithuanians have refused to even talk about such a thing. They were given control over the territory by the league of nations and have been hoping that the league will allow the territory to become part of Lithuania.

Most of the people in Klaipeda are Germans. Those in the rest of the territory are Lithuanians. The Lithuanians have been trying to make the Germans into Lithuanians so Lithuanian control will be stronger. Last Sunday Adolf Hitler, German dictator, spoke before the German reichstag [legislature]. [See Germany.] He charged that Memel had been stolen from Germany. He said Germans were tortured in Memel just because they were Germans. He accused Lithuania of trying to scare the Germans before the general elections to be held in Memel next Sunday [Sept. 29].

The same day President Antanas Smetana of Lithuania was interviewed for the first time in six years. The president said Lithuania was ready to argue her side of the case before the permanent court of international justice [world court] at any time. He warned that any attempt to take Memel by force would be resisted by Lithuania with her army.

On Thursday a special edition of the Prussian Gazette was printed in Germany. Several articles, written by German leaders, accused Lithuania of all sorts of crimes against Germans in Memel. The Germans hoped to circulate the Gazette in Memel, since they themselves were barred from entering Memel to speak in the campaign.

Medicine

Hormones.

A hormone is a fluid from one part of the body which produces activity in another part. Sunday, Dr. Leopold Ruzicka, on his way home to Zurich, Switzerland, after a summer in the United States, was able to announce that his assistants had made good his prediction to the American Chemical society: They had manufactured a new male sex hormone from the fat of sheep's wool 25 to 50 times more powerful than any in existence. It was important because science can now test the monkey and goat gland theories of renewing mental and physical strength.

Mosquitos.

By painting mosquitoes in bright colors and placing them in airplanes traveling from South America to the United States, the public health service at Washington discovered that yellow fever mosquitoes may ride in airplanes. After five years of research, officials announced Sunday that a suitable spray for use in airplanes has been discovered. Now only one alien mosquito for every ten incoming planes gets into this country.

Paralysis.

Eighteen new cases of infantile paralysis in Illinois were reported by the state department of public health at Springfield for the week ending last Monday. This brought the year's total to 125 but was a drop from the 20.5 average of the preceding two weeks. The distribution of cases for the week was one each in Adams, De Kalb, Franklin, Greene, Henry, Massac, Warren, and Williamson counties, two in Madison and St. Clair, and six in Cook county. Infantile paralysis is spreading in the east, but New York reported a steady decline.

Life Blood.

Streptococci are related germs that cause various diseases including scarlet fever. Hemolytic streptococcus infection is a frequently fatal disease which breaks down red blood cells. Demand for a serum to combat these killers led Drs. William Thalhimer and Sidney O. Levinson of Chicago in 1931 to suggest use of serum from the blood of scarlet fever patients. Last week in the American Medical Association Journal Drs. Thalhimer and Levinson reported on 122 violent cases in which the ordinary serum pooled from a number of fever patients was used at Michael Reese hospital. Twenty-three were unimproved and died, but 99 of the 122 were cured.

SNAKES.

Mrs. Grace Olive Wiley is regarded nationally as an authority on snakes. She calls the reptiles "charming" and "adorable." Robert Bean, who is directing the Brookfield [Chicago] zoo while his father, Edward H. Bean, is away, doesn't feel that way about snakes. He is afraid of them, so he couldn't agree with Mrs. Wiley, head keeper of the zoo's snakes since 1933, that no harm was done when 19 snakes escaped. These included three Egyptian cobras, one Australian bandy-bandy, all poisonous, and two hissing sand snakes. After Mrs. Wiley had complained it became known Thursday that Robert Bean discharged her Sept. 3 and later fired another keeper, Sherwood Stuart. The bandy-bandy is still missing.

CHARLES A. WARD REGAINS RIGHTS OF CITIZENSHIP

St. Paul Millionaire Is a Former Convict.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Charles Allen Ward, who rose from convict to capitalist as a result of a friendship formed in a Leavenworth penitentiary cell, today regained the citizenship rights denied him for ten years after he served that sentence.

By order of President Roosevelt the federal parole board restored full civil rights to the 48 year old millionaire. This entitles him to the privileges of citizenship denied after conviction on a federal charge. Ward served one year of a five year term for violation of the narcotic drug law.

The restoration of these rights was protested to President Roosevelt a week ago by Walter Liggett, editor of the Midwest American, who charged that Ward conspired to bring false accusations of a sex offense against him. Liggett's trial has been set for Sept. 28.

Political Conspiracy Charged.

The editor asserted that Ward defrayed the preliminary expenses of the plot against him which he contends is a political conspiracy intended to silence his attacks on Farmer-Labor party officials, including Gov. Floyd B. Olson. Liggett also charged that Ward "subsidized certain scandal sheets which have made scurrilous attacks upon me to prejudice prospective jurors."

"I protest against restoration of citizenship rights to said Charles A. Ward," Liggett telegraphed the President, "until the case against me is tried and I have an opportunity of proving my charges against Ward."

He also charged that Ward was "one of the largest beneficiaries of graft under the Olson régime," and paid large sums to the governor's campaign fund in return for appointment as major in the National Guard "although he was not a citizen and was not qualified to hold any military post."

Life Called Exemplary.

However, Ward's restoration to citizenship was made because of the "exemplary life" he was said to have lived since his release. Stories of his philanthropies and of his meteoric rise to affluence have acquired almost legendary proportions.

Much of his benefactions are among men who met circumstances similar to his own. He is a generous befriender of ex-convicts, aiding them in obtaining employment whenever he can, for it was in that manner he got the start that led him to riches.

In Leavenworth penitentiary Ward met Herbert H. Bigelow, president of an international advertising house here. Bigelow was then serving eight months for income tax evasion. Ward and Bigelow became fast friends and remained so.

"I made Mr. Bigelow a promise in our cell at Leavenworth," said Ward, "and I told him I would be his friend as long as he lived."

Work Together in Prison.

They worked together in the prison; Ward, a mechanical engineer, as chief engineer of the prison, and the millionaire advertising man as his helper.

When Bigelow was released he asked that his old jail mate be paroled to work in his company. Ward was released on parole in 1925 and immediately went to work for his benefactor. Their fondness for each other continued and Ward became general manager of the St. Paul firm of Brown & Bigelow, Inc.

After Bigelow drowned in a northern Minnesota lake two years ago Ward was elevated to the firm's presidency. He also was left $3,000,000 in Bigelow's will, one-third of the business man's estate.

As soon as he was eligible Ward sought the President's pardon and the restoration of his rights of citizenship. The restoration of civil rights was signed by the President on Sept. 18, the justice department said.

SPAIN TO CALL ON LERROUX TO PICK ANOTHER CABINET

MADRID, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Conferences between President Alcala Zamora and political leaders indicated tonight he would call upon the veteran Alejandro Lerroux to form another government along the lines of the one which resigned Friday.

Alcala Zamora is anxious to have a government in time for presentation to the meeting of parliament Tuesday. If Lerroux is called, as is expected, the veteran premier will have a busy time attempting to shape a cabinet which will have some chance of holding together through the difficult parliamentary program.

Lerroux explained the resignation of the cabinet headed by him yesterday was due to the loss of support of the Agrarian party, which was angered by the restoration of public works services to Catalonia.

"This crisis came as a real surprise to me and seems most inopportune in view of the international situation," said Lerroux. "For my part I am willing to return to my law profession if it seems necessary to get someone else."

Austrian Royalists Pray for Return of 'Emperor Otto'

MARIAZELL, Austria, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Thousands of monarchists prayed that "Emperor Otto be permitted to celebrate Christmas with us" in a nationwide demonstration today centering about the cathedral here which is an ancient shrine of the Hapsburgs. The demonstration was held despite a government order against political assembly.

SENTENCED ON COIN CHARGE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Roy C. Easton of Rockford, Ill., was sentenced today to serve a year and a day in the federal penitentiary for passing counterfeit coins in New Albany.

The fishing season at Washington park was opened yesterday under the authorization of Evan I. Kelly, chief of the special service division of the park district. Kelly pointed out that no fishing has been permitted in Washington park for three years and that the lagoon is well stocked with fish.

AGUINALDO SENDS ROOSEVELT VOTE FRAUD PROTEST

Accuses Gov. Murphy of Aiding Quezon.

MANILA, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Followers of swarthy little Emilio Aguinaldo—the former rebel chieftain who vowed he was "not through yet" after his defeat for the Philippine presidency—charged "fraud" today in a protest to President Roosevelt.

The protest, filed by the National Socialist party which backed Aguinaldo, also asserted Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy showed partiality in last week's election.

No Confidence in Murphy.

Although Murphy proclaimed "absolute neutrality" in the balloting, the protestants accused him of having permitted department secretaries and executive officials to work openly for the successful Coalition candidates headed by Manuel Quezon.

"This attitude," said the announcement, "encouraged active intervention of officials not permitted by law, and the commission of threats, coercions, and election frauds.

"Evidence of frauds cannot be submitted to Murphy, as we are losing confidence in his fairness. Such frauds are causing general discontent among the masses."

Assemblyman Killed.

The election returns gave Aguinaldo only 160,872 votes to 501,233 for Quezon. Bishop Gregorio Aglipay, extremist Republican candidate, was credited with 70,887.

Julio Nalundasan, one of the ninety-eight national assemblymen elected, was assassinated in the town of Batac today. Murphy approved the assignment of constabulary patrols to the town to guard against the possibility of further trouble. Batac is the home of Aglipay. Nalundasan was a Coalition candidate.

WIFE OPERATED UPON FOLLOWING COURT COLLAPSE

Policeman William Wiley of the Chicago park district appeared before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court yesterday to contest the claim of his estranged wife, Anna, 7331 South Paulina street, for alimony arrearage of $150. Mrs. Wiley said her physician had ordered an immediate operation and she needed the money.

A few minutes later Mrs. Wiley collapsed.

A county health doctor was summoned, diagnosed her ailment as acute appendicitis, and removed her to the County hospital, where the operation was performed successfully.

GOVERNMENT MONEY FOR CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

Robert J. Dunham, as head of the Works Progress administration in Illinois, has announced the approval by his agency of a grant of 3½ million dollars of federal money to be divided among the churches and synagogues of Chicago. The funds would be devoted to recreational, welfare, and educational work. Officials in Washington have denied that they have approved the grant, but there is reason to believe that if the money is made over to the Chicago recreational commission, a nonsectarian body, it, in turn, might distribute the fund among the various faiths. Thus the appearance, though not the fact, of government subsidies to religious organizations might be avoided.

The executive secretary of the Chicago Church federation has indicated a willingness on the part of his organization to accept its share [$1,300,000] of the money. It is to be hoped that the decision is not final and that it will be carefully reconsidered. Likewise it is to be hoped that the Catholics, who have been allotted, tentatively, $1,769,000, and Jews, for whom $427,000 is set aside in their turn, will scrutinize the matter with extreme care before reaching their decisions.

The issue can be stated simply in a sentence: Can the churches afford to accept the money?

We believe they cannot.

In defense of the proposal it is said that many church activities have been interrupted in recent years by a lack of funds. If the government's easy money is accepted study classes and recreational activities can be resumed. Employment will be given to class leaders; time which now hangs heavy on the hands of the idle will be occupied in self-improvement.

All of this is no doubt true. It is also true that money distributed among the churches will be more usefully spent than if devoted to other kinds of boondoggling. The temptation to accept the money is therefore very great. To the shortsighted it will no doubt be irresistible.

The leaders of the various churches, we believe, can be counted upon to take the longer view. They will see the danger of placing themselves in a position of dependence upon the government. The arrangement has been put forward as a temporary one to meet an emergency, but temporary arrangements have a way of becoming permanent. So-called emergency measures often outlive the emergency by decades. Certainly no habit is so easily formed as that of receiving money and just as certainly the recipient finds himself in a position of dependence.

Do the churches wish to place themselves under the yoke? Do they desire to risk even a remote possibility of rendering themselves permanently dependent upon professional politicians distributing largess to friendly congregations and faiths and denying aid to others? If the emergency arrangement should become permanent, can freedom of worship and of conscience be preserved?

These are questions which must be faced and we do not believe it is possible to answer them without admitting that danger to religious liberty is to be found in the proposal. However innocent the plan may now seem, it can become the entering wedge as well as the precedent for just such a policy of religious oppression as is now on exhibition in Germany.

In Germany for generations the churches of all faiths have been supported by the state through taxation. The Hitler government thus found itself in a position to coerce them. To their everlasting glory, many of the German religious leaders refused to admit the right of the politicians to dictate in matters of faith and conscience, but it is significant that many clergymen have bent the knee, and today, having pocketed their thirty pieces of silver, are preaching a pagan faith in churches dedicated to Christ. Congregations which held to the faith have suffered for it. Their accustomed revenues have been cut off, their freedom of worship has been interfered with, and many of their pastors and priests have been imprisoned.

That is the ultimate consequence of abandoning the doctrin of the separation of church and state. He who pays the piper calls the tune. If the churches are to remain free they must pay the price of freedom, which is self-support in all their activities. Those who preach of temptation ought to be keen enough to recognize when they are being tempted and strong enough to resist.

PROGRESS UNDER THE CONSTITUTION.

When Mr. Roosevelt and others complain that the constitution is a strait-jacket they are talking about something which is not true today and never was true. To be sure, many of the things Mr. Roosevelt wishes to do are forbidden, but that means nothing more than that the constitution is a strait-jacket to him. It does restrain him and his brain trust. It does prevent the creation in this country of an absolute government in which the politicians can impose their will upon the people and the states. It does protect the common man in his freedom to order his own life. It does prevent the federal government from destroying the right of communities to govern themselves in the light of their own concepts of right and wrong.

Mr. Roosevelt resents these restraints upon his imperious will. That is why he speaks contemptuously of the horse-and-buggy constitution.

The phrase carries within itself its own complete reply to his criticism. Mr. Roosevelt cannot point to a single instance of the constitution's barring technical progress. Since the constitution was adopted the world has seen greater technological advances than in all previously recorded history, and the United States—the people, not the government, be it noted—has been continuously in the lead in distributing these benefits. The constitution did not have to be amended to permit the substitution of the automobile for the horse and buggy. It did not have to be altered to permit kerosene to replace whale oil or electric light to replace coal oil lamps.

The constitution is no strait-jacket to progress. On the contrary, it has encouraged it. It has done so by guaranteeing the individual his freedom to develop his own talents and ideas. If we had had Mr. Roosevelt's brand of government for the last 148 years the power of the federal government would have been exerted again and again to apply the brakes, because the old is always politically more influential than the new. The temporary disturbances caused by progress would have been made the excuse for prohibitions on progress. Mr. Roosevelt's NRA imposed restrictions on the introduction of machinery. His AAA bribes farmers to produce less. He is angry because the constitution cannot be stretched to approve these formulæ for national impoverishment.

Only those shortsighted citizens who think that the last scientific and technical advance has been made can believe, with Mr. Roosevelt, that the time has come to free the politicians from restraint and permit them to impose their will, unhampered, upon the citizens.

INVITATION TO MURDER.

A brief dispatch from Phoenix, Ariz., may have caught the casual eye of a newspaper here and there the other day. It noted the filing of a petition with the state board of pardons and paroles for the parole of "Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd," convicted slayer of Agnes Leroi. "Judd, Judd, O yes," perhaps the reader remarked as he turned to the next page. "She was the woman caught in Los Angeles with a trunk containing two dismembered bodies and confessed. But I thought she was tried and sentenced to the death penalty long ago." She was. The killing was done Oct. 18, 1931. A jury found her guilty and fixed the extreme penalty Feb. 9, 1932. The judgment was affirmed by the Supreme court of Arizona Dec. 12, but that was only the beginning of the usual proceedings. While the appeal was pending before the Supreme court six members of the legislature visited Mrs. Judd to hear her story, although it had already been told in court. The usual sentimentalism was rampant. They decided to help her, it was announced. Eighteen days after the Supreme court had affirmed the judgment of the trial jury a grand jury assumed the duty of review and asked the board of pardons and paroles to overrule the decision and commute the sentence. Two weeks later an appeal to the board for a pardon was filed and on Jan. 17, three days later, a plea of insanity, already rejected by the trial jury, was made. In view of these matters the board granted a stay of execution of 58 days, but on March 30 denied the application for clemency, setting a new date for the execution of the sentence. But before this date was reached the insanity proceedings of Mrs. Judd were before another jury, who found that she had become insane while in prison and committed her to an asylum until such time as she had recovered, when, under the law, she would again become subject to the penalty fixed by the trial jury. Four months later we have another petition for parole and a petition for pardon.

The crime was atrocious, if there is anything in evidence, but though the jury of twelve who heard the evidence found the defendant guilty and fixed the penalty their consciences found fitting, and though the highest tribunal of the state found the trial and judgment in accordance with the law, the crime remains unpunished and is likely never to be punished.

The alliance of corruption, crime and politics working in the disguise of humanitarianism has invited so many means of escape from justice that proceedings against the criminal is like a sieve.

Editorial of the Day

SMALL OPERATORS OPPOSE GUFFEY LAW.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Sixteen Kentucky coal companies have attacked the newly enacted Guffey law for regulation of the soft coal industry as unconstitutional, and announce that they will not comply with it.

The complainants argue that the Guffey law, in its present form, would put them and many other small mine owners out of business within a few months if it were enforced. They point out that under the new coal code a levy of 15 per cent of the wholesale coal price is made on all coal production, with a 90 per cent refund for producers who submit to a code to be drafted under the act.

The Kentucky mines argue that on monthly sales of $500,000 the tax would amount to $75,000. This is more than the profit on that much coal, and many operators could not carry the load along with pay rolls and other expenses.

After the refund is made the federal government still has levied a tax of 1½ per cent on the value of coal produced. Under present conditions operators are not making a large profit, and the cost of coal would have to be increased at least 3 or 4 per cent to absorb the tax and extra bookkeeping costs.

Moreover, under the law the coal code authority practically fixes all wages and prices within the industry, and apportions tonnage to the various fields.

Small mine operators insist that the exercise of these powers would further serve to crowd them out of business, confiscate their property, and leave the coal markets free to large corporations in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

THE FIRST MONTH OF COLLEGE

BY FRED H. TURNER.

[Dean of Men, University of Illinois.]

It is amazing the number and varieties of troubles and difficulties, imagined and real, which a new student can get into. Most of them are of no consequence, or can be settled very easily, but often they seem to the new student almost insurmountable and hopeless, and for the moment matters of the greatest import. Many a new student has written home to the folks letters so despondent and discouraged that the mother comes to the campus, or the dad calls by long distance to see what can be done for the student whose education is about to be ruined because of some trifling difficulty which can easily be settled and solved. Most of these troubles come in the first month or two.

Mothers are always worrying about Willie or Mary, who have never been away from home before going to college. What if they are homesick? The person who has never been homesick laughs and says it is bunk. The person who has been through a real case of nostalgia knows that it is not bunk, and that the melancholia which accompanies it is about as unpleasant as any experience which can come to a boy or girl.

There is a simple remedy which has never failed in such cases. If a boy comes in who is clearly homesick the thing to do is to send him home for a day or two. Twenty-four to forty-eight hours at home will do the work, and usually he comes back cured permanently.

Registration time brings up problems which are very discouraging to a new student. He may have to wait in lines to see advisers. He may find his pet schedule of classes an impossible series to fulfill. He may want to avoid Saturday classes, or afternoon classes, or morning classes, and find he cannot. He may want a particular section of a certain course and find that the section is filled and that he cannot get in. He may find that his preliminary work does not provide the prerequisites to courses which he wants to include. The troubles which a student registering for the first time may get into are many, but usually they are very simple, and a faculty adviser can settle them in a very few minutes. Instead of going to headquarters for advice, students are far more likely to ask other students for advice, with the result that they get into further difficulties.

Registration can be difficult or it can be simple. If the student will follow directions carefully he can't go wrong and he can't get far from the plan laid out for him. But it is hard to get him to do this. Most new students will save time and worry if they will proceed with care, follow directions to the letter, and not hesitate to ask university officers for advice.

After registration is over and classes begin some students find they have made serious mistakes in their choices of curricula. The main problem about students who need a change of course is to get them to steam their courage up to the place where they can see that a change is proper and advisable. Their faculty advisers are ready and willing to help them make the changes necessary to shift to another curriculum. Most colleges and schools try to advise their students in advance about choices of course to avoid loss of time and shifts in classes, but if the tryout is needed it is no disgrace to make the change after the tryout has apparently failed.

A serious difficulty is presented to the student who thought he had enough money to carry himself along, but finds that at the rate he has started his funds will soon be depleted. The expenses ahead appear to be an obstacle which may stop the student before he is much more than started. Students and parents, too, who are worrying over the finances of education should remember that the first month of any semester is the worst one and that the following months are easier. In the first month come all the expenses of tuition, fees, books, and getting started. After that living expenses are about all until the start of another semester.

Another trouble which occasionally crops up at the start of a new year or semester is that of the rooming house. Sometimes the troubles cannot be settled without moving, but more often they can.

These are just a few of the troubles which beset the new student. There are many more. Every one and his Dutch uncle have somethingto sell to the new student, who has to have a firm will to resist buying some of the very attractive articles offered to him. Students who have always had some one to pick up their belongings after them will be losing and misplacing books, clothes, drawing instruments and slide rules, and feel sure some one has been stealing from them. They will lose money through carelessness.

Some will be very discouraged over failure to secure membership in a particular fraternity or sorority which seemed especially desirable to them. Some who come with great ambition to get into activities, athletics, and extracurricular affairs will find competition much keener in college than in prep school, and may find themselves unable to keep up with more able competitors. Some will find that practical jokes are being played on them by their fellows; hazing as a practice has about gone, but the practical joker seems to be a permanent fixture. Some will become ill and will discover that they have physical disabilities which they did not realize and which may interfere with college continuation. Some will innocently or inadvertently get mixed up with the law and have to be bailed out.

Students should learn early in the game that every college and university has a whole set of officers and administrators who are expecting to advise and aid them with their troubles and problems. Some are experts in health; some are experts in scholastic problems; some are experts in personal problems; some are general "trouble-shooters," if the term may be used, and are there to aid the student in making his college life happy and successful. Parents should learn that every college and university feels a keen responsibility for the students sent to it and will do all it can to see the students through a successful career. They should learn the names, and if possible become acquainted with the administrative officers.

College officers can and will help, but they must have the coöperation of the parents and the opportunity from the students.

JUST A MILD ONE.

The judge was trying to secure a jury for the trial of a criminal. A man was being questioned as to his fitness for jury service.

"Do you believe in capital punishment?" asked the judge.

"Yes," replied the man, "if it isn't too severe."—Hudson Star.

ONE BETTER.

"Yes," said the boastful young man, "my family can trace its ancestry back to William the Conqueror."

"I suppose," remarked his friend, "you'll be telling us that your ancestors were in the ark with Noah?"

"Certainly not," said the other. "My people had a boat of their own."—Tid-Bits.

COMMON CAUSES OF BACKACHE.

The number of alleged causes of back pain are legion and no single symptom gives the physician more concern. He is frequently at his wit's end to account for the condition, when faced with X-ray plates that show no evidence of trouble in the bony skeleton, and in the absence of other signs of disease. Nevertheless, something is wrong, else there would be no pain.

Sometimes back pain is infectious in origin. That is, infections may involve the muscles, the vertebrae, the sacroiliac joint; or again there may be injuries to the parts, strains of ligaments or of muscles, or even the slowly progressing condition known as arthritis. Not infrequently backache is due to faulty posture of the body, to out-of-balance weight bearing on the pelvic bones.

Referred pain to the back must also be considered. This means that disease may be present in the rectum, the colon, the urinary tract, the appendix, or in the pelvic organs in women.

If the trouble is to be found in the structures of the back itself there will usually be local pain on pressure. If this symptom cannot be elicited then we may infer that the difficulty lies in some more distant structure.

Strange as it may seem, foot trouble may be responsible for backache, as well as a huge pendulous abdomen, a slouching gait from faulty muscle development, and anything that alters the normal curve of the spine. Postural defects may be present for years before symptoms develop. In fact, pain may appear only when the individual gains weight and thus increases the pressure on the bones of the spine and pelvis.

Women particularly complain of backache only when they are tired. This fatigue pain may be muscular or nervous or result from illness. It is not at all uncommon for the symptoms to develop from simply lying in bed, and some patients will have their first real backache when convalescing from a long illness.

Although the sacroiliac joints that lie low in the back are true joints, they possess very limited motion. They really function as shock absorbers, receiving the weight of the entire upper part of the body, passing it along to the thigh bones. When sacroiliac pain develops it usually comes on suddenly with a knife-like stab as though something had snapped when the patient stoops over. Sometimes the pain is referred down the sciatic nerve or into the muscles of the thigh. There is very little difficulty in recognizing the condition when it is acute, as pressing upon the outer borders of the hip bones will cause severe pain. Pain in the back which travels down the leg and which is increased by walking can, in most instances, be traced to the sacroiliac joint.

Pelvic disease in women adequately explains back pain. It was present in 49 per cent of a long series of cases reported by Lynch. That the pain was relieved following the removal of pelvic disease is significant.

Many women who complain of backache will note that the symptom disappears after the change of life has become fully established, while obesity in women, particularly during the menopause, is commonly associated with the condition.

Many cases will be greatly improved, if not entirely relieved, by a rest régime [an hour or two in bed in the middle of the day], reduction of weight to normal, and bending and hip exercises designed particularly to strengthen the abdominal muscles. The use of a firm, abdominal support that fits well down over the sacrum, at the same time supporting the abdomen, is often of the greatest value.

CAUSED BY INFECTION.

P. N. writes that he has had an ear that discharges intermittently and that the condition has lasted for several years. He inquires as to the reason for the cessation of the discharge at times. He has no pain.

REPLY.

The discharge is caused by a bacterial infection of the middle ear. The ear drum on the affected side has ruptured, thus permitting the escape of pus. When the resistance is high inflammation decreases and pus will cease to form for a time. With new infections from colds, loss of sleep, indigestion, etc., bacteria in the middle ear may renew their growth. As a result inflammation develops and pus will form. Keep the nutrition as high as possible, avoiding an excess of starches and sugars. A competent ear specialist may be able to remove the infection.

WASSERMANN TEST.

J. L. writes: If a person whose blood reacts four plus to the Wassermann test takes the required treatment from a good physician, will he be permanently cured or will the treatment only prolong the disease?

REPLY.

Syphilis is curable. The patient must be in the hands of an intelligent physician and be willing to coöperate fully. The required treatment period will be from two to three years.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I.—When Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy commuted the death sentence of three robber-murderers recently he disturbed a hornet's nest. The uproar which ensued called attention to the heretofore unpublicized fact that, quietly and efficiently, he has radically altered the Philippine judiciary, together with the system of penology in vogue.

So far reaching are Murphy's reforms, carried on slowly but systematically during the two year span of his administration, that among other things they have changed the way of appointing judges; made more factual one of the fundamental assumptions of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence, and even affected the fates and fortunes of convicts.

Following are among Murphy's judicial reforms: 1. Creation of a judicial council, [2] appointment of public defenders in every trial court, [3] institution of the indeterminate sentence, [4] application of the adult probation system, and [5] practical abolition of capital punishment.

Judges in the Philippines are all appointive, not elective. But politicians, either through direct appeal to the governor general or by lobbying in the senate, which confirms appointments, had had their fingers without end in the judicial pie. Then Murphy created the judicial council, with duties to advise on all promotions and appointments to the bench.

Since then the chief executive has been able to tell importuning politicians to relate their tales to the council, and the council is composed of the chief justice of the Supreme court, the secretary of justice, and other equally responsible individuals. Thus would-be judges, instead of being squeezed in through shadowy political passages, now are prejudged by higher officials.

Next in Murphy's program was the appointment of public defenders. Philippine law, as does Anglo-Saxon law, presumes the innocence of the accused, yet heretofore it had provided free legal counsel in the person of public prosecutors to the accuser but left the accused entirely to his own devices. With public defenders ready to advise accused persons at the expense of the government, the innocence presumption has been extended from the realm of theory to the field of practice.

"This won't do," he said. "Strait-jacket penology is ancient; something has to be done."

First he secured a law providing for the imposition upon convicts, not of determinate but of indeterminate sentences.

"Now," he said, "we shall have in our penology both the deterrent effect of imprisonment and the rehabilitation element in the suspended sentence. If we let our prisoners know that they may leave as soon as they are fit to return to society they will not only come to realize the requirements of liberty better but they will also be in a greater hurry to meet them."

Under his more recent law providing for adult probation, imprisonment is converted into an honor system. Under this theory convicts who have sinned unwillingly and unwittingly—victims of circumstances—may never enter prison if prison life is considered likely to unfit rather than fit them for society. Since they need neither deterrent nor rehabilitation, in the strict sense, they may only comply with the punitive intent of the law theoretically by being free under the supervision of probation officers.

Murphy carried his prison reform program still further when he nullified the verdict of death passed upon by both the Supreme courts of the Philippines and the United States. The Manila press immediately divided, one section strongly supporting him and another vigorously attacking his action and charging him with sentimentality. Manuel L. Quezon, president apparent of the Philippine commonwealth, entered the fray, declaring that capital punishment is a relic of barbarism and thus committing his own administration should he be elected.

Murphy replied to the attacks:

"I have not abolished capital punishment. What I have done has been simply to use the power granted me by the law as God has given me the power to use it. The gap that separates my critics and me is not to be bridged by either reason or imagination, but only by the heart."

PAYMENT OF ATTORNEY'S FEE.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I filed suit for divorce and was given a hearing on Jan. 22, 1935. The judge granted the divorce provided my husband paid the fees. 1. My lawyer asked for a pauper's paper, yet he charged $75 including the court cost. My lawyer has written to me asking for money. I am unable to give him any, although my husband is able to do so. 2. Is there some way I could force my husband to pay for the divorce? 3. Isn't he in contempt of court and defaulting the case? 4. Will the divorce proceedings become void after a length of time? 5. Can I marry now, or [6] do I have to wait for my final papers? 7. Who should I see to arrange for my husband's arrest? M. F.

1. The fact that your lawyer filed an affidavit that you were unable to pay fees would not make it improper for your lawyer to try to collect his fee from your husband.

2. The practicability of collecting from your husband depends on his assets and income. Your attorney is in a better position to advise you than we are.

3. Yes.

4. If you mean that the decree has not been entered, then it is possible that the case might be dismissed for lack of prosecution.

5. No.

6. Yes.

7. Your attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LEGALITY OF WILL.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father made a will at the age of 85. 1. Would this will be considered lawful? 2. Would he be competent to make a will? Suppose it should read like this: I will my estate, valued at $9,000, to my three sons; one to have $5,000, another $3,000, and the other $1,000. The one that was to have $1,000 would receive same. 3. If this will should be found illegal after he receives his $1,000 and it was broken, would this have to be done before he receives it? J. B.

1. Yes, unless a contestant could prove that your father lacked testamentary capacity or was subject to undue influence.

2. This is a question of fact.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SIX DAY WEEK.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I understand there was a law passed by the state assembly recently that allows only six working days per week, but it seems many employers have not heard of it or pretend they did not. 2. Can you advise if all employers are to get some official notification of this law? This law will not mean much unless same gets more publicity. C. D. C.

1. Correct. There are certain exceptions.

2. Enforcement is in the hands of the director of labor, Springfield, Ill.

COMPLAINT FROM A GUARDSMAN.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—A few words from one of the men who never misses a drill in Chicago or a camp at Rockford, Ill., with the good old National Guard.

Every year without fail, and, mind you, always on visitors' Sunday, when all our friends and families come out to see us to enjoy the day with us, we soldiers who are a part of a political football have to stand one formation after another, and on top of that, just when we are comfortably seated, we are called out again to march about a mile or so from camp to hear some general, admiral or the governor give a speech that all of us know by heart and which is repeated every year.

Our families who have planned for weeks for this visit wait and wait and wait for the few moments they hope they will have with us, but out of an entire day we have the pleasure of talking to them for about an hour. Where do the brass hats and silk hats get the idea that they will pile up votes through such foolish tactics? The governor had a sad experience this year in Rockford that he will not forget for some time, and it all reflects to the visitors. So if politicians want to make a hit with Chicago people and Rockford folks so they can expect support and receive votes, give the soldiers of the first line of defense just two formations on visitors' Sunday, reveille and retreat.

The governor, our commander in chief, I hope will see this so he will understand why we have such a great turnover in personnel each year after camp with a lot of grief for a company commander.

LOYAL TOP KICK.

WHERE WOMEN FIRST VOTED.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—In the Voice of the People of Sept. 12 under the heading "A Scandinavian Republic," which is a reply to an editorial in THE TRIBUNE by the same title, we read as follows: "Norway was the first country in the world to give women the right to vote."

This is not correct. Norway was the first independent [sovereign] state to give women the right to vote. As early as 1893 New Zealand gave the women full parliamentary suffrage and six federated states in Australia followed suit in 1902. In Finland women obtained full citizenship in 1906; in the same year that the czar gave Finland a new constitution the Finnish diet gave the women the ballot. The women of Norway obtained full suffrage in 1913, but some years before that tax paying women had the right to vote.

In Norway as in Finland, historical events were favorable to the women's cause, just as the world war brought political freedom to women of many lands. Before the war four countries had woman suffrage. At the present time 14 countries give the women franchise rights equal to the men, and in many other countries women have municipal suffrage.

To the American women, however, belongs the honor of having the first organized movement for political freedom for women, and we must not forget the heroic struggle which our sisters in England and Germany waged to obtain their political rights.

HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—In THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 17 I read with interest the editorial entitled "High School Education." In it the editor hails with joy Supt. Bogan's announcement that he will "modernize the high school curriculum." The writer then goes on to say: "With his [Supt. Bogan's] criticism of the present curriculum as cluttered up with nonessentials which waste time and energy of both the pupils and the teaching staf, sensible people will heartily agree."

Apparently the writer of the editorial has no first hand experience with Chicago public high schools. Some of us old time Chicagoans who now have children in high school know that one of the favorite pastimes of the superintendents and the school boards is to "modernize" and "revise" the school curriculum. We recall that Supt. McAndrew had a highbrow commission that worked for a year on the revision of the curriculum. Thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money was spent in the printing of the new courses. The Strayer report of a few years ago cost the city one hundred thousand dollars. Now we read that Dr. Samuel Everett of the University of Illinois is hired to direct another revision of the curriculum.

What Chicago high schools need is not another high powered, high salaried commission to study the curriculum but a little more regard for the students in the high schools. When I attended high school our day ended at half past two. Each class met only four times a week. The fifth day was reserved for supervised study and consultation with the class teacher. In those days the teachers had a chance to get acquainted with their students. They could, and they did, help us over our hard places. The teachers, too, were considered as human beings. No teacher had more than five classes. The high schools were real schools, not highly organized, hard boiled factories.

Johnny will not give a rap for another revision of the curriculum. He wants a little more time than three minutes between classes, perhaps a block apart. He wants more than twenty minutes for his lunch. He wants teachers who are not too tired and too overloaded to take a sympathetic interest in him.

C. A. ROBSON.

A NEW DEALER SPEAKS HIS PIECE.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Though by virtue of pro-Roosevelt sentiments I am somehow excluded from the distinction of being called right thinking, I feel none the less proud to know that whatever opinions I do have have not been tailored for me by THE TRIBUNE editorial writers. Surely THE TRIBUNE is one of the most interesting and well written newspapers, but alas, it is insanely biased. There is absolutely no attempt made in your columns to understand the purpose or true import of New Deal legislation. Attacks on the character, motives, and loyalty of the President constitute the most vicious and despicable journalism I have ever seen.

Old principles were designed to meet old conditions. New and experimental legislation must be tried, for this is emergency. Money must be spent for relief and for worth while projects when millions of our citizens are unemployed. Americans cannot starve! If we want a permanent and wholesome prosperity we must have reform first. Social security measures do not constitute "dangerous radicalism," but modern, progressive reform. And what is this talk about government interference? Surely the very nature of government is interference. Whatever affects the general welfare and prosperity of any large group of our citizens is certainly the province of government.

ITALO-ABYSSINIAN DISPUTE

Also Criticize Ouster of Dean Snell.

Senator William Shenners [Dem., West Allis] contended the recommendations were "not nearly strong enough." He plans to submit a statement to the senate outlining his views.

In its conclusions which picked out Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university, and Prof. E. A. Ross, head of the sociology department, for special criticism, the committee said it was convinced the institution was to some extent a welcoming ground for communists and that instructors have been involved in teaching of subversive theories outside of classrooms. The report also says:

"Meetings of local chapters of national and international communistic societies were held in university halls to such an extent and with such wide and noisy publicity that the university achieved the name of being a hotbed of un-American socialistic and communistic activity.

"Add to these facts that such advertisment became in the public eye its chief bid for fame and you have resulting a most undesirable and harmful notoriety.

University Officers Blamed.

"That it was not a true picture of the great mass of the professors, instructors, and students, who carried on in spite of such un-American influences, speaks volumes for the good sense and patriotism of the people of this state.

"The fault for such a condition must be laid at the doors of the administrative officers of the university. These men and women, whoever they were, are censurable for a lack of clear vision in relation to their duties and responsibilities."

At this point the committee quoted statutes which provide that "no instructions, either sectarian in religion or partisan in politics, shall ever be allowed in any department of the university."

"It will no doubt be urged that this provision has to do only with instruction in the classrooms and that groups of students have a right to discuss religious and political doctrins upon the campus and that the right of free speech must not be abridged," the report continued.

"Fallacy Is Plain."

"The fallacy of this contention is plain because the very excuse urged amounts to subterfuge. It is difficult to discern the difference between teaching in the classroom and teaching in the union.

"In both places instructors and professors are present and lead the discussions. The students are misled. They follow their teachers and are profoundly influenced by them and what they say to them.

"Add to all of this that the meetings are held under university auspices and you have a direct violation of not only the spirit of the law, but of the letter of the law.

"That such things have been going on for some years cannot be denied.

"It equally cannot be denied that at least a part of the student body was given to understand that the administration of the university was friendly to communistic teachings.

Refer to President Frank.

"We must go further and say that a large group were given to understand that President Frank, among others, was one of the officers who encouraged communistic meetings and ideas.

"As proof of that statement we call attention to a pamphlet issued by the 'Young Communist League of the University of Wisconsin,' and distributed upon the campus shortly after Mr. Frank's surprisingly unambiguous utterance repudiating communism at the massmeeting of May 17, 1935.

"The pamphlet takes the form of an open letter to Mr. Frank, and states that his repudiation of the party of Lenin and Stalin was 'amazing.'"

The committee report pointed out the investigation was hampered by insufficient funds, and adds:

"This matter should be further investigated."

'SNELL UNFAIRLY TREATED'

The committee, investigating irregularities at the university, including the discharge of Dean Snell, accused the university board of regents of having "flagrantly violated" statutes requiring that all meetings be open to the public and that records be kept in writing.

The committee concluded the treatment of Snell has a parallel only in "medieval inquisitions and present day Russia." In its testimony the committee found evidence of connivance among members of the university administration to secure dismissal of Snell without specified charges if necessary.

Flagrant Violation of Statutes.

In addition the committee accused the university board of regents of having "flagrantly violated" statutes requiring that all meetings be open to the public and that records be kept in writing.

The committee regarded the influence of Mrs. Meta Berger, former university regent and widow of the late Congressman Victor L. Berger, nationally known radical, as significant. It attributed Snell's removal to a large extent to Mrs. Berger's efforts to find jobs for her "liberal" relatives on the university pay roll.

The next development which the committee appraised with significance was a report accusing Snell of various irregularities sent in June, 1934, to Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university, by Colin G. Welles, son-in-law of Mrs. Berger, and chairman of the Milwaukee county federation of teachers.

"It was kept secret by Mr. Frank until October," the committee said.

"At the October 'executive' meeting of the regents, President Clausen of the regents was absent, and Wilkie presided. This was the only meeting that regent Clausen [Fred H. Clausen, Horicon] missed during the year 1934 between March and November, and it was generally known that he would be absent then to attend a convention, an annual event. Wilkie [Harold M. Wilkie, Madison] who admitted he had long been prejudiced against Snell, presided. President Frank for the first time presented the Snell matter to the regents.

"Wilkie immediately appointed a committee with himself as its leading spirit to 'investigate' not Snell, but the extension division generally. This resolution was kept secret.

"Snell was told there were no charges against him. When he was absent and in secret session the committee informed the witness of the so-called charges and heard 'testimony.' It was almost entirely hearsay and gossip.

"Out of 27 witnesses that were called out of a faculty of 112, only 5 or 6, who admitted they were prejudiced because of personal grievances, detailed in secret and on the promise of immunity and secrecy their personal grievances to a willing and at least partially prejudiced tribunal.

"Your committee has examined the 1,000 pages of so called testimony and its reaction is that the entire investigation was unfair. It was unfair because Snell was deliberately deceived as to the nature of the investigation.

Fired on General Principles.

"The height of unfairness is reached, however, when the committee first testified that they found certain charges to be true and when cross-examined by the counsel for your committee they were compelled to admit that none of the charges were true and that they fired him on 'general principles.'

"Wilkie, who said he made an oral report to the board of regents of the findings of the committee, testified, when he was first called, that Snell was found to have been at fault in the following particulars:

"He had lost the confidence of practically every leading educator in the University of Wisconsin and of a large number of people in the extension division, that he was harsh and dictatorial, that he approached legislators, that Prof. Purin at the Milwaukee center had no administrative powers, that he wrote certain letters, that he violated tenure, that he was unfair to Prof. Croft, Prof. Lighty, etc., etc.

"When called the second time Wilkie had to admit that there was nothing in the testimony taken by the committee to substantiate any of the charges."

SPECIAL SESSION DETAILS STILL REMAIN SECRET

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Two important questions concerning the next special session of the Illinois legislature today were still without definite answers. They are:

When will the session be convened?

What issues will be included in the call?

Gov. Horner has said only that neither matter has been determined and that more work is needed in studying the dozens of requests for additions to or changes in the statutes before the next legislature meets in the 1937 regular session.

Previous indications were that the Fifty-ninth general assembly's first special session might begin its work around the first of October. The best information at the statehouse now is that it might be that time before the governor can select the topics on which the legislature will act.

The administration's desire to eliminate controversial matters encountered difficulties on the major question—state coöperation with the new Roosevelt social security program. Revision of the new old age pension law to conform with the federal statute will be the first business of the legislature.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR 3D WOMAN CONGRESS HERE

Problems of the Nation to Be Discussed.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.
[Woman's Editor.]

Of paramount interest to women throughout the United States is the announcement this morning of the plans for the third annual woman congress sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The congress is to be held Thursday and Friday, Feb. 13 and 14, in the Palmer house, Chicago.

Proof of the important position it has won among women generally is found in the hundreds of inquiries concerning the 1936 assembly that have reached THE TRIBUNE during the last six weeks. They range from a letter written by a New York society leader to a telegram from a college dean in the state of Washington.

Last Session Overcrowded.

The scope of the program is in large part responsible for this widespread interest. More than 5,000 women—club and society leaders, housewives, business executives, and professional women—crowded the sessions last winter while several thousand more clamored for tickets of admission.

At the congress next February, international figures in politics, industry, science, and the arts will be presented in discussions of modern problems of the home, the nation, and the world.

On the threshold of 1936 these pronouncements will be of especial importance. The approaching presidential campaign will be analyzed and interpreted by representatives of the major political parties. Emphasis will be given the international situation, particularly the question of America's neutrality in the event of another war.

Art and Science to Be Topics.

There will be discussions of literary and artistic trends by men and women whose names make news. Vital findings in science and medicine will be reviewed by authorities and so will problems that are close to the home.

The woman congress will be brought to order at noon on Feb. 13. The first session will be brief but vital in its ceremony and review of what is to come.

There will be afternoon and evening programs that day, and morning and afternoon sessions the day following. A new feature this year will be the formal dinner Friday evening, Feb. 14, in which the congress will reach its climax. The dinner will be sponsored by a committee of women distinguished in the central west.

No Admission to Be Charged.

All women interested in current affairs, in the progress and problems of civilization, no matter what their vocation or avocation, are invited by THE TRIBUNE to attend the meetings. There will be no admission charges, but because of the limited seating capacity tickets will be issued for each session.

Offices for the woman congress have been established in Room 1418, Tribune Tower. Telephone communications may be made through Superior 0100, local 710.

CALMER BARNES, FAMED IN GOLD RUSH TALES, DIES

Tuscola, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Calmer Barnes of Arcola, who achieved fame in shooting the White Horse rapids during the gold rush in the Klondike, died at a hospital here Friday night of a heart ailment. He was about 72 years old.

His death recalled the daring exploits of Barnes and his twin brother, Dr. Omar Barnes, in the days when they carried gold-crazed passengers and their baggage through the swirling White Horse waters.

A man of heroic courage, Calmer Barnes is said to have submitted to an operation by his brother in which the former's leg was amputated with a pen knife. The amputation was performed after Barnes had become entangled in a tow rope.

F. W. Langley, Prominent Architect, Dies in Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Frederick William Langley, 63, widely known as an architect in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, and other parts of the United States, died here yesterday. He was born and educated in Toronto and 45 years ago went to the United States.

SLAVERY QUIZ ON AFRICAN WOMEN VOTED BY LEAGUE

Reports Claim Girls Are Inherited.

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Buying, selling, and inheriting of women slaves in Africa came before league of nations committeemen today as the assembly's juridical commission recommended an inquiry into world-wide appeals for sex equality in all fields.

The slavery complaint was not the chief of those brought by women's organizations, but it brought the commission close to a phase of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. Premier Mussolini has complained that existence of slavery in Ethiopia is a bar to that country's claims to an equal footing with Italy in world opinion.

The chief complaint of world-wide women's organizations was that women were being thrown out of work on the theory that jobs belong to the male members of families.

Claims Women Inherited.

The slavery reports submitted to the women's consultative committee charged that the native woman in some parts of British territories in Africa is "so completely property that she is not only purchased and bartered but inherited."

"The unmarried girl whose father dies is assessed as goods shared by the male heir," one report said.

In the French territories of West Africa, another charge read, "a rich man can buy as many wives as he likes; they are in reality his slaves, working for their master."

Refer Question to Governments.

The juridical commission adopted by a vote of 30 to 1 a draft resolution submitted by the Irish delegation instructing the league's secretary general to refer the question of the political and civil status of women to their respective governments for their observations.

The governments would be asked for suggestions on what action they believed the league could take in the matter. The governments would also be asked, under this resolution, to furnish detailed information regarding the existing civil status of women under their respective national laws.

Belgium voted against the resolution. Three other delegations abstained from voting.

CHARLES LOESBY DIES; A VETERAN OF SPANISH WAR

Funeral services for Charles N. Loesby, veteran of the Spanish-American war, and the campaigns in the Philippine Islands, will be held tomorrow morning from the home, 6338 Waveland avenue, to St. Pascal church, and burial will be in All Saints cemetery.

Mr. Loesby, who was 63 years old, died Thursday in the Hines Memorial hospital after a long illness.

He enlisted in the regular army on Dec. 12, 1896, and served with troops K and L of the 4th United States Cavalry. After active service both in Cuba and the Philippines, he was mustered out of service as a first sergeant. His widow, Mamie, survives.

G. E. Patterson, Official of I. C., Buried in Farina

Burial services were held yesterday at Farina, Ill., for G. E. Patterson, manager of personnel and former vice president and general manager of the Illinois Central railroad, who died on Wednesday. Mr. Patterson was station agent at Farina during the 1890's and prior to his death expressed a wish to be buried there. Friends, relatives, and co-workers left for Farina yesterday in special cars attached to a regular Illinois Central train and returned on a special train after the burial services.

F. C. Babbitt, Discoverer of Ruins in Corinth, Dies

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Frank Cole Babbitt, 68, Hobart professor of Greek language and literature at Trinity college and secretary and senior member of the faculty, died today at his home here, after a year's illness. The discoverer of important ruins in ancient Corinth, he was one of the outstanding classical scholars in the United States. He discovered the old Greek theater at Corinth in 1895. He was author of a Greek grammar and the translator of Plutarch's "Moralia."

Stuart Maclean, Widely Known Musician, Is Dead

Cornwall, N. Y., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Stuart Maclean, 62, head of the English department at Storm King Preparatory school and widely known as a dramatic and music critic, organist, and voice teacher, died this afternoon after a long illness.

H. F. HARRINGTON DIES; TEACHER OF JOURNALISM

Head of Medill School Passes at 53.

Harry Franklin Harrington, 53 years old, head of the Medill School of Journalism since its inception in 1921 and author of several journalism textbooks, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home in Evanston yesterday. He had been ill about ten days.

An enthusiastic advocate of the modern newspaper contrasted with passionately partisan newspapers of other days, Prof. Harrington continually cautioned his students to help make newspapers "quick with life and having the breath of humanity." He opposed yellow journalism and once said: "You don't take the rowdy, the vulgarian home with you and put him in an easy chair to fill the house with the lewdness of the town."

Holder of Several Degrees.

Prof. Harrington's first city newspaper work was on the Ohio State Journal after he had taken degrees at the University of Wooster, Ohio State, and Columbia universities. Also he had been employed by the London, O., Times. In 1909 he began teaching English at Ohio Wesleyan university and a year later went to Ohio State, where he remained for four years, teaching English and directing courses in journalism.

The next year Prof. Harrington taught at the University of Kansas and in 1914 went to the University of Illinois, where he remained in the journalism department until coming to Northwestern as director of Medill school.

During his tenure at Medill, Prof. Harrington was in demand as a visiting professor and addressed journalism classes at the University of Wisconsin, Columbia university, and the southern division of the University of California. Also he was editorial adviser to Harper and Brothers, publishers, and wrote editorials for the Christian Science Monitor.

A Pioneer Journalism Teacher.

Among books he wrote were "Essentials in Journalism," "Typical Newspaper Stories," and "Writing for Print." He was considered one of the pioneers in the systematic teaching of journalism.

Prof. Harrington was past president of the American Association of Journalism Teachers and of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity. He was a member of the University club in Evanston and of the Chicago Rotary club.

He is survived by his widow, the former Freida Poston of Crawfordsville, Ind. The Harrington home is at 2214 Lincoln street, Evanston.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in the First Methodist church of Evanston. Burial will take place in Attica, Ind., the home of Prof. Harrington's wife's parents.

AMY SHERWIN OF OPERATIC FAME DIES PENNILESS

BROMLEY, Kent, England, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Amy Sherwin, noted operatic soprano, died here today. She was 81 years of age. The singer, who once filled the concert halls of America with her golden voice and earned as much as $15,000 yearly, died almost forgotten, lonely, and penniless.

Living in fine style had depleted her resources and charges of the nursing home where she died had been paid by charity.

Born in Tasmania, she made her debut in Melbourne and came to the United States in 1880 to create the rôle of Marguerite in Berlioz's "Faust." That was five years before she appeared in London. Later she toured many countries.

"Aunt Susan" Parsons, 98, Dies; Had 500 Descendants

Whitesburg, Ky., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Aunt Susan Parsons, 98 years old, died at Harolds Branch after an illness of a few days. She spent much of her time reading the Bible. She was the mother of twelve children, all living, the oldest being past 80. Her descendants number nearly five hundred.

Ex-Congressman Blackburn Is Dead in Lexington, Ky.

JACOB PENDER, 86, PIONEER DAY MINISTER, DIES

The Rev. Jacob Thomas Pender, D. D., 86 years old, of St. Petersburg, Fla., pioneer Methodist Episcopal minister and father of the Rev. Thomas M. Pender, pastor of St. James Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago, died in St. Luke's hospital here yesterday of complications following an operation.

A native of Kentucky, the Rev. Dr. Pender was one of the early "circuit riders" who covered a large territory in Kentucky and Tennessee. During the reconstruction period after the civil war, his family said, the Rev. Dr. Pender was attacked by Ku Klux Klansmen and until his death wore a silver plate in his head because of the injury.

Prior to his retirement in 1919, the Rev. Dr. Pender served churches in southern Illinois, Denver and in the Pittsburgh conference. In addition to the Rev. Thomas Pender, he is survived by five other children. Funeral services will be held here tomorrow afternoon in St. James church and burial will be in Madisonville, Ky.

CONTEST $60,000 WILL OF AN AGED MAN AS FORGERY

A suit to set aside the will of Thomas May, 85 years old, who died on Dec. 26, 1934, four days after the will was drawn and signed, was begun yesterday in the Circuit court by four grandchildren against two sons of the aged man. The complainants charge the will was forged. Defendants named are Thomas D. May, 3329 Pierce avenue, and Albert May, 1258 North Mansfield avenue. Plaintifs are Eva May Johnson of San Francisco, Cal.; Jeanette and Mabel Cox, 3203 Clinton avenue, Berwyn, and Thomas Gilbert Cox, 1436 South Home avenue, Berwyn. The latter four are children of two deceased daughters of the deceased May.

According to the bill, which was filed by Attorney Gaylord A. Taft, May left an estate of $60,000, of which $6,000 was left to a housekeeper, and the balance to the two sons, in the will which is being fought. The bill alleges that for a long period preceding his death May was physically and mentally unable to sign a will.

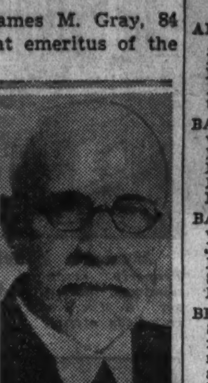
REV. JAMES GRAY DIES; EX-HEAD OF MOODY INSTITUTE

Noted Fundamentalist, 84, Heart Attack Victim.



JAMES M. GRAY.

The Rev. Dr. James M. Gray, 84 years old, president emeritus of the Moody Bible Institute and a leader in its activities for forty years, died yesterday in the Passavant hospital, where he was taken last Sunday after a heart attack. He resigned the presidency of the institute last Nov. 4 and was succeeded by the Rev. Will H. Houghton of New York. However, the Rev. Dr. Gray retained the title of president emeritus, the editorship of the institute's monthly publication, and his place on the faculty.

The veteran clergyman, whose home was at 29 East Division street, was the author of many books on religion, including histories, prophecies, and explanations of the Bible.

Bitter Foe of Pacifists.

Dr. Gray was a noted fundamentalist, basing his beliefs on the Bible. So strong was his stand against pacifists that in 1923 he was appointed a member of the committee of 100 on national defense.

Dr. Gray succeeded the Rev. R. A. Torrey, first president of the institute, as pastor of the Moody church. He was an associate of the founder of the Moody institute and previously was pastor of the First Reformed Episcopal church of Boston for sixteen years. He was educated for the Protestant Episcopal ministry, but early showed preference for the Reformed denomination.

Funeral to Be Private.

Surviving Dr. Gray are his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Florence Ryder Gray, and his grandson, James M. Gray III., who made their home with the clergyman. He is also survived by three sons, Dr. Hugh B. Gray, M. D., of Boston; Curtis R. Gray, Holland, Mich., and Kenneth M. Gray, Ridgefield, Conn.

The body of Dr. Gray will lie in the auditorium of the Moody institute, Chicago avenue and La Salle street, today from 1 to 4 p. m.

Private funeral services will be held at the residence tomorrow morning and the body will be sent to New York City, birthplace of Dr. Gray, for burial Tuesday.

FRENCH FASCIST ARMY MOBILIZES 'AT DAWN' TODAY

Thousands to Hail Victory at the Marne.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Leaders of the Croix de Feu [Cross of Fire] nationalist veterans' organization announced late tonight they had summoned the "million members" of the association to mobilize at dawn in a demonstration "to glorify the anniversary of the Marne victory."

Previously considerable mystery had attached to the call. The leaders explained that the plan had been kept secert "to prevent the usual attacks from anti-patriotic elements."

The rank and file of the followers of Col. François de la Rocque, the Fascist leader who would be dictator of France, were kept in ignorance of the purpose of the mobilization.

The nation's communist leaders warned their cohorts to "be on guard," and the usual Sunday gatherings of Leftists in the "red ring" of workers' suburbs around Paris will scan the highways on the outskirts of the city for any sign of their bitter enemies.

To Leave Homes at Dawn.

The Croix de Feu thousands were told to prepare to leave their homes at dawn, when they will be advised of three assembly points. They were instructed to take enough food for one day because they will meet in open fields far from the villages.

Nationalist sources which claim one million members for the Croix de Feu said they expected between 75,000 and 100,000 to attend each meeting. They will join in a single huge assembly under Col. De La Rocque later in the day.

Whether the mobilization order covers only the Paris region or a larger territory was not immediately known.

Vote to Increase Armaments.

Earlier in the day the French government decided upon a huge increase in armaments in view of a threatened Ethiopian war and its possible dangerous consequences. The decision to boost the 1936 defense appropriations was reached at a cabinet meeting at Rambouillet, summer home of President Albert Lebrun. No announcement was made on the question of taking economic or military penalties against Italy.

Most of 6½ billion francs [about $430,000,000] of the extraordinary budget will be for national defense. Marcel Regnier, minister of finance, will borrow the money.

Normal Figures Not Announced.

The normal defense budget figures were not announced, but nothing was said about a reduction from the 1935 figures of 10 billion, 622 million francs, with one-third additional authorized later.

Premier Pierre Laval hoped to have Great Britain's answer to his question of whether she would be so firm for league of nations action against future aggressors as she is against Benito Mussolini, but no answer came, it was authoritatively reported.

Laval, upon news Italy had rejected the league's peace plan, canceled a country rest and returned to his desk here.

The ministers, failing to solve their biggest problem, that of how far to go with London, took steps to put the domestic house in order.

Plans were approved to proceed "with pitiless rigor" against those refusing to pay taxes with evident bad faith. A decree was passed retaliating against nations restricting the travel of their citizens in France, by applying a special passport stamp. In some cases Frenchmen must pay a maximum of 5,000 francs to enter such countries. [A franc is currently quoted at 6.58 cents.]

FIRE VISIBLE FOR 30 MILES RAZES RECREATION PARK

Russels Point, O., Sept. 21.—(AP)—A spectacular fire visible for 30 miles swept the dance hall and amusement park of this summer resort tonight and threatened for a time to spread to the numerous summer cottages on the banks of Indian lake.

A. L. Moler, manager, asserted an explosion occurred in the hall just before the blaze started. He estimated damage at $100,000. He added that windows of the hall, boarded up for the winter, had been torn open.

Firemen from Lima, 25 miles away; Bellefontaine, Bell Center, and Lakeview joined the Russells Point squad and fought the blaze for more than two hours before bringing it under control.

VACATION TOURS 'PRIME PUMP' TO TUNE OF 4 BILLION

Motorists of the United States have spent approximately 4 billion dollars for recreational touring during the record season now drawing to a close. The estimate was published yesterday by the American Automobile association as a preliminary report on a national survey.

The total expenditures, only slightly less than the amount of the federal government's work relief appropriation, represent an increase of between 15 and 16 per cent over the similar figure for 1934. There were 37,000,000 persons who took vacations awheel this year, traveling in 11,000,000 automobiles.

The vacation dollars took a quick turnover in business channels, exerting a maximum of influence upon the country's general economics. For transportation, $800,000,000 was used for gasoline, garage storage, repairs, car service and such items. One billion is the estimate of incidental purchases.

The association based its estimates on gasoline consumption on reports from its affiliated clubs throughout the country, aproaching 1,000 in number. A further gauge came from the national parks, where actual tallies at the gates are approaching 3,000,000 for this year, an increase of 15 per cent over 1934.

2 Boys Burned to Death; Mother of One Is Injured

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Two boys were killed and the mother of one of them seriously burned shortly after midnight when a fire swept through the attic of a two story stucco dwelling in Howard Beach, Queens, N. Y. The boys, John Conmy, 12, and his cousin, John Duane, 14, were asleep in the attic when the fire started. In the living room at the time were their mothers, Mrs. Dora Conmy and Mrs. John Duane of the Bronx, who, with her son, was visiting the Conmy family. They called to the boys to flee, but they were trapped by the flames.

SURFACE AND 'L' TRANSFER PLAN PUT INTO EFFECT

Trip by Notables Marks Start of Service.

The long awaited joint transfer system between the elevated and surface lines, providing for a 10 cent joint service fare, went into effect at 1 minute after midnight this morning. Ceremonies to celebrate the inauguration of the transfers which are expected to be of great service and saving to users of the city traction systems will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Ravenswood terminal of the "L," Kimball and Lawrence avenues.

Among the city officials who have been invited to take part in this ceremory are Mayor Kelly, sponsor of the new transfer system; Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer, of the Illinois commerce commission, which instituted the system as a one year experiment, and representatives of the two companies.

Special Transfer Trip.

The party will board a special surface lines car at Austin and Lawrence avenues and go to the "L" terminal where transfers from the surface to the elevated system will be issued.

Inauguration of the system is believed by officials of the commerce commission to be the first time in this country that two competing public service companies have united in issuing joint transfers.

Mayor Kelly yesterday remarked that the one year experiment, which provides for 52 transfer points throughout the city, is one part in his objective to bring about a complete universal transfer system at all street car-elevated-bus crossings.

William H. Sexton, attorney for the committee, returned yesterday from his vacation, and declared he hoped that organization of the ordinance will proceed swiftly. Representatives of the three transit companies will take part in the discussions, and Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] said he would present the result of a survey of New York's traction problems, just completed by himself and other members of the committee.

Under the terms of the commerce commission's order, a 10 cent fare entitles a rider to one trip on the "L" and as many changes of street cars as are needed to take the most direct route to his destination. After once leaving the "L," however, the rider cannot transfer back to it during the same continuous trip. No transfer from the "L" wil be valid unless it is stamped in the automatic stamping machines which have been placed at the fifty-two transfer points. A reasonable amount of time is allowed at these points.

Move Begun in 1930.

In 1930 the first ordinance to provide for a universal transfer was drawn up, largely under the direction of Samuel Insull. It provided for unification of the two traction systems, both in operation and corporate structure. A year and a half later it was discarded after Mayor Kelly pointed out various undesirable features.

A committee was appointed to draft a new ordinance. Meanwhile Mayor Kelly began agitation for immediate installation of the universal transfer. The city filed a petition with the commerce commission. After extended hearings an order was issued for a one year experiment to be made permanent if found to be workable.

6 Unhappy Brides Drown Selves in Suicide Pact

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21.—[U. P.]—Seven women, six of them recent brides, drowned themselves today at Hwaian, Fukien province, in a suicide pact. Domestic unhappiness led to the mass suicide, the second of its kind within 15 months in the same district.

CUB FANS, FREED OF 'RUSH TRAFIC' PLAN, DASH HOME

Speed Suggests a System for World Series.

BY HAL FOUST.

Yesterday's experience in the dispersal of more than 38,500 persons from Wrigley field demonstrated one measure to aid trafic at the prospective world series. It being a Saturday afternoon, the Chicago park district's peculiar arrangement for rush hour motor transportation was not in operation, so the Cub fans escaped the Lake Shore drive and Lincoln park blockades that followed the games earlier in the week.

"We already contemplate such a measure," said Otto K. Jelinek, engineer for the park district, when told of the favorable results from the suspension of his unique rush hour control system. "The final plans for the world series crowds are sure to include the surrender of half of Lake Shore drive and half the pavement through the park to fans southbound from the game.

Effect of Singular System.

On all days except Saturdays and Sundays, the southbound trafic has but three lanes in Lake Shore drive and two lanes through the park during the evening rush hour while northbound has seven lanes.

Congestion was particularly acute during the heavy attendance of the Giant series earlier in the week when it was not unusual to require 45 to 55 minutes to drive from the ball park to North avenue and Lake Shore drive.

Not only have fans been discommoded but the regular trafic of motorists southbound on business or social errands has suffered from this congestion. There has been agitation to abandon the north side trafic scheme, thus penalizing homeward bound loop workers and shoppers of late afternoon. The agitation has not grown because the park district plans a reform with construction proposed in a pending application for federal "easy money."

THE TRIBUNE roadster was driven to yesterday's game with a Pinkerton operative and with George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, to discover any further suggestions that might be made for handling world series crowds. The detective, whose specialty is automobile thieves, surveyed the "watch-cher-car" system at the game.

"These are mainly just neighborhood kids," said the Pinkerton man of the lads who were collecting 25 cents per car for parking at the curb, on parkways and in alleys. "They don't molest cars, but they're exposed to association with car thieves."

Some sympathy for the curb watchers was due after parking THE TRIBUNE roadster in a gas station lot across from the park. With the rise in attendance at the games, the parking fee has been boosted from 50 cents to $1.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The item in early editions of yesterday's TRIBUNE said teacher apprentices in the Chicago school system will receive regular secondary teaching certificates on completing their apprenticeships. This was in error. They will receive credit for two years of outside teaching experience.

AFRAID

to see the Doctor

When you get an ache or a pain, what do you do? Obtain a friend's opinion? Treat yourself? Or see a doctor?

The average person's tendency is to put off seeing the doctor as long as possible, in the hope that his ailment is a minor one, and that some home remedy or treatment will prove adequate.

Fear that a doctor's diagnosis will show there is something seriously wrong, and fear that the doctor's fee will be prohibitive—are the reasons that daily keep thousands of sick people from receiving proper medical attention.

Do not make the mistake of minimizing or attempting to diagnose your own ills. At the first hint of trouble, it will pay you to obtain responsible medical attention, immediately. Because—

1. You may discover that you are worrying needlessly, and that your condition will readily respond to treatment.
2. Disease can usually be quickly checked when diagnosed in the early stage, before being allowed to gain a dangerous foothold.
3. Disease that is advanced, may often be controlled, and many happy, useful years added to your lifetime.
4. The Civic Medical Center makes it possible to secure dependable, experienced medical care—the services of specialists in every field of medicine—at fees well within the reach of people of modest means.

Because the Civic Medical Center has brought together specialists of experience and character in all divisons of medicine and surgery; established them in one co-ordinated institution where every modern facility and special apparatus necessary to complete diagnosis and treatment is assembled—you can be confident that your case will be given immediate, complete, personal and sympathetic attention—at low cost to you.

MANSCO WINS $5,000 JUVENILE STAKE BY 1½ LENGTHS

SCORES THIRD STRAIGHT WITH 120 POUNDS UP

Kentucky Blues 2d at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Mansco, a big, long striding chestnut gelding owned by Tom Worden of Chicago, is the best 2 year old now racing in the west. There is no doubt about that.

Carrying top weight of 120 pounds, he galloped to victory in the ninth running of the $5,000 added Hawthorne Juvenile handicap yesterday afternoon. He forced the early pace and dashed into the lead at the head of the stretch. Gradually he pulled away from his nine rivals and at the finish was running easily a length and a half in front.

Kentucky Blues, from the Rosedale stable of New York, finished second. Miss Diavolo, a Texas filly from the Valdina Farm stable, was third, and her stable companion, Sir Emerson, finished fourth after moving up from last place into a contending position during the run down the stretch.

That's Three for Mansco.

It was the third straight victory Mansco has scored during his dash toward the western 2 year old title. He won the $5,000 Joliet stakes at Lincoln Fields just before that meeting closed. At Hawthorne a week ago he scored in a close finish against the topnotchers at the course.

Mansco, a son of Polymelian-Griselda, has been slow in developing. His start in the Hawthorne Juvenile was the ninth of his career. He has won five of them, and his dash down the stretch in the Hawthorne indicated he may be as good as any juvenile in the country.

There was a jam as the field neared the turn when Kentucky Blues, showing a great burst of speed, crossed over sharply in front of her rivals. The move knocked three or four horses completely out of the race. It enabled Kentucky Blues to romp into a lead of three lengths at the head of the stretch.

Kentucky Blues Is Second.

Mansco hugged the rail, however, and once straightened out for the drive home soon overtook Kentucky Blues. He romped on to a comfortable lead and was content to hold it for the rest of the journey. Kentucky Blues finished a length in front of Miss Diavolo.

Mansco, ridden by L. Haas, ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5. The first half was run in :46 2-5. In the betting Mansco paid $6.40 to win, $4.60 to place, and $3.00 to show. Kentucky Blues' place price was $8.80 and was at $4.20 to show. Miss Diavolo paid $4.40 to show.

There were two other races on the program that provided plenty of thrills. They were the Congress Hotel handicap at a mile and a sixteenth and the Hawthorne Park purse at six and one-half furlongs.

It's Easy for Nectarine.

Nectarine, the daughter of Bulldog-Rose Leaves, bred on C. B. Shaffer's Coldstream Stud farm, turned in one of the most brilliant performances of the Hawthorne season when she romped home all alone six lengths in front in the Congress.

Nectarine ran her mile and a sixteenth in 1:44, just two-fifths of a second off the track record held by her stable companion, Top Dog. She raced in the silks of Laddie Komorous of Chicago and was slightly neglected in the betting, paying off at $10.40.

Swiftsport was the favorite in the Hawthorne Park purse, but gave his army of backers plenty of worry when he raced far back in the early stages. In the final furlong he began to improve his position and got up just in time to win by a nose in the final stride. Recovery, the hottest tip of the afternoon, was second and old Cotton Club was right with the two leaders but back in third place. Swiftsport races for Tony Pelleteri of New Orleans and paid $5.80 in the betting.

Cardinals Lose to Reds; Tigers Clinch Pennant

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds delivered a blow to the Cardinal's pennant hopes today, defeating St. Louis, 9 to 7, as the Chicago Cubs continued their long winning streak.

Cincinnati, erstwhile St. Louis cousins, were all but that as they battled the Cardinals, climaxing their assault with a three-run rally in the ninth.

Manager Frank Frisch started Paul Dean, but he was off form and yielded 11 hits and six runs before he was taken out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning. Ed Heusser was pounded for the three winning Cincinnati runs.

Three Homers Help Reds.

The Cardinals did not go down to defeat easily. In the eighth inning, they staged a three-run rally to tie the score at six-all. A ninth-inning drive fell short after one run had crossed the plate.

Two home runs by Herman and one by Lombardi were the big factors in the Cincinnati victory, although Riggs' triple with two on in the ninth was the decisive hit. Manager Frank Frisch led the Cardinals' 14 hit attack on Tony Freitas and Paul Derringer with four singles.

Goodman's error on Medwick's single let manager Frisch score the futile ninth inning run. Score:

TIGERS WIN PAIR

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers, behind brilliant pitching by two of their four mound stars, mathematically clinched a second consecutive American league pennant today by sweeping a double-header with the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 2 and 2 to 0.

Even should Detroit lose all its remaining seven games, the second place New York Yankees, who beat Boston today, could not catch them by sweeping their eight remaining games. If that happened Detroit would have 92 won and 59 lost; New York, 91 won and 59 lost.

Auker Clinches Pennant.

To Elden Auker went the honor of clinching the flag. Auker shut out the Browns in the second game, allowing only six hits. Pete Fox scored both Detroit runs, crossing the plate in the third and again in the fifth on singles by Walker and Gehringer.

In the opener Detroit won behind Tommy Bridges, who struck out eight and allowed only seven hits to win his 21st game of the season. A crowd of 31,000 saw the games, but outside of a few thrown hats and louder cheering there was no demonstration.

NOT EVEN PIRATES CAN STOP CUBS' PENNANT RUSH

Tigers Pick Lucky Hotel (or Do They?)

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Mickey Cochrane, manager of the 1934 and 1935 American league champions, yesterday reserved billets for his outfit at the Edgewater Beach hotel, following the world series precedents of the Philadelphia Athletics in 1929 and the New York Yankees in 1932.

Mickey, who has his superstitions, was one of the boarders and roomers on the 1929 occasion and recalls that the two trips the Athletics made from the Edgewater to Wrigley field resulted in American league victories. He also knows that the Yankees never returned to their cots in that hostelry smarting from defeat.

Sets Some Records.

The first time that Mickey slept in the Edgewater Beach hotel was on the night of Oct. 7, 1929. The next day he rode to Wrigley field and participated in a 3 to 1 Athletic victory, a contest in which there was only one earned run, a homer by Jimmy Foxx. In that game Mickey set the all time record for chances accepted by a catcher in a world series game. He had 14 putouts and one assist. Cochrane made one hit in that game.

Cochrane slept well on the night of Oct. 8 and the next day scored two of the nine runs by which the Athletics beat the Cubs, 9 to 3. This time he tied the all time record for putouts by a catcher in a world series game, but he didn't have an assist. It helped him to another all time record, however, of 61 chances in a series, which stands as the record for all series regardless of the number of games played. His record of 59 putouts also is the all time high.

Lucky for Yanks, Too.

The Yankees in 1932 were lodgers at the north side inn after they had won two games of the world series on their home acreage. On Oct. 1 they careened in a mad bus ride from the hotel to Wrigley field. After the dash they had sufficient time to calm their nerves and whip the Cubs, 7 to 5. That was the day that Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig put on their famous home run show.

The Yanks, too, must have slept well on the shores of Lake Michigan, for on Oct. 2 they shook off the embarrassment of a first inning home run which Frank Demaree made with English and Stephenson on base and marched on to take the series that day, four straight, the verdict for the final afternoon being 13 to 6.

Just Read On, Folks!

But wait. Just to convince you that this is not a plug for the hotel or a jinx buildup for the Cubs, we add this postscript:

The New York Giants were housed at the Edgewater Beach this year. Eight straight times they left the hotel's portals, including last Thursday's departure. And eight straight times they journeyed to Wrigley field to take a licking.

Kentucky Rolls Up 60-0 Victory Over Maryville

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The University of Kentucky Wildcats opened their fall football campaign today against Maryville college by treating 5,000 fans to the most one-sided victory Kentucky supporters have witnessed in seven years. Kentucky rolled up a 60 to 0 score against the Tennessee collegians.

Youthful admirers of Lon Warneke rush to congratulate him as he leaves the mound after stopping the Pirates' rally in the ninth inning.

Louis Ends Boxing Drill for Baer Bout

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Sept. 21.—Joe Louis came through his last sparring drill before meeting Max Baer at Yankee stadium Tuesday night without a scratch. He wasn't even breathing heavily when Trainer Jack Blackburn called a halt today after Louis had gone seven rounds against four partners.

The Black Bomber's final drill was conducted before a crowd of 5,000 that included Gen. John J. H. Phelan, chairman of the New York State Boxing commission; William Brown, member of the board, and Mike Jacobs, promoter of the first million dollar ring show since the death of Tex Rickard.

Dr. William Walker, physician for the commission, examined Louis before he entered the ring, after which he announced that Joe would live for a number of years. Few boxers, possibly none, have been in better shape for the big test of their careers.

Louis Pulls Punches.

Louis happened to be pulling his punches in the two round bouts with Leonard Dixon and Paul Cavalier, the latter a sparring mate for Max Schmeling, Primo Carnera, Jack Sharkey and Max Baer. He opened up, however, in the second round against Bob Moody and almost finished him with terrific wallops to the head.

Moody's nose was the color of a ripe tomato at the end. The workout was concluded with one round of fast boxing with Roy Williams, Chicago 175 pounder.

Louis will do nothing more than road work tomorrow and on Monday will limit his exercise to little shadow boxing and rope skipping. He will not go to New York until Tuesday morning, just in time for the weighing in at the commission offices.

Max Better Button Up.

Miss Marva Trotter, of Chicago, Louis' fiancée, arrived today and will

WARNEKE STOPS PIRATES IN 9TH, 4-3; CARDS LOSE

Galan Hits Homer as 38,624 Cheer.

Need Three More

With six more games to play, the Cubs will become 1935 National league pennant winners if they play no better than .500 ball. The St. Louis Cardinals still have nine games on their schedule and the New York Giants twelve.

The Cubs, without allowing for the help they may get by a defeat of St. Louis today, tomorrow, or Tuesday, can definitly clinch the flag by winning today and taking two out of five at St. Louis.

If the Cubs win three more, the Cards win seven out of nine, and the Giants win all their remaining twelve, the standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	99	55	.643
St. Louis	98	56	.636
New York	97	57	.630

If the Cubs lose today and the Cards win their next four the Cubs would have to win three at St. Louis to finish ahead.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The first place Cubs, pennant bound by way of St. Louis, raced on to their seventeenth straight victory yesterday, but encountered difficulties. Charging into the ninth inning with a three run lead, the finishing touch appeared to be a mere formality for the league leaders. But Pittsburgh's Pirates suddenly rose up menacingly, knocked their nemesis, Roy [Lefty] Henshaw, out of the picture, scored two runs before anybody was out, and then proceeded to surrender before the pitching of Rescuer Lon Warneke. The score was 4 to 3.

While the gay north siders were tearing along to No. 17 the second place Cardinals were falling before the Cincinnati Reds, whom they always have regarded as cousins. The rout of the second place world champions dropped them to 3½ games behind the pace making Chicagoans. Victory for the Cubs today over the Pirates and two out of five in the concluding series at St. Louis, starting Wednesday, now is all that is needed to lift Charley Grimm's team into a title rating.

Galan's Homer Decides It.

The Cubs, even though the dizzy ninth had them on the ropes for a few minutes, were the same relentless gang that has carried through the seventeen triumphs in a row. They were sensational in most of their fielding efforts behind the tiny Henshaw, and they hit just enough against their old pal, Guy Bush, to keep the ninth inning blowoff from growing into a disaster. The life saving margin really came from Augie Galan. He knocked homer No. 12 with one on base.

Bush, jeered by some of the 38,624, one-third of them women guests, because of his apparent ambition to heap vengeance on his former teammates, could hold off the Cub attack only for four innings. In the fifth he cracked behind an error and Billy Herman and Fred Lindstrom crashed through the opening with singles that eventually blossomed into two runs. Then in the sixth Galan furnished the margin so helpful at the end. He dropped his homer into the bleacher in right for two runs. The Cubs' attack was pretty well stilled after that, both by Bush and Ralph Lefty Birkofer, who worked the eighth.

vorite team, Henshaw, while progressing toward his seventh triumph of the season over the Pirates, stopped them on two hits in seven innings. Both the hits were by Cookie Lavagetto.

Lavagetto hit another in the eighth and this was linked with a single by Padden to score what was regarded as a harmless run. But four men in succession singled in the ninth, two scoring, and away went Henshaw. Warneke took over the job with two on and none out. A sacrifice play failed and Warneke did the rest, although adding to the complicated situation by filling the bases on a pass before the last out was recorded.

There wasn't a hit produced by either faction until two Pirates were out in the second. Then Lavagetto singled over short. Hartnett closed the inning by scooting back to the screen for Suhr's pop foul. The Cubs also came up with their initial hit in the second and besides were treated to a pass, but nothing happened. Demaree singled to center with one out and continued to second on Lloyd Waner's fumble of the hit. A one-handed pickup by Young cost Cavarretta a hit, Demaree going to third. Then Hack walked, a more or less intentional maneuver, but Jurges flied to Hafey.

Herman Hits 55th Double.

The Pirates did nothing except walk up and walk back in the third, but the Cubs made a mild threat on Herman's 55th double in their portion of the inning. With two out, Herman survived when Padden dropped a pop foul. He then lined safely to right and the ball bounced past Hafey for an extra base. All that Lindstrom could do about this was to slap an easy grounder to Vaughan.

The fourth also was a series of blanks for the Pirates. The Cub half opened with a pass to Hartnett, who was shoved to second on Demaree's bunt. Hafey took a fly off Cavarretta's bat. Hack walked for the second straight time, and for the second straight time Bush made a victim of Jurges with men on the bases. Jurges rolled to Vaughan for a force play on Hack at second.

For the first time in the struggle Henshaw was confronted by real difficulties in the fifth. Lavagetto knocked a two bagger to left with one out and took third when Herman fumbled Suhr's bounder. Then the defense rallied behind the half pint southpaw. Jurges leaped on a poke by Padden and shot the ball to Herman to force Suhr, and Herman rifled the ball to Cavarretta to complete a badly needed double play.

Cubs Push Over Two.

The bit of action that sent the Cubs out in front with two runs in the fifth got under way on Henshaw's grounder which Lavagetto fumbled. Galan bunted, but Padden made the throw to Vaughan at second and Henshaw was forced. Herman clicked a single between Young and Suhr, Galan racing to third. Lindstrom responded with a single through short, Galan going home. One of Bush's wide pitches nicked Hartnett on the left elbow, filling the bases. Herman sprinted across the plate while Hartnett was being forced on Demaree's tap to Young. Cavarretta popped to Lavagetto for the third out.

The Pirates were dropped in order again in the sixth, one of them because of a sparkling stop by Jurges, and the Cubs then proceeded to double their lead with two runs in their half. Bush fanned Hack and nailed Jurges on a fly ball before anything of a troublesome nature arose. Henshaw bounced a tantalizing single past Bush and Vaughan. The next party to be heard from was Galan. He ran the count to 2 and 1 and then smashed his No. 12 homer into the right field bleachers.

Demaree Gets No Help.

Demaree endeavored to launch another busy session for Bush in the seventh. He singled to left after Hartnett had popped to Young. Cavarretta lifted an easy fly to Hafey. Hack went out the same way, but to get this one the former Sox rookie had to sprint back to the fence.

Lavagetto slipped it over on Henshaw for the third time in the eighth. He walloped his second double against the wall in the left field corner to start the inning. Jurges stepped back into short left for Suhr's pop fly. shaw for the third time in the eighth. Padden, whose double play ball was of great help to the Cubs in the fifth, then singled to left and Lavagetto scored. Thevenow batted for Bush, but the latter could at least have done as well. The pinch man grounded to Herman and a lightning double play was fabricated.

Too Many Hits for Henshaw.

The shelling that sent Henshaw staggering to the showers in the wild ninth started with Jensen's single to Herman. Hafey rammed a single into center. L. Waner loped a single over first and Jensen dashed home while Hafey went to third. Vaughan's grounder got past Cavarretta and Herman grabbed the ball back on the grass, but first base was uncovered and it went for a hit, Hafey scoring. This completed Henshaw's stay in office.

Warneke strolled in with none out and men on first and second. The Pirates tried to sacrifice, but Warneke picked up Young's bunt and whipped it to Hack in time to force L. Waner. Lavagetto's drive bounced into Jurges' hands and his throw to Herman forced Young at second. A double play was lost when Herman's relay to first pulled Cavarretta off the bag. A pass to Suhr loaded the bases. Red Lucas was rushed forth to bat for Padden and the crowd gasped when Warneke pitched himself into a 3 and 2 hole. But on the next pitch Lucas bounced to Herman and a throw to first ended the struggle.

ALL IN A DAY WHEN CUBS WELDED LINK 17 IN VICTORY CHAIN

Members of the Cubs gather around Gabby Hartnett to learn if he was badly hurt after being hit on arm by one of Guy Bush's pitches in fifth inning. Gabby quickly shook off the effects of coming in contact with the ball and was awarded first base.

Yanks' 3 Runs in Fifth Beat Red Sox, 5-2

Boston, Mass., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Yankees did their best to stay in the pennant race today when they defeated the Red Sox, 5 to 2, in the series opener as Johnny Murphy pitched seven hit ball for his ninth victory of the season.

A three run attack against Jack Wilson in the fifth broke a tie score and won for the Yanks. Murphy's single and Ben Chapman's liner, which bounded past Dusty Cooke for a triple, brought in two runs. Wilson then walked Lou Gehrig and had two balls on George Selkirk when Gordon Rhodes replaced him. Selkirk then singled to drive in the third tally.

The Red Sox scored their second run in the same inning, but the Yanks evened that one in the seventh to hold their lead. Score:

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Washington defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 4, in the second game of a double header today after losing the first, 4 to 1.

Continuing his experimentation with rookie talent, Manager Bucky Harris of the Senators sent left-handed Dick Lanahan to the mound in the opener. He lasted 8 1-3 innings after yielding nine hits and as many walks. Rookies Lewis and Mihalic were at third base and shortstop, respectively. Marcum went nine innings for the Athletics.

Henry Coppola, youthful Washington right-hander, yielded 11 hits in the second game, but was effective with men on bases. Cramer, Athletics outfielder, had a perfect day at bat in the second with four hits in as many trips to the plate. Score:

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Giants, back from a western trip that put them out of the pennant race in all but the mathematical possibilities table, broke even with the Dodgers in a double-header today. They won the opener, 3 to 2, in eleven innings, then took a 13 to 6 beating.

Harry Gumbert, rookie from Baltimore, went the route in the first encounter, yielding only seven hits and winning over Watson Clark and Johnny Babich. Travis Jackson drove in all the Giant runs, hitting a homer with one on in the fourth and driving home Phil Weintraub with a single in the eleventh.

PHILS, BRAVES SPLIT.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Phillies and Braves divided a double header today. The Phils captured the first game 6 to 0 as Curt Davis held Boston to six hits and won his 16th triumph of the year. Boston won the second game 4 to 0 when Betts held the Phillies to three hits.

Home runs played a big part in both triumphs. In the first game Todd and Allen accounted for four of the Phillies' runs while Tyler and Berger drove in three of the four Boston tallies with homers in the second game. Score:

Pekin, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Pekin opened its football season today with a 37 to 6 victory over University High of Normal, Ill.

CUBS-CARDINAL SERIES TO GO ON AIR OVER W-G-N

W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station, which has broadcast all games at Wrigley field this summer, will follow the pennant bound Cubs to St. Louis this week, where the Cubs meet the Cardinals in a five game series, starting Wednesday.

Bob Elson, who handles W-G-N baseball broadcasts, will be at the microphone Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and perhaps Sunday, when the National league season ends. The first three games will be broadcast at 3:45 p. m. Chicago time. The Saturday contest will be heard fifteen minutes earlier.

The Sunday game will be broadcast only if there is a sellout at Sportsman's park, home of the Cardinals, unless the Cardinals waive the rule in effect throughout the season.

Cubs Finish Home Work Today, but They'll Be Back

The Cubs will close their home season today but expect to be back for a world series showing. Larry French will try to southpaw his old Pirate mates into submission this afternoon. The Pirates will start Cy Blanton.

Guy Bush at least had the satisfaction of learning he had more friends than enemies among the multitude present. He was handed a healthy boo when he first appeared but the applause was even stronger.

When Frank Demaree slid into second on a fumble by Lloyd Waner in the second he jammed his left hand into the dirt but a bit of massaging of the injured spot soon fixed him up.

Some of the parking lot proprietors around the ball park are getting themselves in trim for possible world series business. They were asking $1 per vehicle yesterday.

The count on the attendance was 26,124 paid and 12,500 Ladies day guests.

Henshaw was worried before the game about his control, because he had pitched less than two innings since Sept. 1, when he trimmed the Pirates at Pittsburgh. His worries apparently were uncalled for. He didn't [illegible] a pass yesterday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 21.—Ted Lyons' quest for his sixteenth victory of the season ended disastrously in the sixth inning today when Hal Trosky drove his 24th home run over the right field wall with two Indians on base.

The drive, which erased the White Sox's one run lead, marked the end of Lyons' mastery over Cleveland. Four consecutive hits in the seventh inning chased the veteran right hander and gave Cleveland a 7 to 3 victory over the Sox in the first of a three game series that will be concluded with a double-header tomorrow.

Lyons held the Indians to one hit during the first three innings, surrendered a trio of hits in the fourth that produced two runs and put Cleveland in the lead.

The White Sox, limited to two hits in the first five innings by Monte Pearson, Cleveland's reformed right hander, took advantage of an error by Sammy Hale to score twice in the sixth and go back in front, but then came Trosky's drive. Pearson limited the Sox to six hits.

The Indians got eleven, but effectively bunched nine of them in three innings to score all their runs.

The defeat was a severe blow to Jimmy Dykes' hopes of bringing the Sox home in the first division this year. Luke Sewell and Zeke Bonura were the only Chicagoans able to solve Pearson's change of pace. Sewell collected a double and single while the husky Bonura contributed two doubles.

Sox Score First.

The Sox opened the scoring in the third inning when Sewell doubled, went to third on Lyons' infield out and scored on Radcliff's fly to Averill.

Hughes singled for the Indians with one out in the fourth and, after Averill popped out, Vosmik was hit with a pitched ball. Hale rifled a single to left center that scored Hughes and sent Vosmik to third. A single by Trosky then brought in Vosmik.

Hale fumbled Simmons' grounder to open the Sox half of the sixth and then threw over Trosky's head. Tauby struck out, but Bonura doubled to deep center, Simmons stopping at third. Appling sent a hot drive through the box that Pearson deflected into short left field. It went for a double, Simmons and Bonura scoring to give the Sox the lead again.

Lyons disposed of Averill in Cleveland's portion of the sixth, but passed Vosmik, and Hale followed with a single. Trosky then hit the first pitch high over the right field wall.

Lyons Blows Up.

Radcliff raced back to the left field bleachers to pull down Pearson's long drive to start the seventh, but he was the final batter Lyons was to retire. Galatzer, Hughes, Averill, and Vosmik singled in succession and Les Tietje was rushed in to replace Lyons. Averill stole third as Hale fanned and Vosmik stole second with Trosky at bat. Tietje then purposely passed Trosky and got out of the hole by forcing Knickerbocker to hit weakly to the infield for a force play at second.

Tietje then retired three batters in a row in the eighth, but the damage already had been done.

Dykes has Whitehead and Kennedy, who pitched a no hit game against the Indians the last time he faced them, available for tomorrow's double-header. Lee, Lloyd Brown, and Hildebrand are ready for the Indians.

Plan Tourney Oct. 1-5 for Softball Champions

Plans for the first Chicagoland tournament of softball champions were announced yesterday. It will be held the nights of Oct. 1-5 at Litsinger park, Wellington and Ashland avenues, with all teams that have won a title in any sanctioned league eligible to compete. A 16-inch ball will be used, with slow pitching. Entries close next Saturday with M. Wolf, room 101, city hall.

HARD WORKER, THIS GUY BUSH FELLOW—Frank Demaree of the Cubs bunts and sacrifices Gabby Hartnett to second base in the fourth inning. Bush pounces on the ball, tumbles, and throws to first to retire the runner by several steps. Bush was unable to keep the Cubs from hitting, but he was the hard working pitcher north side fans have admired for so many years.

WHEN PIRATE RALLY DIED DOWN—Lavagetto, who had made the first three hits off Henshaw, forces Young at second base for the second out accomplished by Lon Warneke in the ninth inning. Young has been retired at second and Billy Herman's throw is nearing Phil Cavarretta at first. Umpire Klem calls Lavagetto safe.

Sation Scores with 133 Pounds Up.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The Fighter, owned by the Milky Way farm stable of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Oak Park, Ill., and George B. Widener's Sation were the respective winners at Jamaica today in the Remsen and Interborough handicaps, which were run before a capacity crowd of 15,000. The Fighter gamely answered the late challenge of Teufel to cross the line winner by a head over that Wheatley stable color bearer. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Postage Due ran third in the six furlong race.

Sation made light of 133 pounds to win in impressive fashion. In nine starts since 1933 Sation has only once carried less than 130 pounds and yet he has won six times and been second the other three times.

Wins by Three Lengths.

He swept up from behind the fast pace set by Miss Merriment to take the lead in the stretch and go on to win by three lengths. Miss Merriment was burned out by the rush and barely saved third. Wise Daughter, stablemate of The Fighter's, was second, a head before Miss Merriment, which was another head before Soon Over.

Sation closed at 13 to 10 and had the youthful Jimmy Hunter in the saddle. The time was 1:11 2-5, a full second back of the track record set by King Saxon in the Paumonok handicap last spring. However, King Saxon carried only 118 pounds that day. The track was fast for King Saxon, as it was yesterday for Sation.

Wise Daughter Breaks Fast.

Wise Daughter was the first to show in front. She did not last long in the lead as Johnny Gilbert came up with Miss Merriment. While this was going on Sation was well back and Hunter gave him plenty of time to find his stride.

At the middle of the bend, when Sation at last began to make up ground, Miss Merriment was in front by three lengths, with Wise Daughter second and Weston third. Showing complete confidence in his mount Hunter went to the outside and picked up those in front one by one.

VICTORY TO OUR COUNT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Our Count beat out Cold Shoulder by a nose today to win the $3,000 Sallan cup, feature of the race program at the Fair Grounds, in near record time.

Our Count raced the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:44 2-5, just 2-5 of a second slower than the track record, and paid his backers $7.40 for $2. Cold Shoulder paid $8.20 to place, and Arson $3.40 to show.

The winner was held in fourth place by Jocky Cotton Johnson until the stretch was reached. He opened up then and seemed entirely safe until Cold Shoulder put on a dazzling burst of speed which would have caught Our Count in another stride.

LADFIELD BY A NECK

Salem, N. H., Sept. 21.—(AP)—George Woolf, who rode Azucar to victory in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, continued his brilliant riding at Rockingham Park this afternoon by capturing the $5,000 added Bennington handicap on Mrs. C. Crane's Ladfield.

Ladfield packed 125 pounds, the heaviest weight in the race, and had to race down the home stretch to overtake Marty Madden's Chancery and W. Graham's Kievex, which were battling it out in front until seventy yards from home.

Ladfield won by a neck over Chancery, the 6 to 5 favorite, which, in turn, was only a neck in advance of Kievex in a blanket finish which had the 22,000 customers in an uproar.

GOOD GAMBLE WINS

Havre De Grace, Md., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Working steadily upward through a field of eleven Good Gamble, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's keen three year old chestnut filly, won the $10,000 added Potomac handicap today in a stretch battle.

Second by a neck was Mrs. John D. Hertz's 3 year old chestnut colt Count Arthur, with Toro Nancy, owned by Norman W. Church, two and a half lengths back in third place. The winner paid $19, $7.30, and $5.80.

Good Gamble's time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:45 2-5, two seconds over the record set by Cavalcade in 1934.

IT'S MANSCO EASILY—LET'S GET GOING TO THE PAYOFF WINDOW!

Mansco, owned by Tom Worden of Chicago, wins Hawthorne juvenile handicap and the western championship for horses his age by beating Kentucky Blues by a length and a half. Third place goes to Miss Diavolo. Going into the stretch Kentucky Blues led by three lengths, but once Jocky L. Haas decided to call on Mansco for all his speed, the race was as good as over. And then began the rush to the payoff window for the collection of $6.40 for every $2 wagered on the Worden entry.

HUNTERS SEEK INJUNCTIONS IN DUCK LAW WAR

BY BOB BECKER.

Injunction suits to prevent United States enforcement officers from carrying out the waterfowl hunting regulations this fall, an action that was forecast in this department some weeks ago, are no longer a matter of conjecture among sportsmen. A group of duck clubs and individuals in Illinois, dissatisfied with the stringent regulations governing waterfowl shooting as issued by the department of agriculture in Washington, already have gone to court in Springfield and filed an injunction suit against district attorneys, United States marshals, and federal wardens in the state to prevent them from enforcing the hunting regulations.

Threat in Air Some Time.

The injunction was petitioned for by G. G. Brandenburg, president of the Illinois Sportsmen's association, the Island club [a goose and duck hunting club above Cairo], Grand Island lodge, one of the most famous of all duck shooting clubs on the Illinois river; the Crane Lake game preserve, the Senachwine club, Wild Wing lodge, Walter Peacock, N. Landon Hoyt, C. E. Carson, William E. Clow Jr., J. J. Merrill, and William C. Pecord.

The threat of court action against the new laws has been in the air for some time. A few weeks ago the report was that Illinois and at least five or six other states would go into action to test the authority of the department of agriculture to establish laws such as have been put into effect this fall.

Many Hunters Protest.

Meanwhile a survey of press comment in the central states on the new laws tells of the dissatisfaction of many hunters over the regulations. For example, Michigan is greatly disturbed over the regulation preventing the shooting of ducks from a duck blind, duck boat, or other floating device that is more than 100 feet from the shore line. This means no shooting in big areas of a lake like Houghton lake, where the boys used to tow floating blinds to the Middle Grounds, a stretch of shallow water and weed beds 'way out in the lake. Practically all of the duck hunting on the lake was centered in this spot.

Greyhound, Trotting Star of Year, to Seek World Record

BY FRENCH LANE.

Edward J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., owns the fastest harness horse in the world in the 3 year old gelding he named Greyhound, and yet except for a try at the world's record next year he can't visualize much in store for his famous horse when he comes out as a 4 year old next season.

In this country, because of his unbeaten record this year and his high earnings, about the only races to which he will be eligible next season are the free-for-all events. But if Owner Baker puts him in many of these fixtures along the Grand Circuit very few of them will fill. Greyhound's reputation, as possibly the greatest trotter of all time in this country, is too well established for the owners of other free-for-all campaigners to want to see their horses chasing Greyhound home all season long.

His Opportunities Limited.

So, as a money earning racing steed next year, Greyhound's opportunities are going to be more limited than those of any horse that has gone before him.

If he were a colt instead of a gelding the wealthy St. Charles sportsman no doubt would take him to Europe, where he would probably take into camp all the leading harness horses in France, Germany, and Italy. Being a gelding, however, makes him ineligible for export to Europe. Even if he could cross the Atlantic it would do him but little good, for geldings are barred from all the major trotting events in Germany, France, and Italy.

So it's no wonder that Owner Baker is getting all the fun and money out of Greyhound's conquests in actual competition this year.

Seeks Peter Manning's Record.

While in Chicago a few days ago he told friends he was confident that Greyhound next season while racing against the watch will break Peter Manning's world record for a mile. This mark is 1:56¾ and was established by Peter Manning 14 years ago. Other horsemen do not believe Peter Manning's record is in jeopardy, although they admit that Greyhound is a trotting freak and that if Peter Manning's record is to fall in the next decade the Baker gelding is the one to shatter it.

Greyhound, as a result of his sensational campaign as a 2 and 3 year old, has come to be the greatest gate attraction among the trotters since the Peter Manning days. His exhibitions against time next year will doubtless attract tremendous gatherings of those who thrill to the hoofbeats of the trotters and the pacers.

He may earn considerable money during these exhibition appearances, but that doesn't interest his wealthy St. Charles owner nearly so much as does the opportunity he has of being the first horse that has ever trotted a mile faster than 1:56¾.

Horses of Opposite Types.

Greyhound and Peter Manning as types of great horses are exactly opposite. Manning had an extra large body and frame and short stout legs to carry him along. Greyhound is of the frail type both as to body and legs. It seems to be his unusually long rhythmic strides that give him the speed which has made him the trotting sensation of this generation.

Greyhound is strictly a product of Illinois. He was bred in this state by Henry Knight, another Illinois horseman who prefers the trotters and pacers to the thoroughbreds of the running track. Baker bought him from Knight as a yearling. The price he paid wasn't high, either, for Greyhound wasn't much in looks at that time and still isn't for that matter except when he goes into the mighty strides which have carried him to so many victories.

The Baker 3 year old has tasted defeat only once in his two seasons of campaigning against the best horses in his division. That defeat came in the first start of his career last spring at a time when he wasn't quite in the condition that is demanded of successful performers on the Grand Circuit.

Finally Gets a Champion.

Baker, one of the stanchest trotting horse followers in America, has been trying to get a champion for many seasons. He has owned other good horses, but until he bought Greyhound at a bargain as a yearling he was as far away in his quest for a genuine champion as he was when he began.

Baker is a brother-in-law of the late John A. [Bet-a-Million] Gates and much of his fortune came to him from his sister, who survived the famous plunger of a generation ago. The St. Charles sportsman's share of the Gates fortune after the death of his sister was in the neighborhood of $25,000,000.

He is one wealthy American who has refused to give up harness for the running turf, where the earning opportunities for horses are much greater, and he is glad of it, he told a group of Chicago friends not long ago. He pointed out to them then that his horse Greyhound will finish up the year a bigger money earner, if you want to put a dollar and cents value to him, than a lot of the topnotchers among the thoroughbreds.

Bostwick's Goal Turns Back Aurora Four.

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—For the first time in its history, the open cup, symbolic of the polo championship of the United States, will rest on the mantel of Greentree. Jock Whitney's long chase ended today with a victory for his team over Aurora, 7 to 6, in the final match. It took a full extra period to decide the issue.

Just before the bell marking the end of time in the ninth period, Whitney and Tommy Hitchcock turned a play, Gerald Balding to Pete Bostwick and the latter raced to the winning goal, with Billy Post on his flanks, just failing to stop the play.

18,000 Stay to Finish.

After a morning of showers, during which it was feared another postponement might be necessary, the sun finally forced its way through and 18,000 were in the stands as the two teams rode out for the start. They sat to the last minute, held there by a low scoring game that was hard fought all the way the score was tied three times.

Bostwick and Balding were leading figures all afternoon. The former scored four times in hit-ups from Balding or Hitchcock to lead both teams and the Briton played a flawless, dashing game to score twice himself. The final match had been postponed from Wednesday to allow Balding time to recover from a brain concussion he suffered in the semi-final match last Sunday against Templeton.

Aurora Takes Early Lead.

Aurora was away to an early lead as Jimmy Mills, Knox and then Mills again scored in the first and second periods but at that Hitchcock rallied his team and it tied the score in the third.

Aurora went ahead again in the same period when Post banged through an angled drive from 40 yards out but Greentree soon scored again to send the teams off the field at half time deadlocked, 4 to 4.

With Hitchcock and Balding hitting up tremendous drives to Bostwick, Greentree rode out for two goals and a 6 to 4 lead in the fifth and sixth periods, but Post then scored on a three hit run and Ebby Gerry drove through the tying score near the end of the eighth period in a scramble in the goal mouth.

Gerry was the hero in the losing cause. Riding against Hitchcock, he constantly harassed the former 10 goal star, held Tommy scoreless and tallied once himself.

First for Greentree.

It was the first national open title for Greentree since the play was inaugurated in 1904. Aurora was seeking its second victory. It won in 1933 when Elmer J. Boeseke, who was raised to 10 goals that year, played at No. 3 in place of Gerry. The other three players from the 1933 team were the same as today.

Templeton, eliminated by Greentree last Sunday, 10 to 9, won the title last year and was favored to repeat until it ran against Hitchcock and his mates. Lineup:

have a seat down front at Yankee stadium Tuesday night. Immediately after the bout, she will become Mrs. Joe Louis and they plan to return next day to Chicago where they will make their home.

Reports have reached Joe's camp that Baer intends to taunt him about his lady fair at the weighing in ceremony. Louis made known today that if Max makes any crack he considers uncomplimentary, there will be no fight at Yankee stadium because it will be held then and there. Just one word about Miss Trotter, jesting or jolting, on Baer's part, would be like dropping gunpowder into a log fire.

"If he says something nice, of course I can't help that," said Joe, while he was playing pocket billiards before today's workout. "I can't start no fight if he says something nice about anybody, but if he spills one bum wise crack about my girl, somebody is going to hit the floor and it won't be Joie."

Iceberg Joe—That's Him.

To this reporter the most significant thing about Louis as he approaches his big test with Baer is his total lack of nerves or concern. There is something amounting almost to boredom in his attitude toward the result of his fight. No matter what the rest of the world believes, Baer to him is a punk, possibly not in that inelegant phrasing, but a punk, nevertheless.

"Scared of Baer?" he said, repeating our inquiry. "What for would I be scared of Baer? Didn't I win the Golden Gloves championship? I've told you before and I'm repeating it now that I saw more fighting in that Chicago Golden Gloves tournament than I have in my whole professional career. Boy, those babies are tough. Baer won't cause me one-half the trouble that two or three Golden Gloves boys did."

It is more or less a waste of time for me to watch Louis in training. He never looks different. Some of the brighter young men at the workout today found much to enthuse about, his footwork, his straight punching, his fine defense.

He's Not Worrying.

But to me Louis is always the same, a well built, superbly conditioned athlete, doing this and that in a severely cool, disturbing correct manner—a quick left jolt, a short right cross, a deft shuffling of feet to the right or to the left. This is the Louis formula. It is as unchanging as the orbit of the stars, as fixed as the expression of a sphinx. It seems to be a winning formula.

I came away from his last workout with one settled conviction. Tuesday's fight is the least of Louis' worries. So far as nerve strain and emotional fervor goes, it means nothing more to him, probably less, than his first preliminary fight in Golden Gloves.

Blackburn Speaks Up.

Jack Blackburn, the trainer, does most of the talking in the Louis camp. Referring to reports of Baer's punch proof jaw, Blackburn said:

"I hear me plenty of talk about them babies that you can't dent with a baseball bat, but that's the bunk. When you hit 'em right, you hurt 'em. Max is taking punches from his sparrin' partners in great shape, but sparrin' partners ain't hitting him the way Joe is going to hit him.

"There ain't no such thing as a concrete chin any more than there is a glass one. If you are built so you belong in the fight business, you need just one thing to throw off the effects of most any kind of a punch, and that is condition.

"That's one thing in which Joe will have it on Max," Blackburn continued. "It makes no difference how hard Max has worked up at Speculator. When you lose something, you don't get it all back. I think he'll need all he ever had for Joe. What about it, Joe?"

To which Joe replied: "I think I'll take a nap."

Max Is an Amateur.

Blackburn also said he thought Louis had it on Baer in experience. Pressed for a reason, he explained: "To begin with, Joe has had at least 25 more fights than Max. Louis has had 78 and Baer 48. If you are going to bring up that only 24 of Joe's have been as a professional, then I've got to remind you that in most of Max's he fought like an amateur. And I might as well bring up something else.

"During the time that Joe has been having his 24 professional fights, Max has had three, with Carnera, Levinsky, and Braddock. Those three fights amounted to 28 rounds. Meanwhile Joe has had more than 100 and finished off two of them fellows in much faster time than Max did."

More than $850,000 worth of tickets have been disposed of. Promoter Jacobs is confident the gate will gross in excess of a million.

DENIES BOOSTERS OF LOUIS WANT WEDDING HELD UP

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Edgar Pitts, president of the Joe Louis Boosters' club, denied a report today that the club would circulate petitions here requesting the fighter and his fiancée, Miss Marva Trotter of Chicago, to postpone their wedding until Oct. 1.

The marriage is scheduled to take place immediately after Louis' fight with Max Baer in New York Tuesday night, and Pitts had been reported as saying that Louis' friends here were afraid his nervousness over the impending ceremony would handicap him in the fight.

STANLEY MEETS KAPANDOWSKI ON MARIGOLD CARD

Gene Stanley, popular middleweight, will head the fight program at Marigold Gardens tomorrow night. He will have as his opponent Frank Kapanowski of Detroit. Stanley originally was scheduled to clash with Kapanowski at Marigold two weeks ago, but an injury sustained by Gene during training forced a postponement.

In one of his latest appearances Stanley knocked out Kid Leonard in seven rounds at Western stadium July 9. The victory earned Gene recognition as a challenger for the division crown, now held by Babe Risko. A five round semi-final matches Bob Tinsley, former St. Philip's High school lightweight, now competing successfully as a professional, with Davey White. Tinsley recently returned from a tour of Iowa, during which he engaged in five matches and won them all. His victims included Phil Montgomery, Terry Griffith, Babe McCrea, and Kid Lehr.

A new club will enter the Chicago boxing field when the Schenley Athletic club presents its inaugural at the Coliseum Thursday with a series of bouts involving the cream of the talent here.

Eight round matches will bring together Everett Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., featherweight, and Lenny Cohen, Chicago Golden Gloves product, and Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., heavyweight, and Frank Andorf, Minneapolis, Minn. Six rounders match Al Nettlow, the Catholic Youth organization's latest protégé, and Davey White, Madison Square Loop gymnasium lightweight; Milt Aron, Dubuque, Ia., making a successful bid here for junior welterweight honors, and Joe Richards, and Hershie Wilson, former Danville, Ill., boxer, and Lorenzo Lovings, 1935 international Golden Glove lightweight champion. Other attractions will be included on the program, to which Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission, is lending his aid.

Wrestling shows will be held at White City tomorrow and at Marigold Gardens Wednesday. Pat Newman and Young Lewis will clash in the main bout at White City. Lewis also will be a principal in the windup match at Marigold, his foe being Bert Rubi.

JOCKY CORBETT SUSPENDED AT HAWTHORNE

After he all but piled up the field in the $5,000 Hawthorne Juvenile handicap yesterday by cutting directly across in front going down the backstretch on his mount Kentucky Blues, the stewards suspended him for the remainder of the meeting.

Corbett has been in the limelight more than any other jocky at Hawthorne this year. He has shown uncanny skill at getting horses not heavily backed in front. He was beaten just as often while piloting short priced favorites.

Corbett is a veteran rider and when at his best holds his own with the topliners in the country.

Baer Boxes--Well, That's What They Call It, Anyway

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Speculator, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Max Baer's semifinal drill this afternoon for his bout with Joe Louis Tuesday night in Yankee stadium consisted of three unimpressive rounds of practice punching with Abie Feldman. At no other time this week has there been such a complete absence of sparkle. It was work, a disagreeable and necessary chore.

Scarcely a hundred folk gathered in the canvas enclosed area for Max' rehersal. Low hanging clouds floated lazily over the pine studded peaks of the circling Adirondacks. On the lower slopes the red maples flaunted their scarlet autumn dress before the quiet green of the larch and spruce. A chill wind blew gustily, billowing the canvas sidewalls of the arena and swooping on to churn up the white crested waves on Lake Pleasant.

Beauty and the Beast.

Baer had no eyes for his surroundings. He is counting the minutes until his plane will take off from Lake Pleasant and carry him back to the roar of the city. There he confidently expects to whip Louis, to regain fame and fortune. It is his dream, an ambition that has held him steadfast to his training for six weeks. Now that his self-imposed sentence of solitude is nearly finished he strains and fights the laggard minutes that chain him to his wooded camp.

Baer is confident. Perhaps determined is a better word, for at times, by his ceaseless questioning, he indicates his idea of the immensity of his task. He spars in his dressing room, feints and grimaces, crouching. Actually he must imagine that Louis is there, the man who bars his return to the championship. Again and again this week Baer has said: "I'll crush that Negro. I'll kill him. I hate him."

A Man of Courage.

His determination has swept away every other thought. At night, when he retires to the quiet of his cabin bed, he must dream of the Brown Bomber, this 21 year old lad whose career is the phenomenon of pugilism.

Occasionally Baer carries this fury to the ring. Today, for an instant, in his final round against Feldman, Baer was snarling and vicious, his eyes were narrow slits as he crowded forward pounding with both fists at his opponent. Can Baer whip Joe Louis? This Baer conceivably will destroy Louis in one round. It is the fighter Baer says he will be Tuesday night, a ruthless killer.

This is his plan of battle. It is based on physical fitness and courage. These are Baer's foundations for success Tuesday night. No visitor to this camp has doubted that Baer is in the best condition of his life. Notoriously an indifferent trainer, Max has completely changed. If he fails against Louis it will not be because of failure to train, nor can any one doubt Baer's courage. He has shown the desire to fight and a scorn for punishment on too many occasions. His record precludes he will fall prey to worry and fear.

No Hold Barred.

Louis, harder puncher than any man Baer has met, and Max is the first to make this admission, may have the former champion on the floor. But unless he drops him unconscious, and once more we are quoting Baer, Max will arise to charge in with destruction in both hands. There is no rule in the Queensberry book that Max won't violate.

Indeed, since a foul is not recognized by the New York commission except for the inocuous process of being declared loser of the round, Baer will foul. In training he has hit below the belt, back handed, and clubbed his fist to the back of the neck. Baer expects to stretch Louis on the floor, and what does it matter if he has lost 14 rounds for illegal blows if, in the fifteenth he stands over a senseless rival?

This fact remains, however. These are the things Baer says he will do. He has shown flashes of this determination and excuses himself for indifferent boxing because, after all, this is merely conditioning.

Same Old Line.

"I fight Louis Tuesday night," Maxie told us this afternoon, "so why should I tear into my spar mates every minute I am in the ring?"

Baer also believes he will meet a Louis who will bear in steadily. That's the Louis Max saw whip Primo Carnera. He thinks he will punish Louis because he will be able to hit him with every punch, although the blows may land on shoulders, arms or back. Thus, Baer visions a struggle in which stamina and endurance are prime factors. He does not believe Louis can or will punch and step away. If he did, the memory of the night when Tommy Loughran jabbed him to defeat or that night three months ago when Jimmy Braddock left handed him out of his heavyweight crown, might pass disturbingly before his mind.

Jacobs Relents.

Mike Jacobs, the promoter of this million dollar battle, has relented. This morning he telegraphed Ancil Hoffman that a plane will be sent from New York Tuesday morning to bring Baer to the city. Overnight, after Jacobs' original refusal to send a plane, more than 25 offers from all sections of the country were received here from men who would fly the champion to New York.

Baer and Hoffman expect to take off at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The amphibian will land in the Hudson river at 86th street, from which point Baer will go to the offices of the New York commission in lower Manhattan to weigh in.

SOCCER SEASON TO OPEN TODAY IN TWO LEAGUES

BY OFFSIDE.

The 1935 soccer season in the Chicago district will open this afternoon. There will be play in the three divisions of the newly-organized Chicago Soccer league and the International league. In addition, an inter-league match will be played between the Romans and Downers Grove at 2600 Grand avenue at 2:30 o'clock.

At Kuppenheimer stadium, 19th street and Keeler avenue, the Maccabees and the Wieboldt Wonderbolts will meet in the feature contest of the Chicago league. It will be the first time in two years that the teams have met in league competition.

Other contests in the first division will bring together the Spartas and the Italians at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue; Olympias and the Armours at 47th street and Kilpatrick avenue, and the Moravska and Hungarian-Americans at 2400 South Kostner avenue.

The Vikings, defending champions, will oppose the Swedish-Americans at Winnemac park in the outstanding game on the International league scedule.

CARNERA LANDS AND PICKS LOUIS TO DEFEAT BAER

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Primo Carnera returned to America on the liner Rex today, said he'd return to Italy when called if war is declared and picked Joe Louis to beat Max Baer in Tuesday's fight.

"Louis is quick and shifty," the big Italian said. "Baer swings wide, and Louis will go inside of his punches. If there's a knockout, Louis will score it."

C. Y. O. BOXING TOURNAMENT TO OPEN ON OCT. 21

Finals Will Be Held First Week in December.

The Catholic Youth organization tomorrow will begin preliminary arrangements for holding the fifth annual C. Y. O. boxing tournament, T. F. O'Connell, boxing director, announced yesterday.

According to present plans, this year's tournament is expected to start Oct. 21 with the holding of the sectional trials fo rthe suburban districts. Competition will continue through a period of several weeks, during which the north, west, and south side sectional trials will be run off, the winners qualifying for the quarter-finals to be held in the latter part of November.

Finals Set for December.

The climax is tentatively set for the first week in December when the thirty-two survivors from the anticipated entry field of more than 2,000 candidates will meet at the Chicago Stadium to determine the 1935 C. Y. O. boxing champions.

Entries will be accepted at the C. Y. O. headquarters, room 218, 31 East Congress street, until Oct. 10.

The C. Y. O. meet is open to any Catholic boy over 16 years old. Last year 2,135 registered for competition. This fall it is expected that an even larger number will seek one of the many valuable prizes awarded to the winners.

Scholarships Are Offered.

Among the major prizes offered are Bishop Sheil college or high school scholarships to any Catholic school in the country, Cardinal Mundelein medals, a trip to some distant part of the United States and a number of team and individual cups and trophies. The winners will also have first claim to a berth on the Chicago squad that will meet New York's Catholic champions in the second annual New York-Chicago C. Y. O. intercity boxing meet next summer. A crowd of 35,000 attended the first C. Y. O. intercity matches between New York and Chicago at Wrigley field last July.

FOXX HITLESS; DROPS TO .340, BIG SIX CELLAR

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Jimmy Foxx's batting stock slumped yesterday when he made nine trips to the plate without getting a hit and dropped to the bottom of the Big Six. His average dropped six points to .340. His American league rivals, Joe Vosmik and Buddy Myer, gained one point each, Vosmik hitting once in two official times up, and Myer two out of four. Joe Medwick also picked up a point with two hits in five trips to the plate, while Arky Vaughan lost one with one hit in four tries. Gabby Hartnett went hitless, dropping two points.

The standing:

LITTLE PLAYS AT NORTH SHORE IN EXHIBITION TODAY

Pairs with Goodman Against Chicago Pros.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

William Lawson Little Jr. of San Francisco, who is reported to have been playing a game called golf rather well of late, and his pal, Johnny Goodman of Omaha, today will meet Tommy Armour of Medinah and Harry Cooper of Glen Oak in an eighteen hole exhibition match at the North Shore Golf club. The match will start at 2 p. m., and the admission will be $1, tax free. Proceeds will be turned over to the Western Golf association for its Chick Evans caddy scholarship fund.

There is also a rumor about that Goodman, Armour, and Cooper have been known to do rather well at golf, but the major attraction of this afternoon, will be Little, the 25 year old Californian who a week ago yesterday completed one of the most remarkable feats in the history of sport—the winning of four consecutive major golf championships.

Wins 31 Match Victories.

Within the space of sixteen months, Lawson scored 31 match victories to capture both the British and American amateur titles in successive years. One of the hardest matches in that string was the 30th, the one he waged against his friend Goodman in the semi-finals of the national at Cleveland.

Goodman will find North Shore familiar ground, for it was there he won the national open championship of 1933. Armour and Cooper need no introduction to golfers the world over. Tommy has held every major title a professional can win, and Cooper is recognized as one of the game's finest technicians. Harry won the western open last year, and now holds the Illinois and St. Paul open crowns.

Helps Caddies Through Northwestern.

The purpose of this afternoon's match is one of the worthiest in sport. The Evans scholarship is designed to help deserving caddies through Northwestern university. The first was awarded in 1930, and since that time, three caddies have been graduated at Evanston, and ten others are receiving aid from the fund.

Four Outboard Pilots Speed to U. S. Titles

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Four new national champions were crowned and a new world's competitive speed record established here today in the opening races in the seventh annual national outboard regatta, held on Lake Sequayah.

The four new champions are all new to their classes. Clinton Ferguson, 18 years old, Waban, Mass., last year's A and B class amateur champion, won the class C meet today. Tomorrow he will defend his class B title.

Mitchell Wins Class A.

Bob Mitchel Jr., Dallas, Tex., took young Ferguson's place as best in the class A amateur field. Gar Wood Jr., 16, Algonac, Mich., son of the famous pilot of the Miss Americas, won the first heat of the event, and Mitchell was second. In the final heat, their places were reversed.

Thom Cooper, Kansas City, Mo., runner-up in the C professional finals, took the class A pro race. H. H. Turk, Tulsa, won the C pro championship. Frank Vincent, also of Tulsa, set the new record in the first heat of the C pro race. He averaged 51.546 miles an hour to better Turk's record of 50.223 set last February at Jacksonville, Fla.

Unhurt in Spill.

Fifteen boats started in the C pro events, the largest field in the races today. Fred Dodd Jr., Fresno, Cal., was driving 45 miles an hour in the first lap when his boat overturned. He was uninjured. The B and F classes, in addition to special midget and X craft, will race for titles tomorrow. Today's summaries:

CLASS A AMATEUR—Won by Bob Mitchell Jr., Dallas, Tex.; Clinton Ferguson, second; Gar Wood Jr., third; Charles Mayhew, Dallas, Tex., fourth; Jack Van Deman, Redbank, N. J., fifth. Best speed, 42.513 m. p. h.

CLASS A PROFESSIONAL—Won by Thom Cooper, Kansas City, Mo.; George Martin, South Bend, Ind., second; Joe Fallin, Springfield, Mo., third; Shirley Johnson, Mineral Wells, Tex., fourth; Morris Wilson, Fort Worth, Tex., fifth. Best speed, 40.872 m. p. h.

CLASS C AMATEUR—Won by Clinton Ferguson, Waban, Mass.; Joel Thorne, New Rochelle, N. Y., second; George Kuehn, Milwaukee, Wis., third; Sam Crooks, Rumson, N. J., fourth; Ernest Ford, San Diego, Cal., fifth. Best speed, 48.860 m. p. h.

CLASS C PRO—Won by H. H. Turk, Tulsa, Okla.; Thom Cooper, second; Frank Vincent, Tulsa, Okla., third; Dick Neal, Kansas City, Mo., fourth; Fred Jacoby, North Bergen, N. J., fifth. Best time, 51.546 m. p. h. [World's record.]

MONARCHS WIN TWO AND TAKE CLASSIC LEAD

The Monarch Beer bowling team took first place last night in the Classic league when it defeated the Baby Ruth Candy team in two games while the Miller High Life Beers were losing two games to the Moulding-Brownell corporation. The Monarchs had high series, 3,021, which included a 1,108 game, high for the night.

The Edelweiss Beers blanked the Oak Leaf Motors for three games, and the Pabst Blue Ribbon Beers defeated the Ben Bey Cigars twice.

PRESIDENT SEES SON, SON-IN-LAW PLAY BASEBALL

Pawling, N. Y., Sept. 21.—(AP)—With President Roosevelt looking on for a few innings, the White House Tigers were beaten, 23 to 16, by the Saints and Sinners of Pawling today in a seven inning baseball game.

The President, motoring by with Mrs. Roosevelt and Vincent Astor, saw his youngest son, John, and his son-in-law, John Boettiger, star for the Tigers, a team composed mainly of White House correspondents.

He shook hands with Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, who was recruited by the Saints and Sinners team of Lowell Thomas, radio commentator.

Dempsey came here as a guest of Kenneth C. Hogate, editor of the Wall Street Journal, who also played with the Saints and Sinners.

Mrs. Anne Boettiger watched from the sidelines.

M'Cutcheon Is Named 'Y' Physical Directors' Head

Moline, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—O. S. McCutcheon of Lawson Y. M. C. A., Chicago, was elected president of the Illinois Y. M. C. A. physical directors at their state convention here today. Lawson Y was chosen for the 1936 convention.

C. Y. O. Teams Meet in Title Game Today

The proposed game between Good Shepherd and St. Adrian parishes to decide the 1935 baseball champions of the Catholic Youth organization will be played today at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue, starting at 3 o'clock. A preliminary game to determine third and fourth place will precede the championship contest. St. Michael's [South Chicago] and St. Mary of Celle [Berwyn] will be the contenders in the preliminary game, which is scheduled to start at 1 o'clock.

Turns Back Louisville.

Good Shepherd and St. Adrian, finalists in the C. Y. O. Baseball league over an original entry field of 52 teams, last Sunday gave an indication of their power by turning back the Louisville C. Y. O. invaders, Holy Cross and St. Elizabeth, in an intercity double header played at White Sox park. Good Shepherd defeated Holy Cross, Louisville titleholders, 10 to 3, while St. Adrian disposed of the runners-up, St. Elizabeth, 9 to 4.

In the Chicago C. Y. O. league the Good Shepherd nine has reached the title finals for the first time in contrast to St. Adrian's, which has qualified for the championship game four straight years. St. Adrian's, behind the steady pitching of Ben Szymanski, has won 13 out of 15 league encounters. St. Adrian's season record is 12 victories and 2 defeats.

Softball Finals Today.

The finals of the C. Y. O. Softball league race will also be played today. Starting at 3 o'clock at Litsinger park, Ashland and Wellington avenues, the two finalists in the girls' division will meet for the archdiocesan title, to be followed at 4:30 o'clock and at 5:30 o'clock by the juniors and seniors, respectively.

ALL-STARS PLAY OAK BROOK FOUR FOR OPEN TITLE

The Chicago All-Stars and Oak Brook will clash this afternoon for the Central Open championship at the Oak Brook stadium, York road and 22d street.

The game, set for 4 o'clock, will settle the third major title this month at the Oak Brook field.

Oak Brook will line up with the same combination that competed in the Central Circuit tournament, which was captured by the United States army entry three weeks ago. Riding at No. 1 will be Jim Hannah, with George Bates at No. 2, Paul Butler at No. 3, and Prentice Porter at back. Bates, who was bruised and shaken up in a collision during the 12 goal tournament game last Wednesday, has been resting since the accident and is declared fit to go against the All-Stars.

Four central states 'players of ability will ride for the All-Stars, who will line up with Maj. Dick Hunter at No. 1, Capt. Maxwell Corpening at No. 2, Steve Hammond at No. 3, and Herb Lorber at back. Members of the team have been playing polo frequently this summer, but this will be their first championship game together. Lineup:

OAK BROOK.		CHGO. ALL-STARS
Jim Hannah	No. 1	Maj R. G. Hunter
George Bates	No. 2	Capt. M. Corpening
Paul Butler	No. 3	Steve Hammond
Prentice Porter	Back	Herb Lorber

Golfers Get Early Practice at Charleston

Charleston, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Such an enthusiastic response was given golf as an intercollegiate sport at Charleston Teachers college last spring that it will become an intramural sport this fall. By giving prospective team members opportunity to work out now, Coach F. A. Beu will have an opportunity to estimate the quality and size of his golf squad for the 1936 season. Practices will be held twice each week on the Charleston Country club course.

CHICAGO GIANTS MEET MILLS IN DOUBLE-HEADER

Florals Oppose Spencers in Pair of Games.

Games Today

Chicago Giants at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick and Lake streets, 1:30 p. m. [two games].

Duffy Florals at Spencer Coals field, 4200 North Central avenue, 1:30 p. m. [2 games].

The Duffy Florals will visit Spencer Coals field for a double-header and Logan Squares will meet Elgin in a single game in the only other Chicago Baseball league activity.

The Chicago Giants, a colored team, split with the Mills the last time the two met. Henry Clay, who defeated the Mills, will again hurl one of the games and Radcliff will pitch the other.

Radcliff Is Bismarck Product.

Radcliff has been playing at Bismarck, N. D., all season and earned his nickname through being able to either pitch or catch. While at Bismarck he served as battery mate for Satchel Paige when not working on the mound himself. Lefty Sullivan will pitch the second game for the Mills, and either Jim Vaughn or Gordon McNaughton will work the first game. Joe Rezotko, who played third for the Mills last Sunday, will again be in the lineup. Rezotko had been with St. Paul all season.

At Spencer field the Duffy Florals will be the opponents of the Spencer Coals in two games. The Duffys again lead the Chicago league in number of victories against league competition.

Squares Go to Elgin.

Spencer Coals pitchers will be Marvin Carlson, who has returned to form, and Jake Sommerfield and Al Macik, the latter a former University of Illinois athlete. Brice plans to use Dutch Kolenberg, Tony Sims, and Red Wright.

The Logan Squares, with Manager Elmer Olson catching Dungan Rigney, his battery mate of last season, will play Elgin at Elgin in a single game. Rigney was with the White Sox until June of this season after making the spring training trip, and then went to St. Paul, where he had a good year. Les Bartholomew, former Pirate hurler, will be Rigney's hurling opponent.

GIANTS PLAY FOR TITLE

Chicago's American Giants and the Kansas City Monarchs will meet this afternoon at Comiskey park for the colored baseball championship of the west. The game, which will start at 3 o'clock, is expected to be a pitching duel between Satchel Paige, called the greatest of colored hurlers and Willie Foster, American Giants' star left hander.

Paige, known for his ability to strike out batters, whether they be major leaguers, Negro National leaguers or semi-pros, was obtained by the Monarchs when they challenged the Chicago club to play for the western title. Because of a disagreement with the Pittsburgh Crawfords, the Negro National league club which holds his contract, Paige did not appear in the annual east-west all-star game last August. In 1934, however, Satchel was present and was the hero of the east's 1 to 0 victory.

Paige Faces Sluggers.

Paige will be up against a team of sluggers when he steps on the mound today. Leading the American Giants are Mule Suttles, big outfielder, who has hit two home runs in his last three appearances at Comiskey park; Turkey Stearns, Willie Wells and Alec Radcliffe. These four men were outstanding in the 1935 east-west game which the west won at Comiskey park.

Monarchs Have Several Stars.

The Monarchs also have several individual stars, among them being Newt Allen at second base, Willard Brown at shortstop and Ted Young, a hard hitting catcher. If Paige should require any help Pitcher Chet Brewer will be ready to step in. Brewer pitched three scoreless innings in the 1934 all-star game. Lineups:

SHIFT SCENE OF ELIMINATIONS IN AMATEUR PLAY

A change in plans for holding the Illinois Amateur Baseball league finals for the Charley Grimm trophy was announced yesterday. Because of the fact that Wrigley field has been resodded and would be subject to extraordinary wear if the schedule of four games per day for Sept. 27-28-29 were adhered to, scene of the elimination play has been shifted to Mills stadium. Starting tomorrow two games per day will be played continued through Thursday. Closing eliminating games for the trophy will be played at Wrigley field Friday and Saturday with the final Sunday.

Texas Christian Beats Howard Payne, 41 to 0

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 21.—[U. P.]—Texas Christian university today defeated Howard Payne college of Brownwood, 41 to 0, in the opening nonconference football game here. Texas Christian scored once in each of the first and second quarters and twice in the third and fourth.

Cubs Widen Lead in Race Review of Week's Sports

The sound of the world series, baseball annual classic of the early autumn, was audible throughout the land last week. In Detroit carpenters were beating a rat-tat-tat with their hammers, building temporary bleachers as the Tigers clinched their second successive American league championship. In Chicago representatives of the Tigers, the Yankees, the Cubs, the Cardinals, and the Giants gathered with Commissioner Landis to go through the usual motions of making arrangements for the series.

But their deliberations were not a mere formality this time, as had been expected. Heretofore those wise in the ways of baseball have been able to foretell that seats will sell for $3.30, $5.50, and $6.60 and that they must be purchased in blocks for all three games scheduled at the park of the pennant winner. They have known that two umpires from each league would officiate and that the games would start at 1:30 p. m. standard time of the city where they were played. Also they would have told you years in advance that if the Cubs won the National league pennant in 1935 the opening game would be played at Wrigley field, but had they told you that they would have been wrong.

Series Won't Open in National League City.

For the series will not open in the National league city as the old custom of alternating the opening game has dictated in the past. So close had the pennant race become when the baseball chieftains met that no one could tell with certainty who would be the National league champion. It might be either the Cubs, the Cardinals, or the Giants, and not one of the three clubs was in a position to go ahead with its plans for enlarging ball parks and distributing tickets. And so they waived their right to the opening date and for the second successive year the series will open in Detroit.

With the National league affairs so uncertain the Cubs immediately stepped out to do what they could to settle the whole business immediately. They opened the week in first place by the margin of only one game and they closed it leading by three and one-half games over the Cardinals and eight over the Giants. Thus the Giants, at the start of the week regarded as virtually an even choice with the Cubs, had dropped almost out of consideration. It appeared that only a miracle could raise them back into the lead despite the easy schedule ahead of them.

The Giants had leaped right into the thick of the fight on Sunday by beating the Cardinals for the third straight day at St. Louis before a crowd of 42,284, whipping the great Dizzy Dean for the second time in the series. Dean, enacting the old proverb of the pitcher who goes too often to the well, was pounded for 12 hits in five innings and was gone from the scene long before the game ended. So great was the throng that edged out onto a part of the playing field and so bitter the feelings of the Cardinal supporters that when Melvin Ott, the Giants' little right fielder, ran after a fly ball in the eighth inning he was forced to dive into the crowd to catch it and take a resounding thump on the kidney with a pop bottle from one of the fans. He was rescued by team mates and police and finished the game standing his ground beside a mounted policeman.

Cubs End Dodger Series with Twelfth Straight.

While this was going on the Cubs wound up their series with the Dodgers, winning their 12th straight victory, 6 to 3. The victory put them two full games ahead. They repeated the next day when the Giants, fresh from their St. Louis triumph, came to town, Lon Warneke allowing the Giants only seven hits as he pitched the Cubs to an 8 to 3 victory. The Cardinals, behind great pitching by Paul Dean, beat the Dodgers, 1 to 0.

On Tuesday by beating the Giants again, 5 to 3, the Cubs gained another half game. The Cardinals won the first game of a double-header from the Dodgers when Paul Dean stepped in with one run home, two men on base, and nobody out in the ninth to retire the side. He fanned Mills and forced Frenchy Bordagaray to hit into a double play. His feat enabled the Cards to win, 4 to 2, and saved the game for old Jess Haines who thus gained his 200th victory since joining St. Louis in 1920. In the second game Paul's brother Dizzy stepped in again in the seventh inning in an attempt to hold a 6 to 5 lead over the Dodgers. They fell on him for four hits and three runs and an ultimate 8 to 7 victory.

Cubs Sweep Giant Series, but P. Dean Wins, Too.

On Wednesday the Cubs and the Cards were in stride again. Chicago pounded out 20 hits for a 15 to 3 victory, their third in a row over the Giants and their 15th straight, setting a new record for the season. The Cardinals whipped the Dodgers, 6 to 3, because Paul Dean again played a relief rôle to save Wild Bill Hallahan. It was the 16th time in 19 games that one of the Dean brothers had pitched.

Again on Thursday it was step for step. The Cubs swept the Giants' series, taking the final, 6 to 1, and Dizzy Dean made his family's 17th appearance in 20 games to beat the Dodgers, 9 to 1. It was Dizzy's 27th victory of the year, against 11 defeats.

Four Pitchers Win 15 Straight for Cubs.

Yesterday the Cubs widened their lead to 3½ games, beating the Pirates 4 to 3 while the St. Louis Cardinals lost to the Reds, 9 to 7. The Cub victory brought their streak to 17.

The feat of the Cubs in winning 17 in a row from the four eastern clubs was all the more remarkable because four pitchers won 15 of the battles, and only two of them encountered enough opposition to be removed before the game was completed. Larry French won four of the 17; Lon Warneke, three; Charley Root, four; Bill Lee, four; Tex Carleton, one, against the Braves, and Henshaw yesterday against the Pirates, although helieved by Warneke. The opposing clubs made only 45 runs and only 134 hits in 17 games.

In the American league Cleveland set the pace for the week in its three way fight with the White Sox and the Red Sox for third place. The Tigers slumped badly, but coasted into the championship yesterday as the Yankees failed to take advantage of the chance to make an appreciable gain. The week's record of games won and lost:

Chicago	6	0	Cleveland	7	0
Pittsburgh	5	1	Boston	4	2
Cincinnati	6	2	New York	4	2
St. Louis	4	3	Chicago	3	4
Philadelphia	3	5	Detroit	3	4

When Rogers Hornsby was released by the Cubs late in the season of 1932 and the club went on to win the pennant without him fans thought he was through. He had played with the Cardinals, the Giants, the Braves, and apparently had failed as a manager with the Cubs. The fact that the Cardinals signed him again as a player in October, 1932, six years after they had released him as manager just following his feat in bringing them their first pennant and their first world championship was regarded merely as a generous gesture on the part of his old bosses. He got in 46 games with the Cardinals in the first part of the season of 1933 and then he was released again, this time to the St. Louis Browns.

But it was not the end; it was only the beginning of a new phase in one of the most glamorous careers in all baseball. Hornsby became manager of the Browns, that perennial second division club, and though he could not lift them out of last place in 1933 he instilled a new life into them. Last season, after a winter of astute trading and sharp bargaining which added a new luster to his reputation as a manager, he raised the Browns to sixth place. This season, after a second winter of advantageous bargaining, the Browns began to show a profit, but they lingered in last place until a couple of weeks ago, when by a remarkable spurt they climbed to seventh and began menacing the Senators in Sixth.

On Tuesday President Louis B. Von Weise signed Hornsby to a three year contract, raised his reported $15,000 salary to $20,000, and gave him a 10 per cent share of the profits, if any.

Steve O'Neill Is Signed to Manage Indians.

Two days later Steve O'Neill, old time Cleveland catcher who took over the management of the Indians from Walter Johnson less than two months ago, signed a contract to manage the club again next season. Out of 50 games under O'Neill the Indians had won 29, a percentage of .580, considerably better than their season's record.

Worries Pile Up for Baer at Fight Camp.

At Speculator, N. Y., Max Baer, former heavyweight boxing champion, went through his preparations with a lot of things on his mind. On Sunday a grand stand collapsed with 500 spectators, injuring 25, and confronting Max with the probability of a hatful of suits for damages. And Max already was getting a lot of damage from his corps of sparring partners, who seemed to be able to pound him around the ring at will.

While reporters who saw him in action were telling how terrible he was and predicting that his chances with Louis were almost nil, Shirley La Belle, a New York show girl, added to his worries by reopening a suit for $50,000 against him. She charged that he attacked her in his hotel room on Dec. 20, 1933. He insisted that while he had once known the girl, the acquaintance was too casual to have permitted his having made any amorous gestures toward her.

Despite the reports that Baer was taking lots of punishment and dealing out little of it, he unquestionably was making the most serious effort of his career to get into condition for next Tuesday's bout. That he has not lost his punch completely was shown on Wednesday when he knocked down Abe Feldman with a terrific right and left to the face. His physical condition was given the official stamp of approval on Thursday when Dr. William H. Walker, medical examiner for the New York athletic commission, declared him to be in much better shape than he was before the fight with James J. Braddock in which he lost his championship.

Meanwhile, Louis at Pompton Lakes, N. J., went about his training chores with little fanfare, taking it all stoically but announcing with his usual candor that he expected to knock out Baer.

Montreal Canadiens Sold to Baseball Magnate.

For years the Canadiens, Montreal's team of flying Frenchmen in the National Hocky league, were the most colorful and one of the most successful clubs in the league. In recent years, however, their playing ability has waned and their financial reports were being written in red ink. Last year the club lost $40,000. On Monday Joseph Cattarinich and Leo Dandurand, the owners, sold the Canadiens to Ernest Savard, one of the owners of the Montreal team of the International Baseball league, for a reported $200,000.

Little Pete Bostwick, probably the greatest amateur jocky in the world, who recently returned to polo, galloped down the field and slammed home a goal in the final chukker of the semi-final game between the Greentree polo team and the Templeton four last Sunday. The goal was the deciding point in the greatest polo upset of the season and gave Greentree a 10 to 9 victory over Templeton, 1934 champion, and the right to enter the finals of the national open polo tournament against Aurora. Gerald Balding, riding at No. 3 for Greentree, was badly shaken when he fell from his horse and the final match was postponed until yesterday when Greentree won the title, 7 to 6, in overtime.

Babe Stapp won the 50 mile race which opened the automobile racing season at Roby speedway last Sunday. His time was 39 minutes 54.2 seconds. Jimmy Snyder was second, Bill Cummings, third, and Wilbur Shaw, fourth.

Bill Tilden, for many years tennis' greatest player, defeated Karel Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia Sunday for the national professional tennis championship. The scores were 0-6, 6-1, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4.

PETILLO DRIVES TODAY ON ROBY RACE PROGRAM

Indianapolis Winner Seeks Share in $2,000 in Prizes

The second of a series of race programs is scheduled for the new Roby speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis boulevard, this afternoon.

Again a field of 40 or more of noted drivers will face the starters in the program of five events for the $2,000 in prize money offered by Promoters Carl Stockholm and Emmett T. Howard.

The addition of Kelly Petillo, Italian star who captured the annual 500 mile grind at Indianapolis last Memorial day, and Shorty Cantlon, one of the top flight pilots, has stimulated competition booked for today. They will bring the big two seated cars to Roby they drove in the Indianapolis race.

Others Drive One Seaters.

The rest of the field will drive one seat jobs, which they assert are better fitted to mile flat track racing. Petillo and Cantlon declare they will be able to overcome any advantage smaller cars have on the sharp turns at Roby by turning on speed on the long stretches.

Last Sunday more than 16,000 watched Babe Stapp win the feature event. He will compete again today. Wild Bill Cummings, winner at Indianapolis last year; Wilbur Shaw, second place winner this year; Maynard Clark and Billy Devore, first and second place winners at Atlanta on Labor day, and other racing stars are entered today.

Baseball Will Be Announced.

Arrangements have been made to announce baseball results through the public address system to keep fans informed of the National league baseball race.

Time trials will start at 10 o'clock this morning, in which the drivers will seek starting positions in the qualifying heats for the main event. The regular program of racing will begin at 2:30 o'clock. Gates will be opened at 10 o'clock.

Midwest Nines Play Today for League Title

A free lance baseball tournament between Midwest league teams is the attraction at Chicago Heights and in nearby Blue Island today. Four teams, most of which have loaded up with returning minor league stars, will engage each other, after which the two winners will proceed to play off for the championship.

In the first game of the day the Waggoner Greasing Palaces, with Bud Tinning, former Cub and late of Columbus, in the American association, on the mound, will meet Blue Island in Blue Island at 12:30 p. m.

At 2 p. m., in Chicago Heights, the home team will play the Alberti Jewelers. Immediately following the 12:30 o'clock game in Blue Island the winner will move over to Chicago Heights to meet the winner of the 2 o'clock battle.

Free lance games between member teams of the Midwest league which were defeated in the cup series games follow:

Franklin Union No. 4 vs. George B. Thompsons, at 76th and Ingleside, 3:30 p. m.

Austin Merchant vs. Frank Zintaks, at Lavergne and Le Moyne, 3:30 p. m.

British Arrive for Ryder Cup Golf Matches

Quebec, Que., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Great Britain's picked golfing professionals arrived today from England, confident of victory over the United States in the Ryder cup matches at Ridgewood, N. J., next Saturday and Sunday.

NORTHWESTERN VARSITY WHIPS RESERVES, 28-7

Cruice, Swisher, Heap Lead Attack.

Northwestern's varsity football team wound up its second week of practice by defeating the Reserves, 28 to 7, at Dyche stadium yesterday.

The varsity scored early in the first quarter after a 25 yard gallop by Heap advanced the ball to the 10 yard line. Cruice carried it over on a sprint around end. Duvall place kicked the extra point.

A complete new varsity team started the second quarter. The back field combination of this eleven consisted of Swisher and Bill Boger, half backs, Vanzo, full back, and Steve Toth, quarter back. Early in the period Vanzo hit through tackle for 20 yards and lateral passed to Swisher, who was run out of bounds on the 15 yard line. Vanzo plunged over from that point.

Adelman Leads Reserves.

The Reserves scored their lone touchdown in the same period as a result of several long runs by Ollie Adelman, quarter back. After carrying the ball to the 15 yard line, Adelman tossed a pass over the goal line to Leo Kosinski, sophomore end. Adelman drop kicked the extra point.

Cruice scored his second touchdown of the game in the third period when he circled left end for 20 yards to cross the goal. A few minutes later Heap hit through right tackle for 25 yards and a touchdown.

MAROONS SCRIMMAGE

Ways and means of crossing Nebraska's goal line continued to occupy the University of Chicago football team yesterday. A long dummy scrimmage, probably the final long offensive drill preceding the game, concluded the second week of practice at the Midway. The first three days of next week will be devoted to defensive rehersal, with Thursday given over to a review of offense. The Maroon team leaves for Lincoln Thursday night.

Nebraska is Puzzle.

Coach Shaughnessy and his aids are much perplexed about defensive preparations. None of them knows much about the Nebraska attack, except that it is probably pretty good, that it is probably a double wing back type, and that a young man named Lloyd Cardwell is rated around Lincoln much as Jay Berwanger is rated on the Midway.

ILLINI BEAT FROSH

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—John Theodore's performances at full back were features today as the Illinois varsity defeated a stubborn freshman team, 26 to 0. Theodore ran low and hard and was the most effective ground gainer. Wib Henry scored three touchdowns, one after receiving a pass from Les Lindberg.

Dave Strong, quarter back, was the leader for the freshmen with his running, passing, and kicking. Summary:

MICHIGAN BLUES WIN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Kipke was still in the dark regarding the improvement of his Michigan squad after today's scrimmage.

A blue shirted team ran up a 40 to 0 score on its opposition, but the scoring of touchdowns mean something only in the first few minutes when Kipke had sophomores in positions on the first team and had the veterans on the team that was backed across the goal line. The blues ran up two touchdowns before Kipke started switching men. They scored first on a lateral pass, Barclay to Chris Everhardus, after a long pass, Everhardus to Valpey, had put the team in scoring position. The second touchdown march was featured by a 20 yard run after a lateral pass play in which Everhardus took the ball to the three yard mark.

The casualty list was increased when three ends—Patanelli, Savage, and Muzyk were hurt; Walters, a guard, suffered a broken nose, and Everhardus injured his back.

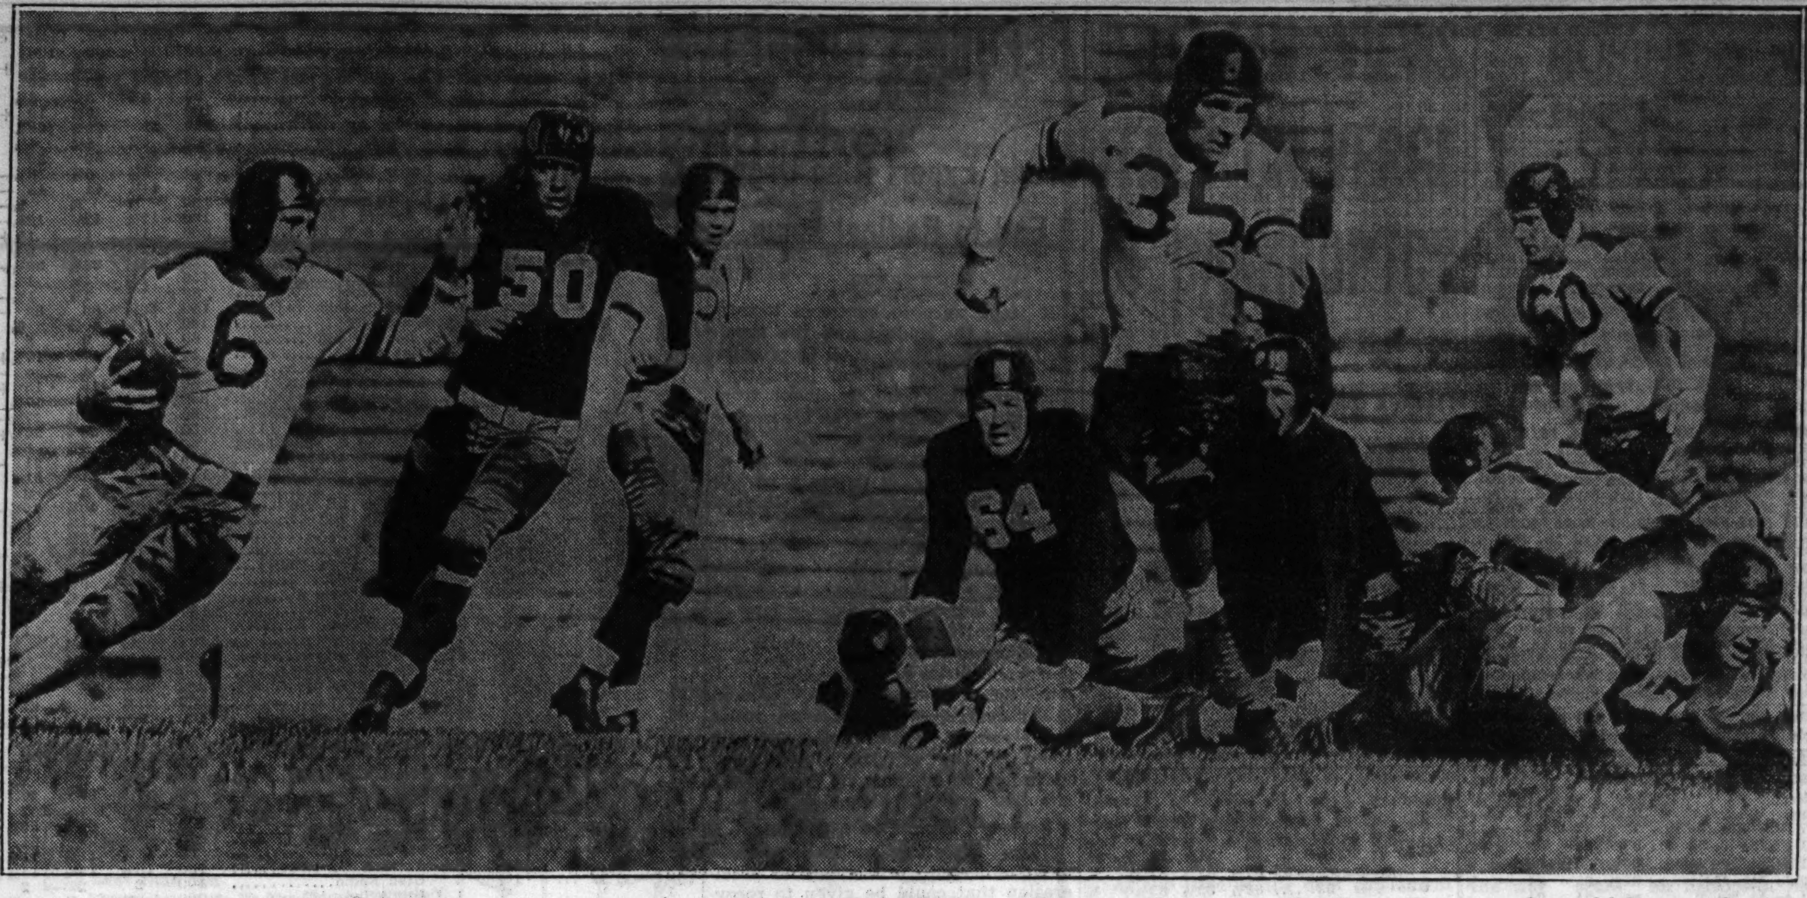
BADGERS BEAT RESERVES

Madison, Wis., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The University of Wisconsin varsity football team scored a 37 to 0 victory over the reserves at Camp Randall this afternoon.

The offensive work of Johnny Wilson, 150 pound sophomore half back from Richland Center, stood out for the first team. Wilson returned a punt for 60 yards and a touchdown, and raced 50 yards from scrimmage for another.

Lynn Jordan, veteran half back, scored two touchdowns, and Eddie Jankowski and Clarence Tommerson each scored one. Jankowski sprinted 50 yards after breaking loose on a spinner. Tommerson's score came off a five yard line buck.

COLLEGIANS AND PREPS BATTLE ON EVANSTON GRIDIRONS



Ollie Adelman, playing with the reserves, tries for a gain at end against the Northwestern varsity in practice game at Dyche stadium yesterday. Adelman made several long runs and aided in scoring the reserves' touchdown. The Wildcat varsity won, 28 to 7.

Evanston Tops Mishawaka in 18 to 0 Battle

High school football teams in the Suburban league and West Suburban conference opened their practice schedules yesterday. Evanston, one of the title contenders in the Suburban league, scored an 18 to 0 victory over Mishawaka, Ind., in one of the outstanding games.

Britt starred for the Evanston eleven, scoring two touchdowns. In the first period Britt caught a 20 yard pass from Beach and raced 20 yards to score. In the final quarter Britt, on a wide end run, went 40 yards for another touchdown.

Thelen Kicks Goal.

A point after touchdown, kicked by Thelen, enabled Proviso to defeat Downers Grove, 7 to 6. Downers Grove scored in the first period on a pass from Wilbur Littleford to Veysey, but Proviso went into the lead in the second quarter when Thelen passed to Sykora for 15 yards. Thelen then kicked the extra point.

A touchdown by Price, who scored on a pass from Steinhoff, gave Riverside a 7 to 0 victory over Oak Park at the latter's stadium. Oak Park reached Riverside's 5 yard line in the last quarter, but a fumble, which was recovered by Steinhoff, prevented a score.

New Trier Beats Bloom.

Other winners in yesterday's games were New Trier, Deerfield, La Grange and Blue Island. New Trier defeated Bloom, 6 to 0; Deerfield triumphed over Crystal Lake, 13 to 0; La Grange won from Morton, 12 to 6, and Blue Island defeated Morgan Park Military academy, 12 to 0.

CALUMET EVELYN SETS NEW MARK IN FREE-FOR-ALL

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Calumet Evelyn, black mare owned by McConville brothers of Ogdensburg, N. Y., won every heat of the Almahurst free for all pace in today's opening of the last Grand Circuit meeting of the season, lowering the world's record for 4 year old pacers and stepping the fastest three heats ever paced by a horse of any age.

Driven by Vic Fleming. Calumet Evelyn won the heats in 1:59¼, 1:59¼, and 2:00¾. J. E. Vonian was the main contender.

Hollyrood Phyllis, bred and owned by J. L. Dodge of Lexington, won the Castleton secondary stake feature. Mary Sunshine won the twelve-two in convincing fashion in faster time than the Castleton stake. In the 16 pace Walter Dale won the first two heats, giving way to Pronto Hall in the third.

Racing will be resumed Monday, when the $5,000 Kentucky futurity for 2 year old trotters will be the feature of the card. Summaries:

Bowl With Randolph League in 1910; Still Going Strong

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

Twenty-five years ago a quartet of striplings were bowling with the Randolph league, an organization that developed into one of the best in Chicago. When the silver anniversary of that league was celebrated Thursday evening with a measure of pomp and speechmaking the same four striplings were present and still mighty bowlers.

There they were as spry as ever—Chuck Collier, Harry Omsberg, Al Lea, and Ed Hess—and they asked no quarter from the young upstarts who have been joining this fast company as the years rolled on.

Collier, now president of the league, was content to let the Mineralites get along without him because of inaugural duties, but his team, perennial champions of the league, went right along and won three games with the aid of Fliger, Steers, Bunning, Burke, and Wright.

However, the other boys of 25 years ago were whipping the ball down the alleys as of old. Lea kept hitting the head pin and helped himself to games of 214, 180, and 205, short of the 600 mark, but Hess, his teammate on the Sunkist Pies team, upheld the reputations of the old boys by coming through. He started with 183 and then came games of 214 and 234 for a 631 total that was bettered by only three of the younger set. Omsberg, bowling with the Live Stock Press team, opponents of the Collier's Mineralites, did not do so badly with 186, 178, and 210.

On South Side Alleys.

High spots in the Archer-Kedzie Junior league were the 642 by S. Bonkowski, who had games of 204, 225, and 213, and H. Topel's 629, despite a start of 148. His other games were 268 and 213. Fasan Florists led the teams with 2,846. . . . The Woodlawn Recreation House league got under way Wednesday with Brewer knocking the pins groggy. He totaled 693.

About the Women.

Lee Schultz of Garden Recreation picked up the 3-7-10 split while she was leading the scorers in the Congress Women's league. She shot games of 174, 224, and 237, and her 635 helped her team sweep a series with the B. A. Railtons. Budweiser Girls and Northtown Recreation also won three games.

On North Side Alleys.

Two members of the Marx and Marx team, which totaled 2,973 at the last session of the Gold Coast Major league, hung up season highs for that circuit. Wray collected a 691 series and Kimball registered a 257 series. The next best series was the 669 of Dombrowski, representing the Triangle Shirts. Roosevelt Brewing and the Marx team went into a tie for first place by sweeping their series.

North End League.

One of the highest individual totals of the season was made in the North End Traveling league when Matty Faetz Jr., 20 year old member of his father's P. J. Wester team, helped himself to games of 279, 233, and 200 for 712. Last year's champions, the Milfords, soared into the team leadership by sweeping their series with the Kaadlands. The Milfords have won eight of nine games, while the Birks and Westers have won seven and lost two. Among the high individual marksmen were Jule Lellinger, 686; Frank Kartheiser, 662, and Norman Hallgren, 649.

Here and There.

Chris Kaads' new Kaadland bowling establishment at Ashland avenue and School street is expected to be ready Oct. 1 instead of Oct. 15 as previously announced. . . . Members of the Olympia Fields Country club will open their fifth league season Oct. 7 at the Stevenson and Schalk Recreation, Secretary Frank J. Lodge announces. . . . That was quite a series Herb Freitag had in the Wednesday Classic league. He totaled 713, with games of 200, 247, and 266. . . . John Malecky, secretary, reports the Cuneo Press league of eight teams is off to a successful start at the Southwest alleys. It's the twelfth season.

Notre Dame's Varsity Routs Sophs, 33-13

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Two touchdown runs by Bill Shakespeare, left half back, early in the second half enabled the Notre Dame varsity to come from behind and defeat the sophomore varsity candidates, 33 to 13, today.

Shakespeare ran 48 yards off tackle for the first touchdown on the fourth play of the third period. Five plays later he ran 50 yards for the second. The first one left the varsity trailing, 13 to 12, after a wild first half.

Sophs Tie It Up.

A moment later Quarter Back McKenna called for a fourth down pass on the varsity 42 yard line and threw it himself. Shakespeare and Fromhart batted it into the air and Chuck Borowski caught it for the sophs and tumbled across the goal line, tying the score at 6 all.

Frequent penalties and fumbles halted three varsity marches in the second period, while the sophomores capitalized on a pass from Bill Horan to Andy Puplis for a touchdown.

Shakespeare then scored the second and third varsity touchdowns at the opening of the third period.

GOPHERS ON DEFENSE

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—A defense for the North Dakota Aggies' attack occupied the University of Minnesota football squad as it completed its second week of work today. The Aggies open the season here Saturday.

Red Dawson, Minnesota backfield coach, scouted the Aggies as they defeated Concordia, 13 to 0, Friday night. He reported them as strong as last year, when Minnesota won, 56 to 12.

NEW LINE AT PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—With the exception of Frank Loebs at right end, a new line made its appearance this afternoon as Coach Noble Kiser sent the Purdue squad through a spirited game scrimmage session that was featured by the dashes of John Drake at full back.

Wayne Gift played quarter back, while two pairs of half backs worked with Drake to complete the back field. The halves were Bob Selby and Leon Dailey, and Tony Wright and Cecil Isbell.

The varsity scored one touchdown on a long dash by Drake, and another on a pass from Wright to Drake.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—In a secret practice game today new combinations were tried as Iowa coaches attempted to determine the best possible starting team for the Bradley Tech opener next week. Floyd Deheer and Corney Walker, first string tackles, were withheld from scrimmage because of slight knee injuries, but will return to the lineup next week. Practices will be limited to one session daily with the start of classes Monday.

REDS WIN AT INDIANA

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Scoring on a forward pass and a line plunge, the Reds defeated the Whites, 13 to 0, in an intra squad football game at Indiana university today.

Roy Eads, half back, caught a pass over the goal line late in the second quarter after the ball, thrown by Walker on the 15 yard line, bounced out of Burton's hands two minutes before the final gun. Davis plunged over from the one yard line, after Walker's pass to Eads had advanced the ball 50 yards down the field.

BEARS BATTLE PACKERS TODAY TO OPEN SEASON

Chicago Beset by Injuries —Nagurski Out.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Divisional champions in the National Professional Football league open their season today, the Bears, western title holders, meeting the Packers at Green Bay and the New York Giants, holders of the eastern and league titles, playing at Pittsburgh.

The Bears' invasion of Green Bay will mark the thirty-third meeting of the two teams, which began their series back in 1921. The Bears have won the last seven games, but face an improved Packer eleven today, one which will be at full strength, while they themselves are beset with injuries.

Bernie Masterson, regular quarter back; Bob Dunlap, his relief; Red Pollock, rookie half back sensation, and Ray Richards, veteran guard, are handicapped by injuries received in last week's exhibition at Kenosha, Wis. Nevertheless all except Dunlap are certain to face the Packers.

Nagurski Chief Casualty.

The chief casualty, however, is Bronko Nagurski, full back, around whose unstoppable charges the Bears have built three champion teams. Nagurski is recovering from a tonsilectomy, which, it is hoped, will eliminate a toxic condition and permit convalescence from a hip injury.

Other National league teams are watching today's Green Bay game with intense anticipation. To them Nagurski has always been the Bears. Several coaches expect the once invincible Chicagoans to fall apart without the battering Nagurski to smash holes in opposing lines and clear the way for the fleet Beattie Feathers.

League's Most Feared Player.

Nagurski's presence in the lineup exerted an important psychological influence, not only on the Bears, but upon their opponents. He has been the most feared player in the league for three years and no team relished an opportunity to test its defense against his crushing charges. Opponents who generally operate with only a modicum of success against the Bears will oppose them with a new confidence this year if it is proven at Green Bay today that the Bears without Nagurski are just another professional league team.

Until Nagurski returns, and Owner George Halas has no assurance from physicians that he will be back for another month, Jack Manders, place kicking star who has been Nagurski's relief, will play full back. The satisfaction that opponents will get out of Nagurski's absence is apt to be knocked into a cocked hat by Manders. He is no Nagurski, but National league rivals who are estimating his ability on his showing the last two years will find the Bears are better fortified at full back than they surmise.

Manders is blocking and hitting the line with a vengeance. Where he was almost a total loss in interference last year, he has become a deadly blocker.

Packers' Cripples Return.

Green Bay, fortified by a quintet of cripples who were missing last week when the Cardinals opened the season with a 7 to 6 victory over the Packers, will give Manders, and also the Bears, a definite test today.

The Packers will have four backs, George Sauer, full back; Roger Grove, quarter back; Clark Hinkle and Arnie Herber, half backs, in shape for today's game. George Maddox, big tackle who has been out with an injury, also is available. Halas left Green Bay last week, after scouting the Packers in the Cardinal game, fairly optimistic. He had been assured by friends that Hinkle, Sauer, et al., would not be ready for today's game. But now that they are back he is genuinely apprehensive.

Quarter back continues to be a problem for Halas. Masterson and Dunlap have yet to master the Bear offense sufficiently to be classed with Carl Brumbaugh, who resigned to become an assistant coach at West Virginia.

Giants Offense Powerful.

The Giants have exhibited a powerful offense in practice games and are expected to continue pre-season successes against a Pittsburgh team that is not rated as strong as its three touchdown victory over Philadelphia last week indicated.

While the Bears and Giants are opening their seasons, the Cardinals will play another practice game at La Crosse, Wis., in preparation for their meeting with the Lions in Detroit next week. A game has been scheduled at St. Louis with the Gunners for Wednesday, also.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Bond trading on the New York Stock exchange during the brief week-end period today quieted down considerably from the preceding day. Pressure was lifted from some sections, notably the railroad issues in the domestic group, and the Italian obligations in the foreign list. Total transactions amounted to $5,941,000, compared with $5,176,000 last Saturday.

With the exception of a decline of 15-32 in the treasury 3¼s of 1941, United States government loans were steadier today and moved within a relatively narrow range on a moderate turnover. Closing prices, with the above exception, showed gains of 1-32 and losses of 1-32 to 8-32 point. Transactions totaled $1,496,900, against $1,073,400 a week ago.

Foreign Issues Are Irregular.

The market for foreign loans was characterized by conspicuous inconsistencies, including a rally of 1 to 3 points in Italian bonds, and a decline of 2⅝ points in French government 7s. German issues were steady, but United Kingdom 4s of 1990 dipped to a new low before steadying toward the close.

The tense atmosphere surrounding the Italo-Ethiopian dispute continues as the motivating force in the market for foreign bonds. Traders and investors seemed to feel a little better about the European situation despite the rejection by the Mussolini cabinet of the league of nations' peace proposals.

Chance for Peace Is Seen.

The interpretation of Romes' "no" to Geneva was that it did not have an emphatic ring and that a loophole was left open for further negotiations.

Domestic corporation bonds, as a whole, moved within narrow limits and were without noteworthy features. Of the major group classifications, public utility issues appeared most vulnerable and yielded ground easily in light volume.

Diversification.

The subject of diversification of securities has been discussed many times by Investors' Guide, yet the subject is of such vital importance that it merits repeated mention.

Diversification implies that an investment portfolio should be composed of many different types of securities rather than of one, two, or three investments.

This principle is based on the fact that no one can tell what will happen to any investment a few years ahead and, consequently, it is impossible to select any one security and be certain that no loss will be sustained on it.

There is no such thing as a "safe" investment. Every investment has an element of risk in it. Even the purchaser of a United States government bond is speculating on the chance that interest rates in the future will not rise and depress the market price of his bond.

This speculative element cannot be entirely eliminated by the investor. It can, however, be minimized through the diversifying of his holdings on the assumption that by spreading his holdings he is spreading the risk. What might be an unfavorable development for one portion of his holdings might prove to be favorable for another portion, and the two actions would therefore provide stability, which, after all, should be the chief aim of the investor.

Mere diversification, however, is not enough. It must be done intelligently. One investor, for instance, wrote the Investors' Guide that he had $46,000 of real estate bonds, $1,000 each of 46 different issues. This diversification did him little good. The risks were all in the same bundle. When conditions in the real estate market became bad all his bonds defaulted.

True diversification implies not only the selection of different securities but different types of issues of various kinds of industries. A good investment portfolio should not be composed entirely of bonds; neither should it be composed entirely of stocks.

The exact proportions of the estate to be allocated to different types of securities is a problem that must be solved by each individual investor. In general, however, the smaller the estate the larger should be the percentage in sound bonds and life insurance.

PREDICTS VAST REVIVAL IF U. S. REFORMS BUDGET

Credit Expert Also Urges End to Radical Laws.

If steps were to be taken toward balancing the budget and the President's "breathing spell" promise means a halt to radical legislation, "no force can stop business from reaching an all-time peak," asserted Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, in his monthly review released yesterday by the Chicago Association of Credit Men.

A spirit of justifiable optimism is developing among business men, Heimann explained, because of improved business activity and expectations of further betterment.

"A pronouncement followed by a performance on our budgetary problem," he said, "would, in my opinion, cause everyone to sigh with relief and resume a normal outlook. While some of the legislation has been alarming to business, it is the deficits that are really choking us.

Recovery Hinges on Government.

"The 'breathing spell' pronouncement indicated the tremendous acceleration that could be given to recovery, and a performance in keeping with the pronouncement would almost guarantee that the substantial gains, arising from greater confidence and its subsequent promotion of trade, would hold.

"If one were to construe the President's pronouncement as intending to convey a message of relief for only a short period of time, there would be little encouragement. It should be borne in mind that once a social reform movement gets under way, it takes tremendous efforts to check it or to keep it within conservative lines. I feel it would be poor judgment for business to go along on the theory that there will be no more legislation of the type which presents new problems of adjustment for business.

Expects Further Legislation.

"Undoubtedly when congress convenes new measures will be put forth, some original, others in substitution for reform laws which may be found unconstitutional. In fairness, I feel the 'breathing spell' message should be interpreted as a desire of the President to remove the emphasis on this type of legislation. Even a Presidential pronouncement, however, is by no means insurance against further 'reform' legislation."

"In the case of legislation," Heimann added, "we know it must survive the sober judgment of the Supreme court. There is always the feeling that legislation of an uneconomic and socialistic type, which runs counter to the constitution, will be voided by this judicial tribunal. But the Supreme court does not pass upon deficits as such. This is a fiscal operation wherein the law of centuries of experience, crystalized in the maxim, 'you cannot continually spend more than you receive,' absolutely governs."

WOULD GIVE AAA TAX TO CHARITY IF RULED ILLEGAL

Ponca City, Okla., Sept. 21.—(AP)—D. J. Donahoe Jr., milling company executive, has proposed to 1,200 millers that more than $50,000,000 in impounded wheat processing taxes be given to the American Red Cross if the United States Supreme court frees the money.

Donahoe said today first replies to his proposal were favorable.

The suggestion was based on anticipation of victory in the Supreme court in the millers' attack on constitutionality of the wheat processing taxes levied by the Agricultural Adjustment administration. The taxes are impounded until the case is decided.

"The consumer is the one entitled to the refund but he cannot be found," said Donahoe. Giving it to the Red Cross, he said, would aid "all Americans in distress, whether they be farmers, millers, newspapermen or plumbers."

CHICAGO BANK STOCKS EASIER IN LAST WEEK

Declining tendencies dominated last week's activity in Chicago bank stocks in the over counter market. Continental Illinois lost 2½ points, closing at 65, while First National eased a point to 176.

Harris Trust lost 10 points to 240 bid, 255 asked, and Northern Trust, selling "ex" its $4.50 quarterly dividend, lost 5 points to 520 bid. Merchandise Bank and Trust, ex dividend $1, was unchanged. Terminal National continued firm at 21 bid.

In the miscellaneous sections Chicago Title and Trust closed at 137 to 140, a gain of 3 points.

New York bank stocks duplicated the trend here, with most losses confined to one or two points. The high priced Fifth Avenue dropped 25 points to 985, while First National slumped 85 points to 1640.

France Holds Importers; Label Oranges as Onions

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Two French importers were arrested today for the illegal importation of a huge quantity of California oranges through the falsification of a license granted for the import of onions. Authorities charged they had defrauded the customs of 500,000 francs [approximately $33,000].

Jantzen Knitting Mills' Sales Rise 40% Since 1933

Sales of the Jantzen Knitting Mills since 1933 have increased 40 per cent and exports have more than doubled, J. A. Zehntbauer, president, revealed at the company's convention, held in the Edgewater Beach hotel. He said the company plans a greatly increased advertising campaign this year and expects still larger increases in sales.

BACK TAXES DUE COUNTY DOUBLE TOTAL FOR 1933

Delinquent Cook county taxes, still payable for the years 1928 to 1933, inclusive, total $353,191,831, according to the weekly report of collections issued yesterday by County Collector Joseph L. Gill. The overdue aggregate is about double the whole 1933 tax bill of $178,841,148. The report, showing the amounts collected and uncollected, with the precentages collected, for the six year period, follows [cents omitted]:

Tax bills for 1934 are now being mailed out daily. They are on the average about 10 per cent higher than those of 1933, because of tax rate increases.

DENY INSURANCE SUPPLANTED BY SOCIAL SECURITY

The federal social security act indorses many of the principles for which life insurance stands and will emphasize benefits of life insurance rather than supplant it, A. J. McAndless, first vice president of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company, said yesterday in a message to field men. The legislation will have no influence on the market for life insurance, he asserted.

McAndless said the government plan extends coverage only to those gainfully employed and excludes the large body of agricultural workers, owners of business, professional men, and teachers. Being a long term project, full benefits can be enjoyed only by the youth of the present generation, he added.

"The main purpose of the act is to extend broadly only one feature of life insurance—the retirement income," said McAndless. "The act provides mere subsistence income. The theoretical maximum which can be obtained by any person is $85 a month after 45 years of service at a continuous salary of $250 a month. The practical maximum is much less than the theoretical."

Equity Corporation Takes Steps to Simplify Setup

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Equity corporation, an investment company which since its formation in 1932 has simplified the corporate structure of the group of companies in which it has an interest, took a further step in its program today. It acquired 5,999,844 shares of United Founders corporation common stock. These shares had been issued to it in exchange for securities of certain subsidiaries of the United Founders corporation and of one other company. Other terms proposed would increase Equity's voting power in United Founders. Stockholders of United Founders will hold a special meeting in Baltimore on Oct. 10 to vote on ratification of the deal.

South Dakota to Protest Splitup of M. & St. L. Road

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The South Dakota railroad commission has decided to make a formal protest to the interstate commerce commission against the proposed dismemberment of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad, Frank Pickhart, chairman, said today. Under a plan proposed by several railroads in the northwest, 168 miles of the defunct railroad in South Dakota would be abandoned and the rest of the trackage apportioned to other railroads.

COMMODITY MARKETS SHOW BUOYANT TONE; GRAINS LEAD UPTURN

A buoyant tone marked last week's commodity markets. Prices in nearly all instances moved higher, with grains leading the way. Hogs and eggs ran counter to the general trend by moving lower, but losses were confined to small amounts.

Wheat advanced more than 5 cents a bushel, corn, 2 cents; oats, a cent, and rye, 5 cents. Lard gained .65 of a cent, cotton rose 15 points, and butter moved up an eighth of a cent. Coffee advanced 11 points; sugar, 4 points; cottonseed oil, 25 points; rubber, 27 points; hides, 7 points, and silver, 55 points.

Closing prices yesterday and week ago, with high and low marks for the season, follow:

Tax of 2.47 cents per pound on lard, 2.62 cents per pound on bellies [salt pork], and $2.25 per 100 pounds on hogs is included.

NEW YORK WILL SELL 30 MILLION ISSUE TUESDAY

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The sale of $30,000,000 New York state emergency unemployment relief bonds on Tuesday is awaited with somewhat more than usual interest in municipal bond circles because of the unsettled conditions which have prevailed in the market for tax exempt securities recently. In the past, sales of New York state bonds and notes have served as a tonic to the state and municipal bond market.

There has been a substantial downward readjustment in prices during the last two weeks, which is attributed by dealers to weakness in United States government securities and anxiety over the outcome of negotiations in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. These conditions, it is contended, have tended to influence some institutions to lighten their holdings of low yielding securities.

The result of this movement has placed the average yield on even the highest grade municipals on a more attractive basis. A lack of uniform opinion on the part of municipal bond houses is apparent by the wide range of bids submitted on new issues.

Former Head of Bondex Joins Shields & Co. Staf

D. W. Mathews, former head of Bondex, Inc., has become associated with Shields & Co., here and will establish a new bank investment department, T. Clifford Rodman, resident partner, announced last night. Mathews at one time headed the Telephone Securities company, security affiliate of the Theodore Gary & Co. group of phone properties.

Lowe Appointed Assistant Manager of Palmer House

Allen James Lowe, former assistant manager and convention manager of the La Salle hotel, has been appointed an assistant manager of the Palmer house, Edward T. Lawless, general manager, announced yesterday.

Edison Co. Obtains Permit for Building on Western

A building permit was issued yesterday to the Commonwealth Edison company to construct at 1046 North Western avenue a $30,000 brick building to be used for distributing electric current.

CHICAGO WHEAT FALLS BELOW DOLLAR MARK

Dips About One Cent; Foreign Prices Weak.

Dollar wheat was removed from the blackboards on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday as operators evened up commitments for over the week-end, few caring to have an extended open position in the market due to the uncertainty over the European political situation.

A weak tone prevailed in all of the leading world markets. Prices in Chicago and Winnipeg dipped about one cent, Liverpool declined 1¼ to 1⅜ cents, and Buenos Aires sagged ¾ cent.

Forecast of rain in Argentina and an official estimate which placed the wheat acreage in that country at 14,000,000 or 4,800,000 acres less than the previous year's had a depressing effect on the markets as the acreage estimate was above trade expectations.

Crop Limit 140 Million Bushels.

Under the most favorable conditions, according to a New York report to the Norris Grain company, Argentina could not raise more than 140,000,000 bushels, compared with 238,000,000 bushels in the previous year. A maximum exportable surplus of 45,000,000 bushels was indicated, of which about half is expected to be taken by Brazil and other non-European countries. Broomhall estimated the Australian crop at 120,000,000 bushels, or 15,000,000 bushels less than last year, and placed the probable export surplus at 65,000,000 bushels.

Due to the keen demand of southwestern mills for soft red winter wheat St. Louis was reported as outbidding Chicago for this variety downstate, and the trade is expecting limited arrivals here.

Other grains were unsettled. September corn and oats closed fractionally higher. Rye weakened in sympathy with wheat.

Comparative Figures.

Closing prices of principal December futures here follow:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$ .99⅛	$1.00⅛	$ .93⅞
Corn	.58⅞	.58⅝	.56⅞
Oats	.28⅜	.28¼	.27¼
Rye	.49½	.50⅛	.44⅛

A sharp decline in Canadian exchange has resulted in cash wheat prices there becoming more attractive to American mills. While December wheat at Winnipeg was quoted at 94½ cents the actual price in American funds was only 93⅛ cents.

Cash houses were buyers of September oats which closed at ½ cent premium over the December.

Chicago Sunday Tribune
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER
SEPTEMBER 22, 1935.

STOCK MARKET IS BRACED BY 2-DAY SHAKEOUT

Part of List Gains; Trading Quiet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 21.—Braced by its two-day shakeout, the share market refused to let the fresh wave of war reports and rumors coming across the Atlantic disturb it today. Prices of leading issues held close around their previous closing figures and a good proportion of yesterday's casualties managed to edge fractionally ahead. Trading was at a much slower pace. turnover falling to around 673,500 shares.

Comment around the brokerage house board rooms indicated that it is an open question whether the market would have declined had no war "scare" arisen. Prices had advanced virtually without a setback since the middle of last March. In the circumstances a sell-off would have been a normal development, it was admitted, even had no world crisis arisen.

Volume Selling Lacking.

An encouraging circumstance today was the absence of volume selling at any stage of the session. Transactions were on a modest scale, indicating that pressure was not severe. Neither was the buying of an insistent character.

In spite of the increased interest aroused by the burst of selling in the last two sessions attendance at the board rooms was reduced as usual on Saturday and a majority of those on hand was content to observe operations from the sidelines and wait further developments in the war situation.

Brokers reported a substantial accumulation of buying orders overnight and this served to give the list an upward tilt at the opening, with such leaders as U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, New York Central, Chrysler, and Anaconda prominent among the initial gainers. The improvement was of a fractional scope, however.

Italian Act No Factor.

News that Italy had rejected the peace plan of the league was received without visible effect, and for the remainder of the session prices idled around their starting points. Consolidated Gas and some of the other utilities moved ahead a shade, but closing figures on the group as a whole were mixed as they were on the list as a whole.

The metal shares met some demand and leading oils showed a little better tone. Food and specialty descriptions were in a listless mood and the rails did little.

Total trading for the week aggregated 258,000 shares. This fell below the 285,000 total of the preceding week, but was more than two and a half times the 102,000 share volume of the corresponding period of last year.

Thirty-two issues rose to new 1935 highs during the fore part of the week. Trading broadened slightly to include 175 issues during the six days, compared with 166 issues in the preceding week.

CHICAGO LIST STEADY

Chicago stocks idled in a narrow range yesterday to close a week of irregularity. There were signs of steadiness after a two day break precipitated by war fears.

Two hour session yesterday saw 18,000 shares traded in 62 issues. Thirteen managed to make advances, 29 held steady, and 20 lost ground again. The only losses of a point or more were in Commonwealth Edison, Central Illinois Public Service, and Northwest Utilities. Public Service issues, however, were unchanged.

Motors stiffened in fair demand, Noblitt Sparks and Automatic Products scoring slight gains. Borg Warner and Bendix were steady, and Houdaille B and Cord each lost only an eighth. The group was off little for the week, having advanced the first days of the week.

INDUSTRY INDEX SLIGHTLY LOWER FOR LAST WEEK

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Associated Press index of industrial activity was slightly lower this week at 70.1, compared with 70.2 last week and 58.0 a year ago. The reduced level of automobile output again was the most important factor in the decline.

Steel mill activity and electric power production received seasonal setbacks. Cotton manufacturing improved somewhat. Total carloadings rose more than seasonally.

The index, based on 1929-'30 as 100, and adjusted for seasonal variation, follows with the corresponding index figures for its component parts:

	Latest wk.	Prev. wk.	Year ago.
Composite index	70.1	70.2	58.0
Automobile production	*14.6	15.6	44.5
Steel mill activity	64.8	66.7	28.0
Cotton mfg. activity	87.4	86.2	59.9
Electric power production	100.9	101.4	93.2
Residential building	42.6	42.6	16.2

$500,000 in Securities Stolen from Hormel Here

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Securities with an estimated value of more than $500,000 were reported to the stock exchange today to have been stolen from the home of George A. Hormel in Beverly Hills, Cal. Details of the reported theft were not revealed. The securities in most cases were of nationally known corporations and were listed in large blocks of from 500 to 2,000 shares.

Senate Agents Rain Questions Upon Utilities

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Special agents of the United States senate committee investigating alleged lobbying activities on the part of the public utility companies during congressional consideration of the Wheeler-Rayburn regulatory bill have moved en masse upon the main offices of many of the companies with headquarters in New York city, a survey of the various corporations revealed today.

One leader in the industry asserted these emissaries of Senator Hugo L. Black, chairman of the committee, have "just about moved in on us." It appears the various company executives are not so much concerned about the information these agents seek, but the detail work attached to meeting their many demands is now greatly impairing the work of their stafs.

Agents Comb Companies' Records.

Files of the companies are being gone through with a fine tooth comb and even copies of letters from college students asking for information about the workings of companies are being appropriated for perusal by the legislators in Washington, it was said.

The utility executives say they could bear this "invasion," as they term it, but to make matters a bit more complicated they are receiving endless questionnaires over the signature of Senator Black asking for detailed information upon matters which, it is said, are of public record in other local, state, and federal agencies, and could be obtained otherwise than from the companies themselves.

The most recent questionnaire, which, it is said, has been sent to every utility unit in the country, covers the topic of "servicing." Each question is asked—to phrase it in the words of the committee chairman—"not alone of yourself but of each of your associates, affiliates, subsidiaries, and corporate connections."

Explains "Servicing."

The introduction of the query, which lists 23 questions on "servicing," states that the "committee desires to ascertain all pertinent facts bearing upon the 'servicing' of the individual units of your utility group and system, and for the purposes of this questionnaire 'servicing' shall mean furnishing any managerial, financial, legal, engineering, purchasing, marketing, auditing, statistical, advertising, publicity, tax, research, or any other service, information, or data."

Under this form of questioning, the companies must break down every item so designated for the last five years and give all information in the minutest detail. In addition, all correspondence for the period from 1929 to 1935 relating in any sense to servicing must be attached to the replies. When a company is able to answer a question without conferring in some manner with the holding or service company, it must be so stated.

ALLEGHANY CORP. MINORITY GROUP IS ORGANIZED

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The formation of a committee to represent minority stockholders in the Alleghany corporation, top company in the Van Sweringen railway holding structure, was announced today by Daniel W. Blumenthal. A majority of the corporation's common stock, which carries control of the 3 billion dollar Van Sweringen railway empire, will be sold by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. at auction on Sept. 30.

Arthur M. Wickwire is counsel for the committee. Blumenthal said that Wickwire planned to confer with L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, to determine what plans, if any, the veteran railroad strategist had in mind relative to the auction of the Van Sweringen securities. The name of Loree was the first that occurred to Wall street as a possible bidder for the stock.

33 Favorable Dividend Changes Made in Week

Favorable dividend changes in the last week totaled 33, compared with 39 in the previous week, according to the Standard Statistics company. Although lower than the previous week, the total is still well above the average of the last few months. Unfavorable changes totaled 6, compared with 5 the preceding week.

TOURIST TRADE NEAR 1929 LEVEL; AIR LINE TRAFIC SETS NEW HIGH

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The tourist trade in the United States was reported by the commerce department today to have almost reached the 1929 level.

Reporting "consistent progress" in retail and wholesale trade in the week ended last Wednesday, the department devoted most of its weekly business survey of 33 cities to a summary of tourist activities.

"An interesting feature of the reports," the department said, "was the revelation that during the summer season just ended tourist activities have returned to proportions comparable to 1930 and 1931, and, in some cases, to 1929. These conditions prevail in steamship, railroad, airplane, and bus lines as well as in travel by private cars."

Trans-Atlantic passenger trafic was 25 per cent heavier in the last four months than a year ago, with the largest volume since the summer of 1929. Airline passenger travel "was at a peak never before reached in the history of American scheduled air transportation."

The national park service reported 3,224,389 visitors at 22 national parks in the United States and Hawaii in the first eight months of 1935, against 2,806,440 in the same period of 1934.

Estimates indicated more than twice as many visitors in Minnesota up to Sept. 1 than the state received in 1934 up to Nov. 1, when 1,070,000 tourists spent $42,800,000.

AUTUMN OFFERS GOOD OMEN FOR RAILWAY TRAFIC

The railroads have clearly defined prospects of improvement during the fall months, according to a survey issued yesterday by Poor's Publishing company. Bases for the forecast are the promise of further recovery in the heavy industries, sustained activity in consumers' goods industries, the favorable harvest outlook, and benefits to be obtained from freight rate surcharges.

So far as the long term outlook is concerned, many obstacles are cited. Better prospects for this fall, however, are contrasted with conditions a year ago, when heavy industry was depressed and drouth not only had cut crops but temporarily had brought about curtailed consumer buying.

The drift to other forms of transportation is cited as a primary obstacle to the long term outlook.

"The second obstacle is the decline in domestic wheat and cotton production, due to the American farmer's inability to compete in the export markets with low cost foreign production," the survey said. "Thirdly, there is the railroad burden of debt with its load of fixed interest charges and the increased weight of taxation.

"In spite of all competitive transportation service, the railroads still command about 70 per cent of the country's freight trafic. There is no chance that motor trucks can capture the heavier trafic."

SANTA FE PLANS $3,700,000 TRACK IMPROVEMENTS

The Santa Fe railroad yesterday announced plans to spend more than $3,700,000 for higher speed transportation between Chicago and the Pacific coast. All curvatures in fast track now a part of the California route will be eliminated in the interest of faster continuous service, officials said. Between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 will be spent this year on this phase of the work.

In addition the road has begun resurfacing and reëlevating its curves to accommodate operation of the new 3,600 horsepower "Super Chief," a high speed, twin diesel locomotive now being tested.

The company also announced purchase of controling interest in the Southern Kansas Stage Lines company. S. T. Bledsoe, president of the railroad, said the Santa Fe had purchased 46,000 of the stage line company's 90,500 shares. Although officials declined to state the consideration, the price was understood to be $644,000.

Illinois Central to Speed Daily Suburb Trains

Improved service and a thorough revision of schedules on its south side suburban electrified trains, effective next Sunday with the end of daylight saving time, was announced yesterday by the Illinois Central system.

The loop will be brought nearer for 80,000 daily commuters through a dozen major improvements, said President L. A. Downs. Frequent and better adjusted service will extend to Sunday schedules. The number of trains will be increased from 449 to 465 daily.

Savings of as much as 20 per cent in running time will be made, particularly on the main line. Express service of the Shouth Chicago branch will be doubled, with trains in each direction running at 10 minute intervals.

Night Service Improved.

Late night service from Randolph street will be improved by running a train every 20 minutes between midnight and 1:40 a. m.

One of the most notable changes will be the saving of 17 minutes by early morning commuters on a new "special" leaving Matteson at 6:11 a. m. Fifteen minutes will be saved theater goers by another special from Matteson with a convenient Blue Island connection. Other high speed specials will save 6 to 10 minutes on the Matteson-Randolph street run.

Certain other Matteson and South Chicago trains will clip minutes off present schedules. Blue Island will be benefited by convenient connections with improved main line trains.

Other Savings Effected.

Time savings also will be made on local trains between 12th and 53d streets during non-rush hours and on local and express trains between 67th street and Kensington and between Kensington and Matteson.

Service was established between the loop and Hyde Park in 1856 on a steam basis by the Illinois Central. It was extended southward as Chicago grew. Completely remodeled and electrified in 1926, the suburban service is credited with substantial contributions to increased population and development of the south side and suburban communities. It extends from Randolph street south 29 miles to the mainline terminal at Matteson, 20 miles southwest to Blue Island, and 14 miles southeast to South Chicago.

NIAGARA HUDSON TO ENTER FARM POWER PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The rural electrification administration today named the Niagara Hudson group of power companies in New York state as one of those undertaking programs to supply electricity to rural homes not now served.

The administration said officials of the group have reported the Niagara Hudson program will involve construction of approximately 4,550 miles of rural electric distribution lines and will make service available to 20,250 homes.

In addition to a drastic reduction in minimum monthly charges, the new plan provides that at the end of five months all minimum monthly charges will drop to $2.

BRITAIN VIEWS ITALY ON VERGE OF BANKRUPTCY

Large Share of Gold Pledged in London.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Italy's drift toward bankruptcy was made more visible this week by the London Times' reminder that a "substantial part" of Italy's gold reserve, which now is about $372,000,000, is actually held in London earmarked against the Italian war debt to Britain. The amount of Italian gold retained in London is around $105,000,000, thus reducing the actual gold reserve in the Bank of Italy by 28.6 per cent to a beggarly $267,000,000.

At the time of the debt settlement with Italy on Jan. 27, 1926, the British government held $110,000,000 in Italian gold as partial security for some 3 billion 55 millions of Italian I O. U.'s, representing principal and interest on the original loan of 2 billion 30 million dollars.

Included in Italian Reserve.

Italy was anxious to accumulate gold in order to stabilize the lira and the nominal ownership of this gold was transferred to her, enabling the Bank of Italy to include it in its gold reserve. But Italy agreed to leave it intact in London, and beginning in 1928 draw against it in small annual instalments for a repayment of the Italian war debt. These payments reduced it around $106,000,000 before the Hoover debt moratorium suspended all debt agreements.

Gov. Hjalmar Schacht of the German reichsbank, of course, would regard $267,000,000 as a superabundance, having learned how to get on without gold, thanks to concentration camps for a salutary blunting of domestic discontent and to the "standstill" agreements by which he appropriates to his own ends moneys advanced from abroad.

Doubt Mussolini's Strength.

But Schacht is not at the moment compelled to finance a war. As London sees it, Mussolini is very far from having a complete grip on the country, though he has plenty of machinery for tightening that grip if he is driven to do so.

Terms of the new Italian defense loan were severely criticized here for their extravagance and the assumption is that Il Duce knew his market and had to come to terms with it. The decision to fund Italian war pensions, instead of meeting their annual charge out of revenue, is another point stressed in London comment.

Reports that large hoards of gold are being transferred to New York from fear that the British government contemplates some restrictions on the movements of gold have caused annoyance. Another disturbing factor is the heavy selling in Paris with shares of the Bank of France losing 8 per cent in a week.

The feeling is that it looks bad when two pillars of international law and order display the jitters. The upshot is revival of talk that British government stocks have not yet encountered their maximum pressure.

FRENCH MARKET NERVOUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The French market has been heavy and hesitating all week in almost exact rhythm with news from Geneva. The latest bank of France statement showing a gold loss during the week of 61 million francs, largely to New York, was a reminder that the currency problem may arise again but the best opinion is that the franc is safe, at least until the meeting of parliament.

Attention of the French business world this week has been most aroused by Minister of Commerce Bonnet's speech at Geneva sounding out the possibility of a general stabilization of currencies, which the majority of French financiers think essential for restoration of French business activity.

Some observers, however, were not pleased with Bonnet's speech, saying it is dangerous to push stabilization forward while even a small part of French public opinion favors lining up the franc on a parity with devaluated and unstable currencies.

INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS PASS ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Income tax collections of $226,352,401 were reported by the treasury today for the first 20 days of September. This compared with $160,359,334 collected during the corresponding 1934 period.

Treasury officials said the September payments of third quarter installments on 1934 incomes were far above their own estimates, but declined to give exact comparisons. Income tax receipts of $1,188,000,000 were estimated for the 1936 fiscal year ending next June 30.

The treasury's latest condition statement, for September 19, showed income tax payments of $252,143,000 thus far in the fiscal year. This, however, did not include telegraphic reports on which the announcement of September collections was based.

BUSINESS NEWS IN REVIEW

BY HOWARD WOOD.

War prospects weighed heavily upon American markets last week, causing the first real setback in stock prices since the long steady upswing began last spring. As Mussolini continued to defy the attempts of other nations to deter him from the projected Ethiopian conquest and British warships mobilized in the Mediterranean, traders in all markets suddenly became convinced that war was nearer than they had figured. [For news of war developments see "Foreign" on page 1 of review section.]

United States Steel shares went down $3 during the week. General Motors fell $2, Chrysler $2.67, Bethlehem Steel $2.25, Montgomery Ward $5, General Electric $1.67. Dow-Jones industrial averages dipped 4.62 points for the week. Some stocks fell even more. Even railroad shares were weak, despite the most favorable report on freight trafic in many months. United States government bonds eased slightly.

Capital Flees.

More sensational was the effect of the war "scare" on European markets and foreign exchange. Frightened capital began to flee those few remaining European nations whence capital is still free to flee. Every westbound liner's vault was crammed to capacity with gold and the total gold shipments to the United States rose above the 150 million mark for the current movement. Most of it was coming from Holland, France, and England. Chicago brokers reported that Europeans were selling their shares of American stocks held abroad, not because they were unattractive, but because such sales gave them dollars to transfer to the United States.

Collapse in Italy.

In Italy the financial situation is no longer one of crisis but rather of collapse. The bottom dropped out of the Rome Stock exchange late in the week. Italian bonds on the New York Stock exchange sank to new lows. Italian government 7 per cent bonds, which early this year sold as high as $94.50 per $100 face value, sold as low as $56.50 on Friday. Private interests are barred by Fascist order from exporting Italian gold, but the government was rapidly spending abroad what is left of the former gold backing for the currency. The latest report from Rome disclosed that more than 690 million lire in gold had been spent in the last six weeks. At that rate Italy would be out of gold in 40 weeks. If she goes to war Italy will spend faster, thus exhausting her gold supplies even sooner.

Following the lead set by London Lloyds in canceling war risk insurance in outstanding ship policies, Canadian underwriters on Friday refused to insure ships bound to or from Italy. The Canadian government warned exporters to demand cash for goods shipped to Italy.

Eye Europe.

The effect of all these developments on American markets was to turn all eyes from the domestic recovery, which has been making headway ever since the Supreme court decision knocked out the NRA, to the bad European situation. Wheat gained about a nickel a bushel during the week, partly on war talk and partly on news of almost unprecedented drouth in Argentina. But the United States has no wheat to export even if Europe should be in the market for more. Cotton rallied on hopes of increased European sales in the event of war. Sales of scrap steel, particularly to Japan and Italy, mounted, and copper prices rose to the best levels in two years on foreign buying for military purposes.

War, however, would reduce rather than increase American foreign trade. The Johnson act prohibits American loans of any kind to nations that have defaulted on their debts from the last war. And many European nations have little gold to exchange for American goods. Official declaration of war would quickly bar sales of war materials to any belligerent, under the terms of the neutrality law passed at the last session of congress.

Further, war would abruptly halt the economic recovery in Great Britain, and probably France, upon which Americans have been banking for ultimate restoration of international trade.

Good News Veiled.

The foreign turmoil almost entirely obscured further favorable business developments within the United States. Because of the upswing in fall business freight trafic on railroads throughout the country soared to the highest level since early in November, 1931, carloadings passing the 700,000 mark. Bank clearings were 20 per cent above year ago levels. Electric power production showed the second largest improvement this year, compared with 1934 figures. Retail trade was 10 to 22 per cent higher than a year ago. Reports showed that August passenger car sales had been the best for that month since 1929 and that building permits in August were nearly double those of August, 1934. In Illinois, building for August increased 70 per cent in number of projects and 173½ per cent in estimated cost over August, 1934.

There were some unfavorable developments. Steel production dropped slightly. Railroad stocks were adversely affected by Pullman's action in halving its quarterly dividend rate to 37½ cents per share and reporting poor earnings prospects for its sleeping car subsidiary. Automobile production tapered off more, preparatory to the introduction of 1936 models. Hog receipts continued to dwindle.

SEC Tangle.

When Joseph Patrick Kennedy and his wife sail Tuesday for Europe to place one of their nine children in school in London and another in a convent in Paris, they will leave behind them an American financial community worried and puzzled about the future regulatory policies of the New Deal.

Kennedy, who on Friday resigned as chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission after an interchange of letters in which President Roosevelt addressed him as "Dear Joe" and said he was sorry to see Kennedy go, had won the confidence of financial men because of his personal knowledge of the intricacies of their business and his moderation in handling them. They fear that his successor may be James M. Landis, radical New Deal brain truster, or J. D. Ross, public ownership advocate, both of whom are already members of the SEC.

Despite the friendly tone of the published correspondence it was no secret in Washington that one of Kennedy's reasons for quitting was his displeasure with certain New Deal policies, plus his desire to avoid the utility tangle which shortly is to be tossed into the lap of the SEC.

Business men hoped there was some truth in the rumors that the President, as a gesture to back up his "breathing spell for business" statement, would name Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, or Henry I. Harriman, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, to succeed Kennedy.

Warnings!

Big business men, however, were still taking little stock in the "breathing spell" promise. They became more outspoken than ever in their warnings that mounting federal deficits, increasing taxes, and continued tinkering with business were heading the nation toward trouble.

Sewell L. Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., in reporting to his stockholders that earnings for their account in the first half of this year were 80 cents per share, whereas the tax collectors got $1 per share, urged them earnestly "to direct the influence which you can exercise by your vote to the elimination of extravagant, wasteful expenditures and uneconomic and unsound taxation by federal, state, and local governments." Not only is there little prospect for tax reductions, he said, but there is every indication that taxes will climb. The so-called "social security" act will add to this burden, which in the final analysis must be borne by the consumers and the stockholders, he explained.

No Gold.

Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, was even more outspoken. He said: "We have taken our first steps along the road which other peoples have followed in search of the rainbow only to find at the end not a pot of gold but some form of collectivism and dictatorship."

James A. Emery, chief counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, characterized President Roosevelt's promise of a "breathing spell" for business as an interval between a "preceding period of strangulation and one of approaching exhaustion."

More Shakeups.

Further moves were made in the far reaching shakeup in United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries. Big moguls of the corporation and their banker associates met in Pittsburgh Wednesday and in Chicago Thursday, announced the appointment of G. Cook Kimball, vice president of Illinois Steel company, as Chicago operating head of the new merged Carnegie Steel and Illinois Steel concern. Small subsidiaries in Pennsylvania were gobbled up by Carnegie. Reports were that American Sheet and Tinplate and American Steel and Wire, two other big subsidiaries, would be merged. The purpose of these and previous changes is to enable U. S. Steel to get back its share of the steel business. Smaller competitors have been showing profits

Present Flight Adds $154,000,000.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The flight of capital from Europe to the United States continued in full swing today when $21,854,000 more gold was engaged abroad for shipment here. Of this amount $9,539,000 was taken in England where gold has begun to flow out of the private hoards held in London banks for the account of wealthy individuals and institutions. The day's engagements also included $9,486,000 taken in France and a consignment of $2,829,000 arranged in Canada.

Including these engagements a total of $154,054,000 of gold has been taken abroad since Sept. 9 for shipment to this country, of which more than $125,000,000 is now on the way, or awaiting shipping facilities.

Largest Engagements.

In Paris $57,086,000 has been engaged since that date, in Holland $41,800,000, and in England $39,139,000. Of the gold taken from England, $33,839,000 engaged in the last three days is believed to have come entirely out of private hoards.

In some banking circles it was hinted that the American stabilization fund might be engaging gold in an effort to help support the pound and the franc. This was done several months ago when support was given the French franc.

The foreign exchange market was somewhat steadier today. The pound, which has been under heavy pressure all week, rallied ½ cent to $4.91¾, but at that level it was down 3⅜ cents on the week. The franc, was ⅛ point higher at 6.58¾, but down ¾ point on the week. At this price continued gold shipments may be expected. The dollar was worth $1.0070 against francs, compared with $1.0072 yesterday.

Guilder Above Gold Point.

Guilders fell five points to 67.68 cents yesterday, but even after that decline were 20 points net higher on the week and above the gold-shipping price.

The Swiss franc was unchanged at 32.48 cents, but was 6 points lower on the week. The Belga gained 2 points at 16.88 cents, but was down 1 point on the week. The Japanese yen was unchaged at 28.75 cents, but lost 34 points since last Saturday. The Canadian dollar was steady.

Present Flight Brings In $154,000,000.

at 98.37½ cents, 12½ points off on the week.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced the receipt of $2,248,400 gold from India as additional for Friday and reported that 10,200,000 ounces of silver were on the way here from London.

The movement of privately hoarded gold out of London to the United States opened up the possibilities of an extraordinary further increase in the already swollen monetary gold stocks of this country. It has been estimated that at present there is about $2,000,000,000 of hoarded gold in the world, of which about half is believed to be lodged in the vaults of London's banks.

Some Held by Americans.

Some of this gold belongs to Americans who put it there prior to and since the suspension of gold in the United States, and some to European nationals who selected London as the safest place to store the gold because of England's known pride in the maintenance of a free gold market.

Until now neither the revaluation of the dollar nor the surmounting of various crises in the gold bloc has lured this gold back into the form of currency or bank deposits. But in the last week war fear became stronger in the minds of at least some hoarders of gold than the fear of currency depreciation.

Since the devaluation of the dollar on Jan. 31, 1934, an unprecedented movement of gold in this country has been in progress. In the period the monetary gold stocks of the country have increased $2,411,000,000, exclusive of the rise due to devaluation itself.

Monetary Stock Rising.

Gold already engaged for shipment here will shortly lift the total of monetary gold stocks to at least $9,370,000,000, or more than $2,540,000,000 above the levels existing when the dollar was devalued.

This year to date $847,195,300 gold has been received from abroad and amounts now on the way will bring the total to nearly $1,000,000,000, so that the total for the year will probably exceed that of last year. This year there have been no exports.

Since the revaluation of the dollar France has sent to the United States $691,060,600 of gold; England, $626,377,100, and Holland $266,227,900, exclusive of the large amounts now on the way here from those three countries.

HEDGING SALES AND FAIR WEATHER DEPRESS COTTON

American cotton markets ignored strong cables from Liverpool yesterday, and prices declined moderately as the result of hedging pressure and favorable weather conditions in all sections of the belt. Closing trades showed losses of 6 to 11 points. Aggregate trade was not large, operators being disposed to act with caution due to fears concerning European developments over the week-end.

Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 points lower, with New Orleans, 10.75 cents; Galveston and Houston, 10.65 cents, and New York at 10.80 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

EGG FUTURES UNCHANGED; BUTTER DECLINES ⅛ CENT

No change was shown in egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. There was fair selling early, but a better undertone developed toward the close. Withdrawals from cold storage at the four leading points were 9,600 cases less than last year. The spot butter market was generally ¼ to ½ cent per pound lower which was reflected in a decline of ⅛ cent in the November delivery. The latter closed at 25½ cents per pound. The AAA purchased four cars of spot butter. Sales of butter were 28 cars and eggs 92 cars. Prices follow:

AUTO PRODUCTION LOW, BUT UPTURN IS DUE SHORTLY

Dealers Clearing Stocks of Old Models.

Output of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada last week fell to a new low for the year at 12,600 units, Cram's Reports, Inc. revealed yesterday. A week earlier production amounted to 13,470 units, and while a year ago the total stood at 38,329. The decline was caused by preparations for new models which are expected to start rolling from the assembly lines shortly.

"It is definitely established," Cram's said, "that the 3,000,000 mark in production for 1935 has been passed by the automobile industry. Within two or three weeks the daily output of most plants should show an appreciable increase."

Selling Out 1935 Models.

Meanwhile, the final clearing up of 1935 model cars in dealers' hands got under way. Retail distribution has tapered off in anticipation of new models, but output has been smaller than consumer demand and as a result little "bargain selling" will be necessary this year.

Buick presented its new model Sept. 18, the first concern to bring out the 1936 types in the early fall in line with the agreement the industry made with President Roosevelt as a move to level off employment and production. It cut prices $40 to $395. Dodge also has its 1936 models in production.

Plan Production Before Shows.

Many companies now out of production are expected to have assembly lines in operation well in advance of the National Automobile show early in November so that dealers in various sections can show the new models at the same time they are displayed at the New York exhibition.

Many plants with assembly lines closed are doing extensive departmental work, building up stocks of parts for the coming new models as well as overhauling supplies of units for models that are going out of production.

HEAVY HOGS RISE ON WAR THREAT, SMALL RECEIPTS

War threats in Europe, a decided letup in the receipts of "lard hogs" and a rise in the lard markets brought urgent buying orders for heavy hogs at higher prices last week. The market for "lard hogs" rose 5 to 20 cents during the week, with stock over 400 pounds indicating the sharpest gains. On the other hand, hogs below 225 pounds were off 10 to 25 cents and some light new crop stock declined 35 cents.

Total receipts of hogs for the week established a new all time low with the possible exception of some strike periods. Chicago received only 37,700 head, which under normal conditions would be little more than an average Monday run for this time of the year.

The average price of hogs for the week at $13.20, processing tax included, showed 10 cents decline, but only two weekly averages in the last nine years have been above this figure. Prices a year ago last week averaged $9.10 and two years ago the price was $4.60, there being no processing tax to pay then.

A sharp widening of the price range marked the cattle trade the last week. Buyers scrambled for well finished beef steers at the highest levels in three months, paying 50 to 75 cents more than a week before for stock over $11.75. Poorer grades closed weak to 25 cents lower.

The week's average price of good beef steers at $10.65 was steady with the preceding week, but compared with $8 a year ago and with $5.80 two years ago.

Lamb prices closed 25 cents higher than a week ago, but because of the high level of quotations early the preceding week, the average at $9 indicated a loss of 70 cents.

CLOUDS OF WAR WEIGHT DOWN MANY MARKETS

Under the pressure of criticism of its crop reduction program the Agricultural Adjustment administration is trying to deflect blame for food scarcity and high prices by the "red herring" method. Secretary Wallace last week began hearings on charges that packing companies in 1932 indulged in price fixing. Another Chicago grain trader, Simon Wexler, member of the Chicago Board of Trade, was charged with making false reports on grain deals. Meanwhile the AAA began to retreat from its potato control program, aided by the fact that congress during hectic final sessions failed to appropriate funds for enforcement.

While the blame for high food prices and scarcity was thus being shunted around, Chicago hog receipts were falling to record low levels. Fewer hogs were received on Friday than on any Friday on record. Hundreds of pens at the Chicago Stock Yards were empty and hog killing floors of many packing plants were closed. [For further news see "AAA" in "Washington" column of review section.]

McCormick Retires.

Cyrus H. McCormick, 76, resigned as chairman of the board of International Harvester and was succeeded by his brother, Harold F. McCormick, 63. Directors were informed that the reason for the resignation was McCormick's desire to spend more time in travel and recreation.

Trading of securities in the central west was further handicapped by Gov. Philip F. La Follette's veto of a bill passed by the Wisconsin legislature which would have exempted securities listed on the New York and Chicago stock exchanges from the necessity of separate qualification in Wisconsin. In most states such securities are automatically qualified by state blue sky commissions. A week earlier an opinion by Illinois Attorney General Otto Kerner barred the offering in Illinois of bonds containing the "gold clause." First issue so excluded was a block of Southern California Edison refunding bonds marketed last week.

"Y" ANNOUNCES FALL COURSES IN REAL ESTATE

To mark the inauguration of its fall semester real estate courses, the school of commerce of the Central YMCA college yesterday announced a series of free public opening lectures for next Tuesday and Thursday, Sept. 24 and 26.

John C. Bowers, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, will lecture on "The Real Estate Outlook for Chicago in 1935-'36" at the opening class in real estate practice on Tuesday evening at 5:50 o'clock. He will be assisted by Harry G. Atkinson, who will take charge of the course after the opening lecture.

On Thursday evening at 5:50 p. m. Walter R. Kuehnle, of Walter Kuehnle Associates, appraisers, will speak on "Recent Developments in the Technique of Real Estate Appraising" at the opening session of the course in property management.

Other lectures will be by Andrew Hamilton of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, on "What the Real Estate Man Should Know About Law" on Tuesday evening at 7:40, and Calvin M. George, of Harmon & George, attorneys, on "Preparing Real Estate Transfers and Conveyances" the same evening.

Parsons and Docter Join Staf of Pask & Walbridge

Ira H. Parsons, formerly with Wood, Struthers & Co. and J. G. White & Co., and Joseph Docter, formerly with Carl H. Pforzheimer & Co., have become associated with Pask & Walbridge, the former in the railroad securities department and the latter in the new oil securities department.

Michigan Bank Admitted to Federal Reserve System

The State Savings Bank of Gagetown, Gagetown, Mich., which has been operating as an unrestricted non-member bank, has been admitted to the Federal Reserve system, the Chicago Federal Reserve bank announced yesterday.

TRADING IN LARD SMALL; PRICES STEADY TO HIGHER

Trade in lard futures yesterday was the smallest of the week, with scattered buying of the December delivery causing a somewhat higher level of prices. Short covering in the last few days is understood to have reduced the open interest in the September and October deliveries considerably. Closing trades were unchanged to 5 cents higher. Clear bellies [salt pork] showed an easier undertone and closed 5 cents lower, reflecting a slow demand for the cash article.

Cash lard closed at $16.30; loose, $16.25; leaf, $16.75, and bellies at $18.50 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

MOTOR CLUB IN PROTEST; SCHOOL GUARDS REDUCED

Contend Children's Lives Endangered.

The Chicago Motor club yesterday protested against delays in Washington, D. C., in approving Chicago's application for "easy money" to employ 2,000 men from the relief rolls to guard school children in crossing busy streets.

Last spring, 1,900 men, wearing white Sam Brown belts, were engaged in this unemployment relief measure. There were some who were inefficient and ineffective at their jobs but as a whole the army of guardians was instrumental in reducing the trafic toll of school children.

This fall, the number of these crossing guards on duty at any one time has been reduced to 164. The city is awaiting federal funds from the works progress administration before increasing the number.

The motor club addressed a letter to Mayor Kelly last week, urging that pressure be exerted upon Washington to approve the city's application for this WPA project. Otherwise, the letter continued, the alternatives are: 1st, the assignment of uniformed policemen to crossing duty, thus reducing the number of men available for general police duty; and second, an increase in automobile accidents injuring and killing school children.

"The community will not tolerate an increase in the child death rate from automobiles," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club. "The school boy patrol is a valuable safety agency but it is even more effective under adequate adult supervision. Maybe some of the policemen who have been pensioned because of advanced age or because of injuries would volunteer for this service a few hours a day."

VOICE OF TRAFIC

FIREMAN OPPOSES NIGHT PARKING.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Why do the police of Chicago allow all night parking of automobiles without parking lights? They are enforcing the law in regards to parking on the right side of the street, both front and rear wheels six inches from the curb.

In no other city in the country are they allowed to park cars all night without parking lights, or for that matter park cars all night while thousands of both private and public garages are vacant.

I am a city fireman and know that it is a fire hazard to have cars parked especially in narrow streets where many apartment buildings are located as there are in my district.

Hydrants blocked, difficult to raise ladders, impossible almost some places to raise aerial or main ladder when cars are parked on narrow streets.

Another order should be enforced for the pest, as follows: No vehicle unless on official business shall follow any fire apparatus responding to a fire alarm closer than 500 feet, nor be driven into or parked within the block where the fire apparatus has stopped in response to an alarm of fire.

PARKING VIOLATIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—I read your article about the parking violations in yesterday's TRIBUNE with considerable satisfaction and disappointment. With satisfaction because the newspaper which I have been subscribing to for over thirty-five years has brought to the publics' attention a serious violation of an important ordinance.

I was disappointed that you did not include in your article three very important violations, viz.: Parking the wrong way on narrow streets, which is very hazardous to the driver who is obeying the law; parking all night; parking after dark without lights.

SCOTT C. DYER.

ADVICE FOR TAX CHEATERS.

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 18.—Will you kindly publish quite soon in your automobile column complete information, detailed directions, and helpful advice concerning successful and prevalent methods of securing Georgia license plates for use in Illinois and Chicago?

By so doing you will surely be performing a valuable service to motorists here, perhaps to Georgia, and maybe, eventually, to the great state of Illinois.

Please accept our sincere appreciation for your present campaign against reckless driving and slovenly parking.

R. C. S.

U. S. TRUCKS VIOLATE LAW.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—It is my understanding that there is a city ordinance in effect prohibiting the use of solid rubber tires on trucks that ply the city's streets. Is Uncle Sam a privileged character and not required to obey this ordinance?

As evidence of a violation I submit postoffice truck No. 4012 which I saw parked on Jackson boulevard just west of Wabash avenue equipped all around with hard rubber tires. I can't give the state license number because none was visible on the rear of this particular truck. JOHN J. HOLLISTER.

ARTHUR AND BOSWORTH.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—I want to congratulate you and your paper for the wonderful corrective influence you are exerting for safe and sane driving.

I wonder if you can help us? We have tried every possible channel to get slow signs put up at Arthur and Bosworth, but with no success. Not only my children cross there going to the Kilmer school, but hundreds of children cross going to the Sullivan Junior High school. There have been twelve accidents there this summer.

RALPH C. BARTON.

THROUGH RED LIGHT.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Could you have a brace of tickets presented to the punk in the Ford roadster for idling through the red light up to the car line crossings at both Randolph and Wells and Randolph and Franklin streets this noon? This is undoubtedly his least annoying habit—the handsome dog. PEDESTRIAN.

NEWS AND VIEWS

One thousand Dodge dealers and members of their organizations gathered in Chicago last week to meet factory executives headed by F. H. Akers, the company's sales director, for a review of fall activities and a discussion of plans for the inauguration of another automobile selling season, which this year begins earlier than formerly.

Mr. Akers gave an interesting picture not only of the amazing pace at which the business of Dodge dealers increased during the first eight months of this year but also of the factors that made the company's share of the sales increase greater than the average gain noted by the industry in general.

It was pointed out that the deliveries of Dodge passenger cars rose from 67,463 in the first eight months of 1934 to 132,106 in the corresponding period of this year. Thus the gain over 1934 so far amounts to 90 per cent, whereas the average gain registered by the industry as a whole is reliably estimated at about half that percentage.

A new all-time record for truck sales in a single month was set by Chevrolet in August, W. E. Fish, manager of the commercial car department of the Chevrolet Motor company, announced recently.

There were 21,776 trucks delivered in the United States in August, Mr. Fish said. The best previous August was in 1928, when the total was 20,641. Last year 16,748 trucks were delivered in August, so that the record just achieved is more than 30 per cent improvement over the corresponding month in 1934.

"Sales of these commercial vehicles," said Mr. Fish, "were a most important factor in the spectacular sales record which Chevrolet dealers established in August, during which month they delivered 99,018 units for a new all-time August record."

A revolutionary new series of trucks, the first ever completely streamlined and styled by Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky, internationally famed industrial stylist, were placed on exhibition at the White Motor company branch here Sept. 17.

Count Sakhnoffsky styled the new trucks exclusively for the White company. The count is widely known for his streamlining efforts, especially in the automotive field. He won the Grand Prix at Monte Carlo six years straight for his streamline styling of passenger cars.

"This is not at all unexpected," said Mr. Dewitt, "for these men have proved conclusively they are the leading race drivers of this country by their past accomplishments. In order to be members of the Champion 100 Mile an Hour club these speed demons have had to average better than 100 miles an hour in the Indianapolis 500 mile race and have had to drive the entire race without relief."

The James Levy Motors company, Michigan avenue Buick dealer, has completely renovated its auto row showrooms during the past two weeks. This was in preparation for the advent of the new 1936 Buick cars, which will be officially displayed on Sept. 28. The entire showrooms have been finished in modernistic effects and colors.

TRAFIC VIOLATIONS OBSERVED

An automobile with license 62-573, issued to Jack Rubey, 6003 Winthrop avenue, going south Monday on Broadway, turned east on Foster avenue after the light had changed to red, blocking cars going east on Foster, which had the green light.

A car with license 116-760 was parked on the wrong side of Ontario street, between Michigan avenue and St. Clair street, on Monday. This plate number was issued to Mrs. Eunice Essig Brach, 175 Sheridan road, Winnetka.

Going north on State street an automobile with license 936-156 failed to stop at the sign on 60th street, which is a through street, on Monday. That license was issued to Louis Wasserman, 1211 West 60th street.

Speeding forty-two miles an hour on Central avenue, between Lawrence and Montrose avenues, on Tuesday was a coupe with license 707-375, issued to F. Bowler, 2859 North Mason avenue.

At 11 o'clock Tuesday morning a sedan, with license 462-325, was speeding south on Western avenue from Touhy to Devon avenues at about forty-five miles an hour. The license plate was issued to Hartford F. Henderson, 1316 Seward street, Evanston.

An automobile with license 382-346, issued to P. H. Martin, 6100 Stony Island avenue, going north on Western avenue Wednesday morning turned east on 71st street, which is a stop street, without stopping.

OFFER NEW PLAN TO REORGANIZE WICKWIRE STEEL

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Reorganization of the Wickwire Spencer Steel company under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act, on the basis of a $1,500,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for working capital and the payment of $33,000,000 indebtedness with new stock, is proposed in a plan submitted to Federal Judge John Knight. Receivers for the company were appointed in October, 1927. Another plan was submitted in April by a stockholders' committee.

The new plan was offered by the reorganization committee, headed by George W. Treat of Boston, who claims to have on deposit 81.72 per cent of total outstanding first mortgage bonds, 87 per cent of class A notes, and 86 per cent of class B notes.

ROAD SIGNS ON DUNES HIGHWAY MISLEAD TRAFIC

Drivers Fail to Get Full Benefit of Facilities.

BY HAL FOUST.

Ill advised if not vicious highway marking deprives visiting motorists of the full benefit of Indiana's best pavements forming the eastern automobile gate to Chicago. The U. S. 12 shields, a guide for travel from Detroit and other important Michigan points, mislead strangers over the winding, narrow, and truck crowded old Dunes road rather than over the new forty foot Dunes relief road.

The only semblance of justification for this routing for U. S. 12 is that the new highway bears the U. S. 20 markers and it might be well to divide the trafic of these two heavy trafic carriers. This theory would be well founded if the facilities of the old and of the new Dunes road approached comparableness. They are in decided contrast.

Selfish Business Interests.

For all times except during the heaviest summer holiday movements, the new road is capable of carrying all through passenger trafic guided by highway markers. Trucks are detoured over the old road. The new road has grade separations at all busy railroad and highway crossings. There are ample connections between the relief road and points on the old pavement.

Minor politicians and selfish business interests on the old Dunes road are reluctant to have all tourist trafic routed over the relief road while the old route would be used exclusively by local and by truck trafic. They protested against U. S. 12 markers joining those of U. S. 20 on the million dollar highway that extends east from Gary, Ind., around Michigan City and into Michigan.

The markers are such—either by design or by gross negligence—as to confuse U. S. 20 trafic into detouring through Michigan City with the U. S. 12 followers. One of the most valuable features of the new highway is that it enables through trafic to escape the delays of Michigan City streets.

Drivers Are Confused.

Michigan City residents who are more interested in reducing their street accidents than in selling hot dogs or gasoline to tourists appreciate this by-pass as well as do travelers. U. S. 20, the main route from Chicago to South Bend, joins the by-pass at the grade separation southeast of Michigan City.

Traveling east on the Dunes relief route, a driver unfamiliar with the local geography is confused at a divergence of pavements southeast of Michigan City. One arrow advises a left turn for U. S. 12. A sign says turn left for U. S. 20 business route. A standard U. S. 20 marker bears the directional letter "L" and a small caption, illegible at any distance, "business route." Another standard U. S. 20 marker has an arrow pointing left and the same inconspicuous "business route" legend. There's also a standard marker showing U. S. 20 going to the right, but it is in the minority, lost in the preponderance of the bad advice to turn left.

Right Hand Route Desirable.

To take the right hand pavement is the desirable route for through travel in U. S. 20 toward South Bend or for joining U. S. 12 east of Michigan City for Michigan destinations. To turn left involves a detour through the inadequate streets of Michigan City.

There is a similar confusion in approaching this Michigan City by-pass from the northeast on U. S. 12. Signs advise that the U. S. 12 route to Chicago continues straight ahead rather than bearing to the left on the Dunes relief by-pass, there marked Ind. 212.

No one familiar with the roads and en route to Chicago from this junction would continue in U. S. 12 unless he was driving a truck and therefore was compelled by Indiana police regulation to do so. It goes through Michigan City. The passenger car driver not confused by the signs takes the Ind. 212 to U. S. 20, the fast forty foot pavement around Michigan City.

KEESHIN TRUCK ORDERS $1,250,000 OF EQUIPMENT

The Keeshin Transcontinental Freight Lines has placed orders for trucking equipment costing about $1,250,000 in the last few weeks in connection with its expansion in the motor trucking industry, J. L. Keeshin, president, disclosed recently.

Orders for 200 trailers were placed with the Fruehauf Trailer company of Detroit. Trailer bodies and springs were bought from the Mariemont Manufacturing company of Chicago. In the last two weeks, he said, orders for 130 trucks were divided among the International Harvester, White, and Ford companies.

Keeshin also disclosed that plans are now being made for a combination rail and truck service which will give fifth morning delivery from Chicago to the Pacific coast, as compared with present seventh day delivery.

United Air Lines Report Flights 99.9 Pct. Completed

United Air Lines recently claimed a world's performance record for large scale passenger and mail plane operation when it completed all except 1,317 miles out of the 3,020,241 miles scheduled during the last two months, a performance record of 99.9 per cent. Its planes also completed 99.9 per cent of the 1,400,000 miles scheduled for night flying.

VISIT OF STERN WITH ROOSEVELT EYED BY PUBLIC

Only U. S. Publisher to Get Code Exemption.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Popular interest in the much publicized friendship between President Roosevelt and "My Dear Dave" Stern, publisher of the New York Evening Post, has been revived afresh here following the headlined exchange of amenities between the two at Hyde Park the other day.

Mr. Stern, foremost and one of the very few out-and-out newspaper champions of the New Deal here in the east, has enjoyed presidential well wishes for his journalistic activities in the metropolitan field from the outset. When he took over the Post in December, 1933, he was able to greet his new readers with a front paged congratulatory message from the nation's chief executive addressed to "My Dear Dave."

Great Success Expected.

"I want you to know how glad I was to hear that you had bought the New York Evening Post," the letter said. "I believe there is a great field there for the right kind of newspaper and have every expectation that you will make a great daily out of this fine old property that should play so important a part in the life of New York and of the nation."

A few weeks later when the newspaper code came out of the overworked NRA mill, President Roosevelt in a letter addressed to the then NRA administrator, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, suggested an exception to one important provision of that measure which many familiar with conditions in the New York field thought was intended for the benefit of his friend, Stern, and the publisher's Evening Post.

Exemption for Friend.

The much discussed excerpt from the President's letter read:

[b] The publishers of newspapers having a circulation of 75,000 or more in cities of 750,000 population or more are requested to install a five day, forty hour week for their staf of reporters and writers with the purpose of giving employment to additional men and women in this field. A report on this will be made at the end of sixty days."

Although the Post was not specifically mentioned, it was the only daily newspaper in New York City with a circulation of less than 75,000 copies and, therefore, would be the only one to qualify for the suggested exemptions. The sworn report of the publisher printed on Oct. 4 of last year showed that the paper's circulation during the twelve months previous to that time, the year including the code adoption and the President's suggestion of the exemption, averaged only 55,940 copies daily.

The Post, however, adopted the Blue Eagle along with other New York newspapers and announced that it would adhere along with its larger and more prosperous colleagues to the code provisions, which were based on territorial population rather than on circulation figures.

Pay Scale Below Average.

Recently the paper front paged an announcement that it signed an agreement with the Newspaper Workers' guild, by which it would undertake to employ only editorial workers affiliated with that organization and pay them the "guild" scale of wages, a scale considerably below that prevailing in other and larger newspaper offices of the city.

Since its acquirement by Mr. Stern, the Post has been leaning further and further to the "left" until it has come to be classed by the rank and file of newspaper readers as one of the most radical daily publications in the country. Avowed socialistic and communistic organs have not exceeded it in their enthusiasm for some of the "ultra" proposals put forward in the last year or so by professional theorists specializing in recovery nostrums.

Tells His Beliefs.

In his recent visit to the summer "White House" at Hyde Park, Publisher Stern told the President he had come to believe that the "generally conservative complexion of the press of the United States" was responsible for the success of our "Huey Longs and the Father Coughlins." The publisher said he thought there were "far too few newspapers expressing liberal opinions."

"Just as a dog will eat grass if he is hungry enough, so will the American people of liberal tendencies appease their appetites by following liberal thinkers," he quoted himself as having told the executive in the course of their luncheon talks.

COUZENS AND U. S. FUNDS BUILDING A NEW VILLAGE

Orchard Lake, Mich., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Three miles out of this town—20 miles northwest of Detroit, a new village is being built jointly through funds supplied by the New Deal and Senator James Couzens. The project covers 1,000 acres of ground. Senator Couzens has subscribed $550,000, and the administration's homestead fund has made an initial contribution—from the taxpayers—of $300,000.

The work has been in progress only a few days. The cottages are to be each six rooms without basements and are aimed to supply housing to workers in nearby industrial centers—Pontiac and Flint.

Rents of $17 or $18 a month are proposed. Each cottage is to have ground around it 100 by 400 feet in area, providing a vegetable garden, according to the prospectus.

There are to be 100 homes in the new village, according to Barton J. Jenks, young architect in charge of this federal housing project.

SEEK JEWEL BURGLARS.

Hudson avenue police were investigating yesterday the $2,000 jewelry burglary last Thursday night of the apartment of Frederick L. Spencer, 1512 North Dearborn street, a broker.

TALK OF BUILDING HIGHWAY ACROSS PANAMA ISTHMUS

Opposed as Harmful to Rail Interests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The federal government, between the horns of military and financial problems in the Panama Canal Zone, is blocking construction of a motor road across the Panama isthmus.

Military leaders concede that such a road would be an invaluable adjunct to the isthmus defenses in the event of war. They point out that if enemy bombers should place the canal and the Panama railroad out of commission, troop and supplies could be moved by road. A road, they add, can be placed in operation more easily than the canal or railroad after bombing.

Army Men Favor Road.

Against the advice of the military experts the government is listening to financial advisers who assert that a road may curtail the earnings of the Panama railroad. The financial experts argue that there is no economic reason for the building of a motor road when there are already two means of transportation across the isthmus.

The Panama railroad, originally a private corporation, is now owned by the government. It is almost the only government owned utility which is operating at a profit. In its last report the road showed earnings of $1,280,183 in a year. Since it began operations in 1904 it has paid almost $12,000,000 in dividends to the United States treasury.

Rail Permission Required.

Under the railroad's charter no highway may be built without its consent. This is not a serious obstacle to the building of such a road, officials said, because the railroad is no longer in private hands.

The railroad has been a source of complaints from the Panama government. At the time of the execution of its charter it was granted large land concessions. On these lands the city of Colon has been built, the railroad leasing some of its property.

The Panama government bears the expense of policing the city and receives almost no taxes in return because the railroad's holdings are exempt from taxation. The Panamanians are demanding that the railroad sell its city property.

CITY COAL YARDS UNITE FOR FIGHT ON GUFFEY LAW

The legality of the Guffey law which establishes a "little NRA" for the coal industry will be attacked by the Chicago Associated Coal Yard Owners, C. S. Clark, secretary of the organization, said yesterday. Cooperating in the local effort to protect the coal industry from federal burocratic control will be the United Coal Dealers' association, the renting division of the Chicago Real Estate board, and other organizations.

N. W. Rubenstein, attorney for the coal yard owners, said that he would start legal proceedings to test the act in federal court.

Under the direction of Howard Haynie, who is a member of the management institute of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the renting division of the Chicago Real Estate board yesterday began a study of the Guffey law with a view to joining in the attack upon its validity.

Charles W. McCoy, president of the United Coal Dealers' association, which represents 1,300 neighborhood dealers, said his organization would support the attack.

He said members of his association are receiving thousands of inquiries relative to prices which the Guffey law will increase beyond the ability of many families to pay.

PLAN MEETING ON REVISION OF BUILDING CODE

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], chairman of the city council building committee, said yesterday that a meeting would be called within two weeks to discuss the city's revised building code. "I have asked the men working on the revision to prepare a report for the committee that will show exactly the differences between the old code and the revision," said McDermott. "This report and several changes in the revision should be ready shortly." Revision of the building code was started six years ago.

Complete First of Proposed 400 Popular Priced Suburban Homes

ELMHURST UNIT WILL BE OPEN TO PUBLIC TODAY

Five Homes to Be Built in Wilmette.

BY AL CHASE.

ROBERT S. CRANE.

Suburban home building, which has been steadily increasing in volume, though still on a comparatively modest scale when compared with boom days, until it has passed city construction of a similar type, had two significant additions announced yesterday. One was the completion of a low priced home in Du Page county which is expected to prove so popular that a building program totaling 400 units is contemplated. The other was the announcement of the purchase of five lots by a wealthy Wilmette resident who will start work tomorrow on five modern homes for investment. He will not place these on the market, but will rent them.

The first unit in a prospective building program was completed yesterday and will be open for inspection today on the north side of Lake street, four blocks west of York road, just north of the Elmhurst limits. This was announced yesterday by L. R. Moser of the Best Built company, which has its main office and yards at 4440 West North avenue, Chicago.

Will Sell for $2,500.

It was stated the model house to be shown today will sell for $1,500 complete, plus the cost of the acre site, or a total of $2,500. It has four rooms—a 14x14 living room, 12x12 bedroom, 9x10 dinette, and 8x10 kitchen—as well as a 7x6 hall, from which the living room, dinette, and small entry way to the bedroom open, and a 6x8 bathroom. There is a fireplace in the living room. The walls and ceiling are insulated.

Albert D. Graue & Sons of 117 North York road, Elmhurst, are owners of the 400 acre site which, if the first unit points the way, will be improved with other types of popular priced houses, it was stated.

Five room and six room units also will be built. These will cost, exclusive of the lot, $1,800 and $2,200, respectively to build, it was stated.

In Kenilworth Gardens.

The five new north shore homes will be in Kenilworth Gardens, a section of Wilmette lying west of Ridge road and south of the Indian Hill Golf club. This announcement was made by Robert S. Crane, sales manager of Quinlan & Tyson, Inc., who sold the five lots to Mr. and Mrs. Burt J. Denman of Wilmette. The seller was represented by James Brooks of the A. H. Kraus Realty company, subdividers.

Beresford E. Beck is architect for all of the houses and the general contractor is Chell & Anderson. The five homes, although all different, are based on the New England tradition, Beck stated.

"This was an unusual transaction," said Crane, "because we originally tried to sell Denman for investment small homes already built. He finally decided he would investigate the possibility of buying vacant property advantageously located according to his specifications and building the type of home that would lease at a rental attractive to the prospective tenant.

"In the section selected by Denman for his homes comprising five streets two blocks long, there is more building under way today than in any similar sized district of the north shore.

"Ten other houses are either under construction or just completed. All but three of these are being erected by owners for their own occupancy.

BUSINESS BLOCK TO BE BUILT AT 71ST AND MERRILL

Work will start tomorrow on a one story business block at the southwest corner of 71st street and Merrill avenue, from plans by M. Louis Kroman, which will cost a reported $35,000. Negotiations are under way by McKey & Poague, renting agents, with several national chains for the eight stores. The owners are William W. McCollum and Dr. John F. Hough.

The building will be of terra cotta in colors, with store fronts of white metal and structural glass. It will front 150 feet on 71st and 60 on Merrill, and will have clear span construction with no posts. Completion is scheduled for about Nov. 1.

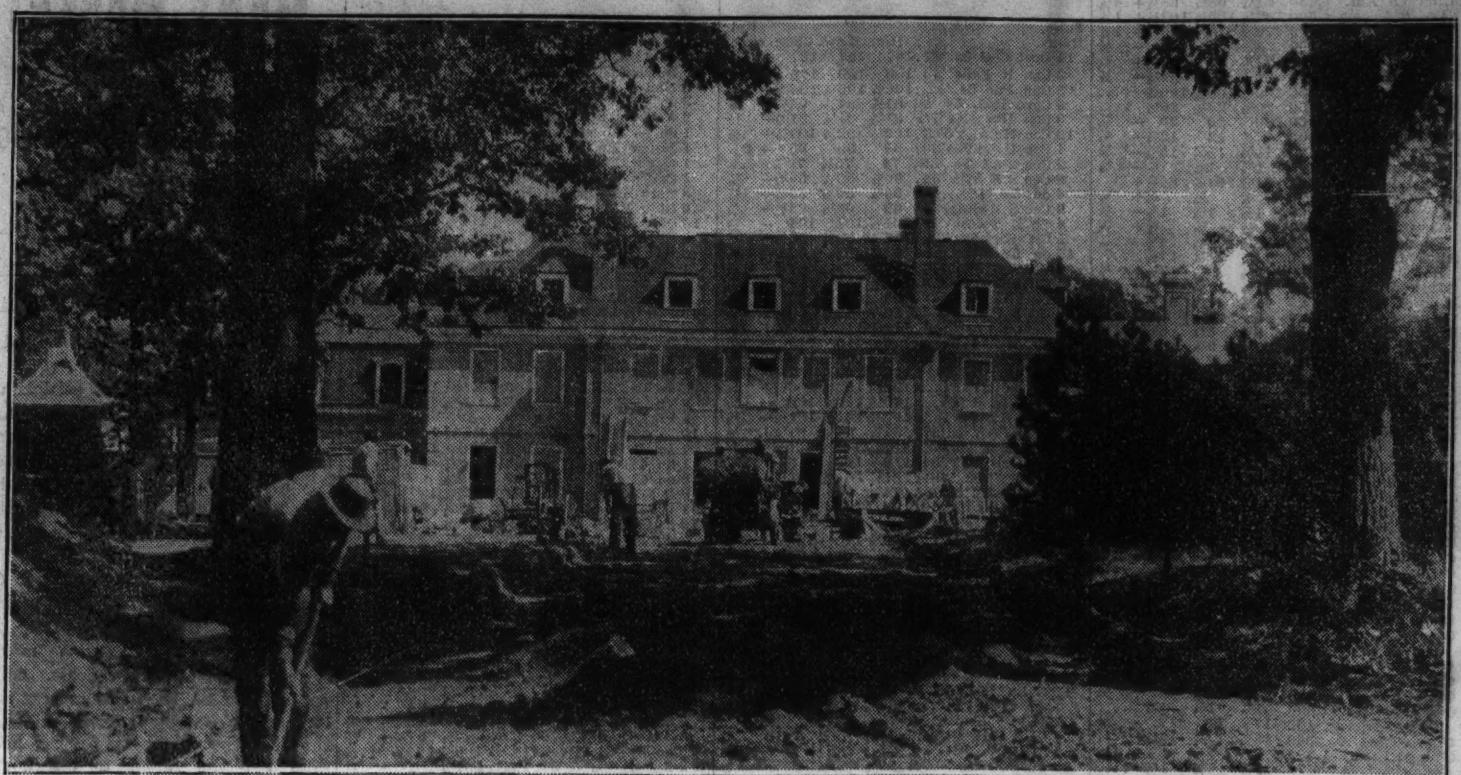
MRS. J. OGDEN ARMOUR'S NEW LAKE FOREST RESIDENCE



Above is the first published picture of the residence Mrs. J. Ogden Armour is building on a twelve acre site at 225 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, opposite the Onwentsia Country club. It was stated when contracts were let that it would have thirty-one rooms and eight baths, and would cost more than $200,000. When Mrs. Armour purchased the property of Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan, famous surgeon, in Nov., 1933, she told THE TRIBUNE:

"I intend to build a comfortable home for my old age, where there will be plenty of flowers, lots of comfortable chairs, and plenty of room for my grandchildren. It's going to be very comfortable throughout, with just the things I want in it and around it. It will not be a big house, planned for a lot of entertaining, but will have plenty of room for my grandchildren and for me when, perhaps, I use a wheel chair."

This will be Mrs. Armour's third home in Lake Forest. Since she left palatial Mellody Farm, she has lived in a cottage on Vine avenue. It is expected she will move into her new home late in the fall.

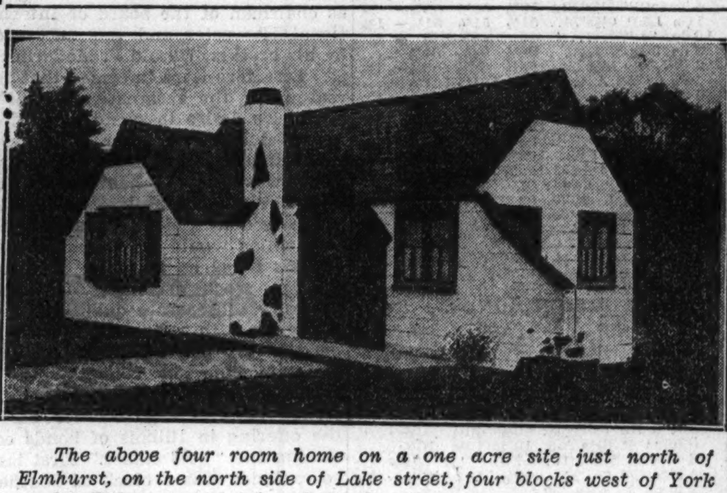
Open for Inspection Today



The above four room home on a one acre site just north of Elmhurst, on the north side of Lake street, four blocks west of York road, will be open for inspection today, it was stated by the Best Built company, which erected it. The owners are Albert D. Graue & Sons, Elmhurst realty firm. This will be the first of what is expected eventually will total several hundred popular priced dwellings, to be erected in the neighborhood.

Real Estate Bonds

During the last week there has been little change in real estate bond prices, according to Fred E. Busbey & Co., investment securities. There is a general tendency, however, for the bonds on the better constructed buildings in choice locations to improve. There is little buying interest in bonds secured by buildings in less desirable locations and not too well constructed.

"Generally speaking, prices should improve," said Busbey, "because of two major factors: first, occupancy has steadily increased to a point where there are now comparatively few desirable vacant apartments; second, there has been little new construction for several years. These factors will have a tendency to raise rents, which, coupled with the fact that the tax burden has been reduced in many cases, will mean additional income for the bondholders."

PERCY WILSON FORMS A NEW MORTGAGE FIRM

Percy Wilson, president of Percy Wilson & Co. and former regional director of the Federal Housing administration in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa, yesterday announced that Washington had approved the new Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation, a charter for which has just been issued at Springfield.

The directors are James O. McKinsey, Charles Hull Ewing, Gerald M. Merfield, Arthur T. Scheurmann, and Wilson. The latter is president, Scheurmann is vice president, Merfield is treasurer and William J. Ryan is secretary.

The company, with a paid-in capital of $110,000, which will be increased as demand for mortgage funds is received, in addition to writing all types of first mortgages on real estate, will specialize in making 20 year monthly payment home loans insured by the FHA, both to refund old mortgages and for new home construction. Loans also will be made for remodeling and other kinds of property improvements under title one of the national housing act.

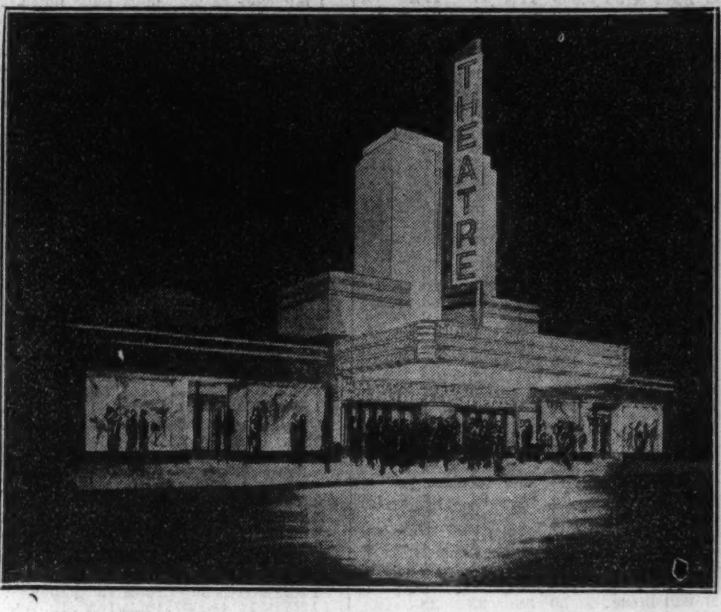
New Northwest Side Theater



Work will start at once on the above 1,600 seat theater and business block at 5620-28 Belmont avenue, just west of Central avenue. Designed by Alexander L. Levy, the new building, fronting 120 feet on Belmont, with a depth of 225 feet, will have a façade of polished structural glass in various colors, trimmed with aluminum. The theater and four stores will be air conditioned. The building will have a 60 foot tower with special facilities for illumination. Completion is set for late in December. The entire project will involve a reported expenditure of $275,000. The theater will be operated by the Central Amusement company, which has the Rio theater, in the Logan square district. This will be the second playhouse to be erected in Chicago during the last few years. The other was the Beverly theater. L. B. Sugarman made this perspective.

MUSIC CONSERVATORY RENTS ENTIRE FLOOR OF KIMBALL BUILDING

Leasing of the entire eighth floor of the Kimball building by the Chicago Conservatory of Music yesterday discloses a growth which has necessitated four space expansions since its reorganization in 1930 under the direction of Loro Gooch.

Founded in 1865 by Robert Goldbeck, it achieved prominence in the music world, but by 1930 had dwindled to half a dozen teachers and a handful of pupils. The 1934-'35 annual report just published shows a staf of 146 instructors and 2,071 enrolled students.

In 1931 the school was moved from the Auditorium building to the eleventh floor of the Kimball building. In 1932 additional space was taken, and in 1933 the famous old Bush conservatory and its staf were taken over and another space expansion made. In addition to taking the entire eighth floor, negotiations now are under way for nearly half of the tenth floor studio space.

Business Block Planned for Devon and Campbell

Ground will be broken before Oct. 1 for a one story business block, costing a reported $15,000, at the southeast corner of Devon and Campbell avenues, from plans by Richard V. Murison. According to the owner, Edward J. Kenny, of Kenny Brothers, realtors, negotiations already are under way for leasing the three stores to national chains.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of Sept. 13 to 19, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 34, with a combined cost of $319,540. For the corresponding week of last year there were 20 contracts totaling $130,000.

GEORGE DE MET PLANS CHAIN OF RESTAURANTS

First Unit Will Be at 75 East Washington.

Chicago is to have a new chain of air conditioned restaurants. George De Met and his brother, James, both formerly associated with De Met's, Inc., have formed a new organization known as George De Met, Inc., which yesterday leased sites for the first two units. One will be at 75 East Washington street, in the Michigan Boulevard building, and the other will occupy space in the Standard Oil building, at Michigan and 9th street.

The downtown restaurant, which will be opened before Thanksgiving, will be in modern English design from plans by Charles Wheeler Nicol, Chicago architect. In addition to regulation restaurant table service it will have a soda fountain and lunch accommodation and also will handle confectionery made by the new corporation. No liquor will be sold.

According to George De Met, in the neighborhood of $50,000 will be spent in making it a modern restaurant. The space, 40x80, with an eighteen foot ceiling [the room once was used for banking quarters by the former Peoples Trust and Savings bank], will have oak paneled walls. A complete air conditioning system will be installed. Indirect cove lighting will be used.

The premises were leased through Milton Trainer of Clark & Trainer, building agents, for ten years on a minimum guarantee and percentage of profits basis.

The store at 69 East 9th street, in the Standard Oil building, was leased for five years beginning next May. A third site, on the near north side, is now under consideration. The new corporation eventually will have a chain of restaurants in various parts of the city, it was stated.

George De Met was founder of De Met's, Inc., in 1920, and was its first president. Later he was secretary. Neither he nor his brother James is now connected with that organization.

METHODISTS TO SURVEY WORLD PEACE OUTLOOK

2 Boards Meet This Week in Evanston.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

DR. MERLE N. ENGLISH.

How progress toward international peace is being made throughout the world will be discussed on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at the North Shore hotel, Evanston, when the general conference commission on world peace of the Methodist Episcopal church and the board of education committee on peace education hold their joint annual meeting.

Dr. Ralph Sockman of New York City and the Rev. Ernest F. Tittle of the First M. E. church, Evanston, respectively chairman and secretary of the commission, together with Dr. Merle N. English, associate secretary of the board of education and acting secretary of the joint group, have arranged the program.

At the Tuesday morning meeting two important reports will be submitted: that by Blaine E. Kirkpatrick on the general work of peace education, the other by the Rev. C. F. Bass Jr., on the series of 20 two day seminars on world peace held during the last year.

Survey Peace Situation.

The Tuesday afternoon session will include a survey of the present situation by Walter W. van Kirk of New York; J. Herbert Eichelberger of Chicago, and Frederick J. Libby, secretary of the national council for the prevention of war.

While the meetings are not open to the general public, any one particularly interested in the Methodist program of world peace will be welcome at the Tuesday morning and afternoon sessions.

Dr. Paul Hutchinson, managing editor of the Christian Century, will address the members of the commission and committee on "The Strategy of the Church" at the dinner on Tuesday evening, which will be followed by a discussion of the action to be taken during the current year and what particular matters should be considered by the general conference, meeting May, 1936, whereby the peace commission determines the policy and speaks for the church at large on important current issues.

The sixteenth annual series of Union ministers meetings, sponsored by the Chicago Church federation, will be initiated Monday, Sept. 30, at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, with Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of the Third Baptist church, St. Louis, as the speaker.

As is customary, the first meeting of the ministers' union is under the auspices of the commission on evangelism of the church federation, the chairman of which is the Rev. Ralph Wakefield, pastor of Englewood Methodist Episcopal church, and the unified evangelistic program of the protestant churches during the ensuing year will be discussed at this session.

Following the general meeting, the ministers of each denomination will attend their respective luncheons, in the course of which they will be visited by the Rev. Joshua Oden and Dr. Johson for series of informal conferences on the general evangelistic work of the church.

JEFFERSON PARK TO HAVE DOLLAR DAY ON OCT. 10

A community dollar day will be held in Jefferson Park on Thursday, Oct. 10, the Jefferson Park Chamber of Commerce decided at a meeting last Tuesday evening. This will be the first of a series of semi-annual dollar days that the chamber intends to conduct, Abe Kotler, president, announced.

As a feature of the day, the chamber voted to pay customers' carfare to Jefferson Park. Upon presentation of a transfer from street car or bus when making a purchase of one dollar or more, each customer will receive a car token.

To accommodate shopers with cars, the chamber is arranging to provide free parking space for at least 800 automobiles.

The chamber also decided to hold a Halloween party at the Jefferson Park fieldhouse. Frank Belke is chairman of the arrangements committee.

WOMEN'S BIBLE CLASS WILL GIVE PLAY ON TUESDAY

The women's Bible class of the Grand Avenue Congregational church, [illegible] North Hamlin avenue, will present a play, "The Family Album," on Tuesday evening in the Fellowship hall, 1305 North Hamlin avenue. There will be 35 members of the class taking part in the performance, the proceeds of which will go to the benevolence fund of the organization. Mrs. Rose Curran is president.

Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas O. Francis, 4317 North Lowell avenue. Miss Roost will have as her attendants, Mrs. Marion Bishop and the Misses Geraldine Esdohr, Edythe Anderson, and Ruth Boehm. Lester Francis will serve his brother as best man and the ushers will be Lester Nohren, Marion Bishop, Edwin Feare, and Charles Rioch. Following the ceremony at the Irving Park Presbyterian church, a reception will be held at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

POLISH WOMEN'S ALLIANCE MEETS IN CHICAGO TODAY

The 17th quadrennial convention of the Polish Women's Alliance of America opens this morning and continues through Saturday.

The alliance, whose principal office is at 1309-15 North Ashland avenue, was organized on May 2, 1898, in Chicago. It numbers 60,000 members in 16 states, and its purpose is "to strengthen national spirit and preserve Polish ideals among the young generation through education in Polish history and literature and to inspire Polish women to take part in the politics of this country."

The official opening of the convention will be at high mass at 11 o'clock at St. John church, 47th and Throop streets, which will be followed by luncheon at the Holy Family cafeteria.

Juvenile Department Program.

This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the juvenile department of the Polish Women's alliance will present a program in the parish hall of St. Mary of the Angels parish, 1825 North Wood street.

Tomorrow the preliminary business of the convention will occupy the morning at the Ashland avenue headquarters of the alliance.

The convention banquet will take place tomorrow evening in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Frank Wojtalewicz. Principal speakers will be Miss Emily Napieralski, president for 25 years; the Rev. Commander Louis Grudzinski; Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, Polish counsel general; Mayor Kelly; Anthony Czarnecki; Miss Ruth DeYoung of THE TRIBUNE; the Most Rev. William D. O'Brien; the Most Rev. Stanislaus Bona; P. P. Rhode, Green Bay, Wis.; the Rev. Boles Goral of Milwaukee; Clayton Smith, president of the county board; Judge Peter Schwaba; Judge Stanley Klarkowski; Frank Zintak; Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen, and Attorney General Otto Kerner.

Requiem Mass Tuesday.

On Tuesday morning a solemn requiem mass will be sung at 9:30 o'clock for deceased members in St. Stanislaus Kostka church, Noble and Bradley streets. The day session will follow and the evening will be spent at the PWA hall in hearing a lecture by Mme. Gawronski, wife of the counsel general of Poland.

The climax of the social program will be Wednesday evening at the ball which will be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. From then until the close of the convention, routine business will occupy the delegates' time.

St. Hedwig's Dance.

The annual autumn dance of the St. Hedwig's Young Men's club of St. Hedwig's church, Hamilton avenue and Lyndale street, is to be held this evening in the parish auditorium.

OPEN CHRISTIAN LEAGUE BUNDLE DRIVE TOMORROW

Seek Donations to Aid Unemployed Men.

THE REV. WILLIAM SEATH.

Discarded furniture, clothing, papers, magazines, and other household articles no longer in use will be sought by the Christian Industrial league, 847 West Monroe street, during its annual bundle campaign to open tomorrow and continue through Oct. 7.

"The success of our fall drive will provide work for men whose lives are being wasted through unemployment, physical or mental difficulties," stated the Rev. William Seath, superintendent of the league, last week. "It will furnish these men with a clean, comfortable home, provide recreation through books, magazines, papers, games, and puzzles, and permit the Gospel to be preached twice daily, Sunday morning, and at many other times."

What They Provide.

According to the Rev Mr Seath, last year's campaign, in the first seven months of 1935, provided 54,015 meals, and 13,165 nights' lodging to men, clothed several hundred, and gave medical service and other personal attention. Approximately 20,675 men attended 638 Gospel meetings, and several thousand tracts were printed and distributed.

"The campaign is an opportunity to share and to help in rebuilding character, confidence, hope, courage, and faith in men who are tired, sick, and discouraged," he said. "We can use anything and will send a truck to pick up bundles throughout the city and suburbs."

North Side Leaders.

Mrs. Roy R. Marquardt, of Wilmette, is chairman of the North Shore Woman's auxiliary, which is active in the campaign. Members of her group are Mrs. R. J. Bennett, Mrs. Wilfrid Gillies, Miss Helen Fridman, Mrs. C. A. Keller, and Mrs. E. G. Low, all of Wilmette; Mrs. Walter Cope and Miss Dorothy Hammond of Highland Park, and Mrs. Virgil C. Baurhyte, Mrs. Horace Dawson, Mrs. D. B. Hause, Mrs. D. W. Palmer, Mrs. J. L. Ratcliffe, Mrs. N. F. Wilmot, Mrs. G. H. Chamberlain, and Mrs. Clyde T. Marshall of Evanston.

The north and northwest side auxiliary group is headed by Mrs. F. C. Koos. Aiding her are Miss Emily Ford, Mrs. W. K. Glatz, Mrs. Nellie Hoover, Miss Hazel Maxwell, Mrs. Arthur L. Nehls, Mrs. C. A. A. Householder, Mrs. E. C. Wyman, and Mrs. Frances H. Smith.

Ohioan to Speak Before Irving Park Brotherhood

A. P. Harmon, president of the A. Nash company of Cincinnati will speak at the Irving Park Lutheran church, Belle Plaine and Harding avenues, on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the brotherhood.

38,000 TO HAVE JOBS WHEN WORK REACHES PEAK

$32,543,000 Provided in WPA Funds.

Mayor Kelly's program to rehabilitate more than 1,000 miles of streets in Chicago, without special assessments against abutting property owners, is underway with the release of $32,543,000 in federal Works Progress administration funds and the transfer of nearly a thousand men from relief rolls to WPA payrolls.

This vanguard of street workers is employed at leveling, grading, and spreading crushed stone over 350 miles of unimproved streets in outlying sections of the city. As fast as materials can be gathered more men will be shifted to the larger program of resurfacing 650 miles of improved streets.

The program at its peak will employ approximately 38,000 men. In addition to men drawn from the relief rolls the city will provide 2,100 employés for jobs such as foremen and supervisors. The city also will contribute approximately 5 million dollars in cash and materials and supplies.

Will Remove Wood Blocks.

The program contemplates the rehabilitation of all of the streets in the city with the exception of boulevards, state aid and bond issue routes, with granite and concrete pavements, for the upkeep of which financing is otherwise provided. The treatment of the streets, as outlined by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, will be as follows:

Macadam streets: To be resurfaced with three inches of asphalt, which includes a two inch binder course and a one inch sheet asphalt top.

Creosoted wood block streets: The wooden blocks are to be removed and the void filled to within three inches of grade with crushed limestone or crushed brick from demolition jobs, and then penetrated with grout. The top will be resurfaced with three inches of asphalt.

Brick streets: Remove bricks and

State Chooses a Blind Man to Lead the Blind to Jobs

BY WILLIAM KEITH.

GEORGE E. PIPER

A blind man to lead the blind!

Small, thin, freckled, George Piper, blind for almost 30 years, is Illinois' first blind placement officer, empowered by act of last legislature to be the official seeker of jobs for the state's blind.

Back of Piper's appointment lies a story of heroic accomplishment. Stricken blind at the age of 12, following an attack of scarlet fever, he has never let that handicap conquer him. To him has come success that many a normal man might envy: education, marriage, children, as much money as he has needed to live a well-rounded existence, and enjoyment of life.

Soon after he lost his sight, Piper was enrolled in the state school for the blind at Jacksonville, and began studying in the 6th grade, where illness had halted him. He quickly mastered the Braille system of reading and progressed through the remaining years of elementary and high school.

Succeeds as Salesman.

Before he was 20 he was back in Chicago, where he started a course in oral-expression to learn self-confidence. He hoped later to instruct other blind people, but before he could complete the course he ran out of money.

Piper then became a house to house salesman. He sold all sorts of items but finally concentrated on insurance. He made an ample living and 10 years ago, when he was 30, married Miss Mabel Kenney, partially blind, whom he had met as a fellow student at Jacksonville. They have two children, Francis Edward, 9; and Margaret Mary, 5, both lively, normal youngsters. They live in a bungalow at 7515 Vernon avenue.

Throughout the years he kept in contact with other blind persons through the various groups into which they are organized. He is president of the Jacksonville alumni, a member of the Social and Mutual Advancement Association of the Blind and the Braille Theater guild. Not all of the members were as successful as he and their condition focused his mind on the problem of aiding them.

Idea Becomes State Law.

Several months ago he approached State Representative John G. Ryan [13th] with the idea for the creation of a blind placement bureau. Mr. Ryan received the idea with enthusiasm and introduced a bill in the legislature providing for establishment of the office. It was passed at the last session. The act makes the office part of the state department of public welfare.

It is Piper's courage, as shown by his material achievements, which more than anything else influenced Gov. Henry Horner to appoint him, at the instance of Rep. Ryan and Ward Committeeman James J. Sullivan [8], to his unique task. One who refused to let blindness handicap him was certainly the person to help others afflicted, so George Piper was appointed, much to his own surprise.

His appointment did not find Piper unprepared. Years of study of the problem, through contact with blind placement officers in other states and Canada, had equipped him with many ideas. He has others which are original with him and which he hopes shortly to put into effect.

Seeks Sales Concessions.

One of Piper's ideas is to obtain for blind men and women exclusive concessions to operate news and cigar stands in public buildings. He has received encouragement from local officials and is seeking private financial support. His office carries only a small salary and expense fund.

"We couldn't expect a lot of money from the state now when we have nothing to show that our projects will be successful, although I am confident they will be," Piper says. "When we have results to show I am confident that the state will finance future projects."

Piper also plans to establish a permanent outlet for many items such as rugs, baskets, mats, towels, brooms, and other objects, which are made well by blind inmates of institutions and home workers.

"Many of these products are handled through charitable organizations," Piper says. "They are good enough to stand on their own merits in any store and we hope to market them in regular commercial fashion and to establish a public demand."

Positions exist in industry which might well be filled by blind persons, Piper says, and he plans to seek them out and attempt to fill them with capable blind persons.

Plays Leading Role in Comedy

Miss Margaret Clark plays the title role in the "Red-Headed Stepchild," a three act comedy to be presented by the St. Veronica's Young Ladies' society in the parish auditorium 3300 North Whipple street this evening. Other members of the cast are: Miss Lillian De Geeter, Miss Clara Schneider, Miss Ethel Holtz, Miss Kathleen Minogue, Miss Eileen Clark, Miss Eileen Dowling, Miss Agnes Reim, Miss Katherine Daly, Miss Vera Meagher, and Miss Loretta Zirbes. 20,000 GERMANS UNITE TODAY TO REVERE HEROES

Lavish Pageant Will Climax Festival.

BY ARCH FARMER.

Today belongs to Chicago's German-Americans.

Comprising roughly an eighth of the city's population, they have reserved this Sunday, as they do one day each year, to pay tribute to their national heritage. The formal part of that tribute will be paid with fanfare, song, ceremony this evening at the Chicago Stadium.

There, beginning at 6 o'clock, before an audience expected to number more than 20,000 persons, will be presented the 1935 German day pageant, "At the New Fireside." The pageant, written and directed by Gustave A. Brand, city treasurer, will commemorate the rôle of the German people in the founding and upbuilding of the United States.

Pageant In Two Parts.

That the entire evening's program will emphasize the American aspect of German tradition is in accord with the aim of the German Day association, sponsoring group. The keynote of Americanism has been sounded repeatedly by Mr. Brand, president of the association, F. W. Brummel, honorary vice chairman of the celebration, and others associated with planning and presenting the fête.

The pageant will be presented in two parts, the first featuring the singing and dancing of massed choral and ballet groups, and the second depicting in dramatic episode highlight events of American history from the time of earliest colonization to the present day.

Rehersals of the pageant's cast of more than 2,000 members have been in progress for weeks. There is to be another and final one this morning at the Stadium. When it is concluded the finishing touches will have been put to a spectacle that gives promise of being one of the most brilliant and lavish of its kind ever seen in Chicago.

Have 30,700 Members.

Assisting Mr. Brand in the direction of the pageant are Curt Benisch, stage director; Walter H. Steindel, musical director; Reinhold Walter, and H. A. Rehberg, choral directors, and Miss Erika Thimey and Mme. Antoinette Ludwig, ballet instructor and director, respectively.

The German Day association is an incorporated body composed of 207 clubs and societies whose combined membership is approximately 30,700. The unit organizations, many of them athletic and singing groups, are scattered throughout the city and suburbs, the majority of them, however, being located on the north side.

Following is a committee list of individuals associated with today's enterprise:

Arrangements — Mr. Brand, Mr. Steindel, Mr. Walter, Mr. Rehberg, Mr. Benisch, Adolph Danneberg, and Al Melgard.

Mayor on Committee.

Publicity—Frank W. Waldherr, Mr. Huebner, Fred Lindner, Mr. Pilgram, Mrs. Elizabeth Carl, Mrs. Barbara Edinger, Mrs. L. E. Karston, Mrs. Anna Richter, Mrs. Schultze, and Mrs. Vavrinek.

Officers and directors of the German Day association are Mr. Brand, president; Frank K. Waldherr, Mrs. Elizabeth Vavrinek, Joseph Beron, and George Iberle, vice presidents; Adolph Glauche, corresponding secretary; J. P. Schlichting, financial secretary; Herman Loescicke, treasurer; E. K. Huebner, guard; Joseph Gies, Adolph Gill, and Theodore Pilgram, finance committeemen.

NORSE ATHLETIC GROUP TO HOLD GOLDEN JUBILEE

Association Will Review History at Banquet.

Fifty years of excellence in nearly every field of sports and a six-fold growth in size will be celebrated by the Norwegian - American Athletic association at its golden jubilee banquet next Sunday in the Logan Square Masonic temple.

OLAF BERNTS.

Beginning with a banquet at 5 o'clock at which Olaf Bernts, Norwegian consul, and Knute Nelson, president of the Norwegian National league, will speak, the anniversary celebration will include an exhibition of gymnastics by the juniors of the organization at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the temple. Dancing will follow.

About 250 are expected to attend the banquet and more than 1,200 will see the exhibition. Representatives of most of the citys' Norwegian societies, singers' leagues, women's clubs, and other groups will be present.

Past Presidents to Speak.

Other speakers who will appear on the banquet program are Thor Westby, present president of the club; Andrew Ellingsen, immediate past president; and Henry Tolzien, oldest living ex-president. Nethel Ellingsen will act as toastmaster.

At the banquet there will be presented for sale the golden jubilee book, bound attractively with gold tinted covers and containing the history and pictures of the association from its founding in 1885 until now.

The history from 1885 to 1919 was written in Norwegian by Finn Schau, assisted by Carl Bauer, Henry Tolzien, Martin Arnesen, and Olaf Lorhammer. The history since 1919 was written by the various presidents in English, each covering his own term.

Organized in 1885.

The club was organized in 1885 as the Norwegian Turner [gymnastic] society with Hans Nilsen as president. The first meeting was held in the old Tivoli hall, Paulina and Grand avenues, and the man who called it, Ferdinand C. Hanniball, will be present at the banquet next Sunday. There were about 100 members at first.

The society used a number of halls for its activities until 1919 when the old Stowe elementary school building, 3435 Wabansia avenue, was acquired. In the evenings members of the society made over the interior of the building into gymnasium, shooting range, club rooms, and dining rooms.

It was in 1919, too, that the Turner society merged with the Fram Soccer club and took its present name of the Norwegian-American Athletic association. It now has a membership of more than 600.

Sponsors 12 Groups.

Today the association supports 12 athletic groups, men's, women's, juniors', and girls' gymnasium, two soccer football teams, shooting, junior softball team, boxing, wrestling, skating, track and field teams.

The soccer team has the unofficial title of Norwegian champion of America. It won the mayor's trophy last spring and has won the amateur championship of Chicago three times in the last ten years.

The association sponsored both appearances in Chicago of Sonje Henie, world champion figure skater, and in 1931 it sponsored the North American Indoor Ice Skating championship at the Chicago stadium, where seven world's records were broken.

40 Bridge Players Form Club at Blackhawk Park

The Blackhawk Park Bridge club was organized recently with 40 bridge enthusiasts present. The club meets each Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Officers are Frank D. Dearing, president; Loraine Marionowski, secretary, and Joyce Koehler, treasurer.

Dancers in German Day Festival Tonight

5 STREET PAVING PROJECTS WILL BEGIN TUESDAY

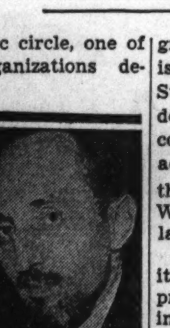
Construction will start next Tuesday on five Cook county street paving projects on the north and northwest sides, made possible by Public Works administration funds, Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, has informed Carl H. Bauer, state PWA director.

Approximately four and one-quarter miles will be paved on Irving Park boulevard, Thatcher avenue, and Gunnison avenue at a total cost of $536,600. Irving Park boulevard will be paved in three sections, from Pulaski road to Kedzie avenue, from Kedzie to Western avenues, and from Ashland avenue to Outer drive. Thatcher avenue will be paved from Chicago avenue to Division street and Gunnison avenue from Nagle to Mason avenues.

Quick action by the county commissioners and the PWA speeded the street jobs to construction in less than 30 days after approval was received. The grant was approved on Aug. 26, the plans and specifications were approved on Aug. 29 and the contracts were awarded on Sept. 11.

Cragin Players to Celebrate 25 Years of Amateur Acting

The Cragin Dramatic circle, one of the most active organizations devoted to amateur theatricals on the northwest side, will celebrate its silver jubilee this evening with a banquet and special program at St. Stanislaus church auditorium, 2318 North Laurel avenue.



DR. WACLAW GAWRONSKI.

Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, consul general of Poland, will make the principal address. Others who will speak include Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board; the Rev. Stanislaus Gadacz, the Rev. Joseph Tarasiuk, Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th], Leo J. Winiecki, Walter J. Rentflejsz, and Joseph Nemiec.

Present Founder's Play.

Twenty-five years ago when the group was organized, the Rev. Stanislaus Swierczek, then pastor of St. Stanslaus church and one of the founders of the circle, wrote a one act comedy, "Two Contradictory Characters." This play will be repeated this evening by a cast composed of Walter J. Rentflejsz, Bernard Michalak, and Henry Pokelnkowski.

The Cragin Dramatic circle during its quarter century of activity has produced more than 100 plays, including comedies, tragedies, meledramas, and light operas.

Proceeds from the plays are either donated to charity or devoted to building up the group's library of plays, which now numbers several hundred volumes.

The first stage director of the circle was Szczesny Zahajkiewicz, Chicago author of many stage successes in the Polish language. He was followed by the late Stephen Kolanowski, radio speaker and former chief deputy coroner of Cook county. For a time Joseph Kamedulski directed the stage work.

Policeman 15 Years.

Of late years, however, the leader of the circle was been Walter J. Rentflejsz, police detective and amateur actor. For 32 years his leisure has been filled with the concerns of amateur stagecraft, both in front and behind the scenes.

Mr. Rentflejsz is an ex-service man, who since 1920 has been a member of the Chicago police department, first at the Maxwell street station and for the last nine years at the Cragin station. He lives at 5943 Belmont avenue with his wife and three children.

Officers of the circle for the jubilee year are the Rev. Joseph Tarasiuk, chaplain; Walter Rentflejsz, president; Anton F. Szulczynski, vice president; Miss Marie Krotz, recorder; Miss Frances Chmielecki, secretary; Stanley Poterek, treasurer; Albert Misiura, musical director; Edmund Szulczynski and Wladyslawa Galas, prompters, and Miss Elenore Cieslinski, librarian.

ARRANGE DRAMA CIRCLE JUBILEE

The silver jubilee committee of the Cragin Dramatic circle, which will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization this evening with a banquet and program at the St. Stanislaus church auditorium, 2318 North Laurel avenue. Seated, left to right, are the Rev. Joseph Tarasiuk, Miss Marie Krotz, Miss Frances Chnielecki, and Walter J. Rentflejsz. Standing, left to right: John J. MESSIAH CHURCH TO OBSERVE ITS 11TH BIRTHDAY

The Messiah Evangelical Lutheran church, Patterson and Melvina avenues, will celebrate its eleventh anniversary on Wednesday.

The organization began with thirteen members in a community hall at 6240 Addison street. The Rev. Theodore L. Blanken, who started the little group and is still its pastor, saw the membership grow to 54 in 1925 and today it numbers 600 members. In 1926 the present church was purchased. A parochial school with 4 teachers and 164 children is connected with the church.

The anniversary service will have as its guest preacher the Rev. Paul Meyer.

Artists' League to Hold Fall Exhibit on Nov. 6

The headquarters of the Northwest Side Artists' league, St. Stephen's church, 3533 North Albany avenue, will be the scene of the first art exhibit of the fall season on Wednesday, Nov. 6. The paintings will be displayed in the clubrooms of the church. The Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, pastor of St. Stephen's, is president of the group.

MAYOR TO OPEN NEW TRANSFER SYSTEM TODAY

City Officials to Attend N. W. Side Program.

When the universal transfer system between surface and elevated lines officially goes into effect this afternoon, Mayor Kelly will receive the first transfer to be issued and it will be in connection with the celebration which the northwest side will hold to mark the beginning of the service.

At 2:30 o'clock when the system is due to become official the mayor will ride down Lawrence avenue from Austin avenue to Kimball avenue in a gaily decorated street car. At the Kimball avenue terminal of the elevated he will present his transfer, but only as a matter of form for he won't avail himself of the elevated ride. He will be principal speaker at the program to be held at the intersection of Kimball and Lawrence avenues.

Officials to Speak.

A stand will be erected at the intersection and there will be a musical program, talks by the mayor, a member of the Illinois commerce commission, and various political figures. Representatives of the surface and elevated lines also will be present.

Ald. H. L. Brody [39th] is head of the group which is making arrangements for the celebration. Roy Levinson and John Klier are co-chairmen of the entertainment committee. Charles V. Falkenberg is secretary.

Others on the celebration committee are Ald. William Cowhey [41st], Ald. P. J. Cullerton [38th], Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], Judge Jay Schiller, State Representatives Raymond T. O'Keefe, Elroy Sandquist, and Benjamin Adamowski, State Senator Frank Huckins, William Johnson, Harry G. Weimer, Christ Jensen, John McKeone, C. E. Thorny, representing the Rapid Transit company, and William Pasche of the Surface Lines.

Transfer Stations Listed.

Under the new system transfers will be issued only at the time of payment of a ten cent fare [when boarding a street car]. Elevated riders will pay no more than the regular ten cent fare to get a transfer to a street car.

Stations on northwest side elevated lines where transfers may be made are: Lawndale on the Humboldt park line; Damen, Western, California, and Logan Square on the Logan Square line; and Paulina, Irving Park, Damen, Western Kedzie, and Kimball on the Ravenswood line.

MUSIC FESTIVAL SINGER IS GIVEN U SCHOLARSHIP

As a result of his singing in the west side vocal contest of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Chicagoland Music Festival several weeks ago, Sidney Wernikoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wernikoff, 2818 Milwaukee avenue, is now studying music on a scholarship at Baylor university, Waco, Tex.

SIDNEY WERNIKOFF.

In the audience at the Midwestern Athletic club, where the competitions were being conducted, was Miss Roxy Grove, chairman of the music department at Baylor, who after hearing Wernikoff sing, offered him a $400 scholarship.

Sidney attended the Avondale public school and the Carl Schurz High school. In 1934 he won second place in the tenor division on the west side of the city. One of his teachers at Baylor is Leone Kruse, well known opera star, who is a member of the school of music staf.

To Be Installed

[Marshall Photo.]

Miss Ruth Frank, 1106 Independence boulevard, will be installed as president of the Irving Korack Juniors at a meeting of the organization this afternoon at the Belmont hotel. The group is affiliated with the Rest Haven Home for Convalescents at 1919 South Prairie avenue. Other officers to be installed include Miss Mildred Sax and Miss Grace Cohen, first and second vice presidents; Miss Dorothy Kohn, financial secretary; Miss Goldie Goldstein, recording secretary; Miss Marian Katzen, corresponding secretary; Miss Leah Bessman, treasurer, and Miss Edythe Hayden, chairman of the board.

EXPAND PROGRAM FOR WOMEN AT IRVING PARK 'Y'

Business Group to Meet Wednesday.

The extensive plan initiated for women members at the Irving Park Y. M. C. A. is under way with the announcement that the business girls' group will meet Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock to discuss the program and organization of the club. A social hour has been planned at which there will be an opportunity for fellowship with many new friends.

On the same evening girls interested in playing basketball, either in a league or on a varsity team are to meet at 6:30 o'clock in the auxiliary gymnasium.

Marionette Club to Meet.

The Junior girls are to have their horseback riding party on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. At 1:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon the Marionette club will meet for the first time. The girls interested in making puppets are to meet with Miss Parrish in the women's department office.

The men's division has devised a plan of facilitating registration and class schedules. As each member enters the locker room he is given a card on which he lists the classes which most appeal to him. As an additional service to the members the "Y" will send letters to each member telling him when to report for the class for which he has indicated his preference.

Final Concert Thursday.

On Thursday evening, John Sovinec will conduct the final band concert of the year, presenting the Lawndale branch at the Irving Park "Y." Since their introduction in July the concerts have met with wide approval on the northwest side and it is planned to renew the series next season.

Those who merit special recognition for their performance this season are George Novy, Joseph Novotny, Vlosta Martinec, George Sumka and the twirling drum major, Howard Evans.

W. S. Miller, executive secretary at the "Y" announces that new ping-pong and pocket billiard tables, and new infra-red and ultra-violet ray equipment have been purchased. In addition 30 new lockers have been installed to take care of the increase in membership.

TEXAN CLAIMS FREAK ROOSTER.

KERRVILLE, Tex.—Joe Coffey of Ranch Branch community in Mason county has an egg-laying rooster. He kept close watch on the bird to make sure he was not being fooled, he said.

HOSPITAL GIVES DAILY BREAD AS IT HEALS SICK

St. Mary of Nazareth Is Haven for Jobless Men.

It's noon and the doors of Saint Mary of Nazareth hospital are flung wide to welcome the 200 unemployed men who daily receive lunch from the hands of the nuns. The friendly atmosphere of the hospital, sheltered from the maelstrom of activity which surges outside its doors, offers a haven of rest and comfort to the poor and lonely man of the street.

This form of charity, under the direction of the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth, is not something new to them. They have been "feeding the hungry" for more than 30 years.

Organized 41 Years Ago.

The institution was organized in 1894 with headquarters at Division and Paulina streets, and in 1900 moved to its present location at 1120 North Leavitt street. The imposing edifice which now houses 300 beds is set back from the street to insure quiet and comfort for those within.

By midmorning the bread line has attained sizeable proportions. There are men who once knew practically every walk of life. Young, middle aged, and old alike come each day to the side door of St. Mary's and wait to receive from the kitchen a sandwich and hot drink. This means extra work and extra provisions, taking the time and energy of the nuns. Yet they cannot in conscience turn them away.

Charity and St. Mary's are synonymous, for besides feeding those in the bread line every day the sisters also supply almost thirty needy families with baskets of food each week.

Tag Day Aids Children.

To the casual observer this form of charity would not be out of keeping with the endeavors of an endowed institution. But St. Mary's has no such benevolent fund for their work, and yet day after day, with a smile for the weary, it makes the world a happier place for these unfortunates.

The poor children of the vicinity who are in need of hospitalization are cared for through the women's auxiliary of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital, which each year sponsors a tag day in conjunction with the Chicago Children's Benefit league.

For thirty years this philanthropic work has gone on, and it will doubtlessly continue for many more years, little known except to the countless for whom it was intended.

OFFICIAL'S AUTO TAGGED.

While the secretary of state, Robinson C. Tobey, was holding a hearing at Lewiston, Me., for applicants for restoration of automobile licenses, his misparked automobile was tagged.

Competition will be keen in the Northwest Art league's contest to select the best "square dance" team of the city, for the Ozark team, pictured above, are out to win the prize. The group of barn dance merrymakers are, left to right: Standing—Miss Doris Peterson, Henry Houseman, Guy E. Colby, Miss Gwen Dow, and Frank Frey. Seated—Vernon Karnath, Miss Virginia Harrison, Vic Walden, and Jean Colby.

GOMPERS PARK ARCHERS CHOOSE NAME AND COLORS

The archery club at Gompers park recently adopted as its official name, the Gompers Park Archers. The club color will be royal blue. Officers are Robert T. Selby, president; Mary Foley, vice president, and Leonard Y. Lambin, secretary treasurer. The members make their bows and arrows under the supervision of David Glasscoft, park instructor. They meet each Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the fieldhouse.

Independence Park Bridge Club Seeks 100 Members

The Independence Park Community Bridge club, which was organized during the summer, has set a goal of 100 members to be attained this fall. The club meets every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Independence park fieldhouse, 3945 Springfield avenue. Officers are G. L. Olliger, president; Mrs. Merel Gearon, vice president; Rolf Bentlich, treasurer, and Miss Winefred Lannen, secretary.

ALTRUI LEADER

Miss Mildred Crocker, 5703 Leland avenue, newly elected president of the Altrui Junior club, presided over the first meeting of the club season recently, at which time the philanthropic program for the year was discussed.

BOY SCOUT DRIVE IN DES PLAINES IS TO BEGIN SEPT. 30

Funds for carrying on Boy Scout work in Des Plaines during the 1935-'36 season wil be raised in a campaign scheduled to open Monday evening, Sept. 30, and to close Friday, Oct. 4. Charles Block, vice chairman of the Des Plaines Scout committee, is general campaign manager.

The goal this year will be $1,000, the committee announced. Although this is less than half of the quota a few years ago, the work of the Des Plaines Boy Souts has grown consistently. Economy measures have reduced costs. Des Plaines now has six active troops and 194 Scouts, an 80 per cent increase in membership over 1930.

Will District City.

A. H. Calderwood, district publicity chairman, was named secretary of the drive. Clifton W. Goodyear, treasurer of the northwest suburban council, is campaign treasurer.

Tentative plans for the campaign provide for districting the city into sections with a captain for each section. Another new feature of the campaign will be the advance work among business and professional men. Efforts will be made to complete solicitations in the business section prior to the opening of the regular campaign.

Cost For Each Boy Is $5.

In keeping with efforts that have been made during the past few years to base the financial needs of Scouting on the average cost per boy, individuals will be asked to support one or more boys. The average administrative cost of Scouting in the northwest suburban council is approximately $5 per boy a year.

A meeting of all committees of the northwest suburban council with the executive board wil be held tomorrow night in the Des Plaines city hall.

MONT CLARE WILL ASK FIELDHOUSE FOR BELL PARK

Project Promised, Club Claims.

The Mont Clare Boosters Improvement club will ask the Chicago park district to erect a fieldhouse in Gen. George Bell park, Oak Park and Wellington avenues, it was decided at the first fall meeting of the club.

Before the consolidation of the local park districts residents of Mont Clare understood that Bell park was in line for a fieldhouse, Erik A. Jensen, secretary of the club, said.

Forgotten By Officials.

"We felt sure at that time that we would get this much needed building in our district," Mr. Jensen said, "but it seems that we have been forgotten by the Chicago park district officials. We are going to fight hard to get this building."

Bell park, which is one block square, was laid out about six or seven years ago, Mr. Jensen said. It now contains several tennis courts, a wading pool, and space for softball games, although no diamonds have been laid out.

It is the only park in the district served by the Mont Clare club, the district bounded by Harlem, Belmont, Diversey, and Nashville avenues. It has been neglected during the last year or two, Mr. Jensen said. The caretaker leaves at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Most of the lights have been broken, and the park is dark in the evening when it should be most used.

Urge Paving Repair.

Members also discussed the condition of concrete paving in their section of the 38th ward. It was pointed out that cracks in the streets should be tarred.

"Much money is being appropriated for new street paving now and we feel that some money should be spent for the upkeep of the paving we now have, "Mr. Jensen said.

Officers elected at the meeting for 1934-'35 are A. M. Horn, president; N. L. Samuelson, secretary and treasurer; Bernard P. Cox, chairman of the board of directors; Erik Jensen, corresponding secretary, and Christ Pikel, sergeant at arms.

TEMPLE ISRAEL CENTER SEASON WILL OPEN TODAY

The Temple Center of Temple Beth Israel will hold its first open social meeting of the fall season, this afternoon at 3:15 p. m. in the Temple hall, 4850 Bernard avenue. A short discourse by Rabbi Mendelsohn, introduction of the new officers and an hour of dancing will comprise the meeting.

A program, both educational and recreational, has been outlined. Some of the highlights will be: lectures by well known Chicagoans, dramatic and musical presentations, fireside discussions and public socials.

N. W. ART LEAGUE TO HOLD GROUP DANCE CONTESTS

Proceeds Will Be Used for Studio Building.

An opportunity is being offered aesthetic minded Chicagoans to dance their way to fame. The artists of the northwest side are sponsoring a city-wide group dancing contest to raise funds for erecting a studio building of their own.

Any four couples or more, affiliated with a church, club, office, store, fraternity, sorority, or just a friendly group, may form a team.

The first requisite is that they must dance the Virginia reel. "After that the fun begins," reads the circular issued by the Northwest Art League, Inc., of which the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker is president, with many famous artists, painters, and sculptors as members.

Hope to Revive Folk Dances.

Dances of all nations are encouraged: Spanish, Russian, Swedish, Polish, Belgian, English, Irish, Norwegian, Argentine, and the popular American barn dance, for as Guy Colby, director of the Ozark dance team, national barn dance champions, and instigator of this movement, states, "An additional purpose of the contest is to interest the younger generation in the old folk and square dances.

"Young people are learning that the old fashioned square dance and the Virginia reel are lots of fun, and a good way for everybody to get acquainted."

If feasible, it is planned to charge admission for every contest and divide the money between the competing teams and the Art league as sponsor.

A grand prize of $100 is the goal, besides many incidental cash prizes and the hope of fame.

A team may register by sending its name to Guy Colby, 3230 North Oconto avenue, or by calling at the club room of St. Stephen's church, 3533 North Albany avenue, on Tuesday evening.

Will Cure All Ills.

The circular advertises this contest as a sure cure for all ills. "If you're too fat, it helps you grow thin. If you're too thin, it helps you put on weight. If you're awkward it makes you graceful. If you're lonely, it makes you lots of friends."

To encourage the revival of group dances, class instruction for beginners will be given every Tuesday evening in the club room of St. Stephen's church.

CRUSADERS ASK COUNTY TO WIDEN NAGLE AVENUE

The Norwood Crusaders, northwest side civic organization, has petitioned the Cook county board to widen and improve Nagle avenue from Irving Park boulevard to Northwest highway, John F. Pfister, secretary, announced last week.

The Crusaders say that Nagle avenue has become an important north and south thoroughfare but due to its narrow width it is unsafe and inadequate for the trafic that it must bear. It is a 20 foot roadway at present.

This and other matters of importance to the far northwest side will be acted upon at the next meeting of the club Thursday evening at the Norwood Park fieldhouse, 5801 Natoma avenue.

When the proposed William Howard Taft High school is built at Bryn Mawr and Nagel avenues, a project for which the Crusaders have long fought, a wider Nagle avenue will be essential, Mr. Pfister pointed out.

If the group is successful in getting the county to widen Nagle avenue, the petition for the extension of the Narragansett avenue feeder bus line north of Irving Park boulevard, where the present terminal is situated, will be revived by the club. The district at present lacks adequate transportation facilities, it is said.

SAINT VIATOR'S BOWLING LEAGUE SEASON TO OPEN

The St. Viator's Holy Name bowling league will open its fourth season tomorrow night at the Catholic Youth organization center, 31 East Congress street. A new system of prize distribution, which will give the low-average bowler more opportunities for awards, will be introduced this year. Officers of the league are Charles F. Strubbe, president; Lawrence Holton, vice president; Norbert A. Peeters, treasurer; John A. Peeters, secretary, and the Rev. G. A. Galvin, spiritual director.

COMMUNITY CLUB WILL CELEBRATE THIRD BIRTHDAY

Fullerton-Cicero Party to Be Wednesday.

The Fullerton-Cicero Community club will celebrate its third birthday with a gala anniversary party next Wednesday evening at 2502 North Cicero avenue, according to Harry M. Jacobson, vice president of the group.

A program of music, vaudeville acts, talks, and refreshments is being prepared by the entertainment committee. Representatives of other neighborhood organizations, officers of the Northwest Federation of Improvement clubs, and the aldermen of the district have been invited. Arrangements also are being made for the attendance of several major league baseball players.

These anniversary celebrations have become high spots in the activities of the club, Mr. Jacobson said, and from all indications the third anniversary party will surpass the previous ones.

The Fullerton-Cicero Community club was organized on Aug. 25, 1932, with 23 charter members. It now has a membership of 100, including merchants, professional men, and property owners and has become a recognized factor in civic and community activities in the Fullerton-Cicero district.

The club recently waged a successful battle for the installation of safety islands on Cicero avenue and is now engaged in agitation for additional lights on the same street.

sand cushion. Bricks are to be crushed and used as coarse aggregate to be penetrated with grout. A one inch grout and crushed limestone top will be applied. This is called the cement bound macadam treatment.

Asphalt repairs: To be made as now done under city procedure with a binder course and a one inch sheet asphalt top.

Unimproved streets: These are to be graded and ditched and a 16 foot roadway made of crushed limestone, compacted and penetrated with tar. The stone will come principally from the spoils banks of the Sag canal. The top dressing of crushed stone will be six inches thick.

The total mileage of the streets to be rehabilitated, according to Commissioner Hewitt, is equivalent to improving a street 30 feet wide for approximately 1,118 miles.

BIKE RACE WINNERS RECEIVE CUPS

BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Helen Lucile Buckley, whose engagement to Leonard A. Nelson Jr. is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice W. Buckley of 4927 North Tripp avenue. Mr. Nelson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Nelson of 5018 North Kildare avenue.

Celebrate 55 Years Together

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES MALWITZ.

Last Monday marked the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Malwitz, 6047 North Talman avenue. The couple was married on Sept. 16, 1880, in the First German Baptist church of Chicago. They are the parents of Mrs. O. F. Wallin, Mrs. F. A. Schepler, and Herbert, Charles, and Frederick Malwitz. There are fourteen grandchildren. For many years Mr. Malwitz operated a hardware store in Logan square. Afterward he was employed in the Mills Novelty company until his retirement four years ago.

NORTHWEST SIDE YOUTH CONTEST WINNERS NAMED

Leaders in 4 Groups Receive Medals.

Winners in the Spirit of Northwest Side Youth contests, a feature of the recent homecoming celebration, were announced last week by Roy I. Levinson, district chairman. Twelve northwest side communities entered finalists in the four events, physical prowess, tennis, voice and oratory.

Finals in all events were held at Eugene Field park, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue. Gold, silver, and bronze medals were awarded as first, second, and third prizes in all the contests.

In the boys' physical prowess contest Shelly Slotten of North Park won first place; George Muntean of Portage Park, second, and Frank Dermer of Mayfair, third.

Edison Park Girl Wins.

Mildred Pufundt of Edison Park won first place in the girls' physical prowess finals. Evelyn Goldberg of Albany Park was second and Elsie Jones of Belmont-Cragin, was third. The finals were conducted under the direction of Leonard J. Sterling, director of Eugene Field park.

Winners in the boys' section of the oratory contest were Marvin Cantz, Albany Park, first, and Jack McCabe, Portage Park, second. Winners in the girls' oratory contest were Genevieve Wright, Albany Park, first; Anna N. Evangelista, Portage Park, second, and Flovia Drazy, Irving Park, third.

Vocal Contest Winners.

Voice contest winners in the boys' division were Rubin Sherer, Albany Park, first; Walter McGrane, Jefferson Park, second; Kenneth Mortimer, Edison Park, third. In the girls' division Frances Kacelle, Belmont-Cragin, took first place; June Johnson, Albany Park, was second, and Loretta Nowaczek, Jefferson Park, was third.

Mrs. Charles Severinghaus presided at the divisional finals in voice and oratory.

Seymour Greenberg won the singles in the finals of the northwest side tennis tournament. He was presented with a gold medal donated by Mayor Kelly.

SIX SHIPMATES JOIN IN RADTKES' GOLDEN WEDDING

Reminiscences of the old days in Germany played an important part in the recent celebration that marked their golden wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Radtke, 2422 North Ridgeway avenue, for among the 100 guests that joined them in the festivities were six friends who came to America on the same boat when they made the trip in 1884.

MRS. RADTKE.

FERDINAND RADTKE.

Mrs. Radtke was then Auguste Berndt and she came to Chicago to seek her fortune too. She found a place as "hired girl" and Mr. Radtke obtained employment with a lumber company that sent him south to work. A year later he returned to the city and went to work for the Chicago Mill and Lumber company, a job that lasted 45 years. Starting as yard boy, he was foreman when he retired five years ago.

It was soon after he started on the new job that he married Miss Brendt. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gottleib Lambrecht, pastor of St. Peter's church, at Cortez and Oakley streets. Their first home was in that same neighborhood, on Newton street. They have resided at the present address for 21 years.

The old friends who attended their anniversary celebration are Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Scipple, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Glick of Gary, and Ralph and Sidney Pochter, also of Gary.

BOYS HEAR TALK ON AUSTRALIA AT SCOUT POWWOW

V. Stuart Cooper, a former captain in the Australian Imperial forces and a member of the Adventurers' club of Chicago, gave the principal address last night at the campfire program of the seventh annual powwow of northwest district Boy Scouts, which is being held this week-end at Camp Fort Dearborn, Irving Park boulevard and the Des Plaines river. His subject was "Life in the Australian Bush." The powwow program today includes church services and Scout training instruction this morning and a field meet this afternoon.

NEW SETS ARE BETTER LOOKING, MORE SENSITIVE

World-wide Reception Is Season's Keynote.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The radio industry is pleasantly occupied these days with displaying the season's new receivers—the nicest looking and far the most efficient in the history of broadcasting. Worldwide reception more than ever is the keynote of developments for this year.

This season, for the first time, we have seen sets demonstrated that will bring in European programs—at least once in a while—almost as satisfactorily as offerings on the regular broadcast band. London and Berlin, particularly, we have heard broadcoasting musical programs that were as faithful from an auditory point of view as local shows. Of course, this is still exceptional and not likely to happen every day.

Because of the short wave trend multinumbered tube receivers seem to be on the increase. One Chicago manufacturer, who pioneered the short wave field, has jumped his chassis from 15 to 23 tubes. Short wave tuning requires sensitivity, power, and selectivity, all of which are enhanced through extra tubes.

Receivers More Compact.

Despite this increase the average size of receivers is probably somewhat smaller than a few years ago. Cabinets are simpler and much more likely to stay in the home for some time to come, both because of beauty of design and of tone. The introduction of all-metal tubes resembling cartridges has helped to save space and simplified the arrangement of the new circuits, which, incidentally, tune much sharper.

Metal tubes are expected to be a particular boon in automobile radios, where the space consideration is paramount. Their sponsors claim they are self-shielding, which should prove an additional boon, since a good bit of interference is set up by motors. Then, too, they are practically unbreakable. Thus vibration is not so likely to injure them.

New Visual Tuners.

Most of the dials this year are of the circular or "airplane" type. They somewhat resemble a compass.

Unique visual tuners (one is called the "magic eye") are among the outstanding achievements of the year. They are generally found in the more expensive sets. The "magic eye" is a sort of electrical optic that permits the listener to see when he is tuned to the most resonant tone of the wave instead of doing it by ear, which often may be to the distress of others in the room.

A Cabinet of Glass.

One unusual feature of the New York Radio show was a cabinet made of tempered glass. The glass consoles are said to be available in midnight blue and rose colors. That's something, isn't it!

The price tags seem to be up a little from last year, but the range is wider than ever—from $10 to $1,500. Incidentally, a certain Chicago manufacturer has on view in his display rooms a photostatic copy of a check from Rudy Vallee for one of the $1,500 variety.

But a good receiver may be had for from $50 to $100, a figure that is considerably less for what would have been a comparable article in 1929.

Good programs are available by short wave every day from London, Berlin, Rome, and often from Paris and Madrid. That is stimulating all-wave receiver sales. Some of these broadcasts are particularly intended for American listeners. At least one, aired from Madrid, is sponsored by an American set maker. 2RO, Rome, has a program called the American hour.

Karolyn Harris to Be Heard with Pedro Tonight

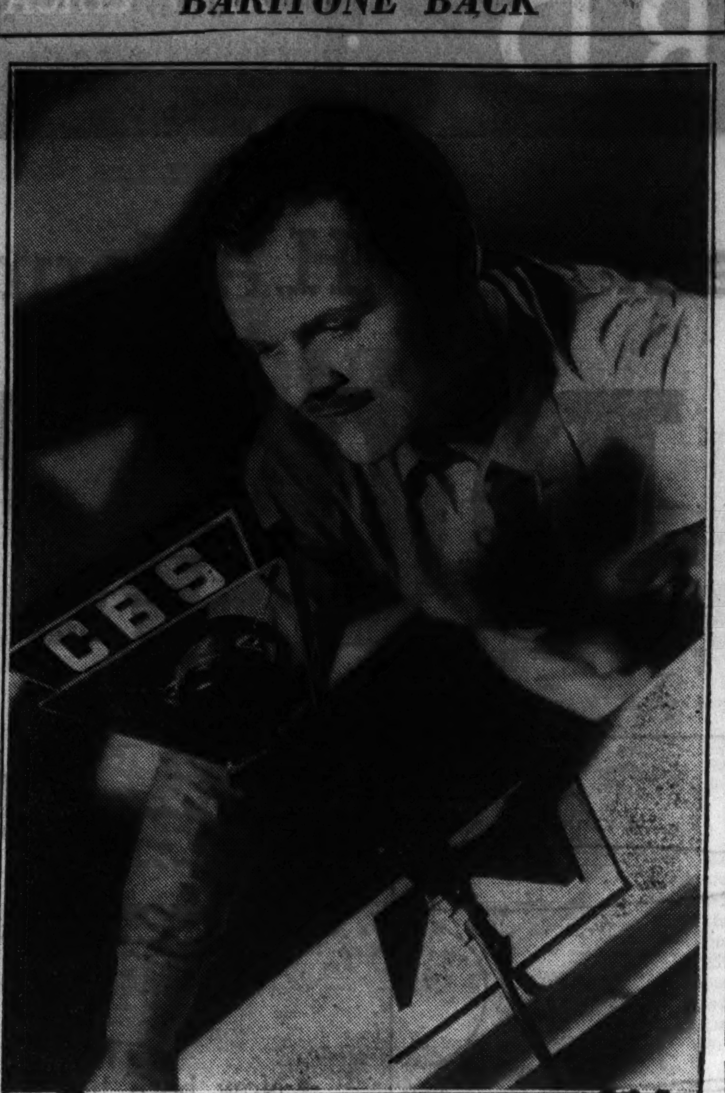
Featured with Don Pedro and his orchestra over WBBM at 6 o'clock tonight will be Karolyn Harris, noted contralto, who has been heard as soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. The broadcast will be dedicated to members of the Woman's City club of Chicago.

MONOLOGIST

VIVIAN FRIDELL.

Vivian Fridell, who plays Mary Noble in "Backstage Wife," a W-G-N-MBS show which is aired Monday through Friday at 9:45 a. m., is also well known as a monologist and is rapidly becoming known in club circles as a singer. She is making several personal appearances, and this week will present two programs, one on Thursday night at Wicker Park Lutheran church and the second on Wednesday morning, at 11 o'clock, before the Chicago Women's club.

BARITONE BACK



Lawrence Tibbett, famous baritone, will return to the air over WBBM-CBS at 7:30 Tuesday evening. He will offer a colorful group of dramatic songs, with Don Voorhees' orchestra supplying the musical background.

GERTRUDE NIESEN NEXT GUEST OF WELCOME VALLEY

Gertrude Niesen, glamorous song personality, will be next on the list of distinguished guest artists to be heard with Edgar A. Guest on his Welcome Valley program series. The exotic blues singer will take part in the broadcast over WLS-NBC at 7:30 p. m., on Tuesday.

Miss Niesen, who is now appearing at the Chez Paree, will sing "Temptation" and "The Moon Is Yellow" on her visit to mythical Welcome Valley, the friendly community in which Eddie is editor of the newspaper.

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Irene Beasley and Helen Morgan have appeared with the famed poet-philosopher on recent programs, and Ethel Barrymore and Amelia Earhart will be heard in the near future. Joseph Gallicchio conducts the orchestra heard with Guest and his troupe on the Welcome Valley programs, which originate in the NBC Chicago studios.

NOTES ABOUT W-G-N FOLKS

It's too bad that listeners can't see the cast of W-G-N's new sketch, "Bachelor's Children," while they broadcast. Patricia Dunlap, who plays one of the leading rôles, is a former professional model and has nothing to fear from television.

Vivian Fridell, the pretty star of the W-G-N drama, "Backstage Wife," which is also fed to the Mutual Broadcasting System network, is to make a personal appearance at the Wicker Park Lutheran church Sept. 24. She will give several readings and also sing.

Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N's operatic tenor, has just completed a diet period during which he cut about forty-five pounds off his weight. Attilio has had several offers of engagements from motion picture companies.

Although he has been in radio since he was 11 years old, Charles Flynn of the W-G-N sketch, "We Are Four," doesn't expect to make radio his life's work. He plans to study medicine when he enters college in 1938.

WGN ORCHESTRA TO PLAY WORKS OF SAINT-SAENS

'Musical Biography' Motif for Tonight.

The music of one of the most prolific composers of the nineteenth century will form the motif for the "Musical Biography" which will be presented by the W-G-N concert orchestra tonight at 9:30 o'clock. The concert, directed and announced by W-G-N's musical director, Henry Weber, will be composed of the works of Saint-Saëns. Five of his compositions will be heard—the overture to "Princess Jauna," the "Rondo Capriccioso," a violin solo by Philip Kaufman; "Dance Macabre," "Tarantelle," a fast Italian folk dance with Theo Yeschke as flutist and Ollie Thomas as clarinetist in solo rôles, and the brilliant "Bachanale" from the opera "Samson and Delilah."

Something unusual in the way of radio entertainment will be given by the concert orchestra on its "Week-End Concert" at 8 o'clock Saturday night. For thirty minutes the orchestra under Mr. Weber's direction will play a series of selections from the lighter classics, all graceful and charming, with the highlight being five parts of Bizet's well known "Childhood Scenes Suite."

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, will sing "Cielo E Mar" by Ponchielli, "God Touched the Rose" by Brown, "Who Knows" by Ball, and "Until" by Sanderson in his weekly concert at 9:30 Wednesday night. He will be accompanied by the orchestra.

Philip Kaufman, violin virtuoso, will be the soloist with the orchestra during the "Symphonette" at 9:30 Thursday night.

Lawrence Salerno, W-G-N's baritone soloist, at 9:30 Tuesday will present the concert originally scheduled for last Tuesday which was cancelled because of "Constitution Day" festivities.

'ITALY AGAINST WORLD,' TOPIC AT ROUND TABLE

"Italy Against the World" will be the subject of three eminent authorities on the University of Chicago Round Table discussion at 11:30 a. m. today on WMAQ. Quincy Wright, professor of international law, and Harry Gideonse, professor of economics, and Clifton Utley, director of the counsel on foreign relations, are to be the participants. Both Profs. Wright and Gideonse have served the league of nations in consulting capacities, and are recognized for their interpretations, and Mr. Utley has just this week returned from observing at the Hague the trend of the league of nations in the matter of Italy and Ethiopia.

START NEW SEASON

Jan Garber's back in town. The Idol of the Airlanes and his pianist-arranger, Rudy Rudisill, are hard at work over new arrangements for the broadcasts nightly over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System from the newly decorated Trianon ballroom.

SPORTS REVIEWS FEATURE MANY STARS THIS WEEK

Football, golf, and baseball stars will be presented on the two W-G-N sports reviews this week on the 6 o'clock hour conducted by Bob Elson and at 9:07 o'clock on the Quin Ryan Sport Shots.

Tonight at 9:07 two great golfers, Lawson Little, American and British amateur champion, and Johnny Goodman, who ranks next to Little in the amateur ranks, will be heard with Quin Ryan. On Monday night young Kenneth Peterson of Gonzaga university, the latest sensation in professional football, now starring with the Chicago Cardinals, will be presented by Quin Ryan. On Tuesday night at the same hour Harry Cooper will bring to the microphone Jim Foulis of the Hinsdale Golf club, the man who was one of the first golf professionals in Chicago. Then on Wednesday night on the Ryan review Frank Moore, athletic director of Lane Tech, one of the outstanding prep school mentors in America and discoverer of Phil Cavaretta and other sport stars, will be interviewed.

On the Elson sports review W-G-N's baseball announcer will bring to the air an inning by inning description of the crucial baseball games between the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals, which begin on Wednesday, Sept. 25, and continue until the end of the week.

'BOONDOGGLING' SUBJECT TODAY ON REVIEW STAND

"What Means Boondoggling?" promises to be an interesting discussion on the Reviewing Stand from 10 to 10:15 a. m. today over W-G-N. Prof. Ernst H. Hahne and Prof. Myron Henry Umbreit, from Northwestern university, will discuss the vernacular of the term and its association with the public works program of President Roosevelt. In discussing this problem they will point out the specific work outlined in the WPA program as contrasted to that outlined for the PWA.

Original Arrangements on Next Crosley Follies

Original symphonic and choral arrangements of such melodies as "I Feel a Song Coming On," "I'm on a Seesaw," "Limehouse Blues," "The Gentleman Obviously Doesn't Believe," and "I Wished for the Moon" will be included on the Crosley Follies, W-G-N and Mutual Broadcasting system broadcast, at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. The broadcast will feature such soloists as Dorothea Ponce, Rex Griffith, Bailey Axton, and Charlie Dameron, together with the brilliant music of Bill Stoess and the Follies orchestra and chorus.

Leclair, Volkmann, Bloch Works on Symphony Hour

The NBC String symphony, conducted by Frank Black, will be heard in a program of Leclair, Volkmann, and Bloch works at 7 tonight over WLS and an NBC network. Opening with an arrangement for strings by Dubensky of Leclair's "Sarabande" and "Tambourin," the concert will continue with Serenade No. 2 in F, opus 63, by Volkmann, and conclude with Bloch's Suite, opus 6.

Two Spanish Numbers on Penthouse Serenade

Two Spanish numbers will mingle with American songs when the Penthouse Serenade goes on the air at 2:30 p. m. today, over WMAQ and an NBC network. Don Mario, handsome tenor of the program, will sing "A La Otilas de un Palami" and "Te He De Querer." The orchestra, directed by Charles Gaylord, will play "Why Stars Come Out at Night," "Love Is the Sweetest Thing" and "One Night of Love." Mario will complete his solo répertoire with "I'm in the Mood for Love" and "The Desert Song."

Cyril Pitts Is Soloist with M.L. Eastman Tonight

Cyril Pitts, tenor member of the Commodores Quartet and soloist in his own right, will be guest of the symphony orchestra conducted by Morgan L. Eastman at 9:30 tonight over station WENR. The vocal solos will be Schubert's "Serenade" and "My Lady Walks in Loveliness" by Charles. The orchestra will play Nevin's "Venetian Suite," "Berceuse" by Iljinsky and "Dance of the Serpents" by Boccalari.

'JEANNINE' TO BE HEADLINER OF NEW W-G-N SHOW

Mutual Program to Make Bow Tomorrow.

"Jeannine," an 18 year old songstress, who has already made her mark in radio, is to be headline with Paul Pearson and his orchestra on a new commercially sponsored show which will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual net Monday through Friday at 6:15 p. m. The show, which will make its debut tomorrow night, will be known as "Jeannine in Lilac Time." Paul Pearson, a violinist, will present instrumental solos.

Pearson, comparatively unknown until a few months ago, joined WLW and made a rapid advance there. His unit shortly became known as the "Singing Music" orchestra.

"Jeannine" made her debut on WHAM, Rochester, N. Y., on a children's hour, featuring Col. Stoopnagle, of the famed "Stoopnagle and Bud" duo.

In 1934 her family moved from Rochester to Detroit and she continued her work in radio over stations WJR and WXYZ in that city. When she finished her studies at the Highland Park High school she joined Eddie Laughton's orchestra, traveled with that combination to the Castle Farms, a night club near Cincinnati, was granted an audition at WLW, where she became an immediate hit.

BETH PEASLEE SOLOIST WITH NORTHERNERS

Tomorrow night, at 9:30 o'clock, the Northerners will feature Beth Peaslee, one of Chicago's outstanding contraltos, as soloist on the thirty minute concert over W-G-N. Miss Peaslee will present Tosti's famous song, "Good-By," as her solo offering, but will be heard in two other selections with the Northerners' octet, directed by Harry S. Walsh, and the string ensemble, directed by Carl Schulte. They are "Tonight in Vienna," from "Tales from the Vienna Woods," by Strauss, and arranged by Davenport, and the popular tune, "I'm in the Mood for Love," by McHugh and Fields. The Northerners' octet will sing "My Sunshine Is You," by Stolz; the Prelude from "The Cycle of Life," by Ronald; "A Mighty Fortress," by Luther, and "Swanee River," Stephen Foster's immortal ballad. Variety will be added by the strings playing "Pierrot Serenade," by Randegger.

Moody Bible Institute Singers in Concert Tonight

"Lost in His Love," from an original manuscript of W. P. Loveless, will be a feature of the concert to be presented by Moody Bible institute singers at 9 tonight over station WMAQ. Other numbers will be "O Worship the King," "Seeking the Lost" and Burleigh's "Deep River."

'IN LILAC TIME'

A new radio personality known simply as "Jeannine," who will make her bow in "Jeannine in Lilac Time," which will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual net beginning tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. through Friday.

W-G-N SERVICE FRIDAY TO MARK JEWISH NEW YEAR

The W-G-N mid-day service, which is held daily except Sunday at 12:35, will pay a tribute to the Hebrew New Year on Friday, Sept. 28, when Rabbi Benjamin A. Daskal of the Congregation Rodfe-Zedak of Chicago will be the guest speaker. "Religion's Ministry of the Life Eternal" will be the general theme for the services throughout the week and the following divines will be heard: Monday, Orrin W. Auman,, "World Service," Methodist Episcopal church; Tuesday, Prof. L. M. Sweet, Presbyterian Theological seminary; Wednesday, Fr. Prof. J. A. Magner, Quigley Preparatory seminary; Thursday, the Rev. H. W. Virgin, North Shore Baptist church, and Saturday, Dr. John L. Dickson, director W-G-N mid-day service.

Districts 23 and 24 to Meet Tomorrow.

MRS. B. F. MIKUTA.

A discussion of plans for membership drives will be the business of the day at the meeting of the Chicago high school council of Parent - Teacher association of districts 23 and 24, which will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. B. F. Mikuta, president, will preside, and all council chairmen and council delegates from the fifteen high schools in these two districts are expected to attend.

The aim of the council is to give local high school units the advantage of first hand information and methods of work, to receive suggestions, devote time to common projects and to coöperate in the improvement of the conditions affecting child life.

Mrs. Daniel Pagenta, district 24 chairman of the National Parent-Teacher association magazine, will be guest speaker at the first regular meeting of the Grover Cleveland Parent-Teacher association on Sept. 30 at 1:30 p. m. in the school assembly room. "Better Parent Education" has been announced as the theme for the year by the vice president, Mrs. George Millberg.

The first fall meeting of the Norman Bridge Parent-Teacher association will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. in the assembly hall of the school, 3800 North New England avenue.

Mrs. Roy W. Redin, new president of the Ebinger P.-T. A. will preside at the first meeting of the autumn season on Wednesday afternoon at 1:[illegible] p. m., in the assembly hall of the school, 7350 Pratt avenue. Mrs. Edna Simmons, principal, will speak on "The School's Contribution to Character Building," phase of the association's theme for the year, "Worth While Values in Character Education." Members of the board will be hostesses during the social hour following the program.

A food and bakery sale to raise funds to outfit the school's patrol boys with new raincoats and hats is planned by the executive board of the Mary Lyon P.-T. A. which met at the home of the new president, Mrs. H. Prodoehl, 6049 Fletcher street, to discuss its fall program.

Tuesday, Sept. 24, is the date set for the association's first fall meeting which will be held at 1:30 p. m. in the assembly hall of the school, 2935 North McVicker avenue. A motion picture lecture presented by the Milk Foundation will be a highlight of the meeting.

The Leyden P.-T. A. will hold a bake sale in the Community Center library, 3453 North Oketo avenue, on Sept. 28. Homemade delicacies donated by the members will be sold. Mrs. Melinda Anda, ways and means chairman, is in charge.

The executive board of the Portage Park Parent-Teacher association will meet at the home of Mrs. F. E. Eggers, [illegible]1 Berteau avenue, on Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. F. R. Huckin, president, presiding. Mrs. Florence Carseth, program chairman, announces her program for the coming year has been based upon the theme, "A Better School Through Better Home Training."

"Let's Get Acquainted" is the slogan for the first meeting of the Belding Parent-Teacher association, to be held on Wednesday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock in the school assembly hall, Tripp and Cullom avenues. Mrs. Donald Colwell, president, will welcome the new principal, Marion A. Franco-Ferreira, and introduce the guest speaker, Mrs. Frank Damm, director of district 24. A reception to the faculty will be a feature of the social hour.

Tomorrow afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock the Funston P.-T. A. will hold its first meeting of this term in the school assembly hall, 2010 North Central Park avenue. An intensive program, prepared by Mrs. David Weiberg, will be presented for approval. The speaker of the day, Mrs. C. W. Balch, will talk on "Home-Making as an Art and a Profession."

A card and bunco party will be sponsored by the Falconer P.-T. A. on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in Smith's Recreational hall, 2502 North Cicero avenue. Mrs. W. C. Schulz, chairman of the ways and means committe, heads the committee in charge and is being assisted by Mrs. B. W. Lyckberg, Mrs. H. O. Spitzer, Mrs. C. E. Heurer, Mrs. H. J. Bull, Mrs. H. J. Kleckner, and Mrs. J. J. Parisi.

Through the student aid fund, the Prussing Parent-Teacher association has given the school ten benches for the children's lunch room and 48 chairs for the first grade room. Proceeds to replenish this fund are being sought through the card party to be held at the home of Mrs. Mabell Weickhart, 4850 North Moody avenu chairman of the ways and means committee, on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

To double its membership, which reached the 200 mark last year, is the aim of the Mozart P.-T. A. for the coming season. The first meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p. m.

A basket picnic, with games and prizes for the children, will be given by the Steinmetz Parent-Teacher association at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Whealan pool. Mrs. Homer Thompson is chairman of the committee in charge.

MONEY MAKER AND SPENDER

A happy medium is reached in the Prussing Parent-Teacher association, for Mrs. Mabel Weickhart (left), chairman of the ways and means committee, and Mrs. Rose Mounsey, student aid chairman, work hand in hand, the former bringing in the money and the latter spending it.

SIX DIVISION 'Y' BASKETBALL LEAGUES OPEN

800 Boys Start Fifth Season's Play.

The year's round athletic program sponsored by the Division Street Y. M. C. A. for the boys in the neighborhood opened its fifth season last week as more than 800 members of the six leagues participating began basketball practice.

Directed by J. N. Semple, boys' work secretary, the program is a part of the "Y's" plan to reach the boys through the medium of their gang groups and better fit them to adjust themselves to the adverse environment in which they are placed.

Located in one of the most congested districts of the city, the "Y" promotes its activities among groups that otherwise have few opportunities and almost no cultural advantages and, in many cases, are prone to find an outlet for their energy in property destruction and other mischief.

Continue as Groups.

The "Y" program allows them to continue their gang friendships, but turns their energies to athletics and constructive interests. Also, they learn to compete fairly with other groups of their own age. The ideals of the Y. M. C. A. are upheld, but the staf strives to teach by example rather than dogma.

The groups, as they enroll, become teams in the league of their own age group. There are three, the midget, the junior and the senior. Each team has its own captain, selected by popular ballot, who represents it in the league councils.

The councils hold regular meetings when Mr. Semple discusses and plans the activities for the groups. The real administration, however, is in the hands of the council and the boys are urged to deal independently with as many problems as possible.

Men Aid Finances.

Finance, which is an important question since the boys are able to pay, but a small portion of the cost of their "Y" memberships, and other problems of a general nature are undertake by a committee of business men, who work in coöperation with the department staf.

After the basketball schedule, in which each team will play every other team in its league twice, the boys will compete in a swimming meet. The other events of the program, planned to vary according to the seasons, are ping-pong, boxing, wrestling, track, indoor baseball, water polo, volley ball, table hocky, and handball.

Rated by Points.

All scoring is on a group basis and a point system is used whereby the winning team receives a certain number of points and another specified number is deducted for each subsequent place in the event.

Through the coöperation of the friends of the "Y," including a number of neighboring business men, several teams are sent to the "Y" camp, near Pullman, Mich., for a vacation at the end of the season. The standing in the athletic program is an important factor in determining the groups that will go, thus, the boys have an added incentive to work.

The program was put into practice five years ago with a nucleus of six groups. The next year there were 28 and for the last two seasons almost 60 teams have participated. The teams ordinarily select names that incorporate that of the neighborhood in which they live. For example, there are the Hermitage Red Aces, the Marshfield Dodgers, the Newton Tigers, and the St. Nicholas Scouts.

Have Swimming Class.

Team members mave the privilege of a gym class once a week, and a swimming period in the pool besides the opportunity to practice for the coming events. A clubroom is available for weekly meetings. Frequent parties and outings are planned for the groups.

Besides the year round athletic program and the activities mentioned, there are a number of hobby or interest groups in which these team members participate. Among them are the Stamp club, the Glee club, the Electric club, the woodwork, journalism and boxing classes, and the Ping-Pong clubs.

These activities are also open to the other boys who do not belong to the athletic teams. A recapitulation of the attendance from Jan. 1 of this year to July 1 shows that the enrollment in the various groups totaled 2,368.

SUBURB AWAITS WPA GRANT FOR PARK AND POOL

Arlington Heights Seeks Recreation Project.

Arlington Heights citizens last week were anxiously awaiting word from Works Progress Administration officials in Washington on an application for $200,000 for a new park and outdoor swimming pool, a project which Arlington Heights has dreamed of for years.

If the project is approved by the WPA the village board will purchase a ten acre site near the center of town, Mayor J. D. Flentie said. The site has not been determined although several offers have been received.

The park would include facilities for night and day baseball, football, tennis, and other games and would be completely landscaped.

$105,000 Total Cost.

Under the present proposal the obligation of the village in the construction of the swimming pool would be less than $14,000. The total cost of the pool would be about $105,000. The park improvement would be about $97,000 of which $50,000 would be labor cost. The village's share in the park development would involve little cash outlay, being largely for shrubs, trees, and use of equipment.

A recent plan for the construction of a swimming pool with relief labor failed to go through because of the excessive cost to the village of materials and extras and the feeling that the job would not be adequately supervised.

Need Outside Help.

Residents of Arlington Heights have long felt the need for more extensive recreational facilities, Mayor Flentie said. The village, however, is not in a position to finance any expensive project itself.

The application for the WPA grant was approved by H. M. McCullem, regional director of WPA for northeastern Illinois, and was sent to Washington for action by officials there.

G. O. P. VETERANS PLAN TO EXPAND LEAGUE IN STATE

Seeks to Restore Sound Government to U. S.

So rapid has been the growth in Chicago of the United Republican War Veterans' league, having for its purpose the promotion of harmony among factions of the Republican party and the restoration of sound and conservative government to the state and nation, that plans recently were formulated to make the organization state-wide this fall.

Ex-service men are about to play a larger part in politics and public affairs than ever before, in the opinion of Maj. Hamlet C. Ridgeway, state commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War and president of the new league.

"I am firmly convinced," said Maj Ridgeway, "that if veterans of the state will organize and become active they can exert a powerful influence in electing men to public office who are schooled in the tradition of Americanism."

Others Among Leaders.

Capt. Ray Shannon is vice president of the league; Emmett Grady, secretary; Walter Jasper, treasurer; and Mark C. Hann, assistant to the president. A Lincoln Mahony and Galen C. Scott are members of the public relations committee. Maj. E. V. Dickson is organization chairman.

Members of the executive committee are James D. Broda, George A Carmichael, Col. Robert L. Floyd, George A. Gillmeister, Capt. William J. Grace, John L. Guminski, Wallace Johnson, William G. Knox, George A. Macauley, Charles A. Marshall, Thomas J. Mooney, Sig N. Nothhelfer, J. J. O'Keefe, George Ringler, Russell W. Root, and Dr. Edwin F. Soukup.

On the advisory committee are Col. William H. Beckman, H. Wallace Caldwell, county commissioner; Oscar E. Carlstrom, former attorney general of Illinois; William M. Dewey; Col. Jack English, William N. Erickson, county commissioner; Kenneth M. Fiske.

Well Known Men Aid.

Others are Dwight H. Green, former U. S. district attorney; Judge Harry F. Hamlin, Edward A. Hayes, past national commander of the American Legion; Thomas J. Houston, Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski, Roland V. Libonati, Ald. Arthur J. Lindell, Arthur E. Lueder, former postmaster.

LEGION NOTES

The drum and bugle corps of Mel Tierney post, No. 247, of the American Legion, Park Ridge, state champions, will compete for the class A national championship this week at the 17th annual national convention of the Legion in St. Louis.

The corps has the distinction of having won the state championship three years in succession, scoring 98.11 at Quincy, the highest score on record.

The corps is headed by Corps Commander Frank L. McBride; Fred C. Bachrodt, musical director, and Dr. L. A. Platts, chairman of the corps committee. The corps is being accompanied by Commander R. T. Sundelius of the post and many members of the post and auxiliary. The trip is being made by bus.

FATHERS and MOTHERS
make sure your laundry comes home from a modern sanitary laundry

LAUNDRY work is a man-size job; but a man wouldn't do it—and he shouldn't let his wife do it. Now, with school days here and with more laundry to do.. keeping little Johnnie and little Mary bright and clean.. let a modern, sanitary laundry take the burden of bigger wash days off your shoulders. There's no earthly reason why Mothers should be slaves. Modern laundries are extremely careful and painstaking.. they wash clothes beautifully, perfectly clean and sanitary. They're easy on clothes—things last longer and it actually costs less than doing the washing at home. Try a laundry tomorrow instead of trudging down to the basement with another week's washing, let the telephone be your wash tub—call these modern laundries listed below. They are ready to give you the ultimate in service and satisfaction!

Germproof Cleanliness Marks the Scientific Methods of These Tested Laundries

PURE SELECTED SOAP
FILTERED RAIN WATER
ALL GARMENTS SEPARATED
SCIENTIFIC EQUIPMENT
EVERYTHING STERILIZED

All our soap is mild and pure—and is tested to see that it does not contain any harsh, caustic agents.

Thousands upon thousands of gallons of filtered rain-soft water are used in washing and giving your clothes many rinsings.

Colored garments, underwear and white things are carefully separated and washed separately so that nothing is faded.

All our laundry machinery is the very latest scientific equipment—they wash and iron clothes gently and expertly.

No germ—no matter how hardy—can live through our sterilization processes. Germicides and live steam protect your health.

THAT'S WHY THE CEREAL CHOSEN FOR THE DIONNE QUINTS IS QUAKER OATS!
QUICK QUAKER OATS
World Copyright, 1935, N. E. A. Service, Inc.

This morning the Dionne 'Quints' had Quaker Oats!

FOR a few pennies, your children may have the very same brand of oatmeal selected by the experts in charge of the Dionne 'Quints'. They got it, even before their first birthday, because Quaker Oats does children such a world of good. As much Vitamin B for keeping fit in 1c worth of Quaker Oats as in 3 cakes of fresh yeast!

● Mothers! QUAKER OATS was selected as the cereal for these precious babies even before their first birthday! Consider that recommendation for your children and serve Quaker Oats daily. It is rich in Vitamin B, the vitamin Doctors say combats CONSTIPATION, POOR APPETITE, and NERVOUSNESS—for both children and grown-ups, who lack that vitamin in the diet.

Sensational Gift Offer

Beautiful Dionne Quintuplets Souvenir Birthday Bowl. Lifetime-chromium plated. Six inches in diameter. Sent to anyone for two Quaker Oats trademarks and 10c to help cover special mailing and handling charges. Address The Quaker Oats Co., Box L, Dept. 133 A, Chicago, Ill.

All chemists sought it . . .

Coty has found it!

Women with dry skin report a definite improvement in skin texture after using Air Spun Powder for one week!

Today, your fight for beauty is almost certain to be a fight against dry skin. Authorities estimate that nine out of ten women have over-dry complexions!

Many a case of dry skin has been aggravated by excessively drying face powders. Powder is on your face two-thirds of every day. Think of the precious moisture that a too drying powder can absorb during that time!

If powder makes your skin look flaky, dry . . . then you are one of the millions of women who urgently need the new type powder, Coty Air Spun.

It is spun by air!

Thanks to a startling and dramatic discovery, Coty's new powder is made by an utterly different, new method. It is spun by air.

New ingredients can now be used. Precious substances that are known to be beneficial to the skin. Ingredients that protect and safeguard against drying.

More flattering in many ways

Besides giving new protection, the Air Spun method does other thrilling things:

It blends tints so evenly that they look like warm, living skin tints. It diffuses fragrance delicately and subtly.

And Coty Air Spun Powder clings far longer. Because it is many times smoother than face powder could be made before, it is "friendlier" to skin texture.

Invitation—try it FREE

Coty will gladly send you Air Spun Powder free . . . knowing that no words can possibly be as convincing as the feel of it in your hand, the flattering look of it on your face. Please use coupon.

BUT THE SHORT SUMMER SEASON IS ALMOST AT AN END— TIME IS PRECIOUS AND OUR FRIENDS MUST PRESS ON IF THEY HOPE TO RETURN TO THE DAMAGED PLANE—
FRANKLY, MEN— I'M WORRIED ABOUT OUR DIRECTIONS— SINCE WE'RE SO CLOSE TO THE MAGNETIC POLE, THIS NEEDLE COMPASS IS PRACTICALLY USELESS—
AND WE HAVEN'T SEEN A STAR TO GET DIRECTIONS BY FOR OVER FOUR MONTHS EVEN THE SUN CAN'T HELP US SINCE IT DOESN'T SET ALL SUMMER— AND WE CAN'T JUDGE IF IT'S SOUTH OR WEST RIGHT NOW—
KOODLOO— YOU'RE OUR ONLY HOPE— YOU'RE A NATIVE OF THIS COUNTRY— AND WE'VE GOT TO DEPEND ON YOUR INSTINCT TO HELP US MAKE OUR WAY BACK TO THE PLANE—
KOODLOO NEVER SEE THESE LANDS BEFORE— NOT KNOW WAY EITHER— ONLY CAN GUESS— BUT KOODLOO DO BEST HE CAN—
WELL— THAT'S NOT GOOD ENOUGH FOR ME— I'M NOT TRUSTING MY LIFE TO ANY UNCIVILIZED HALF-WIT OF AN ESKIMO—
DON'T BE A FOOL, MAN! IT'S OUR ONLY HOPE. WHAT ELSE CAN WE DO?
WE CAN HEAD BACK TOWARD CIVILIZATION— AND FORGET THIS CRAZY AIRPLANE TRIP— THAT'S WHAT WE CAN DO!
AND THE SOONER WE GET RID OF YOU AS LEADER OF THIS EXPEDITION, THE BETTER OFF WE'LL BE— TAKE THAT!
I'M SORRY TO DO THIS— BUT YOU ASKED FOR IT!
HELP!
COME NOW, OLD MAN— LET'S NOT HAVE ANY MORE QUARRELS— THE SAFETY OF OUR EXPEDITION DEPENDS ON ALL OF US WORKING TOGETHER—
JUST GIVE ME ANOTHER CHANCE—
CAPTAIN DUKETTE— LOOK OUT! HE'S GOT A KNIFE—
AGAIN THE VILLAINOUS MECHANIC SHOWS HIS TRUE COLORS— BUT WILL EVEN HE DARE SUCH FOUL PLAY AS TO STAB THE MAN WHO IS RESCUING HIM?

GO TO BED, KAYO- YOU CAN'T SLEEP ON THAT PIANO!
I COULD IF YOU'D QUIT HOLLERIN' AT ME.
HECK! NOW THAT SHE'S GOT ME ALL WOKE UP- I CAN'T SLEEP!
SAY TURN DOWN THAT RADIO OVER THERE WILL YOU?
NOW LISTEN TO THAT! I BET IT'S THAT CRANKY GUY ACROSS TH' ALLEY SQUAWKIN' AGAIN.
HELLO!...YAS THIS IS MR. MULLINS SPEAKING!---- ----YOU'LL WHAT? OH YEAH---YOU AND WHO ELSE? WELL LISTEN WISE GUY-
OH-HELLO- I THOUGHT YOU WAS SOMEBODY ELSE.
NEVER MIND WHAT YOU THOUGHT- YOU MARCH RIGHT UPSTAIRS TO BED- HERE IT IS AFTER TWO O'CLOCK AND YOU AIN'T GOT YOUR NIGHT GOWN ON YET.
THAT MUSIC WAS BAD ENOUGH BUT THAT RADIO HEALTH TALK AT THIS HOUR IS THE LAST STRAW!
IT'S THE SLEEP YOU GET BEFORE MIDNIGHT THAT BENEFITS A BODY! YOU CAN'T EXPECT TO BE STRONG AND HEALTHY IF YOU BURN YOUR CANDLE AT BOTH ENDS-- AND FURTHERMORE-- SAY, ARE YOU MR. MULLINS?
I AM SIR- AND YOU ARE--?
I'M THE GUY YOU INVITED OVER TO GET A PUNCH IN THE EYE!

OH, THERE ARE LOTS WORSE THINGS THAN BEING BLIND - I GUESS... THAT IS - LOTS WORSE THINGS THAN BEING BLIND IN THE EYES.
FOR INSTANCE, BEING BLIND TO RIGHT AND WRONG - BEING BLIND TO FRIENDS. THAT'S THE WORST KIND OF BLINDNESS.
YOU'RE NOT AFFLICTED WITH THAT KIND, TOBY.. WE ALL KNOW IT NOW.
IT JUST SEEMS A MIGHTY STIFF PRICE TO PAY FOR THE LITTLE SIDE STEP YOU MADE, TOBY.
MR. TRACY.. IF THERE WERE ONLY SOME WAY OF BRINGING HOME TO OTHER YOUNG PEOPLE - HOW LITTLE INSIGNIFICANT MISDEEDS CAN LEAD TO SUCH TRAGIC RESULTS.
I KNOW - AND YOU'RE SURE YOU DON'T WANT TO RETURN TO YOUR FAMILY OUT WEST?
NO - NO! THEY WOULD NEVER UNDERSTAND! JUST LET ME STAY HERE WITH YOU, MRS. STEELE, PLEASE. I'LL WORK WITHOUT PAY.. LET ME MAKE AMENDS. I CAN STILL BE CASHIER IN THE "COFFEE POT."
THERE ARE WAYS FOR THE BLIND TO LEARN TO READ AND WRITE.. I'LL WORK.. REALLY I WILL.. I WON'T BE A BURDEN TO YOU.
THAT'S MIGHTY SWEET OF YOU, TOBY.. ..I'M SURE IT CAN BE ARRANGED.
WHAT DO YOU SAY - LET'S GO DOWN TO THE "COFFEE POT." I JUST WANT TO FEEL MYSELF BACK THERE AGAIN... ..I WANT TO "SEE" THE PLACE.
THERE THEY GO, OSCAR. SHE HAS TO HAVE SOME ONE LEAD HER AROUND EVERYWHERE SHE GOES.
DON'T YOU SEE? THIS IS A CHANCE FOR YOU TO BE A BIG SHOT - - WHY, TOBY WON'T HAVE TO DEPEND ON ANYBODY, IF YOU CATCH ONTO THIS.
NOW, COME ON, LET'S PRACTICE GOING AROUND THE BLOCK AGAIN... REMEMBER, STAY ON THE SIDEWALK.. AND WATCH FOR AUTOS AT THE STREETS AND ALLEYS.
ATTA BOY! YOU'RE DOING FINE! WHY, WITH YOUR INTELLIGENCE AND A LITTLE TRAINING, SHE'LL HAVE THE BEST ESCORT IN TOWN.

...AND SO A FRIEND ADVISED ME TO TRY GIVING HIM OVALTINE.
IT'S WONDERFUL, MRS. TURNER. AND IT DOESN'T CONTAIN ANY DRUGS... SO IT ISN'T HABIT-FORMING AND HELPS PROMOTE NATURAL SLEEP.
THAT NIGHT
SAY, THIS TASTES MARVELOUS, MABEL. WHAT DID YOU SAY IT IS?
IT'S OVALTINE... AND THEY SAY IT'S REALLY AMAZING THE WAY IT HELPS SO MANY "POOR SLEEPERS" SLEEP.
LATER
WHY... HE MUST HAVE GONE TO SLEEP ALMOST THE MINUTE HIS HEAD TOUCHED THE PILLOW!
NEXT MORNING
BOY, OH BOY! I HAVEN'T HAD SO MUCH PEP IN MONTHS... JUST WAIT TILL I GET GOING ON THAT TOUGH PROSPECT OF MINE TODAY!
WHY JOE, HOW WONDERFUL! BELIEVE ME OVALTINE IS GOING TO BE THE OFFICIAL NIGHTCAP IN THIS HOUSE FROM NOW ON!
DID YOU HEAR THE BIG NEWS? TURNER LANDED THAT $5,000 ORDER FROM OLD MAN BRONSON TODAY.
YES, AND I HEAR THE BIG BOSS IS GIVING HIM A RAISE THAT MAKES HIS OLD SALARY LOOK LIKE CHICKEN FEED!
WHAT! YOU PLANNED TO STAY HOME TONIGHT? NONSENSE, I'VE GOT BIG NEWS—LET'S GO OUT AND CELEBRATE!
IF SLEEPLESS NIGHTS ARE "GETTING YOU DOWN", CUT THIS OUT AND MAIL IT IN TODAY!

OVALTINE is a delicious pure food concentrate—originally created in Switzerland as a strengthening food for invalids, convalescents, and the aged.
Then physicians noted that, when taken as a hot drink at bedtime, it was also a remarkable aid to sound, restful sleep. As a result, throughout the world, Ovaltine has become the most widely known of all drugless aids to natural sleep—while thousands of delighted users report that it has brought them new strength and energy as well as steadier nerves next day.
See for yourself how remarkable Ovaltine is. Get a can at any drug or grocery store today. Or, if your need is not immediate and urgent, mail the coupon for a liberal trial supply.

STANLEY LINK
GOOD GRIEF! WHAT'S THAT THEY'RE LOWERING? ARE THEY GOING TO TRY TO CRUSH ME?
A MAGNET! AND IT'S DRAWING THIS IRON MAN RIGHT UP TOWARD IT—
THEY'VE GOT ME NOW—THIS IRON MAN'S STUCK SO TIGHT I CAN'T EVEN MOVE A FINGER—
BACK TO THE PALACE, EH? I'LL BET THEY'RE TAKING ME STRAIGHT TO THAT CRUEL KING ZOREX—
BY THUNDER! IT'S THE VERY CREATURE I'VE WORKED SO LONG ON IN MY LABORATORY—THE ONE ABOVE ALL OTHERS I SINGLED OUT FOR THE POWER OF SPEECH—

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES... —AND PLENTY OF WIND AND ENERGY TO BE A LION TAMER
CAMELS NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES
Capt. TERRELL M. JACOBS A CAMEL SMOKER FOR 15 YEARS
An ADVERTISEMENT of R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.
TERRELL JACOBS, AGED 12, HAD A GREAT AMBITION TO BE A LION TAMER—SO HE VISITED THE CIRCUS
HEY, THERE!
HE WUZ CRASHIN' THE GATE
I WANTED TO SEE THE LION TAMER
WELL, I'M THE LION TAMER
HELLO, LEO!
GR-R-R
—HE GOT A JOB HELPING TO TAKE CARE OF THE LIONS. SOME FOLKS LIKE ELEPHANTS—SOME LIKE TIGERS—BUT TERRELL LIKED LIONS
I BETCHA I COULD DO THAT!
WHEN OFF DUTY, HE WATCHED HIS IDOL TRAIN HIS TROOP
UP, LEO, UP!
LOOK AT THAT KID DOING MY ACT!
YES, HE'LL MAKE A GREAT TRAINER
ONE DAY, WHEN HE THOUGHT NO ONE WAS ABOUT, HE PUT LEO THROUGH HIS PACES. HE WAS WATCHED
TIME PASSES
HE BECOMES A FAMOUS STAR OF THE "BIG CAGE." IT'S NO SOFT JOB EITHER
ONE DAY A TREACHEROUS JUNGLE-BRED LION STARTED A TERRIFIC FIGHT. JACOBS WAS KNOCKED DOWN
HE'LL BE KILLED!
THERE HE WAS, IN A CAGE FULL OF ROARING, FIGHTING LIONS—ALONE AND BAREHANDED—GRR
WITH NERVES THAT NEVER WAVERED, HE FACED THE PACK—HELD THEM AT BAY—AND—SLAM!
MADE HIS WAY TO THE SAFETY DOOR—AND ESCAPED!
SMOKING CERTAINLY DOESN'T INTERFERE WITH YOUR NERVES
NO—I SMOKE THE MILD CIGARETTE, CAMELS. I'LL TELL YOU MY SMOKING EXPERIENCE—
JACOBS AND THE REPORTERS—
Capt. TERRELL M. JACOBS WORLD-FAMOUS LION TAMER
I'VE BEEN SMOKING CAMELS FOR 15 YEARS. THEY DON'T UPSET MY NERVES OR GET MY WIND. NOTHING COULD SHOW THEIR MILDNESS BETTER THAN THAT. I'D WALK A MILE FOR A CAMEL!

"I'D SOONER DIE THAN GO TO ANOTHER PARTY"
PIMPLES WERE "RUINING HER LIFE"
HERE'S YOUR DRESS, DEAR — IT'S LOVELY!
YES, BUT HOW CAN I GO TO THE PROM? JUST LOOK AT MY FACE!!
WHY DID I COME? I MIGHT HAVE KNOWN — I'LL SNEAK OUT AND GO HOME
WHY, WHAT IS IT, DEAR?
THESE DREADFUL H-HICKIES — THE BOYS A-A-VOIDED ME-E-E — OH-H, I COULD DIE-E-E
NEXT DAY
THANKS, BUT I COULDN'T — NO MORE PARTIES FOR ME!
HELEN, DEAR — IF ITS BECAUSE OF THOSE PIMPLES — I'M SURE FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST WOULD STOP THEM
LATER
NEVER DREAMED I'D HAVE SUCH GRAND, CLEAR SKIN AGAIN. NOT A PIMPLE LEFT!

SORRY I HAD TO SAY "NO," GEORGE — BUT I'LL SEE YOU AT THE DANCE
A FELLOW HAS TO STEP LIVELY TO FIND YOU WITHOUT A DATE!
GEORGE IS RIGHT! YOU'RE SURELY BEING RUSHED LATELY

DON'T LET ADOLESCENT PIMPLES SPOIL YOUR FUN

DON'T let a pimply skin spoil your good times—make you feel unpopular and ashamed. Even bad cases of pimples can be corrected.

Pimples come at adolescence because the important glands developing at this time—between the ages 13 to 25—cause disturbances throughout the body. Many irritating substances get into the blood stream. They irritate the skin, making it break out in pimples.

Fleischmann's Yeast clears the skin irritants out of the blood. With the cause removed, the pimples disappear. Your skin becomes nice and smooth again.

Eat Fleischmann's Yeast 3 times a day, before meals, until your skin is entirely clear. Many cases of pimples clear up within a week or two. Bad cases sometimes take a month or more. Start today!

Moler College

BECAUSE—
It is the original, the first institution of its kind in the world.

BECAUSE—
Its schooling exactly duplicates shop work serving the public rather than student practice work on each other.

BECAUSE—
All Moler teachers are specially trained in their Teachers Training school—the only one of its kind—rather than inexperienced operators pressed into service.

BECAUSE—
Their three plans of teaching qualify for three kinds of positions, offering three times the better opportunity.

BECAUSE—
Students from out of the city or those who may desire are provided with places by which they may earn their living while learning.

BECAUSE—
The location is bank floor space in the loop—prominent, pleasant, inviting.

BECAUSE—
Graduates are placed in shops of Moler Graduates everywhere.

BECAUSE—
Moler's are open every day and every evening.

BECAUSE—

How to Become a BEAUTY EXPERT

What are you ambitious to be? An "ordinary," mediocre beauty operator, trained to work only in the "cheapest" shops, at minimum wages? Or would you not rather be a genuine beauty expert, with sufficient training, practical experience, and technical knowledge to qualify you for a GOOD PAYING POSITION in a high class shop?

Choose DeLEE

Not much doubt as to which type of operator you would rather be, is there? Nor should there be much doubt about your choice of a school. Why? Because DeLEE'S individual, personalized method of training, under the direction of Madame Louise, teaches you MORE about the really fine points of hairdressing and beauty culture, in the SHORTEST possible time. At DeLEE you receive [at reasonable tuition fees] instruction that practically amounts to a private lesson course.

Fees Are Lower

Visit DeLEE tomorrow and see for yourself how DeLEE students are trained to be BEAUTY EXPERTS. See the light, beautiful, clean, colorful class rooms; talk with the DeLEE Dean; ask her about the low tuition fees. Let her explain how DeLEE helps its graduates to obtain good paying positions in high class shops. The visit won't obligate you in any way—you'll enjoy it. If you can't come in, write for interesting FREE book.

Come in for FREE Wave.

We'd like to show you just how skillful DeLEE students are, and we cordially invite you to come in Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday, present this ad, and receive absolutely FREE, without obligation, a shampoo and marcel or finger wave.

"A NATURAL"

55 leading business men in Chicago are heading a project national in scope that requires the services of several high type specialty men. If you are one of the many men who earned over $5,000 yearly in predepression times and have found it difficult to exploit your capabilities during the depression, we have "a natural" for you. Plan entails social, physical and entertainment of interest to every one and is tried and proven. Present men making over $100 weekly commissions. Territories within radius of 100 miles of Chicago—leads furnished—coöperation that will not permit you to fail. If you have confidence in your ability and sincerely are looking for a lifetime connection, a personal interview with our traveling representative will be profitable. See Mr. Parks, Suite 3008-9, Medinah club, Monday.

A Good Job and Money in the Bank

The average man does not really want to jump from one thing to another He has aims and ambitions which he hopes will some day be fulfilled. BUT—you must go either forward or backward. If you get in a rut you are going backward. Here is a proposition where the right men can go steadily forward. We do not urge any one to join us, and we are careful in the men we select—but the wise man who is interested in a high percentage income will find much significance in the fact that eight of our men were promoted to better positions last week. A three way earning plan. Some of our salesmen made $15 a day last week. Call for interview 10 A. M. Monday.

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 50, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana, and northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and, if selected, will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer, as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone girl hire, consign your merchandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Monday only between 1 and 3 p. m. Ask for Mr. Lovell, Suite 404, Maryland Bldg., 63d-st. and Maryland-av.

ON THE LAKE SHORE
IN EVANSTON.
It's rather nice to live in a house built high on a walled-in terrace where every room is flooded with sunlight and where the views from the north and south are over lawns and into woods, and to the east, out over the colorful waters of Lake Michigan. A beautiful, secluded spot where you never feel lonesome or isolated, for it is right in the midst of Evanston and only 25 minutes by motor or train from Chicago's business district. A real retreat for a busy business man who can not afford to spend much time commuting. 12 rooms, large living rooms, huge porches, garage with living quarters and everything that goes to make up a marvelous home. You may not believe it, but a pair of cardinal birds nest in the shrubbery and stay the year round. They like it.

California.

IN CALIFORNIA SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution for many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The small Farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper, "The Earth," free for six months. Agricultural Development Department, Santa Fe Railway, 900A Railway Exchange, Chicago.

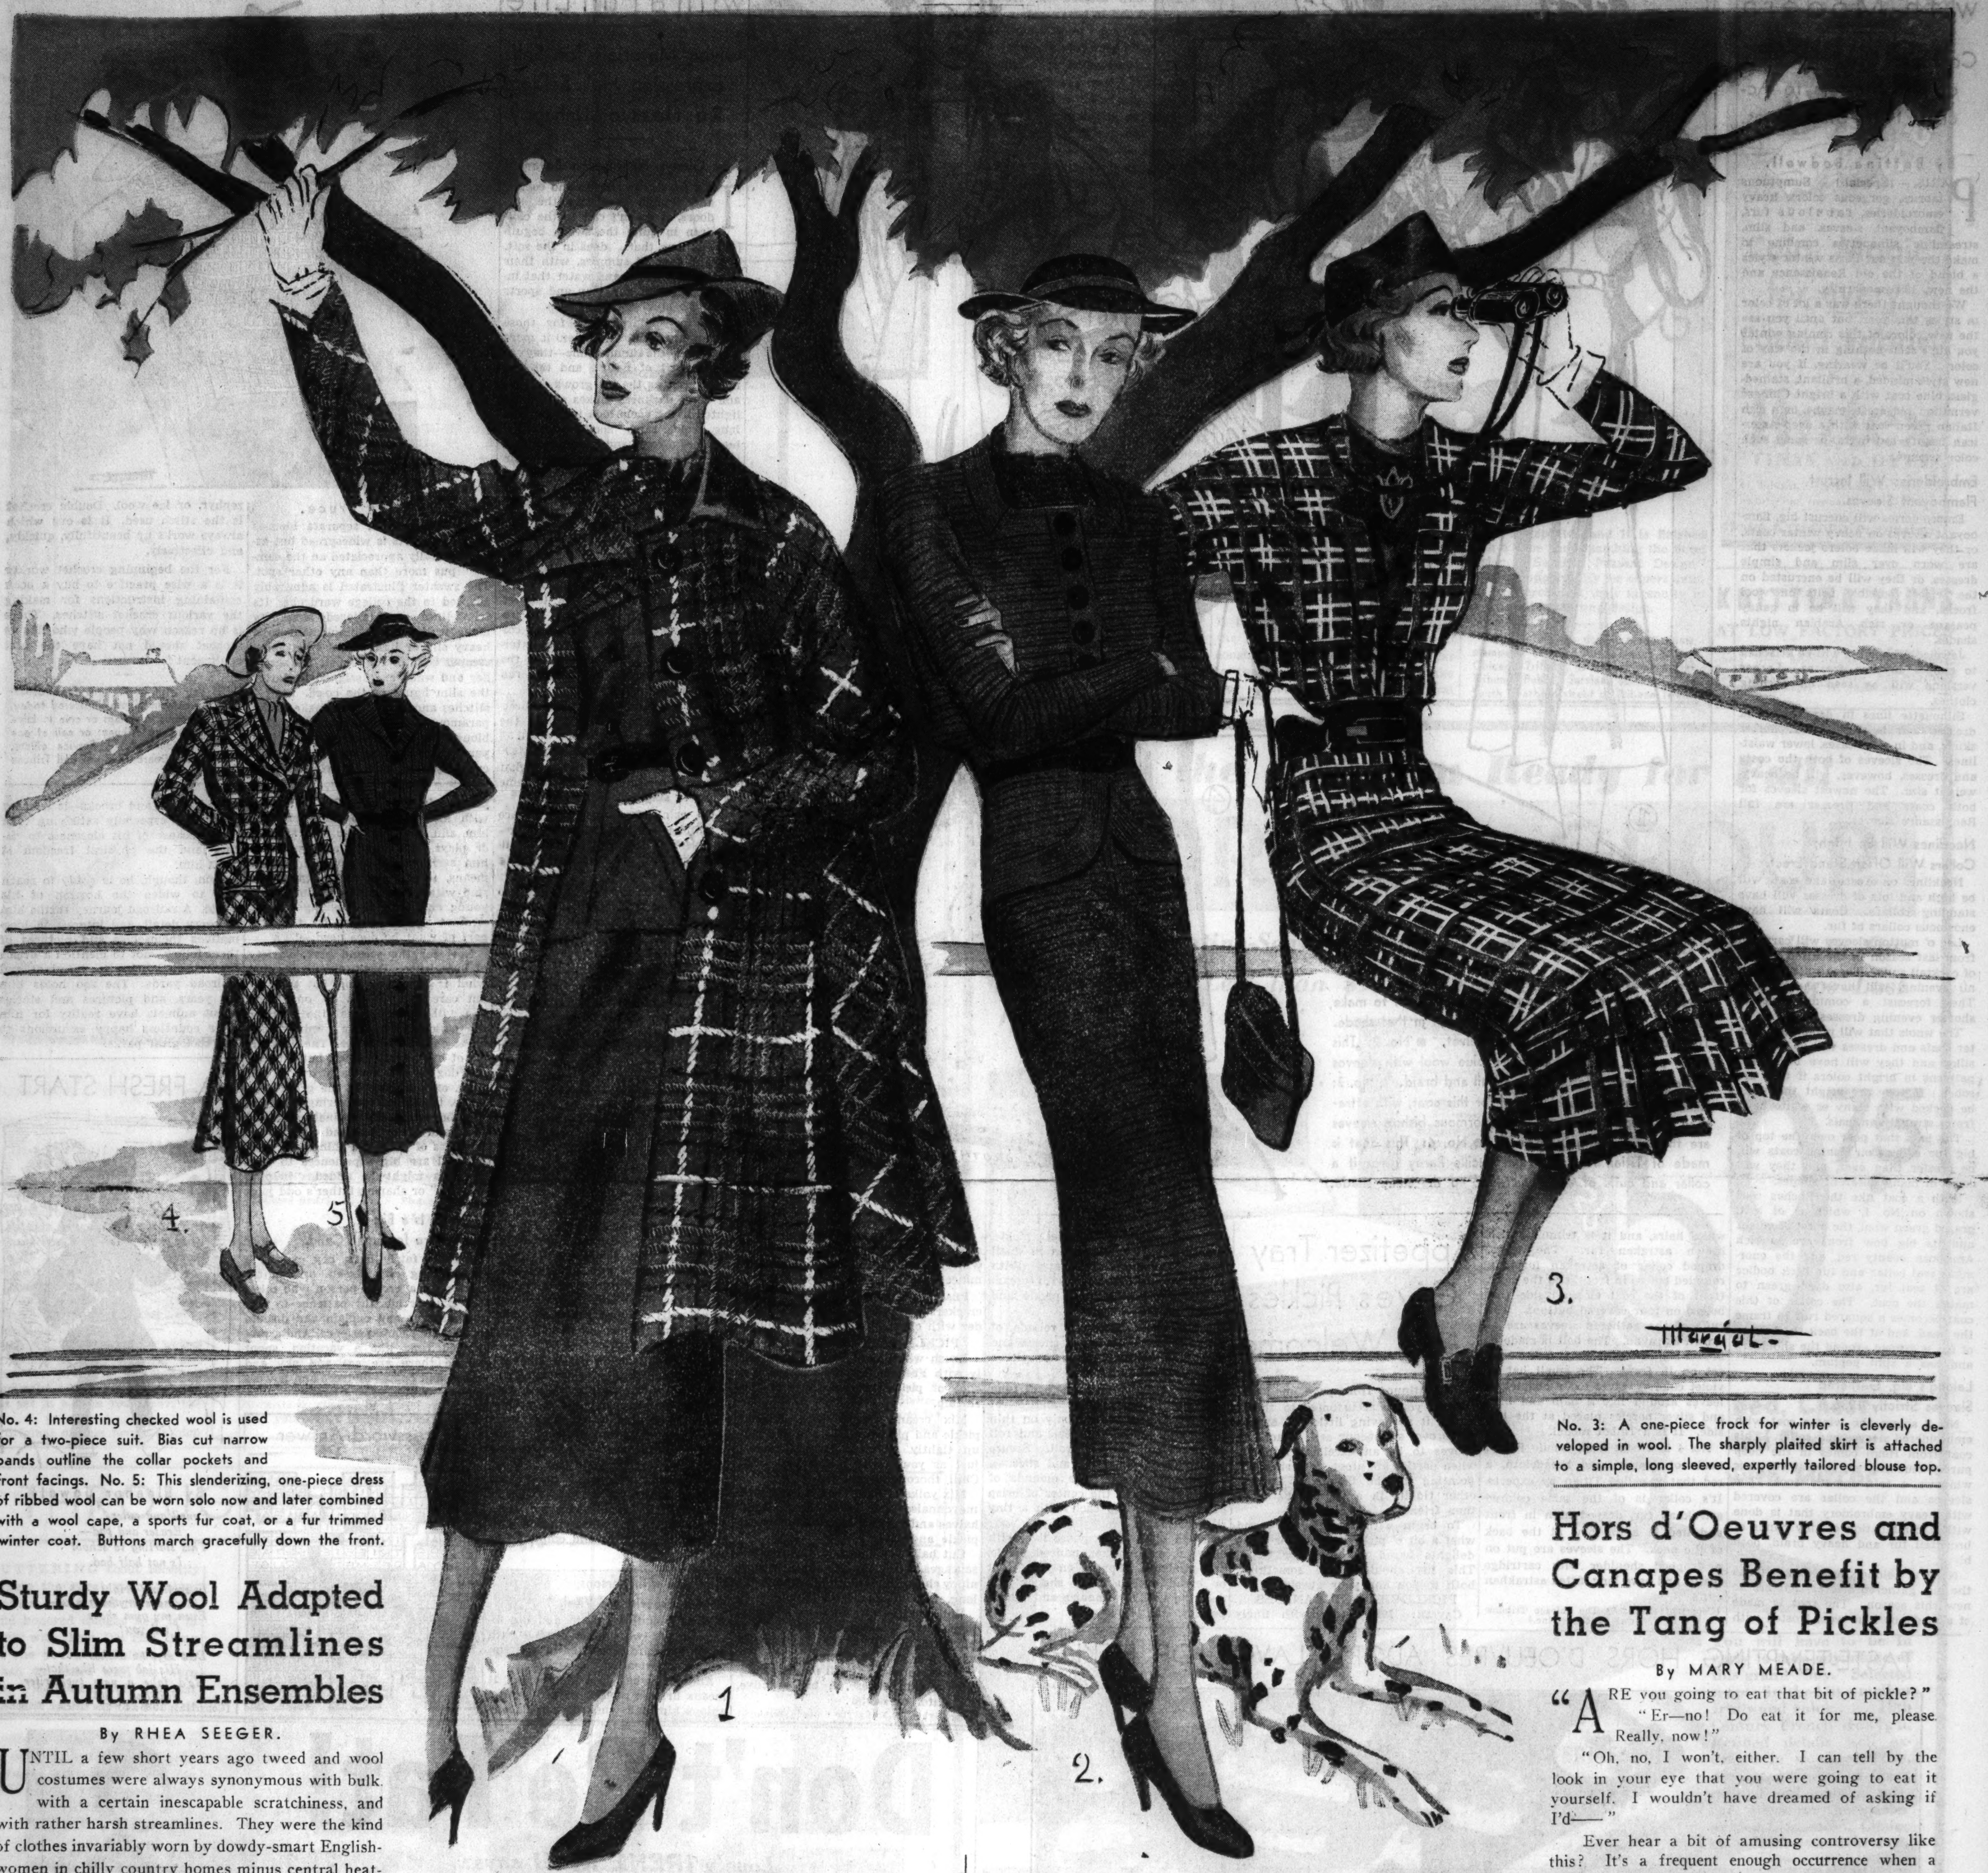
Women's Features



No. 4: Interesting checked wool is used for a two-piece suit. Bias cut narrow bands outline the collar pockets and front facings. No. 5: This slenderizing, one-piece dress of ribbed wool can be worn solo now and later combined with a wool cape, a sports fur coat, or a fur trimmed winter coat. Buttons march gracefully down the front.

No. 1: A slightly flared skirt, a fitted, hiplength jacket, and a swagger coat comprises one of the smartest of the new three piece wool ensembles. No. 2: Ribbed, smooth wool is used for a two piece morning outfit. The coat gives it a snug silhouette, relieved by a short peplum.

No. 3: A one-piece frock for winter is cleverly developed in wool. The sharply plaited skirt is attached to a simple, long sleeved, expertly tailored blouse top.

Sturdy Wool Adapted to Slim Streamlines in Autumn Ensembles

By RHEA SEEGER.

UNTIL a few short years ago tweed and wool costumes were always synonymous with bulk. with a certain inescapable scratchiness, and with rather harsh streamlines. They were the kind of clothes invariably worn by dowdy-smart Englishwomen in chilly country homes minus central heating. Now fashion designers with an inspired flair for cutting, textile designers with a genius for perfecting texture, and shoppers with a definitly new appreciation of fine woolen have completely changed everything.

It's as easy to find soft, supple wool clothes as it is to buy silks and satins, and even now the wool mixtures, with their high, rich colors, unusual and smooth textures, feather weights. and individual patterns are giving the heavy silks and street fabrics strong competition. Some of the smartest of those one piece dresses so necessary for fall and early winter street wear are made of amazingly thin wool, a wool that is easy to drape. plait, shir, or tailor into the extremely sophisticated silhouettes of current fashions.

Swagger Coat Used for Contrast.

Ribbed wool fashions the most successful one piece dresses Many of these simulate a jacket and skirt. The ribs vary from a hairline to stripes a quarter of an inch wide. Some of these fabrics are soft and velvety like corduroys, others are flat and smooth, but all make the best of the tailored silhouettes for street wear.

Chicago shops are filled with such good looking woolen clothes . . . with the opening of the fall season the collections are unusually large and colorful. Plaids that will make everybody happy are abundant. Ribbed wools, tweed mixtures, flat, smooth, thin wools, and all the novelty weaves blazing with color and color contrast are ready for the big fall shopping rush.

Five of the smartest outfits we could find have been sketched. They are from a collection which includes many other equally effective wool outfits that everybody wants at this time of year. No. 1, unquestionably the best buy . . . a stunning wool suit—gun-metal gray in one model—with a simple, slightly flared skirt and fitted, hip length jacket that buttons securely over the chest, an ascot that muffles smartly down the neckline, and the smartest extra swagger in town. The swagger coat to be worn with the gun-metal gray suit is of warm, bright plaid, as a foil for the dark toned suit. The plaid is used diagonally only in the back section, and to achieve the right fullness a deep, inverted plait is cleverly tailored right down the center line of the back. This is a perfect outfit for town or country, for the first football games, for a chilly day of shopping. The coat can be used with knitted clothes or with a sweater and extra skirt. In short this is an ensemble for any wardrobe.

Frocks Feature New Ideas.

No. 2 . . . a modestly priced two piece outfit to wear any morning. The wool is ribbed and smooth, the skirt is straight and slim, the "top" is, in most models, of contrasting color and has a snug fitted silhouette with a short peplum.

No. 3 . . . a brand new one piece idea developed in wool. In most models shown the fabric was colorful, though dark, Scotch plaid wool. The skirt, which is sharply plaited, is attached to a simple, long sleeved, expertly tailored blouse top. This is a dress that can be worn with contrasting velvet scarf, gloves, and matching hat, under a swagger coat or dark, monotone wool, or with a short, bright colored, velveteen jacket.

No. 4 . . . small but effective checking is featured in this smart two piece suit. The checks are woven with a slightly blurred outline, and the texture is soft and semi-fuzzy. Bias cut narrow bands outline the collar, pockets, and front facings. The new skirt silhouette is flared, and both jacket and skirt are expertly tailored. Silk lines the jacket, in one model, repeating the color of the check in the wool.

Ribbed wool at its best in No. 5, a slenderizing, one piece street dress that can be worn solo immediately and later combined with a wool cape, a sports fur coat, or a fur trimmed winter coat. Buttons march down the front of the dress, trim the pockets, and repeat the color of the narrow belt. Long sleeves and a high collar line keep the model simple and smart for any daytime occasion.

Hors d'Oeuvres and Canapes Benefit by the Tang of Pickles

By MARY MEADE.

"ARE you going to eat that bit of pickle?"

"Er—no! Do eat it for me, please. Really, now!"

"Oh, no, I won't, either. I can tell by the look in your eye that you were going to eat it yourself. I wouldn't have dreamed of asking if I'd——"

Ever hear a bit of amusing controversy like this? It's a frequent enough occurrence when a good sandwich, whether in a restaurant or on the kitchen table, is flanked by but one lonely pickle. All too often the result of the sparsely pickled plate is holding back to make the bites come out even, or else borrowing from an indulgent neighbor's plate.

We don't even have to talk about proper and sufficient pickle accompaniments for sandwiches. But we would like to impress upon ingenious hostesses the pickle-loving qualities of the public as a whole. Especially in considering the appetizers she serves (a part of the meal which becomes increasingly important in entertaining) will she do well to consider this Peter Piper delicacy.

Relish Tray Brings Pickle Revival.

Of course, the pickle isn't new as an appetizer. If we remember correctly, it was the main adjunct, by way of appetite whetters, to hearty eating long before salads were invented. But now, in the era of the relish tray, the pickle again is supreme as interest grows in the art of creating hors d'oeuvres and canapes. Best of all, unlike so many of our best charmers, there's nary a day in the year when it can't be found in a size or degree of spiciness to suit the occasion.

The pickle's versatility will surprise you, particu-

Paris Fashions Mix Renaissance with Modern

Couturiers Use Bold Colors of Old Masters to Accent 1936 Streamlines.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Sumptuous fabrics, gorgeous colors, heavy embroideries, fabulous furs, flamboyant sleeves, and slim, streamline silhouettes combine to make the just out Paris winter styles a blend of the old Renaissance and the new, 1936 modernity.

We thought there was a lot of color in styles this year, but until you see the new colors of this coming winter you ain't seen nothing in the way of color. You'll be wearing, if you are new style minded, a brilliant, stained-glass blue coat with a bright Chinese vermilion red dress, maybe, or a rich Italian green coat with a deep American beauty red dress, or some such color scheme.

Embroideries Will Incrust Flamboyant Sleeves.

Embroideries will encrust big, flamboyant sleeves on heavy winter coats, or they will make bolero jackets that are worn over slim and simple dresses, or they will be encrusted on the widest possible belts on wool frocks, and they will be in gaudy peasant or rich Arabian nights shades.

Jeweled ornaments will be attached to simple daytime dresses. Larger versions will be seen on evening clothes.

Silhouette lines in day coats and dresses will be slim, with shorter skirts, and in some cases, lower waistlines. The sleeves of both the coats and dresses, however, will be heavyweight size. The newest sleeves for both coats and dresses are full Renaissance sleeves.

Necklines Will Be High; Collars Will Often Stand Erect.

Necklines on dresses and coats will be high and lots of dresses will have standing collars. Coats will have enormous collars of fur.

Leg o' mutton sleeves will carry on from last season in the fitted jackets of cocktail suits. These suits, to wear all evening, will have short skirts. They forecast a coming style of shorter evening dresses.

The wools that will make your winter coats and dresses will be soft and silky, and they will have flecks and patterns in bright colors if they are sober. If they are bright they may be flecked with shiny or white hairs from strange animals.

The hats that peer over the top of big fur collars on winter coats will be crazier than ever, and they will come in many different shapes.

With a coat like the Rochas coat shown on No. 1, which is of soft, grazed green wool, the beret of velvet and its big bow front are in rich American beauty red, and the enormous seal collar and fur back bodice are of seal fur, also dyed green to match the coat. The collar of this coat becomes a squared ruff to frame the head, and at the back the basque of fur is draped around the shoulders and has a split peplum.

Lelong's Big, Gathered Sleeves Strictly 1936.

No. 2 shows the winter coat with embroidered sleeves and collar. This coat from Heim comes in the deep purply blue you see in stained glass windows, a soft, smooth wool. The sleeves and the collar are covered with heavy embroidery that is done with a combination of tiny bands of broadtail fur and heavy braid, both black.

No. 3 is Lelong's new coat. It has the big, gathered sleeves that are so new this season. The coat is made of a madonna blue wool frosted with white hairs, and it is trimmed with brown astrakan fur. The large, draped collar of astrakan forms a rounded bolero in front, and the cloth front of the coat closes inside this bolero on four covered buttons. The cuffs of the gathered sleeves are of brown astrakan. The belt is made of brown box calf with metal half moons set on in front. The small hat of violet colored velvet has a chaplet of leaves around like a halo and blue and silver berries placed at the left side. It is a Talbot model.

No. 4 is a coat from Lucile Paray, made of coppery red broadcloth, a red that is called Titian by experts. It's collar is of the same colored astrakhan fur, draped high in front and tied in a big bow at the back of the neck. The sleeves are put on a dropped shoulder with cartridge plaits, and have long, fitted astrakhan cuffs.

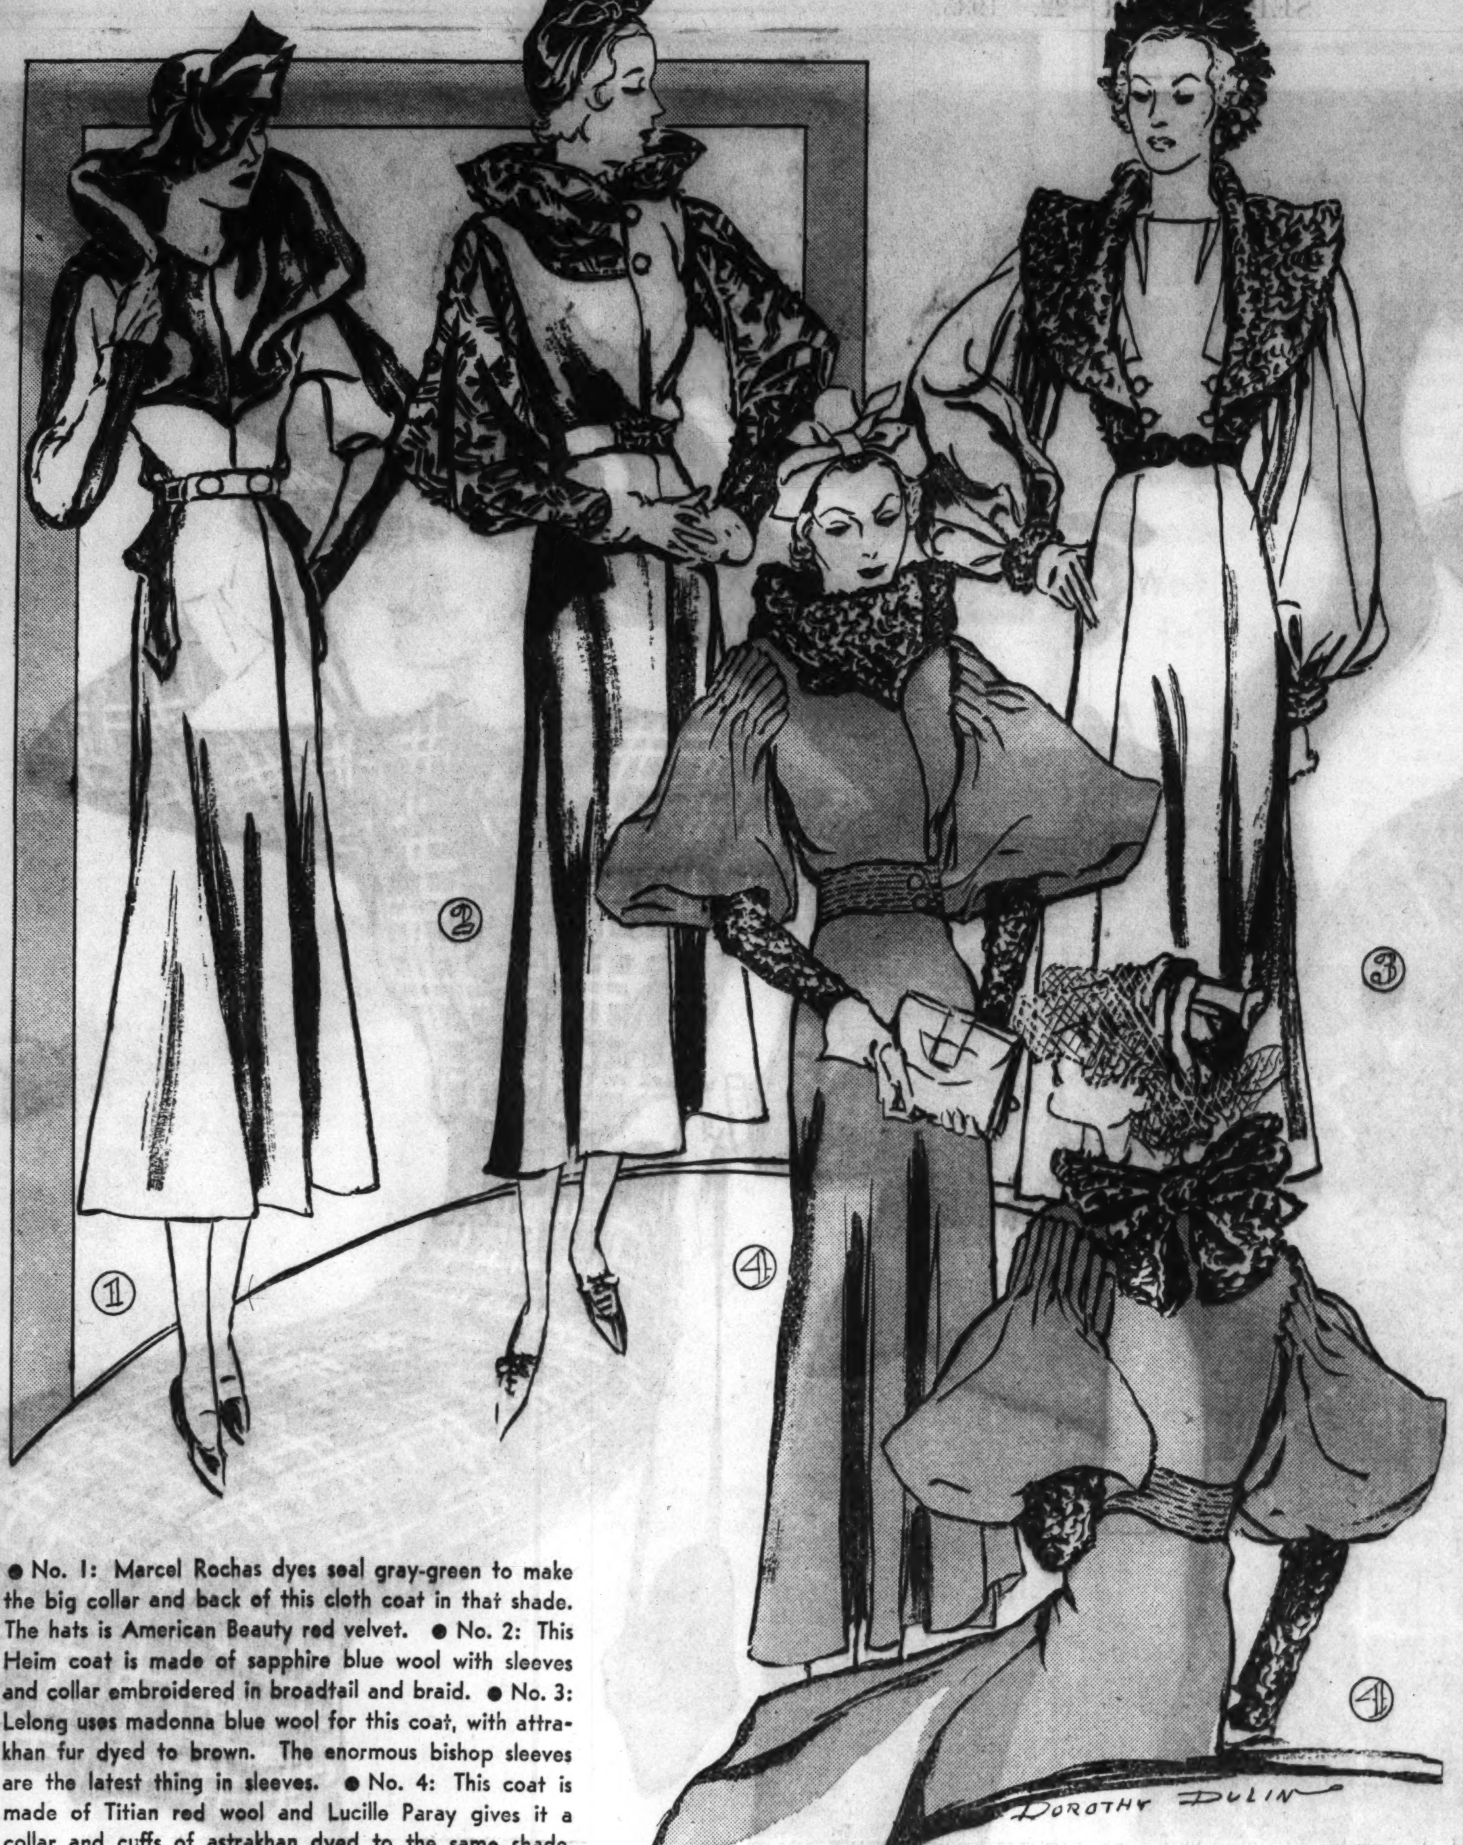
A SYNTHESIS OF PERIODS



● No. 1: Marcel Rochas dyes seal gray-green to make the big collar and back of this cloth coat in that shade. The hats is American Beauty red velvet. ● No. 2: This Heim coat is made of sapphire blue wool with sleeves and collar embroidered in broadtail and braid. ● No. 3: Lelong uses madonna blue wool for this coat, with attrakhan fur dyed to brown. The enormous bishop sleeves are the latest thing in sleeves. ● No. 4: This coat is made of Titian red wool and Lucille Paray gives it a collar and cuffs of astrakhan dyed to the same shade.

Appetizer Tray Gives Pickles Big Welcome

larly if you're accustomed to thinking of it as having little use except as its own sweet-sour self, intact. It proves to be an excellent mingler, when parties are afoot, flattering and pointing up the flavors of various other tidbits in a way that's more than friendly.

To begin with the canapes — and what a bit o' pickle will do for those delights based on bread or toast! This list should prove something, both to you and your guests.

PICKLE-CHEERED CANAPES.

CAVIAR: Mix caviar with finely chopped onion and sweet pickle. Serve on toast or bread cut in small triangles or any fancy shape. With a pastry tube decorate with cream cheese and tiny bits of pickle and pimiento.

ROQUEFORT: Decorate rounds of dill pickle with Roquefort cheese and garnish with bits of pimiento. Serve on little crisp crackers.

TUNA FISH: Make a paste of tuna fish, adding mayonnaise and sweet pickle relish. Spread evenly on thin slices of fresh white bread and roll as you would a jelly roll. Secure with a wood pin, chill, and slice.

ANCHOVY: Drop little mounds of anchovy paste in the center of crisp potato chips. Top each with a tiny slice of pickle.

GOOSE LIVER: Mix goose liver with chopped, crisp bacon, minced pickle, and pimiento. Spread on thin toast or bread cut in fancy shapes, and decorate with mayonnaise and minced parsley.

SARDINE: Lay sardines on thin slices of buttered bread. Decorate with several tiny pickle slices and minced parsley.

PICKLE HORS D'OEUVRES.

Brush whole cooked shrimps lightly with French dressing and place a slice of pickle in the curve of the shrimp.

Mix cream cheese with minced pickle and pimiento. Season and roll up tightly in crisp lettuce leaves, just as you would roll a jelly roll. Chill thoroughly and slice.

Mix yolks of hard cooked eggs with mayonnaise and seasonings. Refill halves and garnish with bits of sweet pickle and caviar.

Cut half way through tiny cocktail sausages. Fill the openings with a nippy cheese spread, and garnish with long, thin pickle slices.

Roll small pickles in slices of boiled ham which have been lined with a pimiento cheese spread. Fasten with wood pin, slice, and serve.

Days Indoors No Bore to Child with a Full Life

Given Materials for Self-Expression, He's Seldom Restless or Unhappy.

By Gladys Huntingdon Bevans.

THE days grow shorter and cooler, and though they love the outdoors, it doesn't call to the children in quite the sweet, beguiling way now that · does in the soft, brilliant days of summer, with their warmth and green and water that invite exploration and play and sports under the blue sky.

Life for children (and for those grownups who like the open) is more physical in the summertime—they are more a part of nature and the elements. But as the air grows snappy, and early darkness makes a brightly lighted living room look inviting, and long, cold, rainy spells make the house seem cozy, and as school starts in earnest, our interests swing again toward more civilized thoughts and pursuits.

Many Mothers Complain Child is Aimless Indoors.

A rather assorted collection of the needs and troubles of mothers has been for several weeks among my notes for articles. Some of the letters which voice them are the result of a weekday article in this column on the subject of special interests and hobbies. Extracts from the whole group of communications ran something like this:

"Will you give me detailed directions for helping my child with the various hobbies you wrote about?" (There were many of these requests.)

"My boy never seems to know what to do with himself when he's at home or has to stay indoors."

"On rainy days my children are so aimless—or they quarrel or get into mischief because they have nothing to do, and are so used to being out."

"My children are always saying to me, 'Mother, I haven't got anything to do—tell me something to do'."

Habitual Boredom Not a Normal State.

To be sure all children have their empty or aimless or bored or discontented times. But I have to work my imagination rather hard to picture the child who habitually doesn't know what to do with himself indoors. The days should be—and are—full and rich and far too short for the child whose life has a normal amount of interest in it. With even some of his potentialities—his inner powers—stimulated by things and people outside himself, he should seldom be as a loss for "something to do," as he expresses it.

This applies to the little child, all of whose activities we call by the name of "play"—a great and serious business to him, requiring the deepest concentration and sometimes all his physical strength! And it applies also to the older boy or girl who no longer calls all that he or she does "play," but thinks of it rather as work or an art or a craft.

"Give a child even partly what he needs as a person and some materials in which to express himself." If, perhaps, all your energy as a mother has been devoted to the right feeding of your child and to keeping him mended and clean—if his physical care has absorbed your thoughts—it may be that you don't know just what I mean by saying, "Give a child what he needs and some materials in which to express himself, and he won't be aimless and empty." Let me explain.

Contacts with Persons, Varied Experiences Vital.

What a child needs to find life interesting is two things: contact with people who are interested in him and varied experiences.

And just what does that mean? It means first—a mother or father who enjoys him and who has a real companionship with him. One who talks with him, listens to him, reads to him, and is sympathetic with his play or plays with him. One who takes him seriously as a person. Then it means, if possible, some companionship with other children though the young child can and does get along without this. So much for the first part of what he does need.

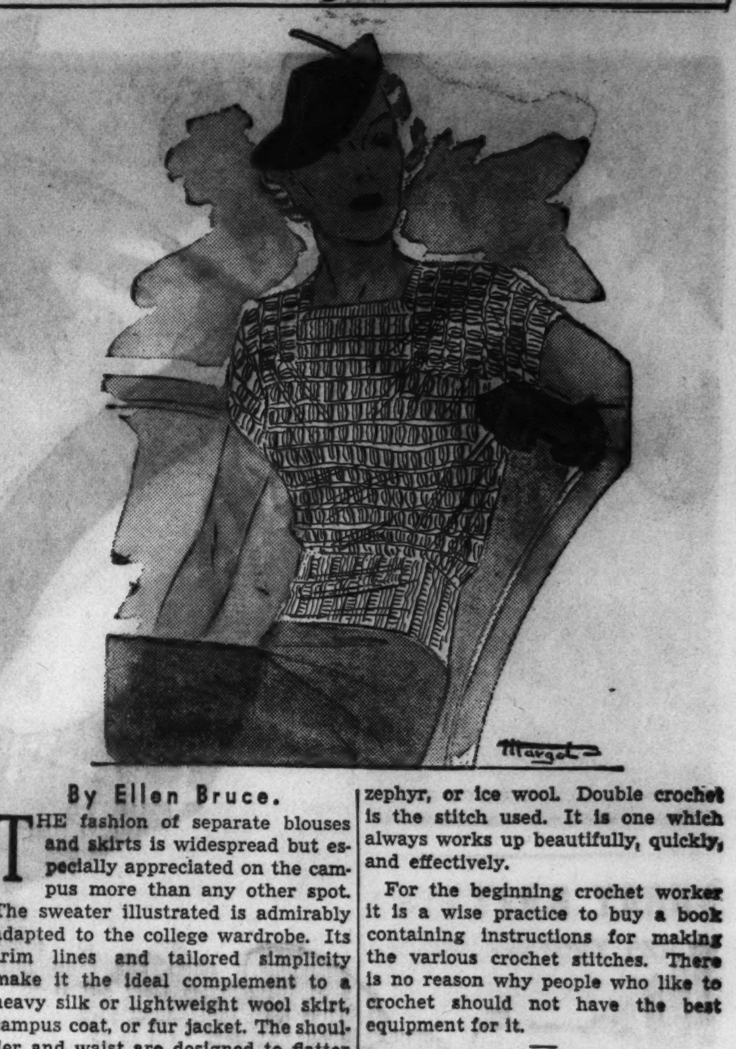
Now for the second part: variety of experience. Don't take for granted what is meant by this, but think it out carefully. If you do, one thing you will realize is that the younger the child, the less he needs experiences outside his home. The first circle of his world is small but intense His dog or cat, his daily trip to the park, or his hours on the grass near home, the grocer delivering food, the plumber with his fascinating kit of tools and grimy face and clothes, the business of getting a shine or a haircut—all are big experiences to him. To this might be added, "helping mother," or sharing father's odd jobs.

A Walk Is a Big Adventure for Small Child.

To the fairly little boy or girl a walk along city streets or country road with a grown person who takes the time or has the patience to talk and observe and explain and discuss is another rich experience. And a prolonged time like a vacation, spent where there are sea and sky and beach and boats—or trees and flowers and wild life and brooks—is another experience especially satisfying to a child because of his closeness to nature and the physical freedom it gives him.

Soon, though, he is ready to reach out, to widen the horizon of his world. A railroad journey thrills him in every detail, and interest in locomotives themselves and pictures of them follow—not to mention a desire for repeated trips to terminal and railroad yards. The zoo holds him for years, and pictures and stories about animals have reality for him after countless happy excursions to the zoological parks.

Crochet Campus Blouse Flatters the Slender Figure of the Co-ed



By Ellen Bruce.

THE fashion of separate blouses and skirts is widespread but especially appreciated on the campus more than any other spot. The sweater illustrated is admirably adapted to the college wardrobe. Its trim lines and tailored simplicity make it the ideal complement to a heavy silk or lightweight wool skirt, campus coat, or fur jacket. The shoulder and waist are designed to flatter the slim figure of the co-ed. Simple stitches and simple lines make it the paramount favorite among crochet blouses for college campus wear. The yarn used may be one of the fine crêpe yarns, fine boucle, saxony, zephyr, or ice wool. Double crochet is the stitch used. It is one which always works up beautifully, quickly, and effectively.

For the beginning crochet worker it is a wise practice to buy a book containing instructions for making the various crochet stitches. There is no reason why people who like to crochet should not have the best equipment for it.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the campus blouse illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Don't Be Fat!

Lovely IRENE RICH says:

"Drink 4 Glasses of Welch's Daily Eat Sensibly—That's All!"

Tests, under a leading doctor's direction, have proven that now you can safely lose fat the Welch way—pleasantly, too—without strict diet or exercise.

Simply mix ¾ Welch's with ¼ glass plain water. Drink a glassful before every meal and one before retiring. Then eat sensibly—that's all! Weight goes down; you actually build quick new energy at same time. So there's no strain, no discomfort. Soon you look—and feel—like a new person!

The reason is simple. For the sugar in delicious Welch's Grape Juice is exactly the same kind the blood uses for energy. It is quickly, easily burned. It not only helps the body burn up fat, but also satisfies your craving for rich, sweet foods. Hence, it helps you lose weight naturally. Get Welch's from your dealer today. Drink 4 glasses a day—eat sensibly. Keep fatigue and fat away.

Beware of Cheap Substitutes

Get only genuine Welch's. For the secret Welch process retains the essential healthful properties of ripe Concord Grapes. Welch's is also one grape juice that is Certified-Pure, Pasteurized; contains no adulterants, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no added water. Always full strength. Can be diluted and still be delicious. Hence Welch's goes farther, too. Ask for it by name. And get what you ask for!

DIRECTIONS FOR TAKING WELCH'S
by DR. FREDERIC DAMRAU,
247 Park Ave., New York

Welch's Grape Juice is a wonderful blood, body builder. Gives buoyant energy. Drink all you want between meals—follow directions below for specific uses.

FOR REDUCING WEIGHT—Eat sensibly—drink a glass of Welch's (3 parts to 1 part water) before meals and before retiring. If faint between meals, drink another glass.

FOR GROWING CHILDREN—Give them ½ glass of Welch's at end of lunch and dinner—between meals, too, instead of sweets Give undiluted to help build red blood, strong bones and teeth.

FOR TIRED, DULL FEELING—When fatigued, drink Welch's (3 parts to 1 part water). Quickly restores energy and relieves fatigue.

FOR EXPECTANT MOTHERS—Drink glass of Welch's (3 parts to 1 part water) after lunch and dinner, or between-meals when energy is low. Helps build blood, bones and teeth for the child. Excellent for nursing mothers, too.

Buttons and Perky Velvet Bow Trim Indispensable Blouse for Autumn Wear.

By Clotilde.

NO wardrobe, especially one for autumn, is complete without at least one blouse. Not only are suits an established fall fashion, but smart women find the revived mode for separate blouses and skirts indispensable for business, school, and afternoon functions of a less formal nature.

Pattern No. 2625 presents a blouse design which is both graceful and practical. It varies the simplicity of the shirtwaist with a perky bow and buttons set in a trim row down the front.

The original of this lovely fashion is created in chartreuse green crêpe. The buttons are covered with the material of the blouse, and the tricky little bow contrasts fashionably with brown velvet.

Another suggestion for this design is crêpe silk or satin, and the model may be varied with short sleeves instead of long ones.

Style No. 2625 is designed for sizes 14, 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

Size 36 requires 2⅜ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 1 inch ribbon for the bow.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

—By Eleanor Nangle—

FLUTTERING about recently where the sweet young things gather, we learned that an old and honored cologne now is in high favor with them. It's THE thing to use, one youngster informed us, and when we asked why, we were told with wide eyed naïvete that just EVERY ONE in her set is using it now.

The cologne echoes the scent of a popular perfume, one that's definitly on the sweet, romantic side, and the girls adore using it because it has zip and freshness and as a beauty accessory completes the toilette to perfection.

It's inexpensive enough to be used with youthful abandon without flattening the pocketbook. Some toss it in the bath water to scent it faintly and thus use it as a rubdown after the bath because it leaves the skin feeling remarkably fresh and delightfully but not too heavily perfumed. The youngsters, it seems, have become wise to the old beauty rule that the fragrance one uses never must be obvious and that the method in which one uses never must make it smother the innocent bystander.

A bit of cologne dashed on the hair is an excellent idea. Perfume rarely does for hair because as the hair soils the real scent of the perfume goes completely haywire.

This cologne which has the indorsement of the young and the mature alike is distinctly youthful in its flavor and, as we have said, quite romantic.

According to one girl whom we quizzed, the idea is this: Use the cologne as a body rub and use it generously. Use it, too, after washing the hands. Pop a bit on the hair. Used thusly there always is around one a light whisper of a faint, pretty perfume and always the feeling of crispness that's such a psychological asset. If you want to carry out the ensemble idea you supplement the generous use of the cologne with the clever use of the perfume in the same fragrance.

[For information about this cologne and perfume telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100, or write her care of The Chicago Tribune.]

Youth learns about colognes. It's the thing now for the sweet young thing to use it lavishly as a body rub and to supplement its use with an occasional bit of perfume in the same scent.

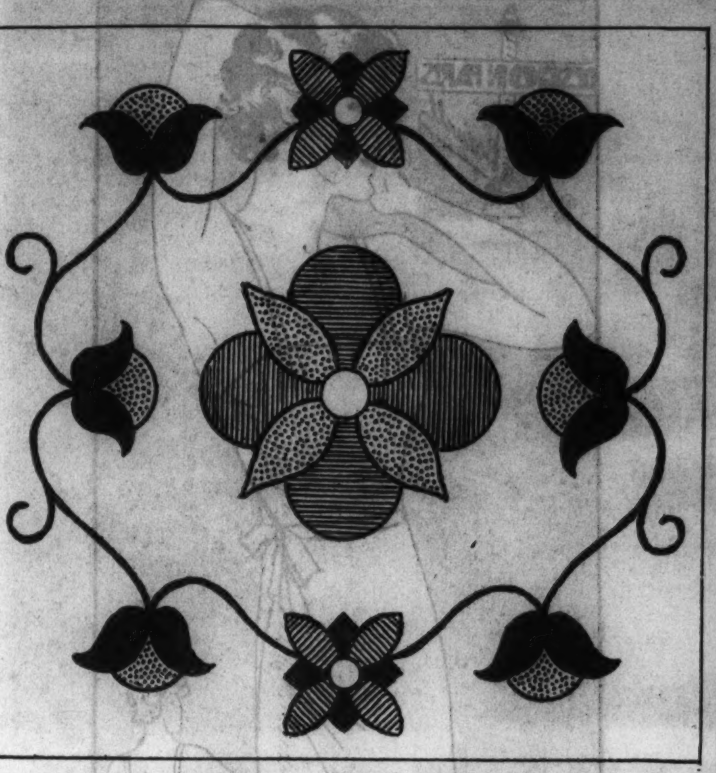
White and Ebony Combined in New Salad Ensemble

FOR the hostess who always is a step ahead of her friends with smart new touches for her table, a stunning effect is made possible with a flawless chalk white or cream tinted salad bowl, flaked with a genuine ebony salad fork and spoon, a combination of black and white, both striking and unusual. These salad sets come in two styles; the pointed antique design as shown in lovely silverware, or solid block square handles, either an excellent selection. A classic white Wedgewood salad bowl with ebony contrast, green and red combinations of vegetables or fruit, result in perfect table settings.

Wooden Tray Is Well Equipped for Salad Making

A NEW salad tray recently has appeared, amid much delighted clamor, in several stores and shops around the city. A charming wooden tray, in a wide assortment of color combinations, of which the cream and green, or natural with scarlet, is particularly effective, bears all the necessary utensils for flipping together any mixed salad. A large wooden bowl, with chromium, wood, and glass fork and spoon, centers this salad master, while attractive cruets for oil and vinegar fit into snug hollows at one side. Wooden shakers for seasonings slip into the other.

"Swedish Peasant Design" Is Newcomer to the Quilt World



SWEDISH PEASANT DESIGN.

By Nancy Cabot.

"SWEDISH Peasant Design" is new in the quilt world, purely because it is a pattern which is little known. Once it becomes acquainted it will enjoy the height of popularity. The quilt consists of one 36-inch block similar to the illustration. In each of the four corners of the quilt the floral motif is repeated and it is finished with a wide band matching the floral design. "Swedish Peasant Design" offers an opportunity for expert quilters to exercise all their ingenuity in an attractive quilting design.

Screenization of Color Leads to Redhead Fad

Film Stylist Offers Tips on Frock and Makeup Hues to Suit Titians.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

IT is difficult to determine just how much truth there is to the Hollywood report that the redheads are in for a vogue now that the platinum blondes are due for a "fade-out."

True or not, the redheads are getting more attention and study in Hollywood circles now than they have experienced before. I am told that the introduction of colors to the screen is responsible for the redhead popularity. The platinum blonde, it is said, screened well when the camera recorded only monotones, for her hair caught the highlights better than did that of the natural blonde. But now, it is reported, the girl with gold and red lights and warm honey-colored tones registers best in technicolor. Black and brown hair, too, have more character for color than they have on the black and white screen, but if you can produce a good redhead you are by way of becoming a Hollywood favorite, I understand.

Search for Redheads Nets Contracts for 48 Girls.

A nationwide search for redheaded beauties was instituted by the Fox studios a while ago. More than 1,000 candidates were rounded up, interviewed, and tested. Forty-eight drew lucky numbers, or contracts. The hair shades varied from a luscious ruddy blonde to the deep auburn shades. Dixie Lee changed her blonde tresses to Titian for the production in which the other redheads appeared.

It is not known whether this descent of redheads upon the Hollywood scene inspired the revived interest in the hair color or whether it was because there they were and something had to be done about glamorizing them, according to the Hollywood code. In any event, the smart young dress designer of Fox studios, William Lambert, was put to work to plot colors and designs, the better to glorify the flaming tressed sisters.

was taken in hand first. Several of her costumes introduce striking shades which blend with her hair and complexion beautifully. A copper brown faille crêpe, trimmed with white, topped off with a brown breton sailor, with white grosgrain ribbon, did a good many charming things for the brown eyed redhead. An ice blue satin, with back panel of silver bugles, and a silver lamé scarf, proved fairly sensational. A black lacquered satin, trimmed with white waffle piqué, and also several white dresses, illustrate Stylist Lambert's idea of the staple colors for a redhead. Brilliant colors, you'll note, are availed. Mr. Lambert reports that the redhead is apt to make her mistake by overemphasizing her own coloring with a wrong dress color selection.

"The redhead," Mr. Lambert argues, "needs no artificial stimulus to set her apart from the others. Her selection of colors should serve only as a frame for her brilliance. They are complimentary only when they are not competitive.

"While a color chart might serve as a guide for all redheaded girls, the tones she may wear vary a trifle according to the shade of red. The red gold blonde, for instance, who has a clear, creamy complexion and blue green eyes, can wear more colors than the girl with the carrot red hair. The latter usually has that fair skin that freckles easily, or burns rather than tans. Most of the pastel shades of blue, green, the off-shades of white, black, soft beige, blue grays, and all the deeper shades of blue and brown look well on this type. Ice blue, aquamarine, and turquoise, alone or in combination, are becoming. Flattering contrasts especially recommended for this type are pale gray and midnight blue, rose beige or eggshell and brown. This latter combination is recommended particularly for the brown eyed redhead, whether her hair happens to be of the lighter or darker tones.

"The red-gold blonde wears all of the colors mentioned for the carrot redhead equally well, and a few more shades of green. Here is something to remember about brilliant green, and guide yourself accordingly. This shade heightens the tones of pink and red, and if the complexion has a tendency to be florid, rather than creamy, it must be avoided, because it makes the skin too pink, and pink skin and red hair somehow don't mix.

"Next comes the copper shade of red, the most brilliant of all. So much depends upon the color of the eyes and the shade of complexion to give advice to this group. Blue eyed or green eyed girls with coppery hair have a wide selection of colors, particularly for evening, when greens, blues, and white are most flattering.

Auburn Hair with Hazel Eyes Combination Suited to Pastels.

"The auburn tones, light and dark, frequently go with hazel or brown eyes. One of the loveliest girls I ever saw had a light shade of auburn hair, with eyes that were almost the same in coloring, and she was tanned to a lovely shade of bronze. She wore white and the off-shades in pastels almost consistently for evening, and was glorious in turquoise blue."

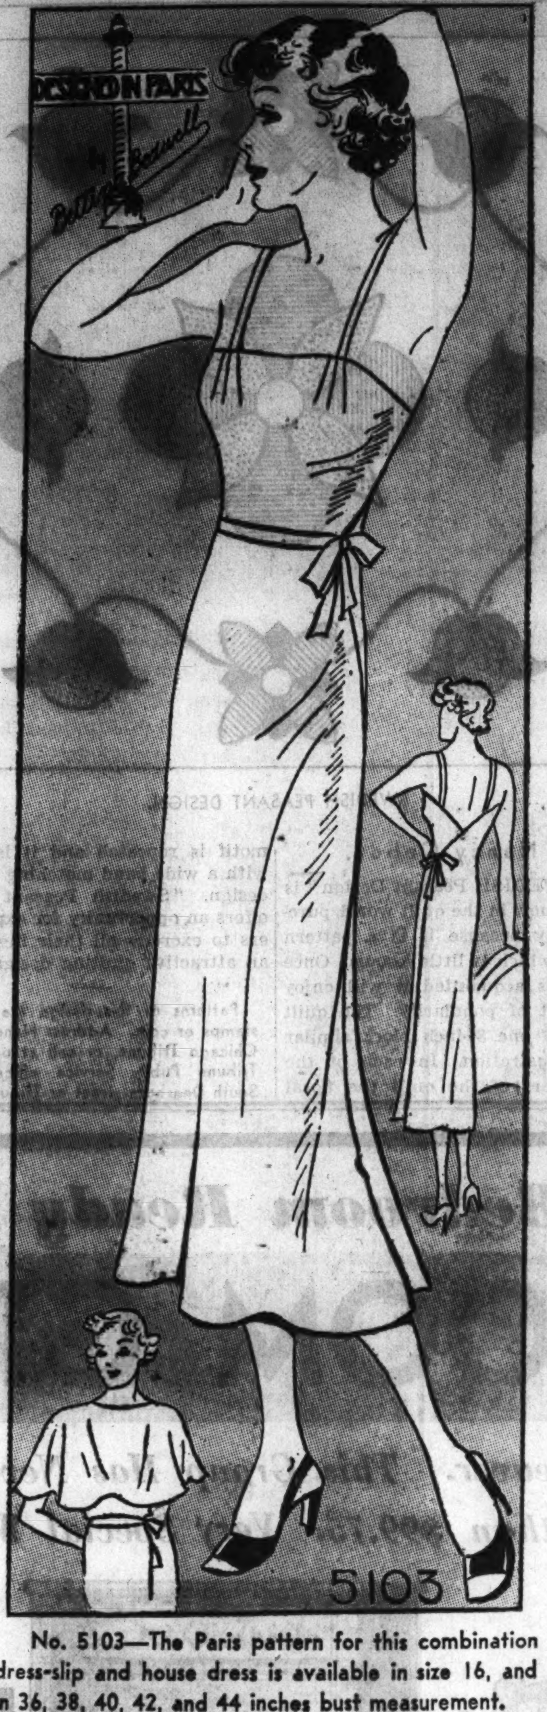
Housewives Will Like Paris Pattern Dress-Slip Ensemble



No. 5103—The Paris pattern for this combination dress-slip and house dress is available in size 16, and in 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS. — [Special.] — This is a dress-slip pattern, No. 5103, taken from a French model which, combined with the slip-over bertha, may be worn around the house in the morning when you are on duty at home. The slip is a wrap-around which clings to the figure, and may be worn under your dresses if you like, and when the deep bertha is slipped on over it, you have a charming frock.

The slip pattern is excellent, and has the advantage that it may be ironed flat, and is easy to keep clean and fresh. Paris lingerie makers create this in pink crêpe de chine, and the bertha of the same material. The Parisienne uses the bertha to slip over her shoulders when she is at her dressing table busy with her makeup and combing her hair.

This model should be made of washable fabric if you want to have it in light colors. Otherwise it is practical in dark shades in material that is cleaned rather than laundered.

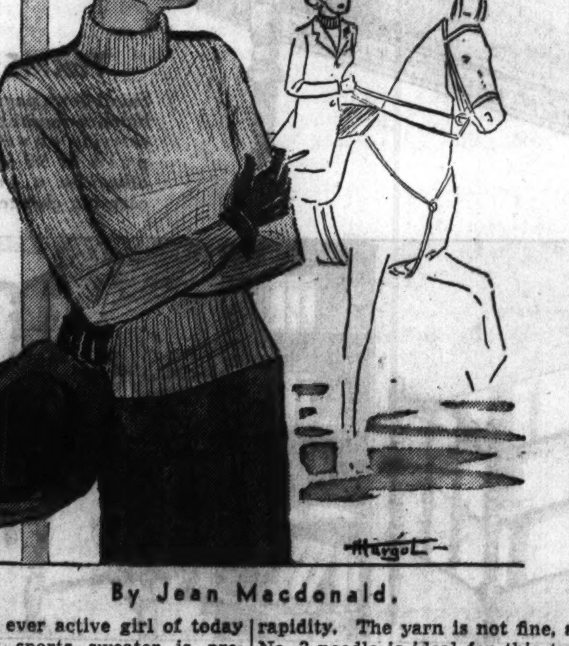
Snug Sweater Is Indispensable Part of Fall Sports Equipment



By Jean Macdonald.

FOR the ever active girl of today a new sports sweater is presented—one which may be worn on the links, riding horseback, or—with a skirt to match—to the football game, under the heavy topcoat. It's strange how adaptable those great bulky football sweaters worn by the players of the '90s are to modern youth and beauty.

The lovely soft cashmere and sports yarns are just the thing for a sweater of this type, because they are warm and comfortable without being bulky. Most of the cashmere and sports yarns are available in the solid colors and tweed mixtures. Time is an element to be considered in making any sweater, and this one may be knitted in one week without any undue concentration, because the ribbing of knit one and purl one and the stockinette stitch are two knitting techniques which work up with great rapidity. The yarn is not fine, and a No. 3 needle is ideal for this type of work.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Coming of Cold Weather Doubles Requests of Poor for Articles of Furniture and Clothes to Make Their Barren Existence Comfortable.

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

By Sally Joy Brown.

THE first hint of cold weather doubles the worries and anxieties of the poor. Early dusk brings gloom to homes without gas or electricity, basements become danker at the summer's end, and rooms barren of furniture are chill and drafty. We have regular appeals for furniture of all kinds, but within the last few weeks requests have doubled.

If you're moving or redecorating, won't you let us place any discarded articles that still are useful? If you glance over a few of the following letters listing the numerous needs of persons unable to provide for themselves I'm sure you'll want to help in every way possible.

Our first request comes from the wife of a minister on the far south side:

"Dear Miss Brown: My husband and I are operating a community center, where we attempt to help all we can.

"A family was brought to my attention yesterday, with four children living in a six room flat with no living room or dining room furniture. The large bare rooms were clean and had curtains, but not even a chair. We cannot supply furniture and I would appreciate whatever aid you could give in filling these rooms. A dresser also would be appreciated, and some bedding can be used nicely."—Mrs. T. L.

Mrs. M. P. is greatly in need of a rug to cover the floor of her front room, as the house in which she lives is poorly constructed and a covering is needed to keep the cold air from coming through the cracks in the floor. She has been deserted by her husband, but is trying hard to make a home for her three little girls. She has been away from them a great deal while at work and is happy to be with them again. The home is on the outskirts of the city where there are few conveniences or advantages.

The L. family on the south side has neither gas nor electricity in the home, and has requested kerosene reading lamps, a garbage burner, and a wash tub. Can you supply any one of these articles?

F. L., a caseworker, has requested furniture for one of her clients. The family, consisting of a deserted wife and five small children, has been living in a shelter and should have a home as soon as possible. Furniture of all kinds is needed.

Small Talk of New Fashions

- Fall handbags, bigger and better than ever, are in . . . stunning creations for street clothes, designed with corners of metal, huge bracelet handles, featuring brown suede in every imaginable shade. One finds quilted suedes, stitched suedes, suede bags that are lether lined and those that are silk lined, with plenty of pockets. And nearly all the newest models are made with plenty of zippered compartments.

- One of the smartest tweed ensembles in town consists of a tweed mixture in leaf green, yellow, and scarlet rough wool made into a jaunty high short brimmed hat, collar scarf, and the trickiest gloves ever unpacked. The colorful tweed is on top, with the palms and inner fingers of smooth wool, and then attached on the wrist on top are flowers of the tweed.

- Braid, yards of it, trims the smartest of daytime clothes. It makes frogs. One finds rows of braid in loops and whirls on epaulets, fancy cuffs, and pocket flaps. In every conceivable place you can sew braid you'll find it. Next, the trimmings of Persian lamb, narrow bands of it goring around cuffs, collars, across shoulders, and banding capes. It's the most popular fur trim of the season.

- Metallic ribbon, from four to ten inches wide, in stunning color combinations, can be used for neckscarfs. Fringe the end of a piece thirty inches long, or longer, depending upon what you use it for, and the scarf is done. Tritone combinations, dotted patterns, and Roman stripes crossed with either silver or gold are tremendously effective with all dark wools or velveteens.

- Suede lether jackets are softer than ever before. The lether is as supple as wool. The colors are knockout new rusty reds, spicy browns, leaf greens, some pale beige, and all the formerly successful dark browns. The models are available in both short waist lengths and the longer hipline numbers. The short models are held in place with side straps; the long models have belts and straps only at the wrist. They are made for plenty of actions. The sleeves are loose and comfortable, and most of the jackets button warmly, in double breasted manner, way up to the high fitted collar line. They are lined with a good slippery material so that you can get them on and off in a jiffy. The pockets are deep and also lined.

Guest Dinner May Be Served Without Maid

Careful Preparation and Imagination Aid the Servantless Hostess.

Miss Bartlett will be glad to answer questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior. For a personal reply, enclose a self addressed, stamped envelope with your letter.

By Helen Bartlett.

A COMPANY dinner served without the assistance of a maid requires imagination and efficiency on the part of the hostess if it is to be done with grace and dispatch. There are thousands of women who are the managers of servantless households, some by choice and the rest by necessity, who are clever and charming hostesses. But it does demand ingenuity, a great deal of planning and originality, too, if the results are to be outstanding.

The table must be set correctly, and attractively, I might add. The food must be cooked and served in as appetizing a manner as possible. And the menu must be planned and dishes prepared sufficiently in advance so that the hostess will not find it necessary to leave her guests at the table any oftener than she can possibly help. It is quite within reason that she could have every course and every detail of serving so perfectly arranged that she would not have to enter the kitchen until time to serve the dessert course.

The thing to avoid is too much elaboration. The table should be set well in advance of the hour for which dinner is scheduled. The centerpiece or other table decoration should be arranged early, too. The menu should consist of dishes that are easily served. Casseroles are an excellent answer to the problem. The foods should be prepared, cooked, and arranged on serving plates so that they may be brought to the table, hot and appetizing, at the last moment.

Things will be simplified if a first course is selected that may be served in the living room. Liquor cocktails, tomato juice or fruit juices with canapes are an ideal solution. At the dining table the hostess will find it a great convenience to place a serving table or tea cart at her right side, within easy reach. This table will accommodate extra silver, salad and salad plates, coffee and coffee cups, if coffee is to be served at the table, extra rolls and butter, and a large beverage pitcher.

At the completion of the main course, the used china also may be placed on this serving table in the space occupied by the salad bowl and salad plates. If the hostess prefers, the salad may be mixed and ready to serve. However, to dress and serve the salad at the table may be made a gracious little ceremony.

In order to remove the salad plates and serve the dessert, the hostess will find it necessary to go into the kitchen, perhaps for the first time, if details have been well planned in advance. And this will not take long if the dessert is ready to make its appearance.

Coffee may be served with the dessert course, in which case the hostess pours the coffee from her position at the table. It does add formality to the occasion, however, if demi-tasse is served in the living room. The hostess may do as she likes about that. Her decision may depend on how much equipment she possesses and what facilities she has for serving demi-tasse.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold as the Stamp Exchange contains offers to buy and sell. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

RECENTLY a wail was made by one who paid the postage due when postoffice inspectors discovered written matter inclosed with a parcel prepaid at a lower rate. He speaks of this as a racket, and it may seem so to a person who in attempting to save 3 cents suddenly finds that he is stuck for a dollar or more.

Since man first entrusted his letters to the post he has been at his wits' ends to avoid paying the postage. When letters were sent collect they were often refused if the sight of a friend's handwriting gave assurance of his health. Gen. Taylor is said to have very nearly missed his own inauguration as President by refusing to pay for the letter announcing his election.

Many Tried Cheating on Number of Sheets.

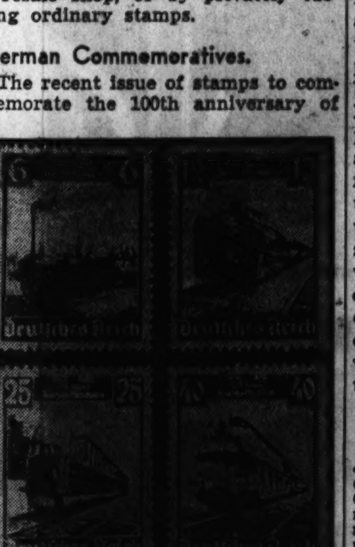
In those days rates for letters were determined by the number of sheets of paper, and collectors often found folded covers bearing the indorsement "single," but which contained an extra sheet of paper, or even another inclosed letter.

The competition which confronts the postoffice department in its so-called monopoly of carrying mail makes it necessary to draw the lines pretty close. Seasonal greetings may be inclosed with packages without cost, and first class letters may be attached to packages to ensure their arriving at the same time.

The payment of extra charges on reclassified mail is a minor penalty when compared with the treatment received by those who shave their postage bills by buying pre-cancels at a resale shop, or by privately tubbing ordinary stamps.

German Commemoratives.

The recent issue of stamps to commemorate the 100th anniversary of railroads in Germany is illustrated today. The 6 pf. shows the Eagle, the first locomotive in that country; the 12 pf. shows a modern locomotive, the 25 pf. has the Flying Hamburger, a motor driven train, and the 40 pf. a recent streamlined locomotive.



National Stamp Week.

The idea of a national stamp week has been received with enthusiasm by the philatelic clubs of the United States, and arrangements are being made for local exhibitions, bourses, etc., throughout the country. The week of Nov. 4 to 10 has been selected, and it is hoped that the period may be dedicated by a radio address by a collector of national reputation.

The Port of Matanzas, Cuba, was made a free zone on May 2, 1935. Mr. Albert Loechl of Chicago received this first day cover, bearing several cachets and inscriptions, and carried free through the international mails, as if on official business.

California Pacific Stamps.

The postoffice department, through the Postal Bulletin, advises postmasters that it still has ample stocks of the California Pacific commemorative stamps on hand and will be glad to receive requisitions in any amount. From this it appears that the apparent scarcity of the stamps in the daily mail is due to a dislike of large stamps rather than to a shortage.

Belgian Mail Coach.

The latest addition to the commemorative stamps of Belgium is shown in the illustration herewith. The subject of the design is an early mail coach, such as were used in many countries to carry mail and passengers prior to the advent of the railroads. Three values were issued: 10c, 25c, and 35c, each being sold at a premium over face value. They were printed by a photogravure process and should not be placed in benzine in a search for watermarks. Many collectors fail to heed the repeated warnings and ruin nice stamps with benzine. Perhaps all recent issues printed by photogravure, or rotogravure, as we know it, will be more or less ruined by a soaking in any one of the various watermark detectors, for one or more of these very liquids is used to thin down the printing ink. Mr. J. J. Neis of Chicago loaned the cover from which this stamp illustration was taken.

Boulder Dam Stamp.

A 3-cent violet stamp to commemorate the completion of Boulder Dam will be placed on sale, Sept. 28, at Boulder City, Nev. Collectors desiring first day covers may send not to exceed 10 addressed covers, with a money order remittance payable to the postmaster at Boulder City, Nev., covering the face value of the stamps required for affixing. Owing to the lateness of this announcement all packages of covers bearing postmarks up to and including Sept. 28, will be accepted at Boulder City.

Cachet Notices.

Beacovers, 3031 Freestman street, Baltimore, Md., will sponsor a cachet on Oct. 30, the anniversary of the birth of President John Adams. Stamped and addressed covers must be in Baltimore by Oct. 15, and 1 cent forwarding charge should accompany each cover.

The Lee Memorial Foundation will sponsor a cachet for the dedication, on Oct. 12, of Stratford hall, the seat of the Lee patriots. Full information from Virginia Hale, Stratford Hall Cachet committee, Front Royal, Va. Deadline for covers is Oct. 5.

Paul Proehl, Wartburg college, Clinton, Ia., will sponsor a presidential cachet on Oct. 5, the anniversary of the birth of Chester A. Arthur. Stamped and addressed covers, unsealed and unstuffed, should be in Clinton, Sept. 25, and should be accompanied by 1 cent in loose stamps for forwarding. The cover will be mailed from Fairfield, Vt.

The Presidential series of cachets sponsored by Dr. Henry Neulander, 320 Central Park West, New York, N. Y., includes the commemoration of the anniversaries of Chester A. Arthur on Oct. 5, John Adams on Oct. 30, and James K. Polk and Warren G. Harding on Nov. 2. Full details should be obtained from the sponsor.

Local Collector in Broadcast.

Station WLS will carry a stamp broadcast on Tuesday, Sept. 24, from 12 to 12:15 p. m. Mr. Joseph Unseitig Jr., a local collector and member of various stamp clubs in Chicago will be the guest of Phil LaMar Anderson, in an "intimate interview," and will explain some of the phases of the hobby.

The Pan American Airways' Clipper has been delayed in starting the round trip to Guam, via Hawaii, and the deadline for covers at the San Francisco office of the company has been fixed for Sept. 26. Send covers by airmail.

House Children Live in Needs Special Design

Chicago Home Remodeled to Fit Every Need of Juveniles Opens Tuesday.

Interested in "Keeping Warm—for Less Money" this winter? Send for this new booklet by Louise Bargelt; it is 3 cents at Public Service offices, Tribune Tower and 1 South Dearborn; 5 cents by Mail.

By Louise Bargelt.

A UNIQUE and fascinating modernization project has just been finished at 4445 Greenview avenue, Chicago. It opens officially next Tuesday, Sept. 24, and will remain open to the public for a year. It is the Child Life home, a 35 year old house completely transformed into a home which will meet the needs of a family of growing children.

Before work started on this house it was just an average, every day, old-fashioned house of the '90s. Solidly built, well finished, well kept up, but not designed or furnished with any thought for the children! A home in which it was hard for the mother to train her children in habits of orderliness, since there were so few places, really, where the children could play with their toys and then store them away at the day's end. Few hooks in closet or wardrobe were low enough to enable small children to hang up their own clothes without assistance from their mother.

Music Room Turned Into a Sunny, Cheerful Niche.

So this home was modernized room by room.

The living room, once heavy, ponderous, none too well lighted, with massive furniture, was given new lighting, more windows, decorated in soft colors, and furnished with low chairs of harmonious design. The music room—remember the music room in old homes of years ago?—was changed into a sunny niche, a cheerful, easy-to-practice-in room with built-in bookcases and an atmosphere of quiet happiness.

An old time garret it had, of course, but this has been renovized into a guest room, gay and colorful; a spot where guests of all ages, young and old, can be entertained. And the old-time cellar was given a new lease on its existence by being converted into an ultra modern basement recreation room.

Bath Fixtures Put Within Child's Reach.

From basement to attic this home displays a feeling for comfort and beauty. It will have a strong effect on the child's healthy development both physically and mentally.

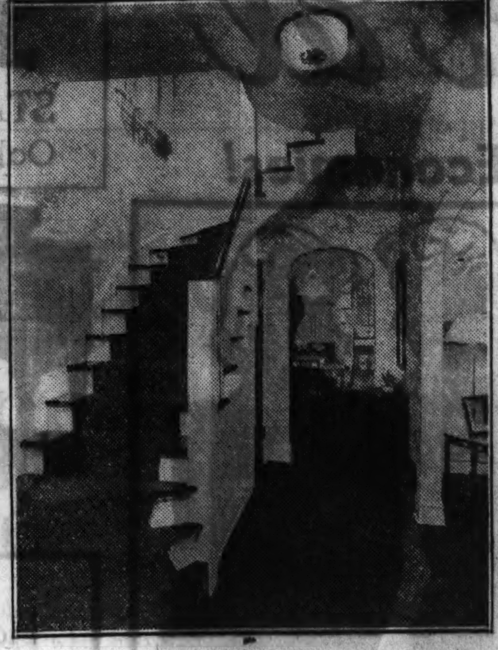
The new bath has fixtures which the children can reach easily. In the kitchen the different units of equipment are installed with the same idea in mind—to make it a simpler matter for the younger tots to help!

On the first floor the space under the great old stairway was employed as an attractive little closet, with low hooks which the children can reach and hang their clothes on. A spot like this on the first floor of a house, where the children can put away their outdoor wraps as soon as they come in, saves many steps for the mother and makes it much easier for her to teach children habits of order.

An interesting piece of work, showing how an average house can be modernized inexpensively and effectively. This reconstruction has been going on inside and out for nearly eight months. Now that this week will see its opening, those at all intrigued with modernization and the ever arresting subject of building and furnishing the house for a family of growing children will find much to interest them in a visit to the home.

YOUTHFUL MOODS IN DECORATION

Here we see an old staircase in a modernized home with the old china closet in the dark dining room projecting into space under it. There are heavy oak frames over the doorways, and an old-fashioned ceiling light.



Here rails and bannisters have been changed, old stairs repainted, doorways into living room and dining room have been arched, and where once was the old china closet is now a children's closet with hooks for coats and hats.

In days of old most children occupied just such an average bedroom as this, neat, abundantly furnished, but a room not in any way their own. It was simply a place in which to sleep and to dress. But since ideas change rapidly, this room is now newly equipped with furnishings in the attractive, modern manner.

New lighting fixtures have been installed, that young eyes may not be subjected to strain, the Venetian blinds, which will shut out the light when the children sleep, the wall covering which is washable, and combination bookcase and cabinet—with a place for each toy and book. An ideal spot for the young!

A basement playroom, modernized especially for the children! A room which can cater to the taste of the child from 2 to 12—and even older, or younger, as the case may be. Children pass through various stages, and if there is no nursery school for them to attend, such a spot as this, with toys which are durable and encourage constructive play, is of infinite value.

Furniture of Early England Copied in Oak

Sturdiness of This Ancient Wood Defies Wear; Also Used for Modern Pieces.

"Beautiful Bedrooms," a booklet by Edith Weigle, gives helpful suggestions for furnishing three types: early American, colonial, and modern. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

IN our little talks on furniture woods we have recently discussed the merits of mahogany, walnut, and maple. Let us now look at one of the oldest of all woods used in this industry, oak, of which there are sixty species in the United States alone. Only about fourteen of these types, however, are of commercial value as furniture woods. They mostly fall in two great classes: those called white oaks, and those known as red or black.

Long before mahogany or walnut was used oak was employed to make huge chests, court cupboards, trestle tables, and massive, carved, solid back chairs. All furniture of the Jacobean period in England was of oak. Today in Westminster Abbey in London you can still see the shrine of Edward the Confessor. It is of dark colored oak and is sound after 800 years.

Oak Used for Most 17th Century Furniture.

Most of the first furniture brought into and made in this country in the 17th century was of oak. You find some of it to this day in New England and in Virginia. The Metropolitan museum in New York has a splendid collection of it.

A Grand Rapids furniture company makes copies of these early English pieces, following faithfully the decoration and form. To show how oak will take hard treatment we watched a husky man scrape his foot across the doors of a cabinet and then kick it. Not a mark or scratch appeared.

Furniture of this massive, Jacobean period should be used in large, high ceilinged rooms, never in small city apartments or small homes, for it requires plenty of space to be shown to advantage, and also it takes up a lot of room.

Given Light, Natural Finish in Modern Pieces.

A brand new departure in oak furniture is the line being made by a well known manufacturer near Chicago and sold here in several stores. It is not traditional in any sense, but frankly modern and is designed by Gilbert Rohde. It's intended for the family living on a medium or small budget and it is outstanding in its simple, good lines and pleasing, light natural finish.

The oak is simply waxed so that you see the beauty of the grain. The color is a light, warm beige. In the bedroom pieces you have your choice of several charming, pastel colored finishes, the most attractive being a light gray accented in rose.

Dinette Chest Includes Linen and Liquor Cabinet.

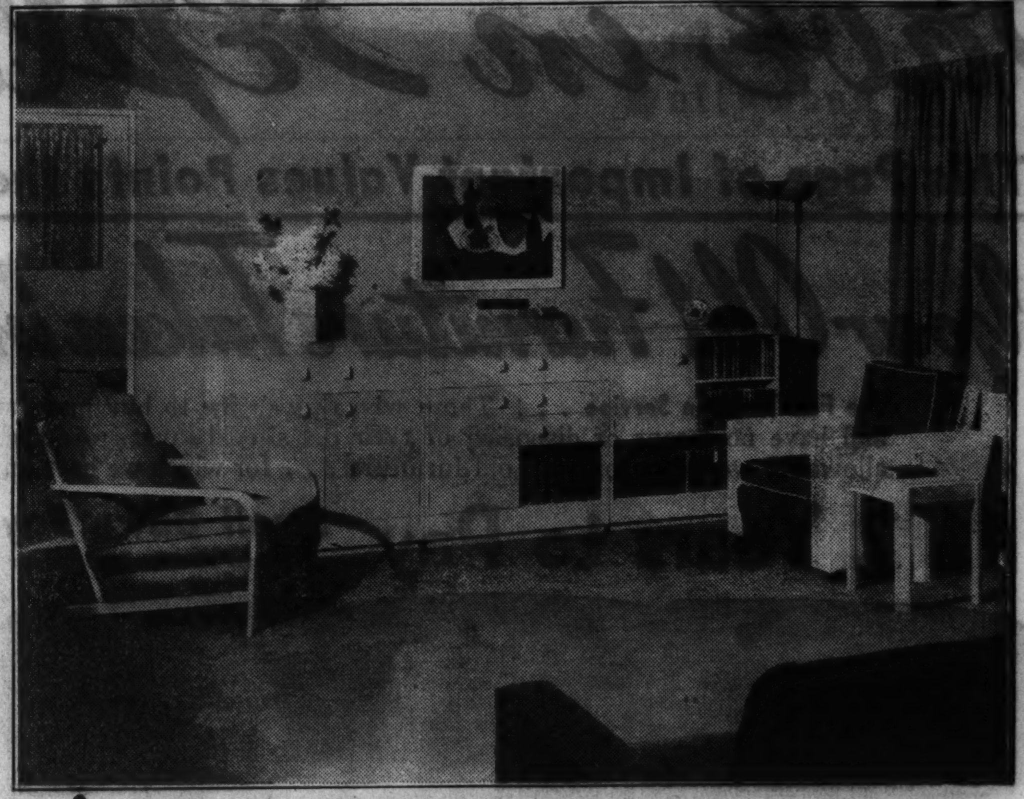
The picture today shows a view of a combination living-dining-sleeping room in which this modern oak furniture is used. The three units placed together against the wall are, reading from left to right: a dinette utility chest, a desk, and a bookcase. These are designed so they may be used singly or in any desired grouping.

The dinette chest has a lined silver tray and a lower cabinet for linen, liquor, etc. The desk-cabinet has a writing compartment and the bookcase has a cabinet the correct height for bottles and an adjustable shelf large enough for a midget radio—or a panel can be inserted and a radio built in.

The armchair at the left uses bentwood construction, making possible extremely light weight, yet insuring strength. In its new type of seat no upholstery is attached to the frame, so the cushions can be re-covered economically, even by the housewife herself if she wishes. We think this one of the cleverest ideas we've come across in a long time.

All the furniture described and pictured is available in a Chicago store.

OLD TIMBER IN NEW MOLDS



One of the strongest of all furniture woods is oak. It has been used for centuries. Here you see it fashioning pieces in the modern vein, designed by Gilbert Rohde, and given a charming, light, natural finish. No dark stain or ugly varnish is used. Selling at a medium price, these items are available in a Chicago department store. The cabinets are separate units.

Gay Boxes Establish System and Order on Closet Shelves and in Bureau Drawers

Hats, Shoes, and Lingerie Now Have Distinctive Initialed Containers.

"Furnishing Your Home on a Modest Budget," a new booklet by Claire Winslow, tells how to have attractive rooms without running up large bills. It is full of helpful suggestions. Price, 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Claire Winslow.

OPEN a closet door, and you see—order or chaos. Two little things reveal a woman's housekeeping more than any other: the states of her clothes closets and her bureau drawer. It's not a bit hard to be neat, fresh, and crisp looking these days, for most of the stores have special closet shops or departments devoted to all the little gadgets that make for orderliness and beauty behind this closed door.

You can get hat, lingerie, shoe, and general utility boxes covered in the most delectable colors, the fabrics being easily cleaned by wiping with a soapy cloth. And to prevent confusion when two share the same closet apply those clever little cut-out initials to the boxes. They come prepared. All you do is moisten them and stick them on. You can get them in several different styles.

Modern Closet Contrasts with Room.

The picture today, taken in a large Chicago department store, shows the pretty little fitted closet off a brown and white bedroom. The boxes you see so neatly ranged on the shelves are done in a silky looking washable fabric in browns, and the paste-me-up initials are in cream. The walls are papered in an adorable daisy pattern in yellow, brown, and white, and the convenient utility shelves at the right are white. On the floor is inlaid white linoleum with a brown stripe.

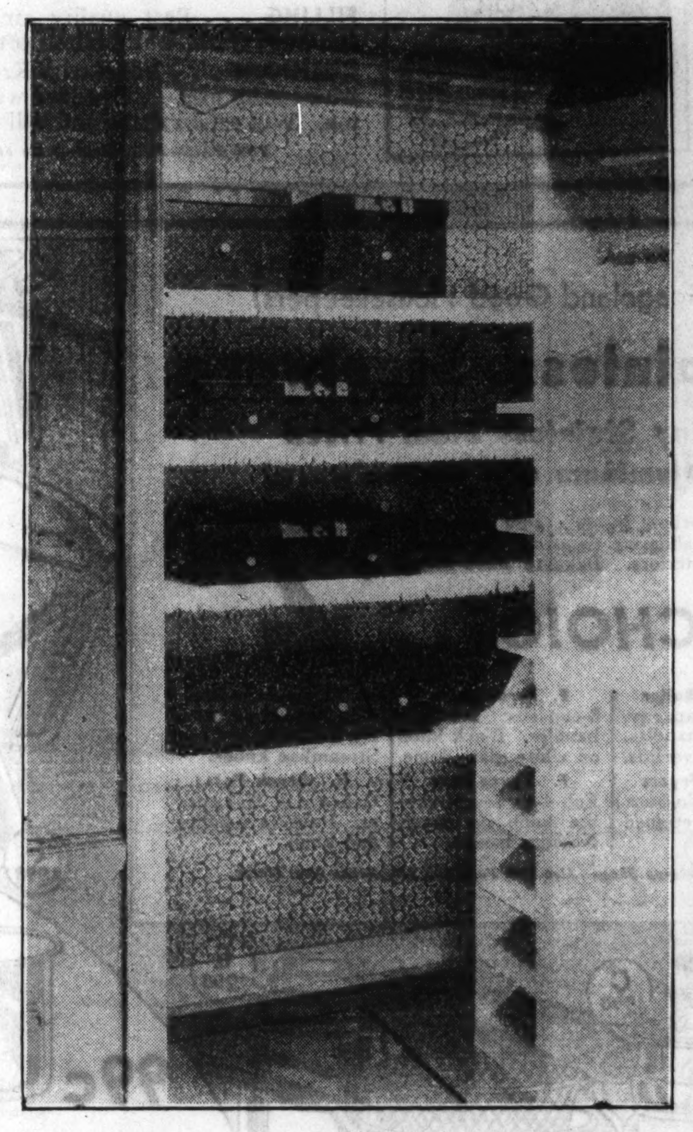
This closet contrasts with the room itself, where entirely different paper is used on the walls. In the old days both closet and room were done in the same tones, but now it's a bit smarter to make a separate little room of the closet and have it contrast. Thus, if the bedroom is in powder blue, the closet walls may be painted bright coral, with chalk white woodwork and ceiling. Or, off a green room, walls of clear light yellow are effective. If bedroom paper is white, choose a vivid tone for the closet for variety.

A Starry Ceiling Is Distinctive.

One stunning coat closet we saw recently was off a small entrance hall the walls of which were finished in a cool gray, with matching woodwork. The closet was a brilliant cerise red, and over the walls and ceiling were scattered large and small silver stars, the kind you get in boxes at the stationery store. These the owner had applied herself with charming effect.

Another original idea was used in the closet off a young girl's feminine looking bedroom. Here the walls were papered in shell pink, and beneath the molding, just below the ceiling, was a unique little border, a series of white lace paper doilies which had been cut in half and applied to the wall. A lace paper edging was used on all the shelves, too, and there was white marbleized linoleum on the floor.

As in the treatment of most things, so in closet decoration: it is not the original cost, it's the original idea that counts.



It's easy to keep a clothes closet neat when it is equipped with smartly tailored utility boxes like these, available in a Chicago department store. You buy the initials separately, and apply them simply by moistening them. A new and clever idea.

Little Sandglass Aids in Cooking and Telephoning

GRAINS of sand inclosed in glass bulbs long have been used for measuring intervals of time. Even in this present era a two minute sandglass is used in the British house of commons. Is it any wonder then that in well equipped kitchens should be found the three to five minute sandglass for timing perfectly cooked eggs? These accurate little timers that never miss a second, much less a minute, are available in many attractive designs. One practical sandglass that runs up the minutes from one to five is hung on the wall, and the sand gauges the time as it creeps slowly up in the tube in much the same manner as mercury in a thermometer. These reliable sand tubes have many uses aside from assisting in preparing food, and one clever idea is to use "sands of time" for checking the three minutes when putting through a long distance telephone call.

Next Sunday . . . Sept. 29 . . . there will be a special furniture and home furnishings section . . . All the news of National Furniture Week, and many pictures showing new furniture and fine designs. Don't miss it.

Charm Pieces of Staurolite Are Lovely Jewelry

THAT fairy lore still is prevalent in certain parts of the United States is manifested by the growth of staurolites, better known as "fairy stones," to be found in a field of about fifty acres nestled among the rugged foothills of the Blue Ridge mountain range, in Patrick county, Virginia, and near the borderline of North Carolina. One doesn't need to travel to that region for these little amulets unless he wish to see them in their native state, for they are available right in town at a smart shop on the avenue. The amulets are finished with gold filled or solid gold caps and rings with which to suspend them on a chain or silken cord.

These fairy or lucky stones are twinned staurolite crystals simulating the Roman, Maltese, and St. Andrew's crosses. They are as much as an inch in length, and are of a dark brown color. They are much sought as good luck pieces, charms, lavallieres, and curiosities. It is said that a few ex-Presidents and other prominent persons have had these little lucky pieces tucked snugly away about their persons to ward off the jinx.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, Sept. 23.

Take cuttings of all bedding plants for stock. Frequently good stock is depleted or scarce of some items and a supply made now will come in handy for propagating purposes later on. Pot a few of the dwarf annuals for late fall flowering. Sweet alyssum cut back will make nice plants, the dwarf sorts being more easily handled. Mark the best and most desirable plants of perennials that are in flower for future use. Note the habits and flowers of tropical water lilies before frost. A cold frame will come in handy as a receptacle to hold plants after potting and for later removal to the house. Look to any tubbed plants that need repotting. Keep the entire garden and grounds in the best condition.

Tuesday, Sept. 24.

Make that lawn now before it is too late. The best lawns are usually made in the fall. Give it an application of commercial plant food to stimulate vigorous growth. An application now will soon restore an injured lawn and bring it into good condition for entering the winter. A commercial food of 4-8-4 or 5-10-5 is an excellent mixture of the chief elements and may be obtained from the supply house. Thin lawns in need of seeding should be given an application of food, raked in with a steel toothed rake and sown with the best seed obtainable at the rate of one to three pounds per 1,000 square feet, depending on the ground's condition. Hedges may be given a final trimming.

Wednesday, Sept. 25.

There is still time to transplant the oriental poppies. Divide the roots, if desired, and plant them in good soil. They should do well. Do not delay with the iris. Too late planting is not the best practice, although it is difficult to injure them seriously. Make the divisions with five or six eyes to obtain good plants next spring. Give away those that are not needed. Apple and pear trees may be transplanted this fall. Be sure to mulch them on the approach of severe frost. Cuttings of grape, currant, and gooseberry may be easily made by taking wood of the present season's growth and cutting it into suitable lengths.

Thursday, Sept. 26.

Gather the best of the green tomatoes, place them on boards in a frame, and they will ripen handsomely. They may also be placed in the window for ripening. Take good care of the young pansy plants that were transplanted from the August-sown seedbed. Cuttings of violas may be made now and placed in rows in the frame where they may remain during winter. Anemone japonica may be propagated from root cuttings at this time. Plant narcissus bulbs now, for early planted stock is the best. Outdoor grown chrysanthemums may be lifted and potted now for indoor flowering.

Friday, Sept. 27.

Remove plants and other tender potted plants that have been used as decorative material out of doors into the house. Have good soil, consisting of garden loam, well decayed manure, and sand for mixing for pot plants. Begonias require a lighter soil, which may be made by adding about one-third peat or leafmold.

Saturday, Sept. 28.

Transplant bleedingheart plants now. Old plants may be divided like peonies. Frequent spraying of the tops of newly planted evergreens will aid materially in keeping the plants from drying out. The soil should also be kept moist to prevent drying. Order seeds for hardy annuals, prepare the place they are to go, sow them where the plants are to remain. Seeds of Boston ivy should be fall sown to permit the frost to act on them. They will germinate in the spring and develop into fine plants. This plant climbs on brick or stone walls, covering and softening them in a satisfactory manner. Get the order in for shrubs and trees that are wanted for immediate planting.

Home Treatment For Keeping Skin Young

MERCOLIZED WAX is the one beauty aid you can afford because this single preparation embodies all the essentials of beauty that your skin needs. It cleanses, softens, bleaches, lubricates and protects. It is so simple to use, too. Just pat it on your skin each night as if it were an ordinary cold cream. That's all. Mercolized Wax seeps into your pores and dissolves grime and dust and all impurities. It absorbs the discolored surface skin in tiny, invisible particles, revealing the beautiful, soft, young skin that lies beneath. It clears away freckles, tan, oiliness, sunburn or any other blemishes. You use such a tiny bit of Mercolized Wax for each application that it proves an inexpensive beauty investment. Beauty cannot be taken for granted. It must be cared for regularly if you want to hold it through the years. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin.

POWDERED SAXOLITE dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. It is a refreshing, stimulating astringent lotion. Use it daily. At all drug and department stores.

Tribune to Print Diary of John Paul Jones' Secret Bride

BEGINNING next Sunday The Tribune will present in the Graphic Section the recently discovered diary of Princess Anna Kourakina of Russia, who, historians now learn, was the secret bride of America's naval hero, John Paul Jones. Translated and adapted from the original Russian, the diary gives an intimate account of the licentious court of Catherine the Great, that immoral woman who ruled all the Russias from 1762 until her death in 1796. It tells for the first time a moving love story, the tragic romance of Commodore Jones and his princess.

Unearthed from dusty archives in the possession of the last surviving descendant of Commodore Jones and the princess, the diary has remained hidden for nearly a century and a half. It was brought to light and made public through the death of Commodore Jones' great-great-granddaughter, who died recently in Russia.

How Anna Kourakina, summoned by Catherine to the court at St. Petersburg, dared defy court etiquet, which required young ladies in waiting to entertain the royal and other male visitors, is only one of the highlights of this amazing story.

Princess Anna's diary paints a detailed picture of the orgies and frivolities attending the life of the inner court circle. It reveals what was expected of and was submitted to by young girls of good family acting as ladies in waiting to the empress. It presents for the first time the cleverness, viciousness, and calculated cruelty of Catherine. Historically it sheds new light on a mysterious phase in the career of a romantic figure of early American history.

John Paul Jones, having won the adulation of Europe through his brilliant victory in the Bon Homme Richard over the British warship Serapis in the memorable battle fought off the coast of England in 1779, had come to the attention of Empress Catherine. Following the close of the American revolution the empress was planning to make Russia the most formidable power in the world. She desired the services of the courageous American sea fighter to subdue the Turkish fleet in the Black sea.

Never before revealed facets in the character of this woman, who maintained her absolute power through every means, fair and foul, are shown for the first time in the pages of Princess Anna's diary. This lovely girl, having defied the empress by refusing to "entertain" a visiting prince, tells vividly how she was summoned to the boudoir of the empress and there was brutally horsewhipped by Catherine herself.

Because Anna could not be broken, even by whipping, she won the distinction of being the only young woman member of the court who thenceforth was not subjected to the whims of princes and officials. Instead Catherine cleverly decided to use this beautiful but stubbornly chaste young girl as both agent provocateur and as ambassadress of charm in Catherine's diplomatic dealings.

Thus it came about that Anna was sent to Paris, ostensibly on a visit to the court of Louis XVI. and his consort, Marie Antoinette, but really for the purpose of using her charm to lure Commodore Jones, then residing in the French capital, to accept Catherine's invitation to command her Black sea fleet.

The diary gives a new insight into the character of frivolous, pathetic Marie Antoinette and of the life of the French court just prior to the revolution.

Princess Anna, who had been captivated by a miniature portrait of Commodore Jones, fell in love with him. The American naval hero, always susceptible to feminine charm, was completely enthralled by the young Russian princess. Throwing caution to the winds, he accepted almost without condition Catherine's invitation and promised to report in St. Petersburg as soon as possible. The diary leaves little room for doubt that Jones was actuated by the dictates of his heart.

No other figure of early American history enjoyed or suffered such glory and such tragedy as John Paul Jones. That he did find a measure of complete happiness in the love of Princess Anna, as her diary attests, may be consoling to those who contemplate the career of this great man as one of tragic consequences.

Jones was repeatedly hurled from pinnacles of success to the depths of frustration, if not disgrace. Hailed throughout Europe as the greatest sea fighter of his era, he nevertheless was brutally victimized by the intrigues of his enemies and ill used by many of his friends. The diary of Princess Anna throws new light on the misfortunes and tragedy of his Russian adventure, but at the same time reveals the beautiful romance which must have sweetened for him that bitter experience.

Catherine of Russia, as the world knows, ruled her country through a series of men who first were her lovers and then her vassals. Most powerful of these was the evil Prince Potemkin, but there were many others—how many the diary of Princess Anna tells anew. Catherine's original purpose in summoning John Paul Jones was to obtain the services of an outstanding naval commander, but Jones in Russia was almost immediately the victim of intrigues launched by Catherine's underlings, who feared that his success might dim their own luster in the eyes of the empress.

That Catherine listened to these calumnies against an innocent and helpless man is history. What historians up to now had failed to uncover was the part played by the commodore's secret marriage to Princess Anna in causing his ultimate dismissal [Continued on page eight.]

Plain Dying in Films Brings $7.50 Per Day; Fancy, Up to $50

Many Extras Make Demise a Specialty

Being Tossed Downstairs, Falling Off Balcony Command Best Pay.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—There are extras and bit men, stunt men, too, who make dying their specialty. It would seem that there is something in the old joke about getting used to anything, even hanging, for these men die daily for their art and for as little as a $7.50 pay check.

The rate of pay depends on the manner of death. A simple "falling down" job, as when a man is shot, brings about $2.50 additional pay over the extra's usual $5 or $7.50 pay check. Death on a battlefield, or in a mob scene, where there is some chance of injury by trampling, brings an extra amount of $5.

If death is by some strenuous method, such as being thrown down a flight of stairs, falling off a balcony or some such happening, up to $50 extra is added as this comes into the nature of "stunt" work.

Nine Extras Die in "Frisco Kid."

Nine "dying" extras were noticed in night shots being taken on "Frisco Kid," current James Cagney vehicle at Warners. The scene was the attack of the rioting San Francisco mob, led by vigilantes descending upon the Barbary Coast intent on burning the disreputable and crime-infested area.

Lloyd Bacon, the director, proclaiming his stage origin by his checked trousers, crusher felt hat, and natty brown coat, took up his position on a scaffolding tower overlooking the scene and the 1,200 extras representing the rioting townspeople. With the aid of a stout lunged assistant, Jack Sullivan, and a microphone he directed the fray.

On came the townspeople armed with shotguns and bearing flaming torches, led and directed by vigilantes on horseback. Five cameras recorded the spectacle from various angles. The nine "dying" men did their dying neatly, pictorially, and with dispatch. One "died" at the first volley of gunfire. Three paces past him another fell. Two men fell simultaneously further over in the mob.

None Expire Alike.

The others "died" between the street and the walk in front of the building. Timing their "deaths" perfectly with the succeeding rounds of fire from the overhead balcony of the defenders, the whole nine lay "dead" as the mob rushed on intent on burning and destruction.

None "died" just alike. One stumbled and fell. Another caught himself, turned slightly, and collapsed. A third fell prone. Another staggered a few steps, threw up his arms, and folded up in a heap. Still another writhed horribly as he sank into the dust. It was all highly convincing and well done. These men are artists in their specialty. If you think it's easy to fall down, try it some day on a nice soft mattress. These men are proud of their ability and will tell you of the various jobs of dying they have done. Most of them consider these the artistic triumphs of their careers.

Many Die More Deaths Than Shakespeare's Coward.

Every studio has lists of names of these men who make dying a specialty. In the course of a year such a specialist can add considerably to his income from regular extra work by his macabre accomplishment. There are grades of these men, too, some being more accomplished than others and capable of elaborate and highly realistic jobs of "dying."

It isn't all over in a few minutes. This "dying" may have to be repeated many times, as many times as the director sees fit to re-shoot the scene. And where many extras are involved there usually are a good many retakes to be sure the scene will be right and the extras not needed for another day. So when the director calls "cut," up get the dead men, dust themselves off, chatter with their comrades cheerfully, perhaps snatch a cup of hot coffee to ward off the night damp, and prepare to "die" again. Shakespeare says something about a coward dying a thousand deaths; a movie "dying" specialist may do better than Shakespeare's coward in the course of a year's work.

George Barnes Now Squires Jean McCollum.

Rumors that another romance broke up the Joan Blondell-George Barnes marriage are made more weighty by the constant appearance of Barnes and Jean McCollum together at night spots. At a party given by Bill Koenig, a Warner Brothers Studio executive, and his wife, Barnes and the girl friend were guests, while Joan, a studio contract player, was not invited!

Joan is planning to give up the elaborate home in the Hollywood Hills which she occupied with Barnes and her baby son and is moving near the studio so that she can dash home at noon to see the baby. Friends of Joan say her funds are low and that she is not able to maintain the house alone.

That the separation was a surprise move is attested by the fact that only a few weeks ago, while Joan was taking her vacation by staying at home with the baby, elaborate reconstruction of the house was going on presided over by the actress. One of the complaints that Joan made in court against Barnes was that he refused to pay household bills and to accept responsibility.

Sylvia Sidney Knits Polo Shirt for Bennett Cerf.

Sylvia Sidney, who is just that domestic, is knitting a neat polo shirt for the boy friend, Bennett Cerf.

They quote Mae West's chauffeur's autograph at $2 in the local autograph market.

The latest and most strikingly pictorial couple seen about town is composed of blonde Virginia Bruce and dark and handsome Cesar Romero.

A scene intended as a memorial to Will Rogers has been added to the script on "The Great Ziegfeld" being filmed at M-G-M. It shows the episode in which Ziegfeld invited Rogers to add comments on the news of the day to his rope twirling act and thereby was laid the foundation of Rogers' fame.

"Tales of Hoffman," colorful Offenbach opus, will be made at M-G-M as one of their big musical features this winter. Vicki Baum of "Grand Hotel" is back at work on the screen treatment.

Clara Kimball Young and Jack Mulhall are working at Universal in Edward Everett Horton's new comedy, "His Night Out." Rosemary Theby, Harry Myers, Jean Acker, and Mary MacLaren are all getting $7.50 a day on the "Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," Ronald Colman's opus.

Patsy Kelly has been razzed so much for coming to the set without learning her lines that she finally decided to reform. She took the script home dutifully and learned her scenes for the next day. Came the dawn with Patsy eagerly ready to spout. Del Ruth, directing "Thanks a Million" with Dick Powell, told her that the scene had been cut as it slowed the action! And the things Patsy felt like saying!

John Miljan, usually seen as a villain, is getting a break at last and will be the lead in a crime, or "who done it" film, as they call 'em, titled "Murder at Glen Athol" being made by Invincible Films.

Movie Star's Diet, Script in Conflict

Jeanette MacDonald's Doctor Frowns on Beans and Bacon.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.] Jeanete MacDonald is faced with a problem. For a certain scene in "Rose Marie," with Nelson Eddy, she is supposed haughtily to refuse his offer of a pan of bacon and beans, but later to return and greedily gulp the food down. On a strict diet by doctor's orders, Jeanette is positively forbidden beans and bacon—so what is she going to do? They're trying to figure out how to rewrite the script so's it will be all right with the medico's diet list.

Dick Powell is playing host to his brother, Howard Powell, and his two nephews, Howard Jr. and Bill, aged 11 and 6. Their first afternoon they spent swimming in the Powell pool.

Mrs. Pat O'Malley, wife of the silent screen star, is working as "atmosphere" at Twentieth Century-Fox these days. She was a clever dancing vaudevillian before her marriage to Pat. Their oldest daughter, Eileen, who is 18, is acting as Una Merkel's standin.

Bill Powell is mourning the loss of his two pet goldfish, Aloysius and Pernicious. He says they turned silver after death and that all he can figure as cause for demise is that they got off the gold standard.

Binnie Barnes is planning a good old American weenie roast to welcome her husband, Samuel Joseph, due to arrive shortly from London for a two weeks' visit with the star. A snapshot and hearsay have piqued the interest of the Britisher in regard to this seemingly typically American delicacy known as "hot dog," hence the party.

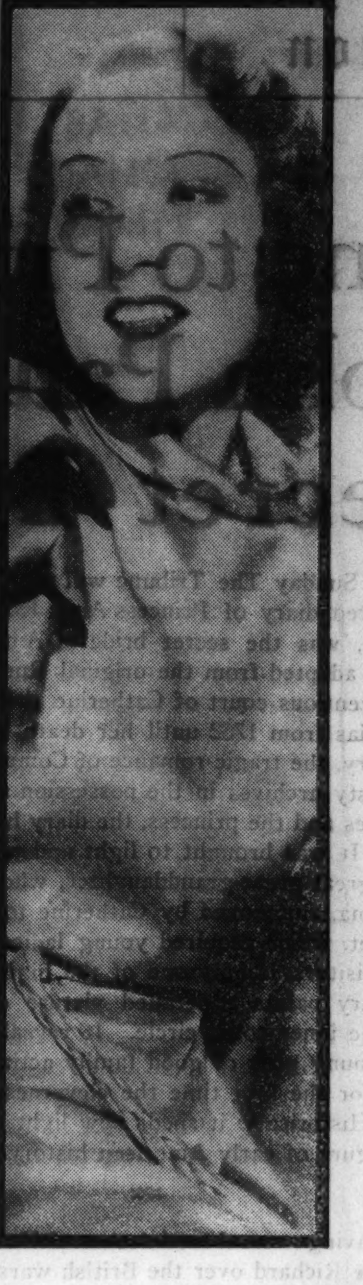
Folk Opera.

"Porgy and Bess," the folk opera with a score by George Gershwin and libretto by Du Bose Heyward, will open at the Alvin theater, New York, on Wednesday, Oct. 9. Rouben Mamoulian is staging the production. It will be the third Theater Guild offering of the fall.

"BIG BROADCAST OF 1936"



Ethel Merman is one of those ever so much present in the all star production, "The Big Broadcast of 1936." Jack Oakie, Burns and Allen, Bing Crosby and a score of other people are in the cast. It's at the Roosevelt theater.

Loyola Players

THE Loyola Community theater's program for the new season, its ninth, will include "The First Legion," by Emmet Lavery; "Three Cornered Moon," by Gertrude Tonkonoy; "The Cradle Song," by Martinez Sierra; "Death Takes a Holiday," by Alberto Cassella, and an original play. The plays will be given in the order named under the personal direction of Charles S. Costello. The opening date has been set for Oct. 14. In addition, the theater will offer five lectures and a concert and a dramatic recital.

Variety Bills in Downtown Movie Houses

PLANS to present Albert Bouché's Villa Venice revue, "La Vie Parisienne," on the Chicago theater stage this week were altered because of the popularity of the theater's current program. Bouché's show, with an augmented cast, will open next Friday.

In the meantime Dave Appollon continues to present his "International Varieties" on the Chicago stage for a second week. The company of 40 features the Apollon string orchestra, Raymon and Ruth, Selma Marlowe, Johnny Woods, Harold Aloma, the Bines dancers, the Seven Arabian Sheiks, and Ann Bradley.

The new vaudeville acts on the program of the State-Lake theater include:

Barry, Breen and Wyler, in a knockout singing, and dancing act; Emma and Earl Harvey, comedians; the Great Togo, who does a "Slide for Life," on a tight wire suspended above the audience; "Backyard Follies," a troupe of eight musical youngsters; Barr and Estes; Earl Le Vere, with Helen Ware and Harry Jordan; Verne Buck, and the State-Lake ballet.

The vaudeville program at the Palace theater remains the same, with Eddie Peabody and Helen Charleston dividing the headline positions. The rest of the bill includes Medley and Duprey, Sylvia Manon and her dancers, Gautier's "Toy Shop," and Dan Russo and his musicians.

Exaggeration Ruins N. Y.'s New Burlesque of Mystery Plays

Farce Forced in 'Slight Case of Murder'

It's "Slight" Because Only Four Cadavers (Never Shown) Figure in Crime.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—The first farce of the new theater season is an extravagant affair called "A Slight Case of Murder." "Slight" because it has to do with only four cadavers found seated around a poker table in the third floor of a house in Saratoga Springs, newly opened for the racing esason.

This, if my records are correct, is Damon Runyon's first stage play. He has been represented by several screen stories, "Little Miss Marker" prominent among them, but he has not before achieved footlight honors. In this instance he has worked with a co-author, one Howard Lindsay, whose most recent activities have brought him fame as co-author of two outstanding successes, the farcical "She Loves Me Not," of last season, and the musical "Anything Goes," of this season.

Remy Distributes Corpses Among Neighbors.

Neither of these lads can preen himself upon the achievement of "A Slight Case of Murder," however. It is another of those splendid story ideas that are made victims of a complete incredibility in the stage version.

I grant the originality of the Runyon invention. He tells you that Remy Marco, who had been a beer racketeer during prohibition and has been a legitimate brewer ever since, went to Saratoga during a recent race meeting with a crowd of his former racketeering pals and found four gunmen murdered in an upper room in his house. The gunmen had come expecting to get even with Remy for an old grudge, after robbing an armored car of half a million dollars in bookmakers' money, and had then been double-crossed and put out of the way by a fifth member of their gang who suspected them of cheating. . . .

Remy is disturbed by the presence of the cadavers. To get rid of them he plans to distribute them surreptitously among those neighbors he does not like and just gets them planted on various porches and lawns when his boys discover that a reward of $10,000 has been offered for each of the bandits, dead or alive.

Dead Men Have to Be Shot All Over Again.

They hustle out now and bring the dead men back, but in order to turn them in for the reward they must pretend that they have been recently shot. So they trick a novice state trooper into shooting the dead men all over again. The trooper gets the reward and Remy gets the half million boodle.

Written with some regard for even extravagant possibilities, there was material here, it seems to me, for a slightly grewsome but amusing light comedy. The cadavers never are shown. They are merely talked about. But, by forcing and overplaying the more obvious farcical features, the novelty of the story is greatly weakened.

John Harrington, back from pictures, plays the bootlegger much as the long dead Walter Jones might have played him twenty years ago.

Georgia Caine, Phyllis Welch, Joseph Sweeney, and Parcy Moore are also in the cast. . . .

Radio City Theater Can't Pay for Itself.

They are tearing the old Hippodrome apart and putting it together again. And doing something of the same with the stage of the new Center theater, which is a part of the Rockefeller Radio City group. I hesitate to think how long it is going to be before this last named playhouse will be able to pay for itself. It cost a goodly sum to start with, when it was devoted to the screen drama. Then last year it was made over to fit "The Great Waltz," which was the scenic show piece of the winter. Now it is being turned back to the uses of the screen again, and much that was built in is being taken out. I suspect the Rockefellers are still wondering why in the world they ever got entangled with this thing called show business.

The rebuilding of the Hippodrome is more interesting. What a career this old show place has had! In the thirty years of its lifetime it has been everything from an indoor circus to an opera house, and now it is going back into circus business again, with the redoubtable Billy Rose as chief showman.

Hippodrome Housed N. Y.'s Most Startling Spectacles.

It was in 1905 that the Hippodrome first blossomed as the show place of this metropolis. Fred Thompson and "Skip" Dundy, who had made money at the Buffalo exposition and more money at Coney Island, where they built Luna Park, opened it with a spectacle called "A Yankee Circus on Mars," followed by an espisode of the civil war, "Andersonville, a Story of Wilson's Raiders." The townfolk were measurably stirred by the appearance of a couple of trained elephant troupes and innumerable circus acts, but they were practically lifted out of their seats at the sight of a troupe of northern cavalry dashing down stage and into a tank of water that was as large as a small lake, or seemed so. . . .

Every year thereafter some new sensation was revealed at the old Hipp, usually with circus trimmings and always with some tank display. They ranged from "Pioneer Days," for which a band of full blooded Sioux Indians was brought east from the Pine Ridge agency in South Dakota and put through a series of ghost dances under the direction of one William Sitting Bull, only son of the tribe's greatest warrior, to a full stage reproduction of "H. M. S. Pinafore," as the setting for a revival of the opera.

Chorus Girls Disappear in Water Tank.

It was in a piece called "Neptune's Daughter" that the chorus girls first walked calmly into the tank and disappeared, and that proved an ever increasing wonder for crowds of citizens and tourists alike. Thereafter each new production was climaxed by some sensational use of the tank. The players alternated between disappearing beneath the waters and arising miraculously from them. After the Shuberts had taken over the big house they decided everbody was tired of the water shows and put on an ice skating ballet and winter carnival in their place. That was in 1907, but by 1908 they had gone back to water again, for "The Battle of Port Arthur," in which the Japs not only blew the Russians out of the sea, but came pretty close to blowing the roof off the theater.

Young Mr. Rose, husband of Fanny Brice, graduate of the night clubs and one time writer of popular songs, has interested capital to the extent of $250,000 and is transforming the interior of the old Hipp. He is also organizing a show to be known as "Jumbo," which promises to live up to its title.

Durante and Whiteman, Acrobats and Elephants Starred.

Rose does not intend to use the stage at all, or the old tank, either. He is tearing out the seats in the orchestra and building a circus ring there. From its sides seats will be terraced up to the balcony, making a huge amphitheater. Actors and animals will make their entrance, as I understand it, from tunnels coming through from under what used to be the stage.

"Forty singing stage hands, twenty-four dancing equestriennes, eight clown, aerial, and acrobatic acts from Europe, forty horses, wire walkers, ax throwers, Jimmy Durante, Paul Whiteman and band, Arthur Sinclair and Big Rosie, the elephant,"—these are included in the attractions promised for "Jumbo."

I can hardly wait.

Directorship Will Tie Lunts to Theater Guild.

There is more interest in theater announcements and rumors of announcements than there is in the season itself to date. We mark time with such stirring items as the election of Alfred Lunt to the directorate of the New York Theater Guild; the possibility that England's 31 year old John Gielgud will get to America this season, not in "Hamlet," as expected, but in a new piece called "The Laughing Woman," in which he will play with Edith Evans; and the arrival of the soprano, Muriel Dickson, who was a popular member of the D'Oyly Carte Opera company that toured the east a year ago and who now proposes to become an American actress.

There are already six directors of the Theater Guild. The election of Lunt, insist the six, represents merely the simplest way of dealing with tie votes in the selection of those plays that should be produced. A subtler reason, I suspect, is to tie him and Lynn Fontanne more definitly to the organization. They were for some seasons the Guild's most popular actors, and they were greatly missed last season when they were experimenting with Noel Coward and his ugly "Point Valaine."

Shall D'Oyly Carte Players Be Denied Greater Roles?

Young Gielgud, England's actor of greatest promise, is certain to come over sooner or later. If he should prefer to make his debut in a modern rôle, being co-featured with Miss Evans should be a help. Although until she played the nurse to Katharine Cornell's Juliet she never had had an American success; she is an actress of quality, and popular with those playgoers who have seen her.

Little Miss Dickson's desertion of the D'Oyly Carte troupe is also significant. Probably only the first of several, though I hope not. It would be a great pity to break up that wonderful Gilbert and Sullivan ensemble, just because American producers are willing to offer higher salaries than the English producers can afford.

On the other hand, it would seem unfair that a comedian of the talents of Martyn Green should go on indefinitly singing patter songs to the glory of the immortal repertory when there are probably more spectacular rôles and a sizable income waiting for him in both the Broadway theater and on the Hollywood screens. Or the Derek Oldham and Sydney Granville should be similarly buried.

Long Term Dramas.

Eugene O'Neill's next cycle of plays for the Theater Guild will comprise seven items. The first will be staged next season. Thereafter, beginning in 1937-'38, two plays will be offered in each season until it is all over in 1940.

Third Tour by Monte Carlo Ballet Dancers

THE third American season of Col. W. de Basil's Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will start at the Metropolitan Opera house with a twelve day engagement Oct. 9 to Oct. 20. Seventeen productions will be offered including seven new ballets which the company added to its repertory last summer at Covent Garden, London.

A number of ballets which were made famous by the late Serge Diaghilev will be revived, including Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade," "Thamar," the Georgian fantasy with a musical score by Balakireff, and "Spectre de la Rose," with music by Weber. The costumes and settings for all of these ballets are the designs of Leon Bakst and the chorography is after Michel Fokine.

Two new ballets by Leonide Massine will be shown. One of these, "The Good Humoured Ladies," he created for Diaghilev in 1918 upon the music of Scarlatti, with costumes and scenery by Bakst. The other, a recent work entitled "Choreartium," is a pictorial representation of the Brahms' Fourth Symphony.

The following dancers will have principal rôles: Leonide Massine, Irina Baronova, David Lichine, Tamara Toumanova, Yurek Shabelevsky, Tatiana Riabouchinska, Paul Petroff, Alexander Danilova, Vera Zorina, and Lubov Tchernichova. After the engagement at the Metropolitan the Monte Carlo troupe will start on a transcontinental tour of six months covering the United States, Canada, and Cuba, and totaling two hundred performances.

'Tobacco Road' as Specimen of New Deal Thought in Drama

Play's Purpose as Found on Printed Page

Author Claims Georgia Peasants "Unknowingly Face Extinction."

By Charles Collins.

PLAYGOERS who seek enlightenment on the purpose of "Tobacco Road"—the literary idea behind this picture of squalor and depravity among the Georgia peasantry—do not need to read the novel upon which this drama is based. They will find the point clearly set forth in the stage directions of the printed play, describing the time and the place of the action. This passage is brief and worth quoting:

"It is a famished, desolate land, once given over to the profitable raising of tobacco, then turned into small cotton plantations which have been so intensively and stupidly cultivated as to exhaust the soil. Poverty, want, squalor, degeneracy, pitiful helplessness and grotesque, tragic lusts have stamped a lost, outpaced people with the mark of inevitable end.

Going from Bad to Worse.

"Unequipped to face a changing economic program, bound up in traditions, ties and prejudices, they unknowingly face extinction. It is a passing scene, contemporary and fast fading, hurling the lie at nature's mercy and challenging a god who reputedly looks after his own. Grim humor pervades all, stalking side by side with tragedy in the last short mile which leads to complete, inevitable elimination. The pride and hope of a once aggressive group, pioneers in a great new world, thus meet ironic conclusion. The world moves on, unmindful of their ghosts."

This is New Deal rhetoric, to which I enter contemptuous rebuttal. I will grant that it is possible to find families gone to seed and deeply sunk into degenerate social conditions in the backwoods of Georgia and elsewhere in the world, but I refuse to shudder over them as symptoms of an entire people in decay. Beside Erskine Caldwell's horrifying and distorted picture of Jeeter Lester's ghastly family, I place a picture of Berea college, Kentucky, and invite comparisons.

Propaganda of Anti-Americanism.

The underlying purpose and trend of "Tobacco Road" is clarified by the passage which I have quoted. The play is an eddy in the current of sociological and literary propaganda, now running in the wake of political New Dealism, to depict the American folkways as in dire need of reform, perhaps of revolution. It is a part of a movement to which many punk-headed young writing fellows are contributing, with a Marxian twist in their none-too-stable minds—a movement to deride and satirize American civilization, particularly as represented by the old racial elements in the population, to cry calamity, to conjure up economic bugaboos such as "the machine" [a mythical monster supposed to be devouring us], and to behave generally, in print, like a brood of cuckoos befouling their own nest.

My answer to all this, and to "Tobacco Road" as a unimportant symptom of the movement, can only be given in the vocabulary of Jeeter Lester, the profane old scarecrow of the play. It is a subject in which I can be more bitter than the literary reformers and more violent than the would-be revolutionists.

A Novel and Its Dramatization.

Erskine Caldwell's preface to the printed play confirms my suspicion that the origin of "Tobacco Road" was a short story—the turnip-stealing episode. It also touches upon the play's early history in New York, in an interesting way as follows:

"Those men of America who constitute the critical gentry published the following day [after the première] in columns deep their indignation. The people on the stage behaved like animals; the play was inept, clumsy, and rudderless; there was too much dust on the stage; the play was too snickery [sic] to watch; there was no southern dialect spoken; it was ruttish and blabby; Jeeter Lester's clothes were too dirty; it was callow and repulsive; it was too honest, and the play was the dramatization of a novel. Four months later the play drew forth the complaint, from an advanced theater journal, that from a Marxian point of view 'Tobacco Road' was useless because there was no strike scene in it."

Novelist Caldwell completely approves of Actor Jack Kirkland's dramatization, which is a reversal of precedent. In fact, he almost envies it. He says:

"He has followed the novel from beginning to end just as it is written, eliminating those scenes unnecessary for the stage and creating new scenes that are necessary in a dramatic version. I like his work so well that I have just about made up my mind to suggest that I trade him my novel for his play."

SINGER ON EMPIRE ROOM BILL

"Jumbo" Story

THE stuffed skin of the original Jumbo is now in the museum of Tufts college. Billy Rose, who is producing a spectacle called "Jumbo," recently sent a letter to Dr. John A. Cousens, president of Tufts, asking: "Would Tufts permit Mr. Rose to exhibit Jumbo's pelt at the opening of his namesake show?" Mr. Rose promised insurance and transportation fees.

Dr. Cousens replied to this effect: Even if Jumbo were not "altogether too precious to allow him to be out of our sight," it would still "be necessary to take down the building" to get him out of the museum.

"Dodsworth" Cast

WHEN Walter Huston comes to the Erlanger theater in "Dodsworth" on Oct. 21 after a record of 42 weeks in New York and visits to all the principal eastern cities, he will be supported by the following players: Juliette Crosby, Nan Sunderland, Ethel Jackson, Helen Zelinskaya, Beatrice Maude, Doris Day, Gregory Gaye, Harlan Briggs, Charles Henderson, Harriet Lorraine, and others. After playing in Chicago, "Dodsworth" will tour toward the Pacific coast.

Drake's Gold Coast Room to Reopen Oct. 5

Scotch - Irish Cabaret Show in "Gypsy" Series at Walnut Room.

THE redecorated Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel will have its formal opening for the public Oct. 5, with Horace Heidt and his dance and radio band. Among the acts to be presented by Horace Heidt will be Georges and Jalna, a dance team which was featured for a year in the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. Heidt and his array of thirty musicians and singers will continue their run until Jan. 1 or later.

● The latest "Gypsy" production in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel is a combined Scotch and Irish show.

Marta Monterio, formerly solo danseuse of the Chicago Opera company and Nelidoff's newest addition to his cast, does a toe dance to "My Wild Irish Rose," and Walter Kamryn performs a sword dance to the Scotch melody, "The Campbells Are Coming." Lenore Felden does an Irish jig atop a bass drum. George Nelidoff contributes "Mother Machree."

● Ethel Shutta's ballad singing will be heard here again when she returns with her husband, George Olsen, and his band in the Hotel Sherman's College Inn on Oct. 2.

● Gertrude Niesen, the singer who shares the spotlight with Ben Bernie and his orchestra at the Chez Paree, began her career about three years ago as a mimic and comedienne. Then she began singing popular arrangements of such melodies as "Who'll Buy My Bublischka?", "Carioca," "Tony's Wife" and "I Couldn't Believe My Eyes."

When Miss Niesen appeared at the Continental club in Califronia a movie executive offered her a contract to play the part of Lillian Lorraine in a motion picture now being filmed concerning the life of Ziegfeld. She had to decline, since she had previously signed a contract for the next edition of the Ziegfeld "Follies" with Fanny Brice and Josephine Baker, which goes into rehersal late in October.

● Seymour Simons' newest compositions, "Doesn't That Suggest Something to You?" and "Why Did I Have to Hear It from Somebody Else?" are heard every evening in the Continental room at the Stevens hotel, where Simons directs his own band. Each week he presents a new tune written especially for the audiences at the Continental room. Mary Jane Walsh, singing star with the band, is featured in the new songs with Simons or Nelson Bitterman, singing drummer.

Lydia and Joresco, ballroom dance stars, will end their engagement next Thursday. Then they will leave for a limited engagement at the Detroit Athletic club. On Nov. 2 they will return to the Rainbow room in Radio City, New York.

Fortune Gallo's San Carlo Opera company will contain several new singers when it arrives at the Auditorium Oct. 14. Lucille Meusel, Green Bay coloratura who made her debut three years ago with the Chicago Civic and won praise in the short San Carlo engagement last spring, will be heard in additional rôles. Bella Vreta is a newcomer in the soprano sector. Maria Matyas, Chicago mezzo-soprano heard here in offstage singing with the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, has joined the company, as have Florence Wylde and Dreda Aves.

● A fur fashion show will be staged in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel next Wednesday night. Two dozen mannequins will parade down the flower bedecked runway to the music of Johnny Hamp's orchestra.

The first performance of the American ballet will be presented to Chicago by the Bohemians at the Civic Opera house on Friday, Nov. 8, for the benefit of its philanthropic fund. Proceeds will go directly to musicians who are suffering from the depression. The American ballet is the official ballet of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York and had a season of fifty performances in New York last year.

On Monday evening, Oct. 14, the Lake View Musical society will offer a concert by the three winners in the Chicago, state of Illinois, and the middlewest contests, sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs. The winning contestants are: Gina Vanna, soprano; Harriet Bremer, contralto; Miriam Ulrich, pianist. Miss Vanna is well known to Chicagoans through her radio appearances.

● Back from a cross-country tour, Jan Garber and his orchestra celebrated their homecoming last Friday night with the reopening of the Trianon ballroom. Lee Benett, Rudy Rudisill, Fritz Heilbron, Lou Palmer and Freddie Large are featured entertainers. Over $100,000 has been spent in the redecoration of the Trianon.

Wayne King and his orchestra are entering the last week of their engagement at the Aragon. He is to be followed by Earl Burtnett, and on Saturday, Oct. 5, Orville Knapp will come to the Aragon from the west coast.

FAVORITE RETURNS TO COLLEGE INN

Ethel Shutta, popular singing comedienne, will return to her following at the College Inn on Oct. 2 as chief entertainer with George Olsen's band. She appeared in this cafe for many months last season.

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD Morning!

"Red Heads on Parade" harks to the back stage motif, and seeks again to convince the layman that all is not gold that glitters behind the footlights.

Hard times are more than knocking at the door when the picture opens. They're crashing the poor old door in. The "angel" who has been backing a certain musical piece—"Blondes on Parade," which is well on into production, goes broke—and sad are the hearts of Producer Magnus, Star Bruce, and Advertising Man Mathews, three musketeers who have always done their theatrical adventuring together and, in the case of "Blondes on Parade," are prepared to sink—if must be, together.

Two Miracle Working Fluids Cause a Crisis.

How, in their zero hour they happen upon a pretty maid with a formula that turns blonde hair titian and how the gentleman who manufactures the product for which the maid has concocted the formula and who is gaga over said maid is persuaded to papa the venture, and how complications are caused by a couple of fellows who are sole owners of another hair formula guaranteed to turn the whole world blonde in three minutes, should the whole world wish to turn blonde in three minutes, I shall let the picture show you.

Suffice to say that, in due time, believe it or not, the show does go on!

While there's nothing unusual about this piece it has a good cast, some interesting ensembles, and some catchy songs.

John Boles is vurr' much there—both acting and singing—a fact which is sure to guarantee plenty of feminine patronage for the film.

PLAYS IN "CALM YOURSELF"

Brand new picture of Betty Furness! Like it? This capable young star has a prominent role in "Calm Yourself." At the Oriental. Also in the cast are Madge Evans and Robert Young.

Dixie Lee makes a charming leading lady and other rôles are handled expertly. Direction is commendable.

Not particularly credible—"Redheads on Parade"—but mildly diverting.

BitsaBOUTem.

DOLORES DEL RIO, who has just finished a picture, has been given another assignment to appear opposite WARREN WILLIAM in "Meet the Duchess." This is an adaptation of "A Present From Margate," the succesful London stage play by Ian Hay and A. E. W. Mason. . . . MOLLY LAMONT, the South African beauty who made her screen debut in "Jalna," has been given a featured rôle in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," mystery film, starring GENE RAYMOND. . . . JACK OAKIE is being borrowed from his studio for the third time by Darryl F. Zanuck. This time he will have the leading comedy part in "King of Burlesque." WARNER BAXTER and ALICE FAYE are the stars in the production.

JOAN BENNETT, who was seriously injured when she fell from a horse four years ago while working in a picture, rode again the other day for the first time in her rôle in "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." Without a bit of fear she climbed on the horse and played a romantic scene with RONALD COLMAN. . . . In order to get permission to go into the movies ALICE FAYE promised her mother that she'd never travel anywhere without her, and she has kept that promise ever since. . . . W. C. FIELDS, whose health is greatly improved after a rest cure at Soboba Springs, has returned to his Encino ranch.

See you tomorrow.

Every Night Brings New Play to B'way

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The new week will bring eight premières to the Broadway stage. The Theater Guild's first play of the season and the Merivale-Cooper venture into Shakespearean tragedy will be on the list. Here are the announcements:

"If This Be Treason"—Opens Monday at the Music Box. The Theater Guild is opening its eighteenth season with a plea for peace. The authors are Dr. John Haynes Holmes and Reginald Lawrence. The cast includes McKay Morris, Tom Powers, Armina Marshall, Hunter Gardner, and Walter N. Greaza.

"Blind Alley"—Opens Tuesday at the Booth. This is a melodrama by James Warwick. Among the players are Roy Hargrave, George Coulouris, Katherine Warren, Ruth Fallows, and James Truex.

"Remember the Day"—Opens Wednesday at the National. A play by Philo Higley and Philip Dunning which tells of a schoolboy's regard for his teacher. Frankie Thomas Jr., Francesca Bruning, Keenan Wynn, Virginia Dunning, and Peter Johnston are in the cast.

"Winterset"—Opens Wednesday at the Martin Beck. A drama by Maxwell Anderson. Richard Bennett will play an important rôle, and others in the cast are Burgess Meredith, Margo, Eduardo Cianelli, Harold Johnsrud, and Theodore Hecht.

"Paths of Glory"—Opens Thursday at the Plymouth. Sidney Howard's adaptation of Humphrey Cobb's war novel. There is a cast of 46, including William Harrigan, Jack Roseleigh, Lee Baker, Myron McCormick, Jerome Cowan, George Tobias, Roland Drew, Harold Moffat, and Ann Dere.

"Othello"—Opens at the Ethel Barrymore. The first of the Shakespearean troupes, with Gladys Cooper and Philip Merivale as stars. During their stay, which is limited to six weeks, they will also do "Macbeth." Their fellow players will include Kenneth MacKenna, Alexandra Carlisle, Kenneth Hunter, Harold Gould, and Jerome Lawler.

"Dear Mr. President"—Opens next Saturday at the Mansfield. A play by Doty Hobart, telling a story about a group of petitioners at the White House and of a President who looks into their grievances. Kate Mayhew, Richard Gordon, Frank Conlan, William Pike, Kathleen Lowry, and Robert Porterfield are in the cast.

"Pride and Prejudice."

Max Gordon's cast for "Pride and Prejudice" will include Adrianne Allen, Helen Chandler, Colin Keith-Johnston, Lucile Watson, and Percy Waram. Washington will see the play on Oct. 21.

Exclusively Designed Bowl-Shaped Tub

No other washer has a tub like the Speed Queen. Its smoothly rounded, curved bottom design employs same principle as a mixing bowl. The result is maximum water action with no "dead pockets." The curved bottom also forces sediment to settle underneath the agitator where it is not swished back into the water.

Speed Queen Safety-Roll Wringer

Offers exclusive features found on no other wringer. For example, when the safety bar is pressed, three things happen: (1) pressure is released, (2) both rolls stop instantly, (3) power is automatically disengaged. To reengage all three, all you do is push down top in closed position. No parts to put back together. Pressure is self-adjusting.

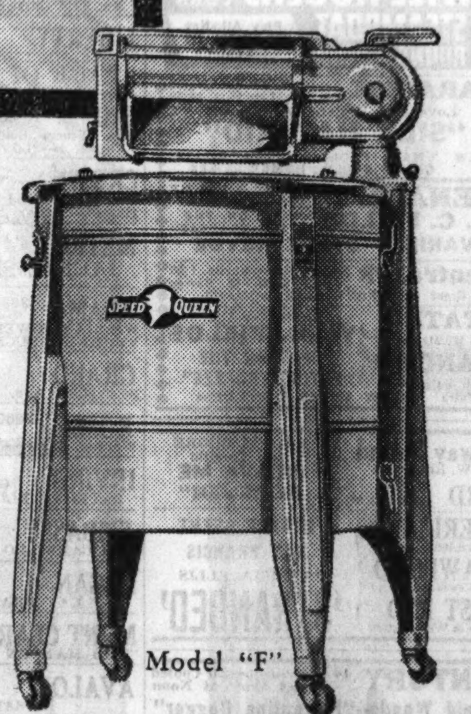
Steel Chassis Construction

The only washer that has a steel chassis. This steel chassis makes the Speed Queen a strong, solid machine. Nothing can work loose or get out or alignment. Notice that the drain spout is mounted to the steel frame—not the tub—so that the frame takes the full strain in case the spout is accidentally bumped.

Double Walls to Keep Water Hot

Every housewife knows that hot water is essential for quick and thorough cleansing. Consequently, if the hot water in your washer cools off rapidly, its efficiency is reduced accordingly. To prevent this, the Speed Queen tub has double tub walls with air space between. This acts as an insulator and keeps the water at right temperature about 40% longer.

IN addition to the Speed Queen's exclusive features which assure you the most satisfactory kind of washing efficiency . . . the Speed Queen is a masterpiece of modern streamline beauty. It is a truly beautiful washer. You'll be proud to show it to your friends. You'll be delighted each week the way it will turn out your wash clean, fresh and sweet-smelling.



Model "F"

There is no cleaner, quicker and safer wash than a SPEED QUEEN wash. Come in and let us prove it.

"RED HEADS ON PARADE"

He looked at her and HE said and she looked at him and SHE said . . . I WHAT did they say? Ah ha!—you'll have to dash over to the Apollo, where "Red Heads on Parade" is unreeling, to find out! This is a scene from that movie. Intriguing, what?

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Berwyn Willie Doesn't Like "Becky Sharp," Except the Color.

Dear Miss Tinée: I saw "Becky Sharp" last night, and I still am wondering who had the fortitude to turn out a picture like that. It ended so abruptly and without reason [outside of sparing torture] that the audience couldn't help laughing.

There's no story to the thing, and if I had known it was going to end the way it did, I would have prayed for Napoleon's bunch to wipe out the cast when they started their little rumpus at Waterloo, and save the cost of that grand technicolor.

Adios, BERWYN WILLIE.

P. S.: How would a picture like "Dr.Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," or "Death Takes a Holiday" go in technicolor?

Editor's Note—Re your P. S.—You tell me. How would it?

Dear Miss Tinée: I have appreciated the cleanup of movies, and am glad that the producers are turning to men like Victor Hugo, Tolstoy, and other prominent authors, but I believe that some great Spanish authors have been neglected, especially Perez Galdós.

I have finished reading his novel, "Doña Perfecta." I believe it would be good as a movie, with the cast as follows: Irene Dunne in the title rôle, Charles Boyer as Pepe Rey, Heather Angel as Rosário, and Minna Gombell as Maria Remedios.

I hope that this letter may be a good suggestion. F. J. M.

Editor's Note—Wouldn't it be fun if some producer snapped up your idea?

Fan Gives Couple of Cheers for Hepburn in "Alice Adams."

Dear Miss Tinèe: A couple of good, loud huzzahs for "Alice Adams." Miss Hepburn created a real Alice, including in that characterization enough of her own charming personality to reach the ultimate in acting. Fred Stone was good, and Miss Adams' makeup was splendid. However, the performance was somewhat spoiled for me by the audience, which laughed and snickered at every possible instance, little realizing that the sardonic humor, and the stinging stabs were aimed at smug persons like themselves. Little did they realize that the Adams family was like them.

Why not give Virginia Bruce a rôle like she had in "Dangerous Corner"? Let's have more pictures like "Jalna." Whether its ending is powerful or silly, and whether it is superficial or sophisticated, the "Scoundrel" still is tops with me. What happened to "Thirty-Nine Steps"? G. H.

Editor's Note—I'm sure the audiences who "snickered" were offset by those who felt just as you did. "Thirty-Nine Steps" will be stepping along before long.

Dear Mae Tinèe: Although I believe my protest to be futile, I take my stand with the fan whose letter you published in a recent SUNDAY TRIBUNE. The "coming attraction" ads just about had me down until I hit upon the plan of resting my eyes instead of gnashing my teeth.

At least there are two of us.

Thanks for the use of your wailing wall.

Sincerely,
H. C. WATROUSE.

"Daily Readers" Request Name of Jeanette's Leading Man.

Dear Miss Tinèe: We are daily readers of your column, and have been for a long time. Needless to say, we enjoy it exceedingly, whether or not we agree with your criticisms of the various movies.

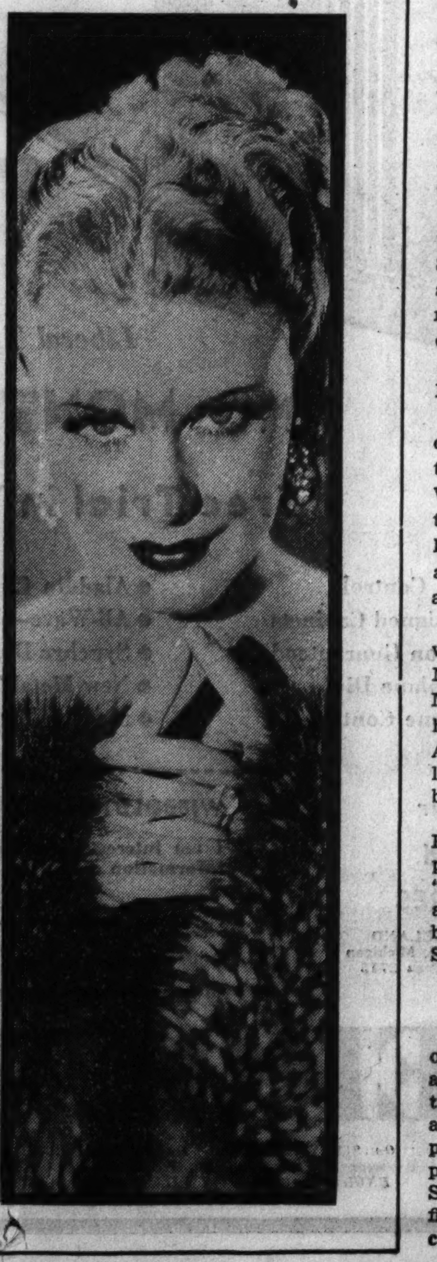
We are having a dispute and wish to ask your advice. Will you kindly tell us who played opposite Miss Jeannette MacDonald in "The Lottery Bride"? [We refer to the gentleman with the operatic voice.]

We thank you and shall be watching your column for the answer.

Yours gratefully,
W. E. BUCKLEY.

Editor's Note—Thank you for your interest. John Garrick played Chris opposite Miss MacDonald in "The Lottery Bride."

SHE'S IN "TOP HAT"



Wonder what's on Ginger Rogers' mind? By that look in her eyes it must be something mischievous! She's in "Top Hat," which goes swinging into its third week at the Palace theater.

New Operettas

LAURENCE SCHWAB, inactive in the musical comedy and operetta field since the close of "Take a Chance" two years ago, will return this season to the arena in which he gained conspicuous success with "Good News," "Follow Thru," "The Desert Song," "Queen High," and "New Moon." His first offering will be "Venus in Silk," the Robert Stolz musical play which has been sung and acted in continental Europe these last few years. He will open "Venus in Silk" in New York on Oct. 14, after two weeks in Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

"Venus in Silk" will have a Viennese flavor, for its music is by the composer of "Two Hearts in Waltz Time." The English adaptation of the book is by Schwab and Lester O'Keefe. The play was given an elaborate tryout last summer at the St. Louis Municipal theater.

In the cast of "Venus in Silk" will be J. Harold Murray, Nancy McCord, Audrey Christie, Joseph Macauley, Roy Gordon, John Sheehan, Gilbert Lamb, Florenz Ames, Alice Cole, Bela Lubob, Jack Dudley, and many others. There will be a chorus of seventy-five.

Schwab and his old associate, Frank Mandel, will resume their partnership in the production of "May Wine," a play with music, adapted by Mandel from a novel by Wallace Smith and Eric von Stroheim.

Leading Woman.

Mary Servoss, who plays the wife of Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road" at the Selwyn theater, started her theatrical career in Chicago when, at the age of 14, she played a page in a Chicago stock company production of "Romeo and Juliet." She is now considered one of the finest leading women of the American stage.

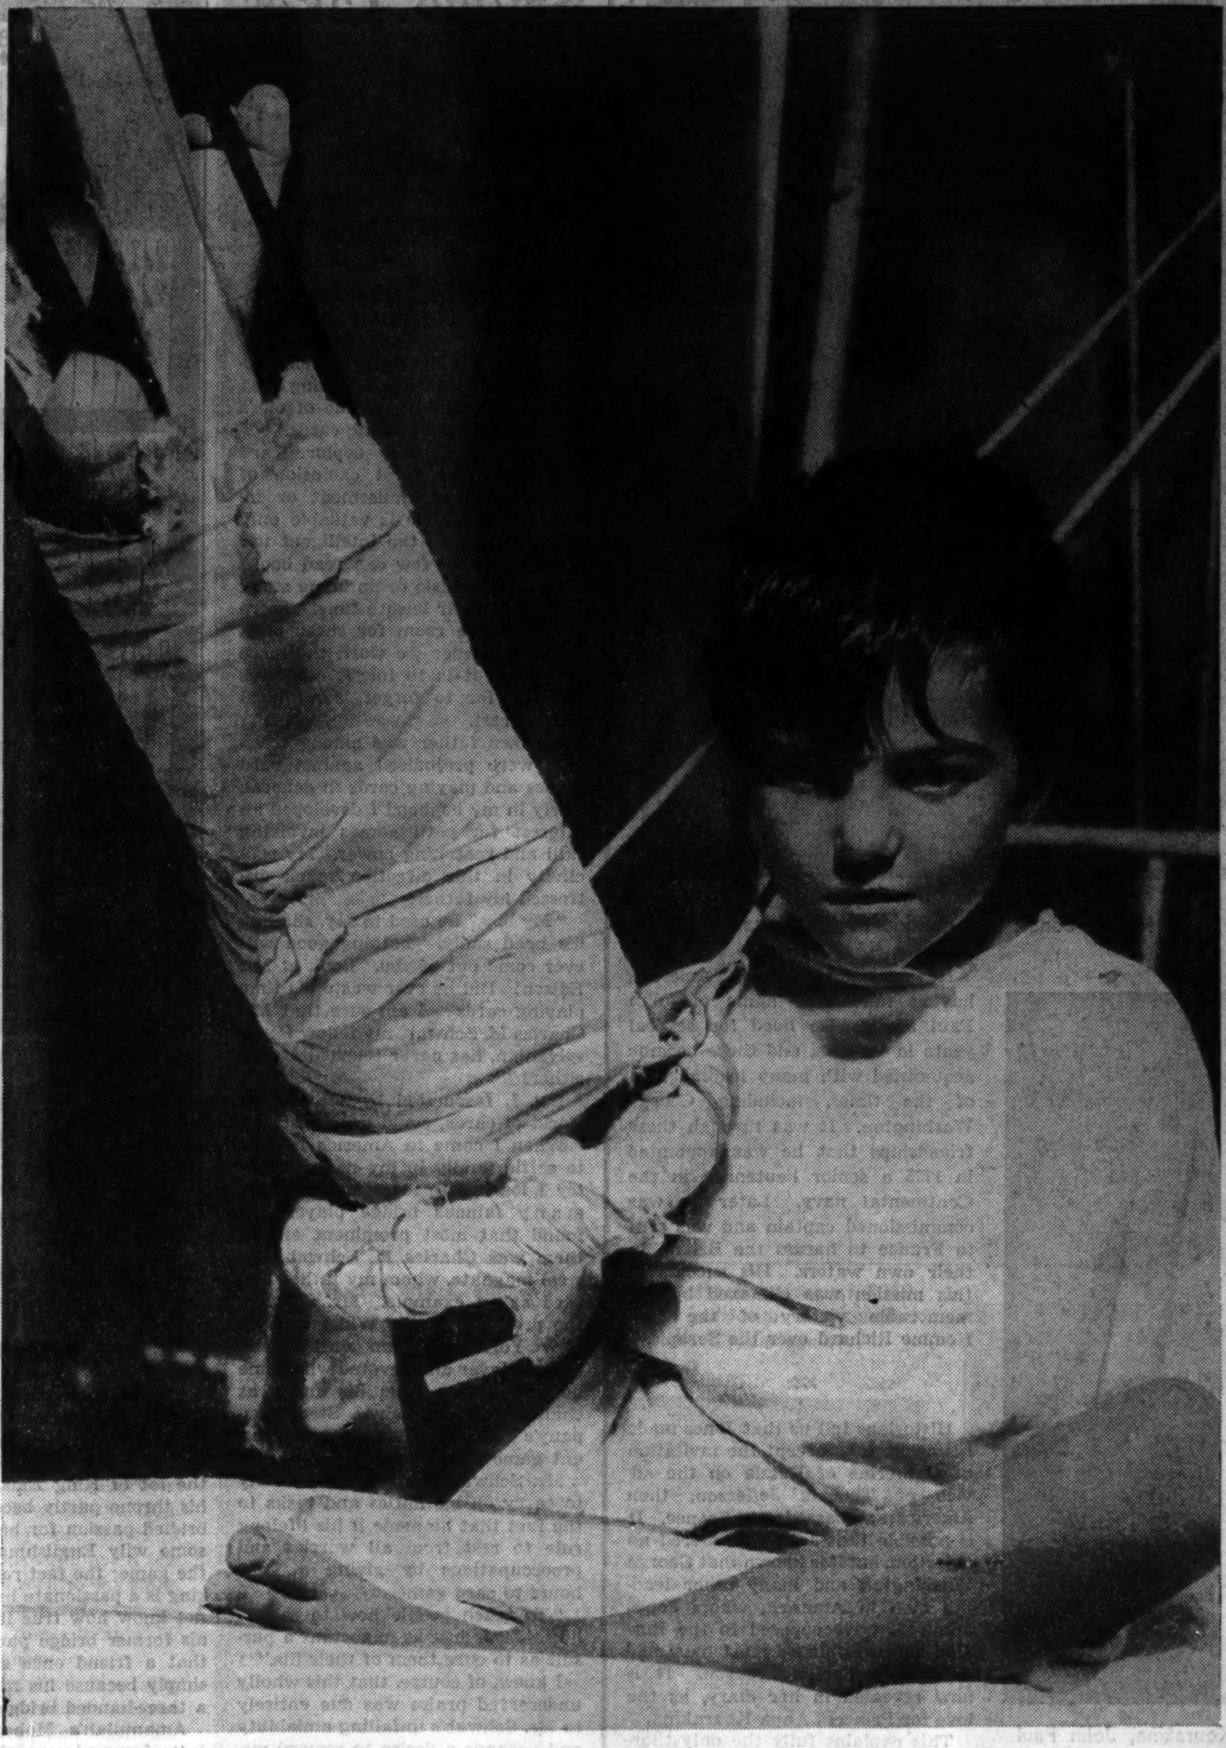
Battered Bodies and Broken Bones - the Trafic Toll

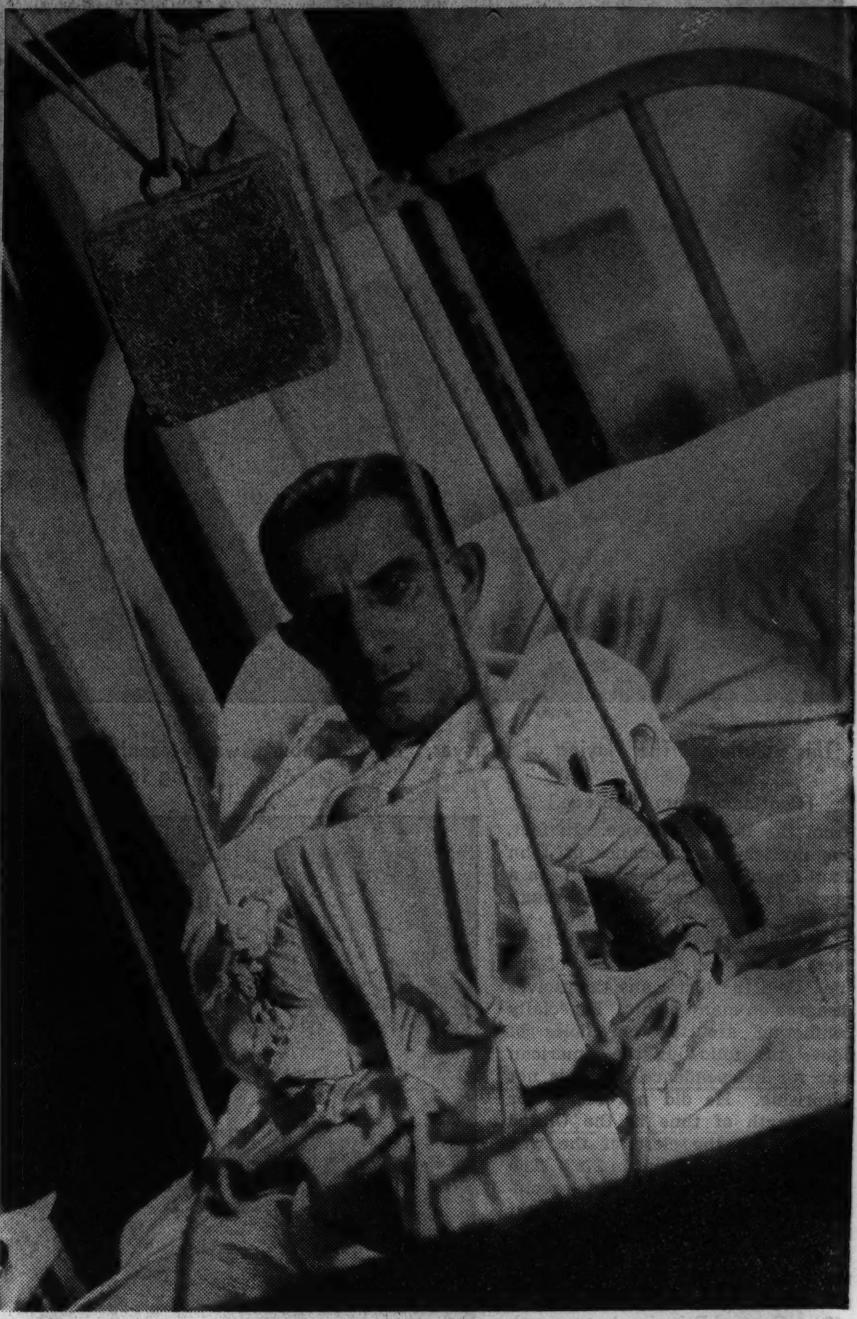
Hospital Gets Some of the Luckier Ones

A Page of Victims of Auto Accidents

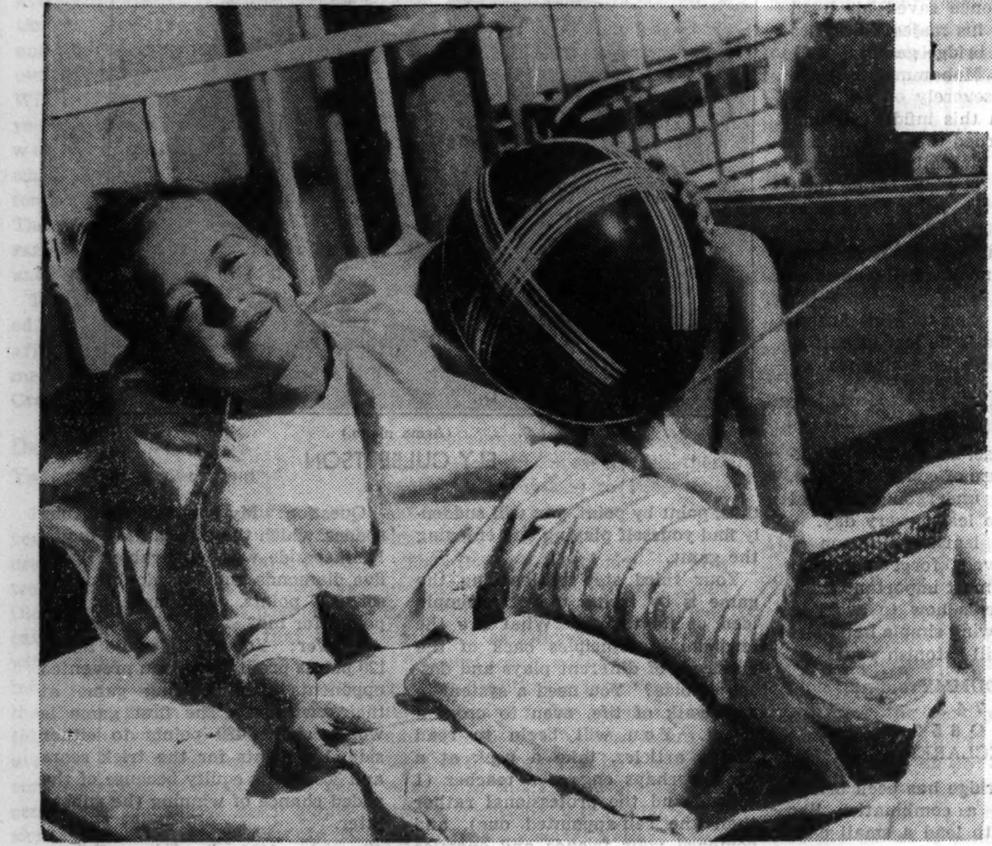
Cook county hospital in Chicago never is without its battered and broken auto victims. The boy here is Donald Metto of 3022 West Madison street. Hit by a truck June 28 at 26th street and Western avenue, he got off lucky. Only a fractured thigh.



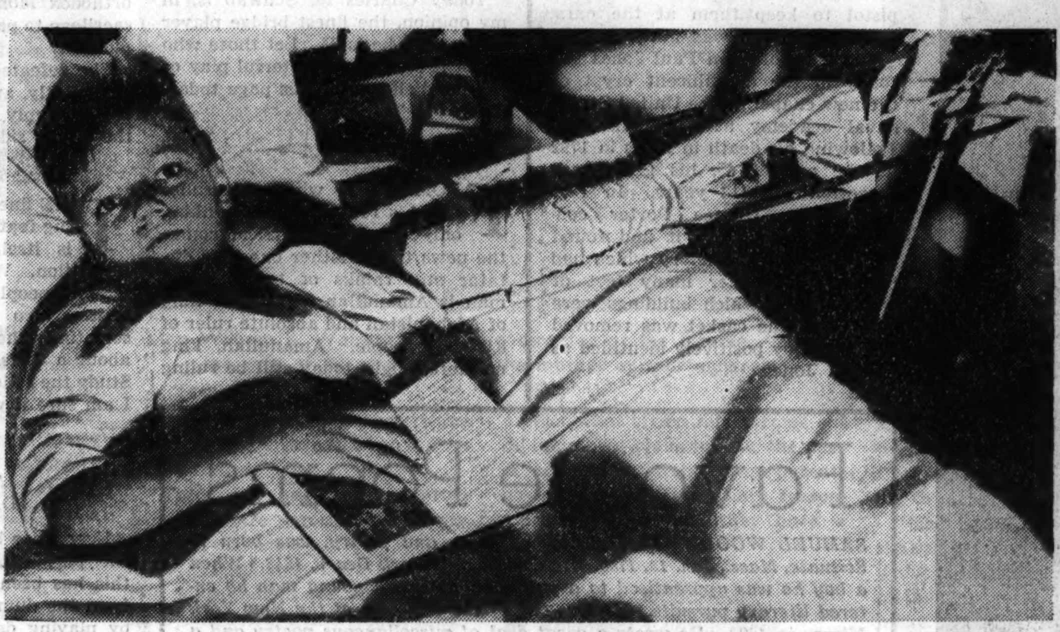
With more than 500 killed and approximately 12,000 injured in trafic accidents in Chicago alone so far this year, the city's automobile problem has reached an alarming point indeed. August Woehler, six-year-old patient at the Cook county hospital, was one of the twelve thousand. Living at 3758 South Honore street, he got his fractured leg at 38th and Honore streets on Aug. 1. Hit by an automobile.



Ninety-eight per cent of Chicago's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway. Frank Rada, age 41, 1426 West 21st place, was a victim of a hit-and-run driver March 1, he can't remember where. Fractured knee and thigh.



John Marzec, five years old, whose right leg was broken when he was struck by an automobile on Aug. 10 at Hervey street and Damen avenue, is the son of Stanley Marzec, 1939 Hervey street. The car that hit the boy stopped, but apparently its owner has no insurance and no funds. The father, who is a molder by trade, has been without employment for about four years. There are six children in the family.



Little Leonard Mitchell, who received a fracture of an arm when he was struck by the car of a hit-and-run driver on Aug. 26 at Oakley avenue and Augusta boulevard, is a resident of 2042 Augusta boulevard. He is nine years old and quite too timid to describe the accident in which he was injured. When a reporter attempted to talk to him in the hospital Leonard's eyes filled with tears.

Owen Boland, aged 57, of 7629 Eggleston avenue, on Sept. 13 had been in the Cook county hospital exactly five months. He was struck by an automobile at State street and Jackson boulevard on April 13 and taken to the hospital with a fractured right hip. He told a reporter that he had lost twenty pounds since the accident and said that his doctors were of the opinion that an operation might still be necessary. Boland is unmarried. He is employed by the Catholic Extension Service. Ten years ago he was hurt when a truck sideswiped a street car in which he was a passenger.

Another hit-and-run victim is Joseph Smith, 34 years old, of 6140 Kenwood avenue. The accident occurred at 63d street and Stony Island avenue on Aug. 17 and resulted in a fractured hip for Joseph. He is unmarried and is a painter and decorator by trade, although he has been without employment for some time. His mother lives in Philadelphia and he has a sister in New Jersey, but he has not seen either in twenty years and does not know their addresses. He hopes they will see his picture in The Tribune and communicate with him.

John Paul Jones' Secret Bride

from the Russian service. In fact, the mystery and romance of John Paul Jones' career ever have been a puzzle to historians. Only through diligent search and arduous research have they brought to light facts in the various phases of his life. And the historians themselves disagree on many points. Especially conflicting are the chronicles of Jones' life following the American war for independence. This is not surprising. He did not reside for any length of time in the United States from the close of the war until his death in Paris in 1792. The mystery enveloping his post-revolutionary war career has been almost impenetrable with respect to that ill-starred period of his life spent in the service of Russia, between 1787 and 1789. Now, through the pages of the diary of Princess Anna, much that was mysterious is made clear.

How the dairy came to light is a romantic story in itself. In 1926 there appeared at the American consulate at Riga, Latvia, a young woman who gave her name as Baroness Helmy Weisserich. She asked for a passport to the United States. She admitted having insufficient funds and no friends in America, but added that her great-great-grandfather was an American—one of the most distinguished men in the nation's history—Commodore John Paul Jones.

She proved the statement by showing letters, a ring marked J. P. J. which the women of her family had worn ever since it was first given by the commodore to Princess Anna, and the diary kept by the princess. Technicalities prevented the baroness from coming to America. She wandered to Morocco and there fell in love with a young American. Shortly afterward she went to Russia, intending to return and marry, but she became ill and died.

Her death made it possible, for the first time, to make public the strange and untold history of her family, revealing the hidden chapter in the life of John Paul Jones.

To the marriage of Jones and Princess Anna a son was born, who, at the order of Empress Catherine was given his father's name and was brought up by his mother's family. He was known as Prince Ivan (or John) Kourakina Jones. This young man, according to researches of two noted Russian historians, became a Hussar officer and took an active part in the war with Napoleon. In 1825 he married a German countess, Lydia Tiesenhaussen. Their son, Alexander Kourakina Jones, became involved in the attempted revolution of 1865 and was exiled to Estonia. There he married Baroness Bertha von Weisserich. Their only daughter was Olga Kourakina Jones, who married a cousin of her mother's, Baron Rudolf von Weisserich. Their only daughter was Helmy.

Thus, nearly a century and a half after John Paul Jones returned to France from Russia, a broken and disappointed man, the story of his romance and marriage to a princess of the court of Catherine the Great, is revealed.

That so interesting a phase in the career of America's first naval hero should have been so long buried in obscurity is in keeping with the peculiar history of the great sea commander.

He was born in humble circumstances at Kirkbean, Scotland, in 1747, the son of a landscape gardener. In later life Jones maintained that he was the natural son of the earl of Selkirk, but this claim was never substantiated. At the age of twelve he was apprenticed to a shipmaster and made his first voyage to America. His name was John Paul Jr.

At the age of 21 John Paul had become the master of a cargo ship and had made many voyages to distant parts of the world, part of the time being engaged in the slave trade. In his early twenties befell the first major tragedy of his life. In the port of Tobago in the West Indies a member of his crew became mutinous and Jones killed him. As no admiralty court then sat in the island, Jones was advised to leave and stay hidden until he could surrender to a court.

He next appeared in America, having taken the name of John Paul Jones. He lived for several years in Virginia and there became acquainted with many leading men of the times, including George Washington. It was through these friendships that he was appointed in 1775 a senior lieutenant in the Continental navy. Later he was commissioned captain and was sent to France to harass the British in their own waters. His success in this mission was climaxed by the memorable victory of the Bon Homme Richard over the Serapis.

Historians tell us that Jones made his decision to accept the invitation of Catherine of Russia on the advice of Thomas Jefferson, then American ambassador to France. It is possible that Jefferson offered no objection, but it is known that George Washington and many other leading men in America, whom Jones admired, were opposed to the Russian venture. Jones must have had a more compelling reason. It is now revealed in her diary, as the love for Princess Anna Kourakina.

This explains fully the only thoroughly foolhardy exploit of Jones' career. In his hurry to reach St Petersburg, and his princess, Jones hired in Denmark a small open boat in which he crossed through ice-filled seas to the Russian coast, threatening the boatmen with a pistol to keep them at the oars. That he arrived was miraculous.

The body of John Paul Jones lies today in the magnificent crypt of the new chapel at the United States naval academy at Annapolis, Md. Following his death in Paris in 1792 at the age of 45, his grave was forgotten for 113 years. In 1905 Ambassador Horace Porter conducted a search for it and found his casket in a cemetery which had been buried under many feet of earth and on which buildings were standing. The casket was removed and the body positively identified as that of Jones.

SAMUEL WOODWORTH, writer of prose and poetry, was born in Scituate, Mass., Jan. 13, 1785. He died in New York Dec. 9, 1842. When a boy he was apprenticed to a publisher, and as a young man he entered literary pursuits. He was one of the founders of the New York Mirror in 1823. He wrote a great deal of miscellaneous poetry and a romance of the War of 1812 called "Champions of Freedom." Little is remembered of his writings save "The Old Oaken Bucket," a poem which attained wide popularity.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET

How dear to this heart are the scenes of my childhood,
 When fond recollection presents them to view!
The orchard, the meadow, the deep-tangled wildwood,
 And every loved spot which my infancy knew;
The wide-spreading pond, and the mill which stood by it,
 The bridge, and the rock where the cataract fell;
The cot of my father, the dairy-house nigh it,
 And e'en the rude bucket which hung in the well,—
The old oaken bucket, the iron-bound bucket,
The moss-covered bucket which hung in the well.

That moss-covered vessel I hail as a treasure;
 For often, at noon, when returned from the field,
I found it the source of an exquisite pleasure,
 The purest and sweetest that nature can yield.
How ardent I seized it, with hands that were glowing!
 And quick to the white-pebbled bottom it fell;
Then soon, with the emblem of truth overflowing,
 And dripping with coolness, it rose from the well;—
The old oaken bucket, the iron-bound bucket,
The moss-covered bucket, arose from the well.

How sweet from the green mossy brim to receive it,
 As, poised on the curb, it inclined to my lips!
Not a full blushing goblet could tempt me to leave it,
 Though filled with the nectar that Jupiter sips.
And now, far removed from the loved situation,
 The tear of regret will intrusively swell
As fancy reverts to my father's plantation
 And sighs for the bucket which hangs in the well;—
The old oaken bucket, the iron-bound bucket,
The moss-covered bucket which hangs in the well.

Bridge Takes Mind Off Worries

By ELY CULBERTSON

(Noted Authority on Bridge)

EVEN though a jury of 15,000,000 American bridge players, mostly women, has decided that bridge is a welcome social activity, there is a feeling that better use should be made of one's leisure time than playing cards.

I am the first to deplore card playing to the total exclusion of other forms of amusement or instruction. Leisure is valuable only in proportion to the intelligent use made of it, but few can read books or listen to music or do home study during all their leisure time. There must also be room for sheer play. And the harder we work the more important it is to forget ourselves in play, for to forget is an ideal mental rest.

My own father was among those who were prejudiced against card games and playing cards in general. Early in my boyhood I developed an interest for card games involving skill and reasoning power. My proclivity in this direction much distressed my father.

"My boy," he used to say, shaking his head sadly, "nothing good will ever come out of you. Look at Mr. Edison! Did he ever waste his time playing cards? I am sure that Mr. Charles M. Schwab, my fellow Pennsylvanian, has never touched a card either!"

But I, fascinated by the bizarre world of cards, could not resist.

When I came to America in 1921 to settle finally in my native country I learned to meet and to know many famous bridge players. I found that most prominent among them was Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, whom my father had used as an example. Mr. Schwab, the president of the Whist Club of New York, was an enthusiastic bridge player and devoted what time he could spare from his duties as chairman of Bethlehem Steel company's board of directors to a pleasant game with friends.

Mr. Schwab attributed his ability to carry on his duties and tasks to the fact that he made it his lifelong rule to rest from all worries and preoccupations by giving a few hours to card games.

"To teach people how to relax," he said, "is just as important a pursuit as to cure them of their ills."

I knew, of course, that this wholly undeserved praise was due entirely to Mr. Schwab's unfailing amiability and perhaps a desire to reward me, his bridge partner, for saving his life once or twice when his propensity to optimistic overbidding got him into a tight hole. But I thought, "If only my father could have heard him!"

Today Charles M. Schwab is, in my opinion, the finest bridge player of his age—he is 73. Let those who doubt it study the masterful play of the hand shown on this page today.

FROM Rome, where Mussolini and his followers are thinking only of war in Africa, comes the news that another one-time dictator still thinks of bridge. The man is Amanullah II., former king of Afghanistan and absolute ruler of 8,000,000 people. Amanullah, king no more, might today still be ruling in Kabul but for this nefarious game.

Thrones have been lost in battles; they have been lost for the love of women; they have been lost, even, on the toss of dice. But it fell to the lot of King Amanullah to lose his throne partly because of an unbridled passion for bridge. Perhaps some wily Englishman taught him the game; the fact remains that the king is a passionate bridge fan. I do not know how true it is. but one of his former bridge partners tells me that a friend once saved his head simply because his majesty despises a three-handed bridge game.

Amanullah's Mohammedan subjects frowned severely on his innovations and on this infidel pastime. When they learned that four figures of women are actually reproduced on a deck of playing cards their rage reached the boiling point at which revolution explodes. With orthodox Mohammedans it is gross sacrilege to paint unveiled women in pictures.

The defeated king took his finesse very deftly, and if he lost in battles it was simply because a king was on the wrong side.

THE finesse, a simple but striking feature of contract bridge, is itself undergoing a mild revolution. We learn every day.

Some people learn the lesson of finesse too well, forgetting that sometimes the most important thing about a finesse is how to avoid it. Study the following simple hand and I am sure it will astonish you:

DUMMY
A Q 6 5 2
DECLARER

Ever since bridge has been bridge the play with a combination like this has been to lead a small card from the dummy's hand and finesse by playing declarer's queen. Even experts and authorities without exception insist on that. This is absolutely wrong and most unscientific. The correct first play is not the queen, but the ace.

There are five cards in the adversaries' hands—the king, jack, 10, 9, and 8. Regardless of how the suit is played, one trick must inevitably be lost; but by playing the ace you gain an extra trick if the king happens to be alone on declarer's left; by playing the queen you gain no extra trick with any combination, and you lose against a singleton king. This play is called a safety play. Bridge and surgery have this in common: any play is like a delicate surgical operation, where not the slightest precaution is neglected.

SUPPOSE you decide to learn contract bridge or to improve your game. The first question on your lips probably will be, "Is it very difficult?" My answer will be, "It is very easy, provided you go about it the right way."

The proper form or style is just as important in bridge as in golf or music. A wrong start in bridge is like the wrong start that loses a race. Of course, when I say that bridge is very easy to learn, I mean fair bridge, not master bridge; good enough to show off to your best girl or to teach a husband that after all he is not so smart.

The second question you will ask is, "How do I go about learning the game?" Start by playing, continue by playing, and finish by playing, unless in the meantime your partner murders you. The play is the thing.

Your next step is to watch others playing. That you can do by "kibitzing" actual games or by reading the hands in this paper. There will be many points in the hand that you will naturally not understand, but some points you will gather, and thus, point by point, you will suddenly find yourself playing and enjoying the game.

Your third step in learning the game is by trying to get a simple idea of its theory. What are the few simple principles back of the hundreds of different plays and dozens of bids? You need a system in any walk of life, even to cross a street. You will begin to read bridge articles, take a peek at a book, perhaps engage a teacher (I recommend the professional rather than the self-appointed one), and bombard your friends and enemies alike with questions. The best way to improve is by asking questions, but always be sure that the person who is to answer them is both willing and qualified. I am not only willing to answer your questions but will be delighted to.

First, I want you to improve your bridge game rapidly, and, second, I have been engaged by The Tribune just for that purpose.

OUTSIDE of the self-addressed, stamped envelope there is only one other condition that I usually require, and that is that your questions must be limited strictly to bridge.

Question: My opponents bid four spades, which they could have made. Neither side was vulnerable. I bid five diamonds and was doubled and set 300 points. Did my bid lose points for me?

Answer: You really made about 120 points profit, since you prevented opponents from scoring game at their own bid. The first game is worth about 420 points to either side, 120 points for the trick score and 300 points equity because of the added chance of winning the rubber later.

The Bidding

(North-South vulnerable)

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	2 clubs
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the club 6. Mr. Schwab, holding the South hand, made the game. How did he do it?

West opened with club 6; East took the ace. South dropped the king! Otherwise East would have known that West had only one club and would have returned a club for West to trump with a small heart. But East did not dream that Mr. Schwab would throw away the king and save the worthless 3 of clubs. So East shifted to diamonds. Mr. Schwab took the diamond ace, the spade king, then the heart queen; he discarded the club 3 on dummy's spade ace and later conceded two diamond tricks, making 4-odd.

Charles M. Schwab celebrated his seventy-third birthday and his fifty years as an enthusiastic whist and bridge player by making four hearts, sitting South on the deal shown above.

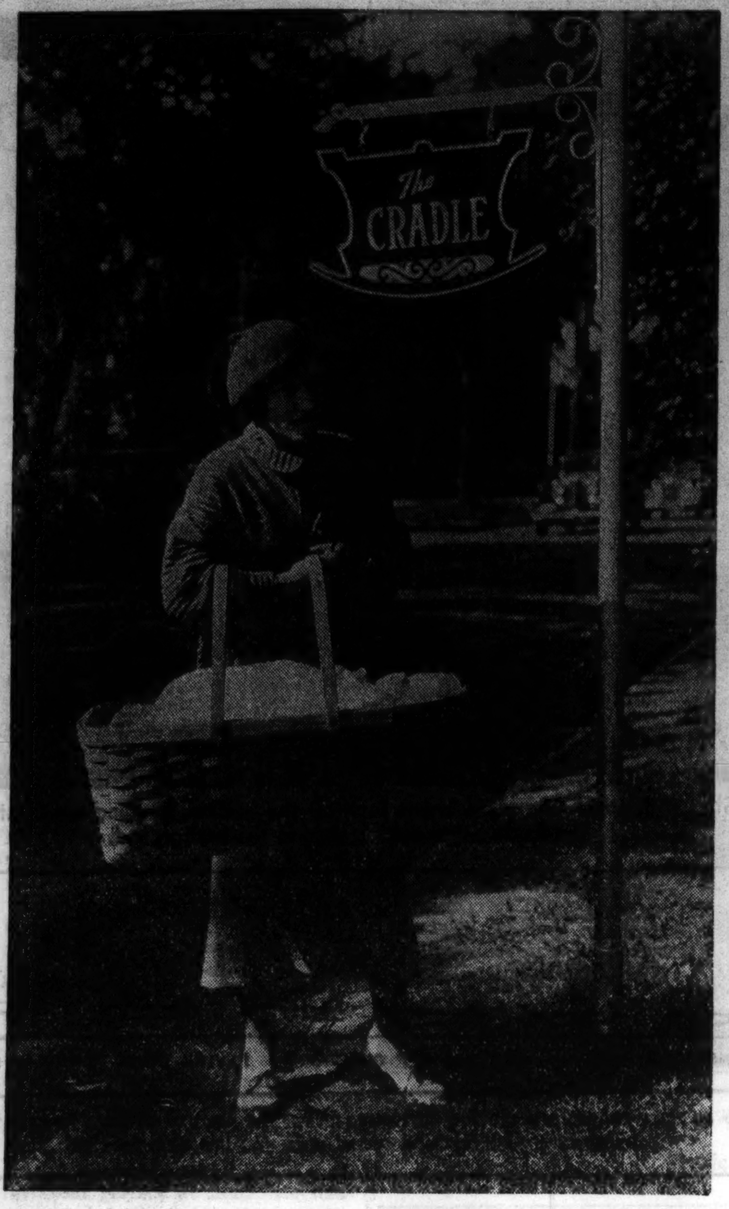
Science Guarantees Healthy Babies at the Cradle

That's Why Infants from That Institution Are So Popular

By KAY HALL



Mrs. Irene Drew, assistant director of the Cradle, carrying a baby in a basket. This frequently is the way babies are brought in.

Exterior view of the Cradle, which occupies three houses at 2039, 2045, and 2049 Ridge avenue, Evanston. The institution was founded twelve years ago. It is operated by the Cradle society.

AL JOLSON, the comedian, and his wife, Ruby Keeler, the motion picture star, have taken an infant for adoption from the Cradle, Evanston's famous baby home.

George Burns and his wife, Gracie Allen, celebrities of radio and screen, have done likewise.

Jolson and Miss Keeler have let it be known that they intend to adopt another child from the Cradle.

And Burns and Allen also plan to acquire another Cradle infant.

There must be a reason for the popularity of cunning little boys and girls from this infants' asylum. Not only do folk prominent in the public eye return to the Cradle for their second babies, but ordinary private families who take children from there are so delighted with their good fortune that they frequently return for other tiny sons and daughters.

The reason why the Cradle's babies are held in such high esteem by foster parents undoubtedly may be found in the efficiency and thoroughness of the Cradle itself.

More Than 2,600 Babies Adopted from the Cradle

More than 2,600 babies have passed from the immaculate glass cubicles of the Cradle into secure foster homes. Only five babies from this haven have been adopted into the homes of motion picture and radio stars. No one but a mathematician would be interested in computing this percentage, so small is it.

Yet because a large portion of the public is celebrity minded, the adoption of these five babies has brought more widespread attention to the Cradle than the sum of its twelve years' work in replacing the lost birthrights of its infant wards and its development of a method of care which has lowered its mortality rate to a point so far unmatched by the known records of any other such institution.

The Cradle, occupying three houses at 2039, 2045, and 2049 Ridge avenue, Evanston, is a half-way station between the motherless child and the childless couple. It grew out of the personal work of Mrs. William B. Walrath, who twenty-one years ago became interested in the welfare of illegitimate children when she went in search of a baby for adoption on behalf of a friend. The wife of an attorney, Mrs. Walrath is the mother of four children and the grandmother of six.

In 1923 the institution was founded and has since been served by an aristocratic roster of north shore men and women making up the Cradle society.

Death Rate in Last Six Years Only 1 per Cent

Its mortality rate in the last six years has been only 1 per cent. The use of an aseptic individual nursery technique perfected by Dr. Gladys Dick in 1928 has made it possible to care for 1,620 infants in that time without the occurrence of any cross infection. During its first six years the Cradle had a 5.8 per cent mortality rate, which was lower than average. Of these deaths 96 per cent were due to enteritis, 75 per cent being contracted after admission. In the last six years only 35 per cent of the deaths were due to enteritis and none was contracted after admission.

Each baby in the home is "contaminated" so far as the others are concerned. The infants not only are isolated from each other in their glass cubicles, but the nurses wear different gowns and masks and go through individual sterilizing processes for each. This represents only a phase of the elaborate routine of the aseptic method, which has been found to be no more expensive in operation, according to a medical survey.

Eighteen Nurses Kept Busy Caring for Babies

There are two and a half units, with twelve babies to each unit. Each unit has its own nurses and supplies. The home has a total of seven graduate nurses and eleven student nurses.

To the layman the Cradle is a glorified baby home. To the medical profession it is a place of scientific accomplishment. To social workers who believe that unmarried mothers should be compelled to keep their children the Cradle is the subject of argument.

The Cradle's approach to this problem is described by Dr. Louis Sauer in the Journal of American Pediatrics as follows:

"Early legal adoption of the healthy illegitimate infant by carefully selected foster parents, eager and able to care for the infant as their own, appears to be a rational solution to this age-old problem. A theory, occasionally promulgated by psychologist or social welfare worker, that the state legally should compel all unwed mothers to keep their offspring for at least a year, would force many more girls to risk the hazards of criminal abortion; many more infants would die from enteritis or other infections; of those who might grow up not a few would become a burden to the state. With a declining birth rate, the urgency of saving these infants increases in importance.

"The Cradle's method is a step forward in social evolution because it is now the safest and most humane plan devised for the unwed mother and her child."

"No mother is going to give up her baby without giving the matter every consideration," says Mrs. Walrath. "Any mother worthy of the name does what is best for her child regardless of the cost to herself. There is no greater penalty for her misstep than in turning her baby over to those who have met the requirements of church and state. These mothers are intelligent. They can come to see their babies while they are here at the Cradle, but once they are legally adopted into homes, they can see them no more."

Always a Waiting List, So Great Is the Demand

The Cradle babies are recommended to its custody by hospitals and physicians or are admitted on request of the mothers. They usually arrive after the ten-day maternity hospital care. There are always more couples, whose applications have been investigated and approved, waiting for babies than there are babies available. If in a few weeks the new arrival has met all the standards of normalcy, he is ready for adoption. He is "matched" with his new parents by nationality, physical characteristics, and the religious affiliation of his true parents.

"The foster parents must prove to us they are persons of integrity, position, or security," Mrs. Walrath says. "They must have been married long enough for stability and have conducted themselves in a way worthy of the privilege of parenthood.

"We must be assured that there is good intelligence and clean blood in the case of the actual parents, and we must have reasonable assurance that there is no inheritable defect. Heredity so far is so unknowable that parents can't possibly predict what strain might come out in their own children. In the case of adopted children, foster parents do not ask certainty, only reasonable assurance that they have a sound and normal child."

Baby Home Supported by Voluntary Contributions

According to Mrs. Walrath, many of the foster parents are college graduates and pay the maternity hospital expenses, so that no charity is involved. Babies come to the Cradle from almost every hospital in Chicago. The proximity of the institution to Northwestern university has created a fallacy that a number of the mothers or fathers of Cradle babies are students, according to Mrs. Walrath.

"This is farthest from the truth," she says. "In cases like those from which the babies come to us the mothers usually go away from home. It should be obvious that they would not go to their own front door, so to speak."

The baby home is supported entirely by voluntary contributions. Many of the foster parents, grateful as their babies grow up, send occasional contributions, according to Mrs. Walrath, but none has ever been outstandingly large.

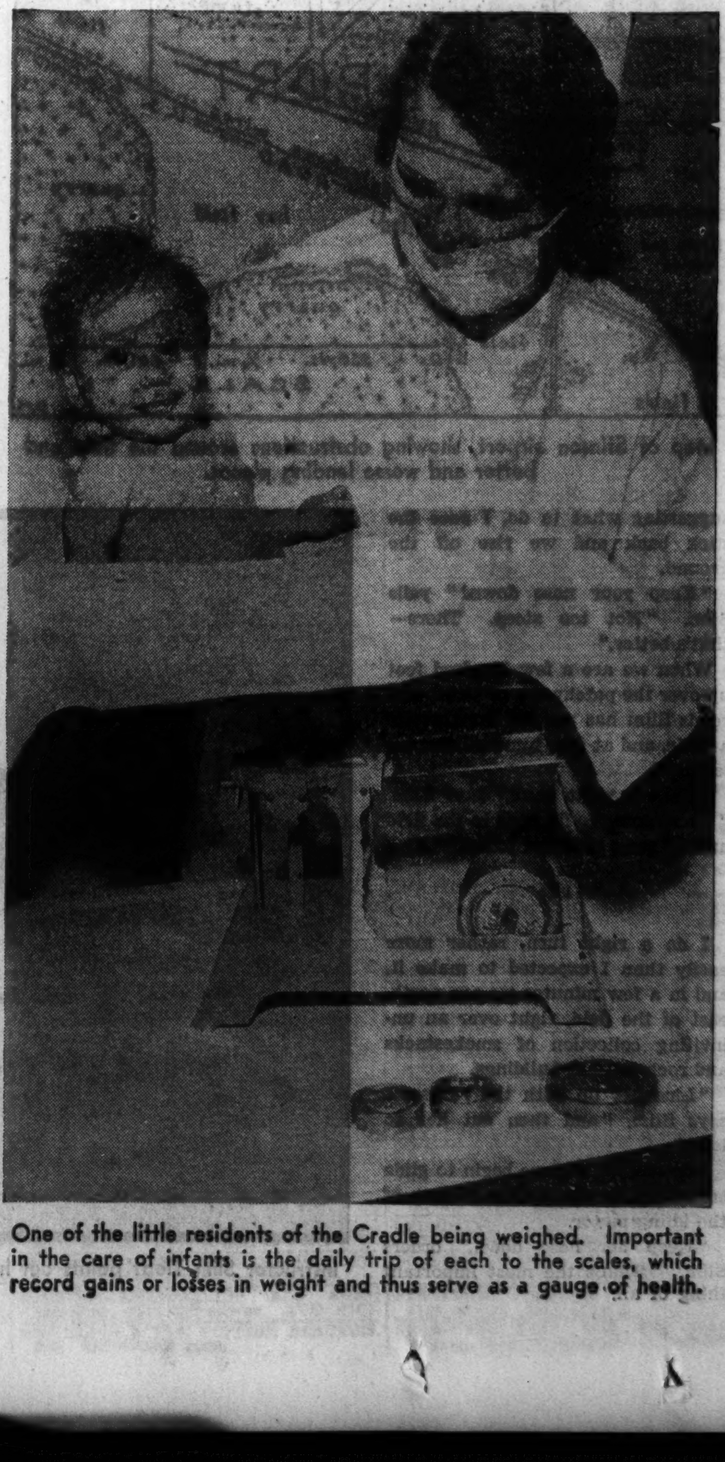
Nurses enjoying breakfast at the Cradle. There are seven graduate nurses and eleven student nurses employed there in taking care of the infants. The institution is operated on a unit basis, with each unit having its own nurses and supplies. To the layman the Cradle is a glorified baby home, to the medical profession a scientific accomplishment.



One of the little residents of the Cradle being weighed. Important in the care of infants is the daily trip of each to the scales, which record gains or losses in weight and thus serve as a gauge of health.

What's New in World of Airplanes and Air Transportation

Student Takes Second Lesson in Flying

This is the second article of a series on the subject of "Learning to Fly." Here the student tells of his experiences and describes his reactions on his second lesson in piloting an airplane. In this lesson he took off and landed his ship four times, each with but little assistance from his instructor. How he progresses in subsequent lessons will be related Sunday by Sunday in the Graphic Section of The Chicago Tribune.

By GUY MURCHIE JR.

AT EIGHT o'clock of a sunny Sunday morning lesson two begins. It is best to fly fairly early in the morning during the summer, because after nine or ten o'clock the air gets pretty bumpy. This, says Instructor Slim, is because the hot sun heats some parts of the ground more than others, producing upward currents of air over the hot places, such as a dry field, and downward currents over the cooler places, like a swamp or a pond. If you are a beginner the motion of such air currents is very upsetting to you, literally, and as you toss about you don't know whether what happens is due to your efforts or the instructor's efforts or the wind's efforts.

For all these reasons, Slim says I ought to fly in the morning—at least until I begin to know a little something.

"You take her," says Slim. "The wind is from the southwest today. Taxi her down that runway parallel to the road and then we'll turn around and take off coming back."

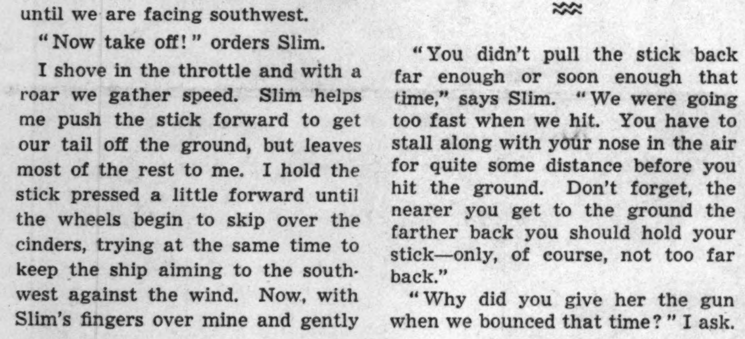
I put both feet on the rudder pedals, grab the stick with my left hand and the throttle with my right. Then, pushing in the throttle to give her the gun, I press on the left pedal to turn around to the left and head for the runway, rumbling over the rough cinders. It is not easy for me to keep the ship aiming straight, even on the ground. It steers by the rudder catching the wind made by the propeller and blowing the tail to the right or the left, as desired, but it is hard at first to give the tail just the proper amount of blow.

At last we turn around in the long grass at the far end of the runway until we are facing southwest.

"Now take off!" orders Slim.

I shove in the throttle and with a roar we gather speed. Slim helps me push the stick forward to get our tail off the ground, but leaves most of the rest to me. I hold the stick pressed a little forward until the wheels begin to skip over the cinders, trying at the same time to keep the ship aiming to the southwest against the wind. Now, with Slim's fingers over mine and gently suggesting what to do, I ease the stick back and we rise off the ground.



Map of Stinson airport, showing obstructions around the field and better and worse landing places.

"Keep your nose down!" yells Slim. "Not too steep. There—that's better."

When we are a few hundred feet up over the patchwork of farms and roads Slim has me cut the throttle a little, and at four hundred feet we level off.

"Take a right bank," says Slim. "We're going to fly back to the field and do some landings today."

I do a right turn, rather more easily than I expected to make it, and in a few minutes we are northeast of the field, right over an uninviting collection of smokestacks and rock crusher buildings.

"Line her up with the runway," says Slim, "and then cut her to land."

I do as told, and we begin to glide earthward in the sudden silence of the idling motor.

"Keep her nose down," orders Slim. "That's the most important thing of all."

Down we go—right toward a vegetable garden that immediately adjoins the flying field. As we get within twenty or thirty feet of the ground Slim's fingers tell me that it is time to begin leveling her off. We straighten out, still going southwest against the wind, and gradually sink closer and closer to the runway under us. As the ground comes up to meet us I ease back on the stick, under Slim's guidance, and we drop our tail and reduce our speed, and presently I hear the gratifying clump-clump of the little wheels bounding over the cinders. We roll about fifty yards and come to a stop.

"Do you know what the angle of attack is?" asks Slim. "It is the angle of the wing against the air. The angle of attack reaches its highest efficiency at about 16 degrees off the horizontal; that is, when your wing is tilted up 16 degrees it is doing the most good toward holding the ship up. Beyond that it drags too much and reduces your flying speed. When you land you want to pull the stick back more and more as you get near the ground. That drops your tail and tilts your angle of attack to the maximum efficiency and then beyond that angle. As it gets beyond 16 degrees you slow up a lot and consequently drop faster. You should be just off the ground at this time, so that you land at slow speed, yet before the ship has really begun to drop much. Now let's try it again."

We taxi around, returning to the northeast corner of the field before taking off to the southwest. Slim hardly has to touch the stick at all this time, but I feel a great relief as we finally bound off the ground for the last time and get into the safe sky. In landing I level off unassisted and drop the stick back to land. But we hit the ground pretty hard and bounce into the air again, and Slim has to help me get her back to earth. He gives her the gun—just one or two little blasts—and holds our nose up so that our speed is reduced, and we land easily on our three points.

"You didn't pull the stick back far enough or soon enough that time," says Slim. "We were going too fast when we hit. You have to stall along with your nose in the air for quite some distance before you hit the ground. Don't forget, the nearer you get to the ground the farther back you should hold your stick—only, of course, not too far back."

"Why did you give her the gun when we bounced that time?" I ask.

The writer standing in front of the tiny Aeronca plane, which weighs, when empty, only two and one-half times his weight.

"O, that was to keep up flying speed," says Slim. "If I hadn't done that we might have got going too slow at too high off the ground. If you stall too high off the ground you start to spin. Even if the spin begins when you are only a foot or two off the ground, it is liable to twist you and tie you in a knot when you land."

A third time we take off. Slim doesn't touch the stick at all this time. But as our tail goes up and we begin to hit the high spots as we skip along against the wind, suddenly the left wing drops a little. We are tipping toward the left while still bounding along the ground at some forty or fifty miles an hour. My instinct is too slow to right the ship instantly, and Slim has to come to my rescue with a dip to the right on the stick, and before I know it we are safe in the air again.

"What made us tip to the left that way?" I ask.

"O, that was a little puff of wind," replies Slim.

"Didn't it almost wreck us?" say I.

"No, don't worry too much about that," says Slim. "It is fairly normal to students. You can't get everything all at once. As you get the feel of the ship more you will feel things like that coming before they happen, and then you can offset them and keep them from happening."

On around I go in the same rectangular course and glide down to the field again from the northeast. I am getting so I know when to cut the motor now, and about how steep an angle I should glide at. Again we bounce into the air once before we land, but not so badly as the last time. I can judge our speed a little better than at first, but still have practically no consciousness of the wind or of our motion relative to the air.

Once more I repeat the performance, and after this fourth landing Slim has me taxi back to the hangars. My hour is up.

"How much do you weigh?" asks Slim.

"Two hundred."

"Is that so? Well, we got off the ground pretty easy, considering," he says. "When you solo — it usually takes about eight hours of instruction before a student should solo—you will find that the ship gets off the ground much easier, being without my 170 pounds. Landing will be different to you also when you are alone in the ship, but you will know how to allow for the differences all right by that time."

"Do you think I'll be able to solo in eight hours?"

"Well, you've had only two hours so far, and you're farther along than the average. I don't like to say when you'll solo yet. We'll see. Students are different, and lots of them are kind of temperamental. I don't want to take any chances. Some need to have their spirits pepped up. Some need to have their spirits slowed down. Generally the older ones are more cautious. They fly pretty safe. The young ones, around 18, are apt to be more radical. They learn quick, and some of them get so they think they know more than the instructor does. Some of them I have to drop, because they are too wild to be good flyers. I tell them they better let somebody else do the flying. If they later go ahead with flying some other place it is not my responsibility."

"Have any of your students been killed?" I ask, recalling that two days ago an experienced pilot was killed at another airport in a plane exactly like this one, and that only yesterday a close friend of mine was killed in Milwaukee when his plane lost flying speed and went into a spin at three or four hundred feet.

"Not as far as I know," answers Slim, "though I don't keep track of all of them. I don't expect to keep a perfect record for long. Every instructor is bound to get students killed. It isn't due to bad instruction. It's almost always due to careless or foolish students."

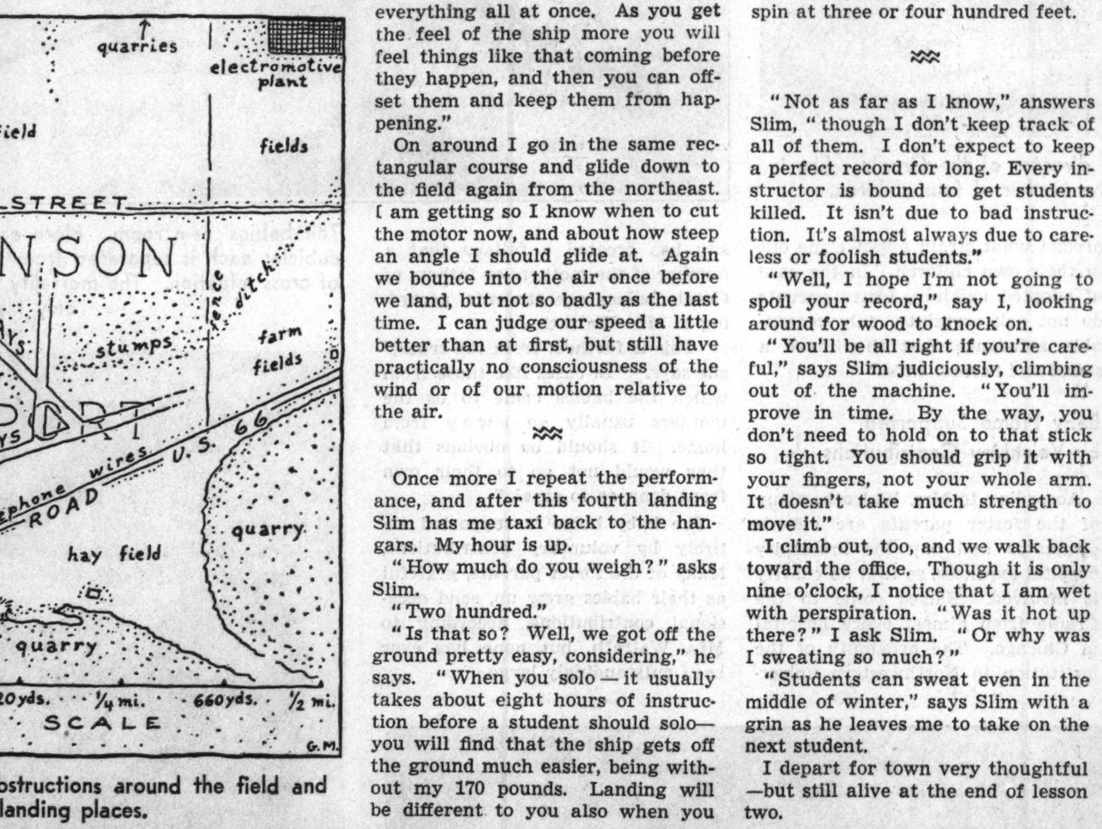
"Well, I hope I'm not going to spoil your record," say I, looking around for wood to knock on.

"You'll be all right if you're careful," says Slim judiciously, climbing out of the machine. "You'll improve in time. By the way, you don't need to hold on to that stick so tight. You should grip it with your fingers, not your whole arm. It doesn't take much strength to move it."

I climb out, too, and we walk back toward the office. Though it is only nine o'clock, I notice that I am wet with perspiration. "Was it hot up there?" I ask Slim. "Or why was I sweating so much?"

"Students can sweat even in the middle of winter," says Slim with a grin as he leaves me to take on the next student.

I depart for town very thoughtful—but still alive at the end of lesson two.



Instructor Slim Tiedt points out how the ailerons work. As the right aileron goes down the left one goes up, and vice versa.

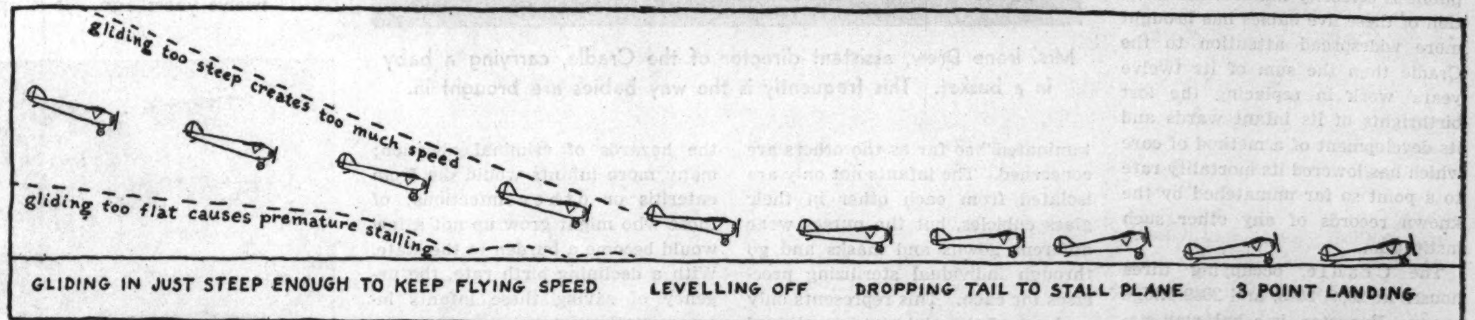
climbing too steep will stall the plane
START
GETTING TAIL UP TO INCREASE SPEED
GETTING OFF GROUND
FLYING LEVEL TO PICK UP MORE SPEED
CLIMBING GENTLY

In taking off you get your tail up as soon as you are moving fast enough for the control surfaces to grip the air. This minimizes air resistance, increasing your forward speed until you are able to climb.



gliding too steep creates too much speed gliding too flat causes premature stalling
GLIDING IN JUST STEEP ENOUGH TO KEEP FLYING SPEED
LEVELLING OFF
DROPPING TAIL TO STALL PLANE
3 POINT LANDING

In landing you glide toward the runway with just enough flying speed to stay in the air. Gradually you level off just above the ground till your forward motion is at a minimum at the instant you touch.

Queen Important in Ethiopia

Empress Waizeru Mennen of Ethiopia is regarded in her native land as a woman of high intelligence. Here she is shown with Emperor Haile Selassie I., her husband, and the wife of the German ambassador, Frau Kirchholtes, the last named at the left.

IN FAR-AWAY Ethiopia, over which war clouds gather thicker and thicker as Mussolini's zero hour approaches, there is little attention given nowadays to royal pomp and pageantry. Emperor Haile Selassie I. is too busy with pressing problems of state to allow much time for ceremonies. And Empress Waizeru Mennen, his faithful wife and companion, is just as wrapped up as he in the critical situation that confronts their kingdom. The empress, it should be established in the minds of all who are interested, is just about as important a figure in Ethiopia as the emperor himself.

Like all of royal blood in Ethiopia, she claims to come from the stock that produced the biblical Queen of Sheba who bore a son by the wise King Solomon. Empress Waizeru, whose official title is "queen of kings," is the daughter of a celebrated provincial prince and is Emperor Haile Selassie's only wife. The king is strictly monogamous.

Empress Waizeru was married three times before she became the wife twenty-three years ago of the chieftain Ras Tafari, who now is Emperor Haile Selassie. The royal couple are the parents of three sons and three daughters.

The empress has three outstanding characteristics. She is astute. She is soft-spoken. And she is stout.

The queen is endowed with such keen intelligence that her royal mate consults her frequently in matters of state. It was she who advised the emperor strongly against yielding to the threats of Italy and to stand out stanchly to the end for defense of the country rather than disgraceful peace.

Reserved, modest, and of few words, Empress Waizeru attaches the gravest importance to every word that she utters. She speaks only Amharic, a Semitic language the origin of which goes back into remote antiquity. In conversation with foreigners, an ordeal which she avoids as much as possible, particularly now since the kingdom is facing a crisis, she is compelled to employ the services of the royal interpreter. Her lady in waiting, a woman of German birth who has been in Ethiopia for many years, is able to converse with the empress in the latter's own language.

Although Empress Waizeru lives not in the extravagant practices or lavish traditions of Queen Cleopatra of Egypt, from whom she claims descent, she does take great pleasure in her own private court, with its chamberlains, ladies in waiting, jesters, and men-at-arms. She is addressed by her ten to twelve million subjects as "your serene and all-just majesty," and she signs herself "The conquering lion of Judah had conquered." On the occasion of an important state dinner the empress orders out her solid gold plate dinner service.

Like the emperor, Empress Waizeru, who is only 41 years old despite the fact that Haile Selassie is her fourth husband, prefers European food to that served after the native manner of cooking. Her attendants feed her, for in the eyes of Ethiopians it would profane the royal touch if the "queen of kings" were to bring her fingers in contact with food.

Empress Waizeru is the possessor of a rich store of valuable jewels and a great wardrobe of gorgeous capes and robes, many brocaded in thread of gold and studded with gems. When the empress receives guests in the open, which is frequently when there is no war crisis at hand, she sits beneath a great crimson canopy which shelters her from the burning tropical sun. Her dainty unshod feet rest upon a velvet cushion, and her manicured hands, covered with jewels, rest upon her lap. A black attendant stands near, brushing aside swarms of flies with a horse's tail, while another fans her with a spreading fan of peacock feathers.

As for the queen's personal appearance: She is not very tall, and, as mentioned before, she is extremely stout. She has a delicate olive complexion, her skin being much lighter than that of the emperor. Her hair, which is abundant, black, and kinky, usually is worn in the form of a high pompadour.

Help Kidneys

Don't Take Drastic Drugs

Your kidneys contain 9 million tiny tubes or filters which may be endangered by neglect or drastic, irritating drugs. Be careful. If functional Kidney or Bladder disorders make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Loss of Pep, Leg Pains, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes, Neuralgia, Acidity, Burning, Smarting or Itching, you don't need to take chances. All druggists now have the most modern advanced treatment for these troubles—a Doctor's prescription called Cystex (Siss-Tex). Works fast—safe and sure. In 48 hours it must bring new vitality and is guaranteed to make you feel years younger in one week or money back on return of empty package. Cystex costs only 3c a dose at druggists and the guarantee protects you.

Some of Newest Metals Excel in Lightness

By DR. THOMAS M. BECK

WE HAVE no record of the time when men first began to use metals. Doubtless the first ones used were those which are found naturally in a free state. Gold, for example, is almost always found as the metal. Copper, although usually occurring as an ore, is occasionally found in metallic lumps as a result of some unusual combination of natural causes. And while the available terrestrial iron occurs entirely as a nonmetallic ore, small amounts of the free metal occasionally reach the earth as meteorites.

The stone age did not end until the chemical reaction known as reduction was discovered some ten thousand years ago. Since most of the metallic ores within our reach consist of a metal combined chemically with at least one other nonmetallic element, usually oxygen, it is necessary to obtain the free metal by reducing the ore; that is, by heating it with some substance having a greater affinity for the oxygen than does the metal itself. The earliest reducing agent to be used was carbon, readily obtainable in the form of charcoal. Thus when copper oxide is heated with carbon, copper and carbon dioxide are produced.

The first metal made available by the discovery of this reaction probably was copper. In those ancient days metals were desired for the manufacture of cutting instruments, and pure copper is too soft for this purpose. However, some neolithic genius discovered that the addition of a little tin (another easily reducible metal) formed the alloy bronze, which was hard enough to satisfy the simple wants of the period.

A few thousand years later iron came into use and since then has remained the most important of all metals. By the year 1800 almost a dozen solid metals were known, of which only seven (iron, copper, tin, lead, zinc, silver, and gold) had any practical industrial uses.

A property of the above metals that is disadvantageous in a great many cases is the weight. In fact, heaviness came to be almost a synonym for the metallic state. Of course, most metals are heavier than nonmetals; in fact, the densest substances known are certain metals. Yet there are a number that are surprisingly light. Some will actually float on water. But these were unknown 150 years ago. Without exception, the light metals have a very great affinity for oxygen and cannot be reduced from the combined to the metallic state simply by heating with carbon.

These metals might never have been known had it not been for the discovery of a new tool for the metallurgist. This was the electric current. When a direct current is passed through a molten salt of some metal the metal itself is deposited at the negative electrode. At first this method was one of only theoretical interest, since the only electric current available came from batteries, a relatively expensive source. It was not until the latter part of the nineteenth century that the development of the generator led to the production of electric power cheap enough to use for the electro-reduction of metals.

Aluminum was known for many years as the metal theoretically present in the compound known as alum, from whence comes its name. It was first isolated as a pure metal by Friedrich Woehler about 1827. It remained a laboratory curiosity until about 1850, when its future industrial importance was foreseen by a French chemist, St. Claire Deville. After years of research Deville succeeded in working out a method, consisting of treating aluminum chloride with sodium, whereby he was able to offer the metal to the world at a price of $17 an ounce. He found few buyers at that price.

He did, however, present an aluminum helmet to the Emperor Napoleon III. and an aluminum rattle to the young prince imperial. So while Deville failed to revolutionize the industrial world, he certainly did his part in contributing to the somewhat gaudy glories of the second empire.

In 1884 a young American college student, Charles M. Hall, attended a chemistry lecture. The professor showed the class a sample of aluminum and predicted that fame and fortune awaited the man who found a means of isolating it cheaply, since its ores were practically unlimited. Hall immediately dedicated himself to finding a solution for this problem.

Working in an improvised laboratory in a barn, aided by occasional advice from his teacher, he succeeded in 1886 in finding an electrolytic method for preparing aluminum. By strange coincidence, a young Frenchman, Heroult, who had been working on the problem quite independently, made the same discovery almost simultaneously, but Hall had achieved priority by a few months.

Hall's process, while much more efficient than that of Deville, was far from perfect at first. He had succeeded in lowering the metal's price from about that of gold to that of silver, but the cost still barred any extensive use. In the face of technical difficulties, and handicapped by lack of capital, he continued to improve his method and within ten years was selling the metal at less than a dollar a pound. Since then production of aluminum has increased steadily, until it is now the fifth most common metal in use.

Aluminum is used wherever a combination of lightness and strength is desired. The pure metal is highly reactive with various corrosive substances, yet in actual practice it resists corrosion very much better than the theoretically more resistant iron. The reason for this is that aluminum on exposure to the atmosphere forms a microscopically thin, tough, air-tight coating of aluminum rust which gives the underlying metal perfect protection against corrosion. Iron, on the other hand, forms a brittle, porous rust that flakes off and exposes more metal.

Along with the advantages of lightness and rust resistance, pure aluminum has the disadvantage of being relatively soft. For a long time this limited its use to the manufacture of kitchen utensils, sheet aluminum, and similar uses in which it was not subjected to very great strain. Since the war, however, there have been developed some highly successful aluminum alloys, in which the metal has a strength approaching that of steel, with no sacrifice of lightness. Oddly enough, in the cases of some of the most useful of these alloys the aluminum, in gaining strength, loses much of its resistance to corrosion. This fault, however, can easily be remedied by giving the alloy a thin coating of the pure metal.

At present aluminum can replace ordinary steel with a 40 per cent reduction in weight. The value of this in aviation needs no comment. For land transportation excess weight means loss of power because of increased friction and wasted energy in starting and stopping. For these reasons aluminum alloys are now replacing steel wherever high-speed transportation is required. Similarly, large moving parts of machinery are beginning to be made of aluminum.

Just as aluminum is replacing steel, it also is competing with the other common metals. Tin, for example, is essential in the highly important canning industry. Yet tin is a relatively rare metal and the supplies of it face eventual exhaustion. Experiments are being made to develop aluminum as a substitute for the tin used in cans.

The greatest part of the world's lead and zinc is used for protecting metal surfaces, both as paint pigments, such as white lead, and, in the case of zinc, in galvanizing. The use of paints containing metallic aluminum is becoming increasingly common. Such paints have the added advantage of having considerable heat insulating power.

About 1700 the two interesting compounds, Epsom salts and magnesia, were discovered. In time they were recognized as being compounds of the same metallic element, which eventually was isolated in 1830 by the French chemist Bussey. The method used by him was that of the electric current, which has remained the only practical method of preparing the metal.

Toward the end of the last century magnesium became an article of commerce because of a unique property it possessed. In the form of a ribbon or a powder it can easily be ignited, burning with a brilliant white light that contains just the right wave lengths for photography. It became and still is the essential ingredient used in flashlight powders and bulbs.

It has been only since the war that the method of preparation has become efficient enough to permit the use of the metal in actual structural work. Like aluminum, the pure metal is unsatisfactory for many purposes, but the last few years have seen the invention of a number of magnesium alloys that rival those of aluminum.

The properties of the metal resemble those of aluminum, but to an exaggerated degree. It is about 30 per cent lighter and is much more chemically reactive, as is shown by the fact that it burns and that it is badly corroded by boiling water. However, its alloys can be made quite resistant to ordinary atmospheric corrosion. There is one important difference between the two metals in this respect. Aluminum is fairly stable against weak acid solutions, but is quickly corroded by alkaline; the reverse is true of magnesium.

Just as aluminum is a threat to the older metals, so magnesium is a threat to aluminum. At present the superiority of magnesium in certain fields is balanced somewhat by its higher costs. But, like aluminum, its supplies are practically inexhaustible, so that its future price will depend largely upon technical improvements in its manufacture.

The metal beryllium, obtained electrolytically from beryls, was first isolated by Woehler in 1828. For nearly a hundred years it dwelt in obscurity. Following the war German chemists attacked the problem of preparing it in commercial quantities, in the hope that an available supply would create a market for it.

The metal is as light as magnesium. It is somewhat more reactive, being attacked slowly by cold water. It has one advantage over aluminum and magnesium in that it is much harder. But from an economic standpoint it is in much the same position as was aluminum during the 1850s. It is readily available, but at a cost that prohibits any large-scale use. Small amounts of it can be used to harden other softer metals, particularly copper.

The pure metal happens to be more transparent to X-rays than any other that can be had. Accordingly it has been used in certain phases of X-ray work, but the demand for this purpose is hardly great enough to found a mighty industry. Its interest lies in the possibilities of future importance.

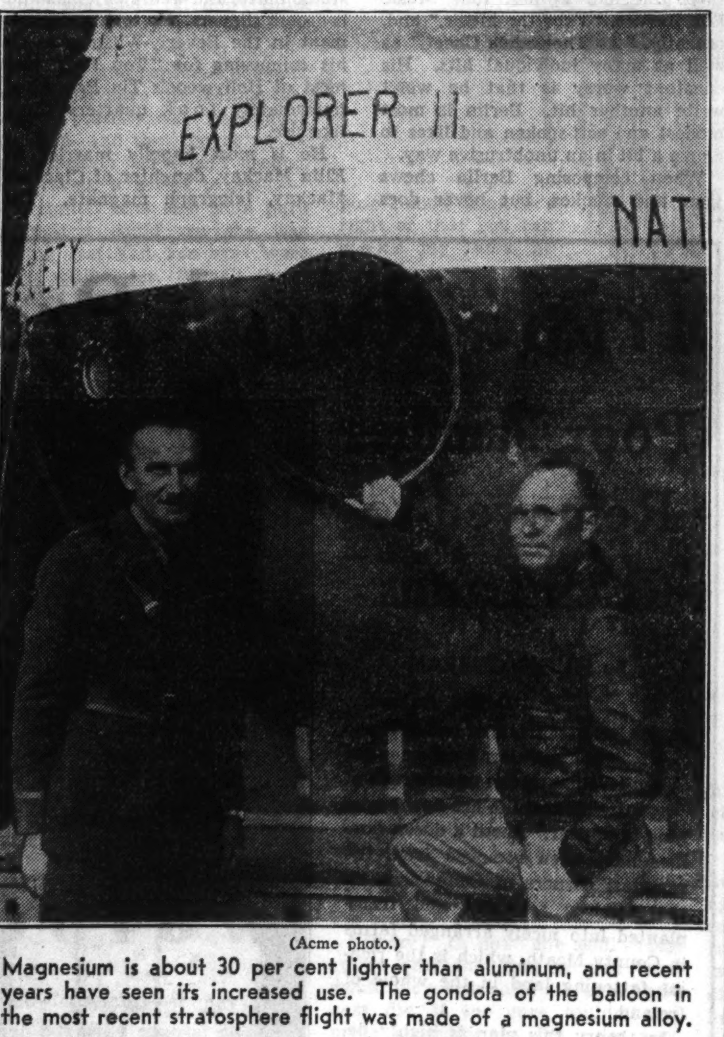
Among the uses to which aluminum alloys have been put is the making of masts for racing yachts. These masts are able to withstand terrific strains.



(Acme photo.)
Magnesium is about 30 per cent lighter than aluminum, and recent years have seen its increased use. The gondola of the balloon in the most recent stratosphere flight was made of a magnesium alloy.

Here and There Among the Dogs

THOUGH all of us who own dogs hardly can expect to keep our pets for eight, ten, or twelve years without the animals suffering from some ailments, a check-up among veterinarians at most any time of the year shows that many dog owners are penny wise and pound foolish in attempting to administer "home remedies" for ailments that the dogs do not have.

We were talking with a veterinarian a few days ago about hookworm. While discussing hookworm and other kinds of parasites of dogs the veterinarian commented on how many cases he received at his hospital every week, not because the animals were suffering from the effects of worms, but from the serious reactions of worm medicine.

This veterinarian said: "I can count on seven or eight dogs being brought to my hospital every week because they were given worm medicine by their owners when the dogs were slightly ill, usually from some minor digestive disturbances. The idea seems to be to dose a dog with worm medicine every time it is ill. Many owners believe that every time a dog is ailing it must be worms that cause the illness."

This is not the only veterinarian who has commented on the complex that many dog owners have which blames worms for about 90 per cent of all sicknesses in immature or adult dogs. We will wager that you can step into almost any small-animal hospital today and find dogs being treated for the after-effects of strong worm medicine given after a home diagnosis. We have visited three such hospitals in a row and never have failed to find a few dogs in each for such treatment. It is true (as your veterinarian will tell you) that most dogs must be treated for worms. It is also true that puppies usually are infested with worms and are given medicine to eliminate them when the pups are several weeks old. One dog owner who lives near us usually worms pups when they are around six weeks of age and then several weeks later when they are eating solid foods and drinking milk. These treatments are to kill round worms, the commonest type of worm that infests our dogs. We know another kennel owner who administers worm medicine to puppies either once or twice when they are quite young and then gives them another dose at six months of age.

The point is that young dogs must be watched for signs of worms and treated for them in an intelligent manner. If the job is done right, and then precautions are taken to prevent the dogs from being reinfested, one does not have to worry about worming the dogs frequently. Of course, a careless dog owner who does not keep his kennel yards clean can expect his dogs to continue to suffer from worms. We never think of giving any of our dogs a worm capsule unless the veterinarian makes a microscopic examination to prove that a dog has worms. This seems like a commonsense practice, because why should we dose our pets with strong medicine if they don't need it?

When you buy a new puppy be sure and ask the seller when the pup was wormed. Likely as not you'll find that the animal was given worm medicine just a few weeks before. Such being the case, there is no need to take the pup home and feed it worm capsules the first thing. Furthermore, we believe it is economy to take the pup to a veterinarian, have it examined, and at the same time learn from the vet something about the symptoms of worms, how a dog becomes infested (the cycle of development of worms is not generally known among dog owners), and how worm medicines act upon a dog's system.

At any rate, if you care anything about your dog, don't give it a worm capsule every time it is ill, because this practice may prove to be rather costly.

DOG NOTES

Adam Strauss, well known cocker spaniel breeder and judge, has been chosen to judge the children's class which will be sponsored by the Cocker Spaniel Club of the Middle West during the Western Specialty association dog show in Chicago Nov. 23-24.

Last year the children's classes brought 25 boys and girls into the show ring with their cocker spaniels. The club now is working to increase this entry. This year the winner of the children's classes each will receive a handsome young cocker spaniel puppy as a prize.

Herman E. Mellenthin, well known eastern spaniel breeder and judge, will be in the ring to pick the winners among the cockers at the dog show. More than 135 special prizes have been put up for the various classes at this year's show.

According to the reports from eastern shows, another Chicago-owned wire-haired terrier has started on the road to fame and ribbons. This time it is Deerpath Dee Dee, owned by Paul C. Loeber of Lake Forest, recently judged best of winners at Syracuse. (We can remember this good looking "young lady," because we put her in a sock and made her pose for her picture when she was just about nine weeks old!)

Today marks the beginning of national dog week. This week is set aside for man's best friend. All through the country there will be dog exhibitions, window displays, parades of pets, and other activities to focus attention upon the value of dogs.

According to Dog World magazine, the purposes of this movement (started in 1928) are as follows: 1. A dog in every home. 2. Better dogs and better care for all of them, pedigreed or not pedigreed. 3. To educate dog owners as to their obligations both to their dogs and the public generally. 4. To teach kindness and consideration by children and adults toward dogs and animals in general. 5. To emphasize the use of the dog as a home protector and faithful companion. 6. To secure fair and just laws for dogs and their owners.

While visiting a few Chicagoland kennels several days ago we found representatives of an almost "forgotten breed," one that you rarely see in our middle western dog shows or in the duck blinds around here. These were Irish water spaniels, those funny looking water dogs with "rat tails" and topknots that make these spaniels so distinctive in appearance. It was like seeing old friends to come upon these spaniels, because we have had many a delightful hour of duck shooting with Irish water spaniels doing the retrieving.

One of these spaniels that we saw the other day was a male being trained for duck hunting by Francis Hogan of Midlothian. The other was a good-sized female going to school under the tutelage of A. P. Moecher of Aurora. (This dog is owned by George Henneberry, a Chicago sportsman who also is interested in springer spaniels.)

Many Chicagoland dog breeders are planning to take their dogs to the show that will be held in Ottumwa, Ia., Sept. 28 and 29. This is the first all-breed licensed show to be held by the Southern Iowa Kennel club. Volney Platt, president of the club, informs us that the show will be held in the spacious armory, where there is plenty of room to bench and judge dogs. C. J. Cassleman has been signed to do the judging.

Chicagoland kennels can "point with pride" to the number of fine Boston terriers that they own. This is a strong Boston terrier city, with many breeders developing excellent show type dogs. One of the newest Chicago champions of this breed is Champion Hagerty Westchester's Son, which won its championship at the Mission Valley Kennel club show in Kansas City.

Hollywood Captures Tin Pan 'Alley's Outstanding Genius

Films Sign Berlin for 5 Years

By ROSALIND SHAFFER

Irving Berlin "has no musical education, and composes on a trick piano with a shifting keyboard that enables him to write everything in the key of F sharp."

". . . after several months in Hollywood, [Berlin] has completed his first complete musical score for a motion picture, 'Top Hat,' for Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers." (The three together.)

Hollywood, Cal.

IRVING BERLIN, after several months in Hollywood, has finished his first complete musical score for a motion picture, "Top Hat," for Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. He confesses he likes the movies, is crazy about the country with its desert and seaside resorts, and has just signed a five-year contract with Radio Pictures to do musical films. The last of the great Broadway figures from Tin Pan Alley has fallen for the siren lure of Hollywood. His next film will be "Follow the Feet," also with Astaire and Rogers.

Berlin was always doubtful about composing for motion picture purposes. He says: "Frankly, I was not sold on the talkie-movies for a long time. I wasn't sure I could do what was necessary for success in films. Then, too, I was very busy with my Broadway shows and couldn't see any reason to risk my reputation in an entirely new field.

"Conditions in the song-writing field are very different today from the years when I made my start and my early reputation. The great musical machine of today, the radio and the screen, as well as the stage and the night clubs, must be fed. The answer to that is there aren't enough good tunes to go around. In the old days if there were four or five good hit numbers in the whole music-writing field it was a good year. Today it's much harder to get a hit song, because there's such a mass of popular stuff to wade through. This forced popularization of music is a difficult thing to work against. It's like keeping a kite in the air with no wind. The minute a song writer stops plugging the kite comes down. You're only as good as your last song, if you wrote it yesterday. Otherwise you're lost in the shuffle."

In speaking of musical trends for popular use Berlin says: "Bands probably will always hold on to the fox-trot rhythms; it's a graceful dance, and it's a good and proper reason for a young man to put his arm around a pretty girl in public. It's the same with the waltz.

"Working for motion pictures is a steadier grind than for the stage. I find myself working mostly days; that is necessary because of the studio routine. In some ways writing for films is more difficult than writing for the stage. One must strive consciously for hit songs. On the stage you write a bunch of songs and let the audience decide which are hit numbers. For the screen, once it's in celluloid there's no revision, so one must strive and build for hit numbers. Screen writing is more compressed. Take my stage show, 'As Thousands Cheer,' for example. It has fourteen musical items, some songs running as long as eight minutes. In 'Top Hat' there are six songs, none running longer than three minutes. The film leaves no room for opening bits for choruses and special extra material; there isn't time for it.

"A stage show runs two and three-quarter hours or more. A screen features takes eighty to ninety minutes. There's your answer; your material must be more concentrated, and you've got to be surer of the hit qualities of your numbers.

"In films a song must be a situation. In other words, the song must advance the plot. If a song can be omitted without needing an explanation in the story to replace it, it's out of order and useless. This answers the question so often asked, 'Do you write a song from inspiration and then build your story around it?' The answer is no; the song is developed along with the story. Mark Sandrich, the director; Pandro Berman, the producer, and I, with help from Astaire, too, picked the spots for the songs in 'Top Hat.' There's no other intelligent way to do it."

Closeup of the Berlin hands moving over the keyboard as they do when the creator of song hits is composing.

Much has been made of the stories that Berlin has had no musical education and composes on a trick piano with a shifting keyboard that enables him to write everything in the key of F sharp. Asked about it, he quietly affirmed it. Questioned as to whether he ever wished for a musical education, he says:

"At the present stage of my musical career a musical background would be a great source of personal satisfaction to me. As to whether it might have helped or hindered me in the line that I have followed, I don't know. Victor Herbert fifteen or sixteen years ago told me: 'It might be that too much musical science would deflect you—but real talent would come through in some form anyway.' I might have turned to some other phase of musical composition—it's hard to tell."

"It's often been said that you've used incidents from your own life as the inspiration for your songs, Mr. Berlin. Is that true?" we asked.

"Not particularly so," he answered with a twinkle. "I was only a fresh kid when I wrote 'My Wife's Gone to the Country,' and so it was with many others of my songs. Of course, many did come from personal inspiration; what creative worker does not draw from his life? It often happens that a really great, heart-throbbing, romantic song comes out of the red pages of a music publisher's ledger."

However much Berlin may disclaim it in his joking way, poignant situations in his own life—the loss of his first wife, Dorothy Goetz, by death after only a few months of marriage, his romance with and marriage to his second, Ellin Mackay—furnished the background for "When I Lost You," "Always," "Blue Skies"—sincere and beautiful ballads. Fritz Kreisler thought the latter worthy of arranging and making a recording of. While Berlin is famous for his jazz, he is noted for the simple, harmonious melodies in many of his hits.

Irving Berlin was born Israel Baline in Teumen, Russia. He was the son of a rabbi. Brought to this country at the age of four, Berlin grew up in the teeming quarters of the east side in New York. Two years of public school was the pitiful ammunition with which this boy faced life and the problem of earning a living when his father died and Irving was twelve. At six the boy had started singing in the choir of his father's synagogue. He sold papers after his father's death and on Saturday nights sang in a barroom, with colored slides to illustrate the songs, at fifty cents an evening. "Nigger Mike's," in Chinatown, hired him as a singing waiter when he was fourteen.

In 1907 "Marie from Sunny Italy" was his first song, which was the start of many more, until "My Wife's Gone to the Country" brought him his first real success.

"Alexander's Ragtime Band," in 1911, made him famous, and Berlin, who regards that as his favorite, still keeps check on the sales of its sheet music. It is well over a million and is still selling; radio has revived interest in it. "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" is another favorite of his, written in 1919—and still sells. "Alexander" lifted him out of the cabaret singing business, and he devoted himself entirely to writing music. He soon became a partner in the song-publishing house of Watterson, Berlin & Snyder.

The World war found Berlin serving as a sergeant of infantry at Camp Upton, Long Island; and his before-the-war ballad, "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier," gave way to "America, Here's My Boy." Following the war he became head of his own publishing house, of which he is stil president.

The first musical revue Berlin wrote was in 1915, "Watch Your Step." "Stop, Look, and Listen" followed; then musical scores for three Ziegfeld Follies, four Music Box Revues, "Face the Music," and, recently, "As Thousands Cheer," as well as many individual hits. His constant worry is that he won't write another hit. Berlin is most modest and soft-spoken and likes to clown a bit in an unobtrusive way.

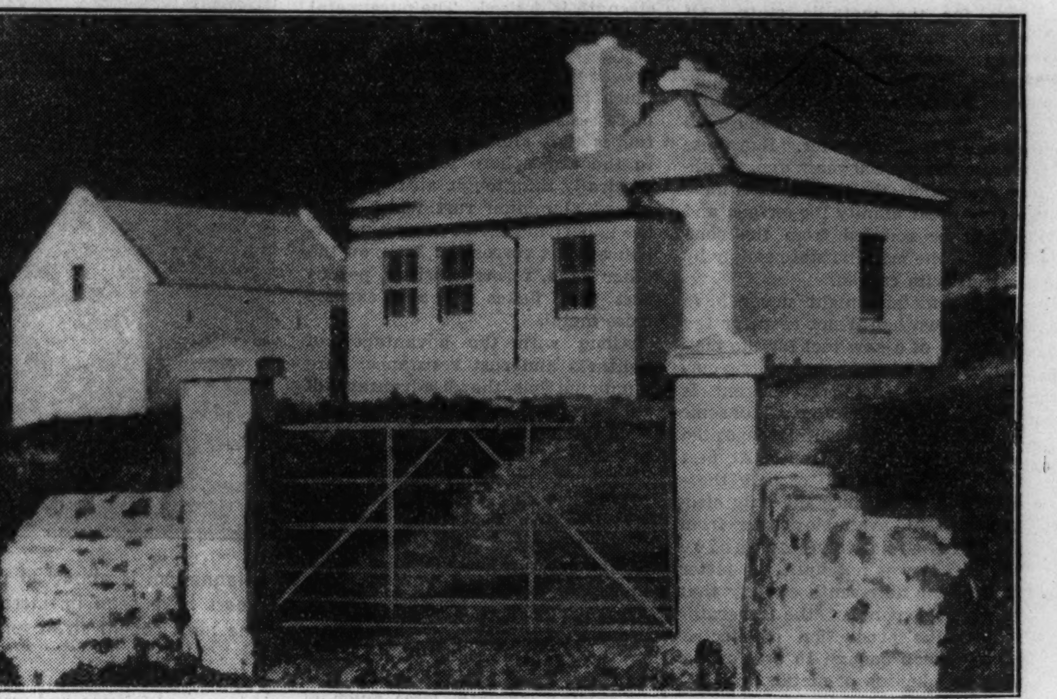
When composing Berlin chews gum and smokes, but never does either when not working. He likes to work at home rather than at his studio office, and wears pajamas and bedroom slippers. He took an apartment in the Beverly-Wilshire to do his composing for "Top Hat," and most of Hollywood's Tin Pan Alley immediately took quarters there likewise.

He is most happily married to Ellin Mackay, daughter of Clarence Mackay, telegraph magnate. The match was bitterly opposed by her father, who thought to frighten Berlin by threatening to cut off Ellin without a cent. Berlin is supposed to have said at the time, "Well, I'll settle a million on her myself." Mrs. Berlin and her father were later reconciled. Their little daughter, Ellin, aged eight, is fascinated with watching her father in the throes of composition and is not above some lady-like wise-cracks on the subject, which convulse and amuse her father plenty. The Berlins spend much of their time during the winter at Palm Springs, because Mrs. Berlin's health is delicate, but the summer just ended saw them at a beach place near Hollywood where the children enjoyed the sand and the water and papa was near his work. The couple have a second daughter, born in 1932. A baby son, the second child, died in infancy.

Irish Rural Program Launched

Poor Families Removed to Rich Lands

By HUGH CURRAN



Example of modern type of farmhouses to which families from the unproductive region of Connemara are being transferred.

Dublin, Ireland.

THE first fruits of one of President De Valera's schemes for leveling up the understrata of Irish rural life are now beginning to appear. About a dozen families have been removed from the remotest corners of Connemara on the Atlantic seaboard and transplanted into nicely arranged farms in County Meath, which is the richest fattening land in the whole of Ireland.

In theory this plan is highly desirable and commendable, but it remains to be seen how it will work out in practice. The intention at present is to go on with it and not to stop until every family living on the starvation line in the poor and mountainous regions has been transferred to an economic holding of good land with a good living house and suitable outoffices attached. It is bound to be expensive, but if it proves successful there are few who will cavil at the cost.

The buying out of the landlords under the legislation of the last thirty years has made it possible to secure the necessary land. Many of the old landlord class, having been paid for their land, have left the country to live in Great Britain or on the continent. The estates which they had held for their own use now are in the hands of a government department and are being divided up into suitable farms. Most of these estates are rich land; in some cases the soil has not been broken for centuries. The newly carved farms, each with its house, slated or tiled, and supplied with every domestic convenience, are being given to selected families from the poorest areas along the west coast, where all their lives they have experienced nothing but poverty. Their houses, if such they could be called, were for the most part of mud walls with thatched roof, while the land from which they were obliged to draw sustenance was hardly capable of supporting a wild duck. These people's lives knew no luxury. Hunger much more frequently came their way. Those near the sea were, of course, able to supplement their resources occasionally with fish, but so badly were they equipped for fighting the dangers of the sea that their fishing expeditions were frequently perilous and never more than moderately successful.

The contrast between the surroundings which they had left and their new homes in County Meath was graphically stated by the head of one of the families when shown the house which was to be his future home.

"Glory be to God!" he said. "Sure, we won't know ourselves with all these fine convayniences. 'Tis a house grand enough for the priest himself."

In addition to the house there is a farm varying from twenty to thirty acres provided free of charge, while the government contributes four cows, ten sheep, a sow, a horse and cart, twenty hens and a cock, a plow, harrow, and other necessary farm requisites. Seeing that it must be impossible to get on for the first year without money, a government allowance is given equivalent to $7.50 a week until the first crops are available, after which the family is expected to be self-supporting.

These families, coming from their primitive conditions in the west, have not brought much furniture with them, but what they did bring included in each case the old-time loom which is the woman's most prized possession. With this they will continue to weave the homespun worsted from which they make the children's clothes, as well as their own. In Connemara clothes were of a primitive character, but quite likely the effects of their advance into a higher civilization will be noted in the introduction of a more fashionable cut. Boots and stockings, even for the older people, were not indispensable winter or summer in their former habitat, but now they will find it necessary to conform to the customs of their surroundings.

There is behind this new scheme a cultural purpose, for it is hoped that the importation of such communities, who are all individual Irish language speakers—some of them exclusively so—will have the effect of propagating the Irish language in their new surroundings, which are altogether English speaking. When the new arrivals mingle in the local schools the hope is that they will be able to impose the native language upon all. This is the purpose of all parties in the country. Just how far this hope will be realized is not so certain, for hitherto it has been the experience that when native speakers of Irish have been transplanted to English-speaking areas they have hastened to acquire the English, which they regard as more genteel, and forget as fast as possible the use of Irish.

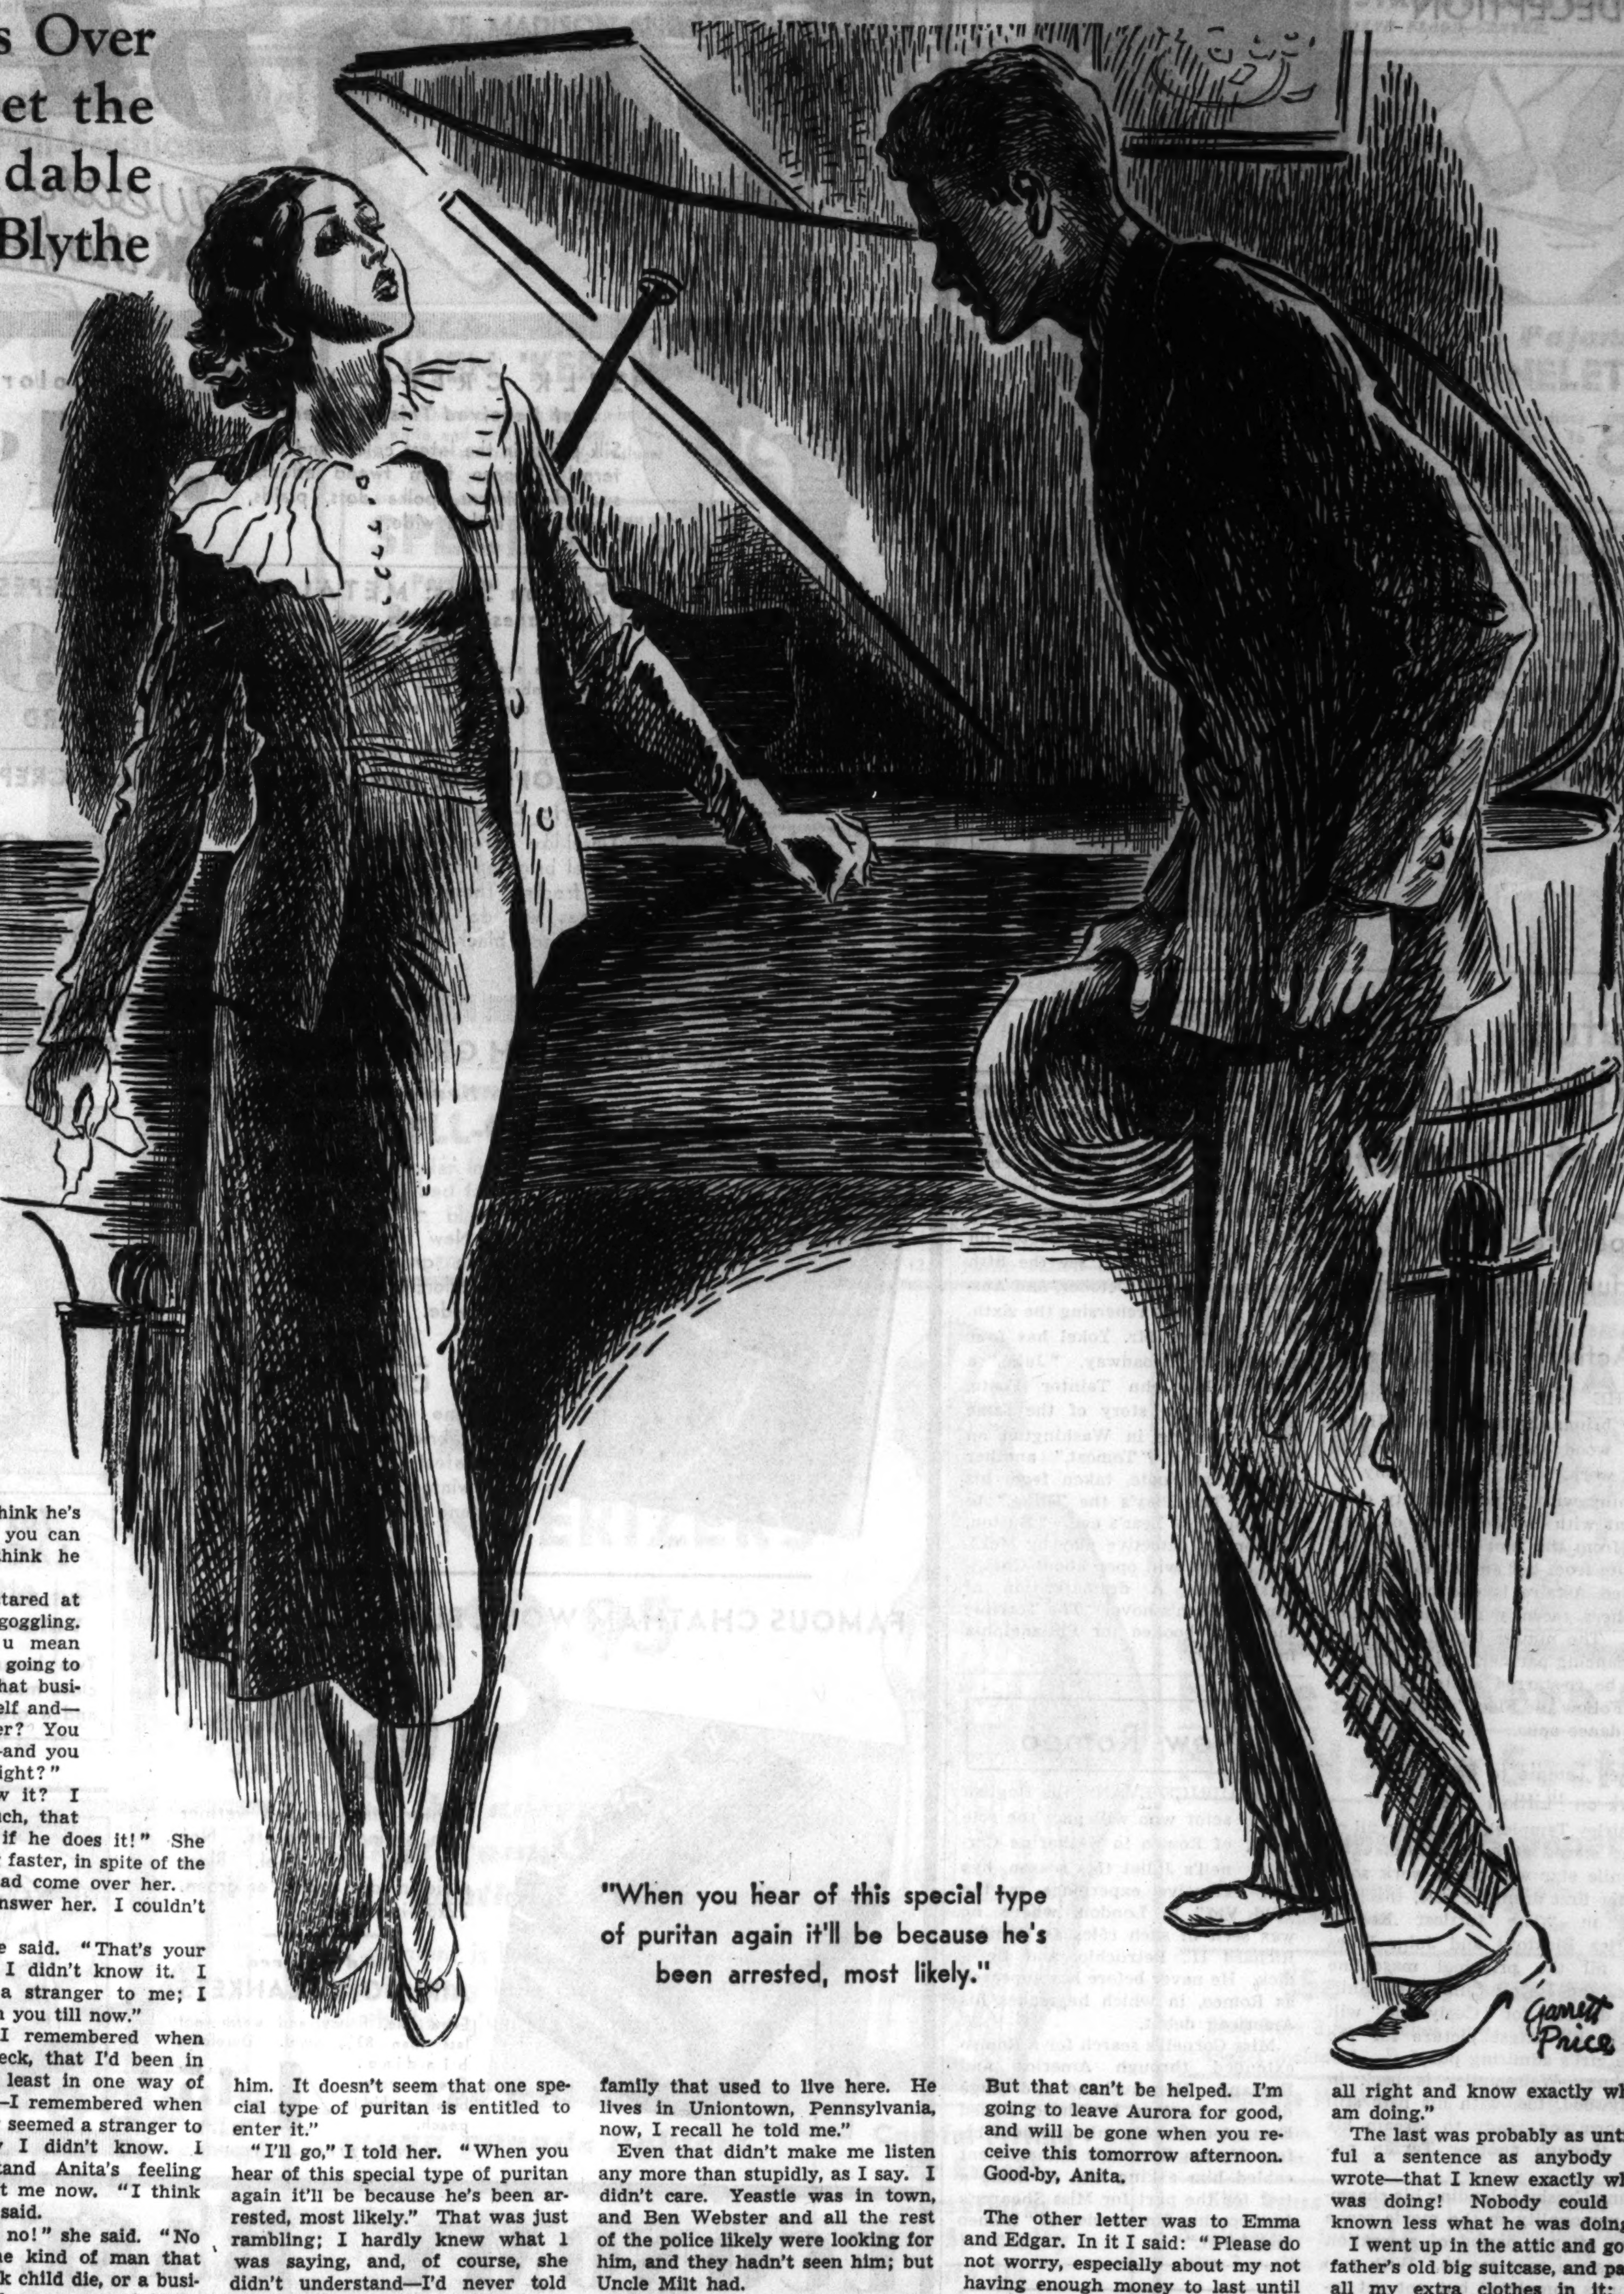
At present most of the school teachers all over the country have a working knowledge of the native tongue, and they no doubt will do all they can to encourage the new arrivals to aid them in their difficult task by using Irish as the language of the playing field as well as of the school.

The intention is to transplant in the immediate future at least 200 families, all Irish speakers.

THIS BOY JOE

By Booth Tarkington

Joe Hadley Worries Over How He Shall Meet the Seemingly Unavoidable Conflict with Anita Blythe



"When you hear of this special type of puritan again it'll be because he's been arrested, most likely."

THE STORY TO DATE

Joe Hadley is a sentimental high school student of the small town of Aurora, Ind. His mother has recently died. His father is a state senator. While he is at the capital Joe's sister, Emma, tries to keep watch over Joe, as does his Uncle Milt, who lives with and on them. Joe meets Madge Alterbeck and her chum, Mabel Benns, at a roadhouse, where he is taken by his sporting friend, Yeastie Marshall. Yeastie is driving a new car, which he tells Joe is a gift from his family. Joe falls for the cheap glamor of Madge and desires to convert her to a higher life. Ben Webster, a detective, appears at the roadhouse. Yeastie hustles Joe away, leaving the car behind. Next day he sends Joe back for the car. On the way back to Aurora Joe is followed by a man in a shabby touring car. He leaves the car on a side street for Yeastie to pick up. Too late Joe realizes that the sedan was stolen and that he has become Yeastie's partner in theft. His father is having trouble, having gone against a crooked bill sponsored by Gus Cooper, the town boss. He returns home a broken man, to die soon after. Joe proposes to Madge. He has just finished high school. She tells him she'll marry him when he finds a job. Joe's sister marries Edgar Morrison, an upright, industrious young man. Yeastie drives a stolen car into the Hadley garage. Joe refuses to let him leave it there. Uncle Milt appears. Yeastie introduces himself as Parks Nelson. Not knowing the car isn't his, Uncle Milt gives him permission to leave it overnight. Joe begins to realize that Yeastie and Madge are using him. He sees how cheap Madge is compared to Anita Blythe, a lovely girl of his own set. Anita adores her father, Jackson Blythe, an unscrupulous lawyer. As receiver he is steering a factory to ruin so that Gus Cooper can buy it in cheaply. Joe catches Madge keeping another date and breaks with her. He tells Anita about Madge. Anita tells him she has loved him since childhood. She wants her father to give him a job. Joe feels he could not conscientiously accept it. Then Ben Webster questions Joe about his connection with Yeastie.

INSTALMENT X.

"I DIDN'T get away with that car," I said. "I wasn't trying to get away with anything."

"No?" Ben Webster said. "I understood you just now to speak of Yeastie Marshall as your friend. You feel that way about him, don't you?"

"No."

He seemed to meditate; then he asked me, "You say you don't know where he is right now?"

"No, I don't."

"We got kind of an idea he might be in Aurora today or tomorrow. Think he might?"

"I don't know," I said. "I don't know, and I've never wanted to know where he was since I found out about him."

"That so? Was that the way you felt toward him the afternoon I saw you standing out in the front yard?"

"Yes, it was!"

Webster laughed. "I wasn't just sure of you at first—you'd grown some and changed, older looking and thinner. It came to me afterward, though, that I knew you—you were the boy that beat me in the sedan. I made some inquiries about you and saw it wasn't any good working along that trail just then. I figure we nearly got Yeastie that day. Well, we got the goods on him now, easy. All we want now is Yeastie himself, and that's the main reason I'm here right now. You're sure you'd tell me if you knew?"

I swallowed. "I don't know where he is and I don't want to know."

"That so?" Webster said. "You say you've always felt he played you a pretty dirty trick about that car?"

"Yes, wouldn't you?"

"Don't know but I would," he said, and I could hardly believe my eyes, but he got up to go. Then I was frightened to death again because I thought he might want me to go with him. He didn't. "I'll probably want to see you again," he said. "I don't know just when, but I don't believe there'll be any trouble about your being here when I want to see you." He laughed again. "Of course I've been asking around about you some from time to time, and from what I hear you're likely to be a member of a family some day that I wouldn't want to get in bad with. Guess you understand the reference." He seemed friendly with me now, as if on a mutual joking basis. "Under the circumstances, I don't believe you'd be very likely to be out of town when I want to see you again. That's all, Mr. Hadley."

"All?" I almost choked. "Is it?"

"All for right now, anyhow," he said.

I shut the door after him and then leaned against it, breathing pretty hard. I didn't know what he really believed. I didn't know whether he thought I'd been one of Yeastie's crowd of automobile crooks or not—at least at some time. I did know, though, that he preferred to take a favorable view of me because he'd heard I was probably going to be Jackson Blythe's son-in-law and that if I was in danger this was what saved me.

"Well, all right!" I said to myself desperately. "If I've got to owe Anita's father the actual fact that I'm not going to jail, what's the use of quibbling over what else I might owe him?"

That's what I was saying to myself on my way to Anita's that afternoon.

She came to the door, and, when she opened it, all smiling and bright and excited, the sunshine seemed to have changed its direction and to be pouring from inside of the house to out, not from outside to in.

"Darling angel!" she said, and when I heard that from her I was weak as water.

WE SAT down on her piano bench. "I've been playing all day," she told me. "Raptures and rhapsodies, Joe—all the expressions of joy I know in music! Didn't I tell you he was going to be just perfect to us?"

"He?" I asked—heaven knows why. "You—you mean your father?"

She laughed aloud and gave me a push with her shoulder.

"Ah, this is a great step we're taking now!" she went on. "It makes it all definite and settled—our life together seems coming near, thank heaven, now!" Then she laughed again, but affectionately and with a little tremble in her voice. "You're to talk to him this evening, Joe. You're to ask him for my lily white hand——"

"It is," I said. "That's exactly the sort of hand it is."

She kissed me. "He's our fairy godmother, Joe darling! He said I could tell you what he's going to give you. Guess!"

I got up and went to the window and looked out, not for any reason that I knew, and I certainly didn't see anything. Anita didn't understand; but no wonder—I didn't understand, either. I was just like some flimsy kind of half-jointed machine, badly wound up. "Do you—do you think—do you think I ought to—to take it, Anita?"

"Do I!"

I turned to her. "Don't you think I ought—ought to earn a living for us?"

"But that's exactly what you're going to do, isn't it?" She laughed. "It'll be funny, a child like you with a position that has a sort of title to it. I shrieked when father told me; but it's serious. Assistant employment manager. Doesn't that swell up your chest, Joe? Assistant employment manager and a salary of a hundred and eight dollars a month, to begin with; but by the end of the year he says you'll——"

"What?" I interrupted her. "Why, I don't even know what assistant employment manager means!"

"Idiot! He'll tell you, won't he? He'll tell you tonight, and you ought to be able to understand it, because I did when he told me, and I'm only a girl."

"You must never think I don't appreciate his kindness," I told her. "Of course it's for you; but I certainly appreciate it."

"Well, yes," she said. "Naturally! What's the matter?"

"Nothing. Nothing except——" Everything I said was just fumbling. "I—don't know. I'm afraid it seems a lot of money for—for almost nothing I'd be doing. Another trouble is—well, you see, it's other people's money, and—I don't mean to criticize——"

"No!" she said. "I don't think you'd better criticize him! What did you mean by what you just said?"

"Nothing. I'm confused about it, Anita. I just have the feeling that I couldn't possibly earn that much money and—and that maybe an assistant manager isn't—isn't needed. I mean—well, it seems to me——"

"All right!" she said in a hard voice, and I could see she was breathing fast and her eyes were enlarged with anger. "Don't, then! What does that leave me to say to my father?"

"What?"

"You don't realize something has to be said to him? He's made this position for you, and I've told him all along we were both hoping he would, because that's what you said. Isn't that what you've given me to understand all along?"

"Anita!" I couldn't do anything but just gasp her name. "Anita—Anita——"

The rest of her seemed cold as ice; but there was a flash in her eyes and a scorch in her voice. "You—to be judging my father! Do you suppose he doesn't know what he's doing, or that I don't? If what's come into his hands because the weak hands that held it weren't strong enough and his are, and he intends to keep it in his strong hands, where it should be if it's to be made strong itself, do you suppose I don't think he's right or that you can make me think he isn't?"

At that I stared at her, just goggling. "Anita! You mean you know he's going to get hold of that business for himself and—and for Cooper? You know it and—and you think it's all right?"

"Do I know it? I know this much, that it'll be right if he does it!" She was breathing faster, in spite of the iciness that had come over her.

I couldn't answer her. I couldn't speak at all.

"I see," she said. "That's your style, is it? I didn't know it. I think you're a stranger to me; I haven't known you till now."

"What?" I remembered when Madge Alterbeck, that I'd been in love with—at least in one way of being in love—I remembered when she'd suddenly seemed a stranger to me, somebody I didn't know. I could understand Anita's feeling like that about me now. "I think I'm crazy!" I said.

"Crazy? O, no!" she said. "No you're only the kind of man that would let a sick child die, or a business die, if the cure couldn't be made according to the rules and ethics of the Victorian period. Isn't that exactly what you are?"

"I don't know," I mumbled. "Maybe. I guess so."

The tears came into her eyes, seemed to spring right out onto her lashes, and from there into my heart and burn it. "And once I told you you were strong enough!" she cried. "Strong enough for me!"

"I knew I wasn't," I said; but it must have been only a whisper. She didn't hear me.

Then she was bitter with me. "You!" she said. "Strong enough! You, the weakest —yes, and the dullest, playing off against my brilliant father this namby-pamby cheap Victorian puritanism! It's like that type of puritan — waiting till he offers you his daughter and a sure future, waiting till his big heart gives you that—and then going back on everything you've said and done, going straight back on it and asking his daughter to slap him in the face for you. You're a man!"

I tried a last throw—just despair. "You don't care for me any more—not enough to let me try to get some other kind of job and see if I couldn't——"

"Care for you?" she said. "I cared for somebody; but it doesn't appear to be you. I don't think I know who you are—except for one detail."

"What——"

"What detail? This! That you're a person on whose account I'll get down on my knees to my father when he gets home tonight, and beg him to forgive me and let me go on worshiping him as I always have, even though I've proved to him that I'm a fool!"

"Forgive." I caught at that one word. "Anita, you couldn't——"

"Forgive you?" she said. "What for? I don't know you. I've never had anything to do with you, knowingly, and never shall have."

I went to the door and came back. "Anita——"

She'd stopped crying; she was smiling, and I knew that was the worst sign I could have seen. "This is my father's house," she said in the quietest voice. "It belongs to him. It doesn't seem that one special type of puritan is entitled to enter it."

"I'll go," I told her. "When you hear of this special type of puritan again it'll be because he's been arrested, most likely." That was just rambling; I hardly knew what I was saying, and, of course, she didn't understand—I'd never told her about Yeastie. "Good-by," I said, and got myself outdoors for good and all and into a strange looking sunshine that fell on strange looking houses across the street and strange looking bare trees and a strange looking dog trotting along the sidewalk that seemed strange to the soles of my shoes.

Queerest of all was our old house when I got back to it and went in. The hall and the stairway and the old floral stairway carpet and the wallpaper had the kind of strangeness and familiarity things carry to you when you haven't seen them for about ten years, and they seemed to carry more than that into me—a reproach that made me ache more.

THERE didn't appear to be anybody at home. I got up to my room and stayed. Emma came in there about dark and turned the light on and laughed and said, "Caught you, did I, Joe? Just sitting here thinking about her?" Then she told me she and Edgar were going out to dinner with some of their young married friends, and Anna was waiting for Uncle Milt and me to come to table, and breezed out. I kept on sitting where I was until Uncle Milt called me from downstairs, cross, so I clumped down and sat at the table with him and tried to eat food made of lumps that didn't have any taste to them. Uncle Milt was talkative.

Most of the time I didn't know what he was saying. It seemed to be something long about advice he'd given one of the city councilmen and how Chinese cities were run better than ours; but by the time we'd got to the stewed peaches for dessert he finished telling about China and said something that made me listen in a dull sort of way. "I happened to see a friend of yours this afternoon," he said. I didn't ask him who, so he went on. "That young chap from Uniontown, Pennsylvania, that left his car in our garage one night. Young Nelson. Parks M., I think I recall his name was. Yes, that's it—young Mr. Parks M. Nelson of the old Nelson family that used to live here. He lives in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, now, I recall he told me."

Even that didn't make me listen any more than stupidly, as I say. I didn't care. Yeastie was in town, and Ben Webster and all the rest of the police likely were looking for him, and they hadn't seen him; but Uncle Milt had.

When we left the table I went back upstairs to my room and in a little while heard Uncle Milt half singing to himself in the hall below and then closing the front door as he went out.

It wouldn't be long till it would be around town that I wasn't ever going to be Jackson Blythe's son-in-law. Ben Webster'd be looking for me again after that news reached him, wouldn't he?

There was a table in my room where I write when I try to, and finally I got out some paper and ink and wrote two letters. I knew them by heart by the time I got them finished, I wrote them over and read them over, too, so much. This was the first one:

Dear Anita:

I hope you won't tear this up before you read it. It's only saying good-by. If I stayed around here I see I wouldn't ever be fit to do anything except just keep bothering you and trying to explain. One thing please listen to, please do. It's why I let you go ahead and get your father to offer me what he did and all the time knew in my heart, as I told you, I wasn't going to take it. You can know a thing in your heart and not be able to let yourself know it till you've got to, can't you? One other thing, you can see something's all right for another person to do that you couldn't do yourself because of having different standpoints. It isn't criticizing the other person because you've got a different standpoint yourself. I wasn't criticizing. I wasn't. It seems as if I didn't have any free will because if I had I'd have given up my standpoint a thousand times for you. I know how you're thinking of me and how you always will, and what I wish terribly is that our parting could have been fairer to you, because your memory of me will be of something ugly. But mine of you will be beautiful. I'm afraid you'll feel I haven't a right to any memory of you at all and will wish that I hadn't. But that can't be helped. I'm going to leave Aurora for good, and will be gone when you receive this tomorrow afternoon. Good-by, Anita.

The other letter was to Emma and Edgar. In it I said: "Please do not worry, especially about my not having enough money to last until I get some work to do. I'll have plenty to carry me on for two or three weeks, and if by that time I haven't found anything I'll write and let you know where I am and ask for some. The chance that I am looking for could only be in a larger city, and the reason I don't tell you where I'm going is that if you knew you might have to tell other people, and then I'd probably have to come back here and tell some things I don't want to. I can't explain more about this until some day far in the future, but I believe that then you will see I couldn't do otherwise than I am doing now. You have known that there has been something like an understanding between Anita Blythe and myself, and the truth is there was something like that in existence. Please be very careful never to speak to her about this or to let her get the idea you have any thoughts of it. I hope to be able to write to you some time, perhaps within a few months, that I have established myself elsewhere and am doing well. Then some day when I am a prosperous man perhaps you two and Uncle Milt will come and visit me and we will have a happy time together for the sake of the old days. Please do not worry about me, for I am sure to be all right and know exactly what I am doing."

The last was probably as untruthful a sentence as anybody ever wrote—that I knew exactly what I was doing! Nobody could have known less what he was doing!

I went up in the attic and got my father's old big suitcase, and packed all my extra clothes in it; that wasn't much trouble. Then I put the suitcase under my bed, where it wouldn't be noticed if somebody came in. I wasn't going that night, not till early morning, and I wanted to see Emma and Edgar and Uncle Milt again—I mean just see them—so I went downstairs in the sitting room and waited till they came home. Uncle Milt was first, and that surprised me.

He didn't come in singing or even humming, and I heard him saying, "Ha-hum!" to himself in the hall, not yawning, but seeming melancholy. He walked into the sitting room, rubbing his forehead and puffing out his lips. His figure wasn't jaunty, the way he usually held it; it seemed to be kind of sagging. He sat down without saying anything right away, and I thought he looked pretty old. Of course he really was getting to be; but usually he didn't let you see that.

"Anything the matter, Uncle Milt?" I asked him.

"I don't know what this world's coming to," he said, and his voice was husky. "There are no ideals any more. No ideals. No manners. No respect for anything at all! Nothing but the hope of gain—just vulgar pursuit of money."

This Week's Opportunities for All of Us

For BUYING: Tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon, Thursday, Friday forenoon, and next Sunday.

For SELLING: Tomorrow, Thursday, and next Sunday.

For ROMANCE: This forenoon and Friday forenoon.

For FINANCES: Thursday forenoon.

For TRAVEL: Thursday forenoon, Friday, and next Sunday.

For OCCUPATION: Thursday and forenoon of Friday.

For LEGAL MATTERS: Friday and next Sunday.

For IMPROVING HEALTH: Today, Thursday, and Friday.

DAY BY DAY

TODAY and TOMORROW: Being a good friend to others can do much to develop good feeling that will result in good friendships for yourself. Nevertheless, select associates with care.

MONDAY, SEPT. 23: Detour the rush concerning matters of estate, home, or parental relations. Best for those born April 1-13, Aug. 3-16, and Dec. 3-15.

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, and THURSDAY: Climb inside yourself and study the innermost workings you find there, if you would correct things and have the wheels running more smoothly.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 24: Improving in afternoon; make advisable shifts; see interests of elders. Best for those born April 13-25, Aug. 16-28, and Dec. 15-27.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 25: Strong emotions, particularly concerning women and the affairs of the young. Best for those born April 25 to May 8, Aug. 28 to Sept. 10, and Dec. 27 to Jan. 7.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 26: Keep it innocent, whether serving or receiving, to gain advancement. Today is best for those born Jan. 7-19, May 8-20, and Sept. 10-22.

FRIDAY, SATURDAY, and SUNDAY: Go after what you want if it is right that you should have it. Do things yourself without waiting to see what the other fellow is going to do for you.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 27: General improvement to be recorded, but take care of health conditions. Best for those born Jan. 19-30, May 20-31, and Sept. 22 to Oct. 3.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 28: Today depends very largely on the past; regard well your experience. Best for those born Jan. 30 to Feb. 11, May 31 to June 13, and Oct. 3-15.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 29: A day of movement and change; be sure you are headed in the right direction. Best for those born Feb. 11-23, June 13-25, and Oct. 15-27.

FAVORED GROUPS

An Open Letter to "Pat" Paterson

"PAT" PATERSON

Dear "Pat": Everything is not what it seems—in fact, everything is probably very different in essence from its externals. And this is a big point for you to remember during what might have been a disturbing period next year. Your horoscope gives you plenty of good things to look forward to if you will take a few hard knocks philosophically in 1936. Personally, I would venture the opinion that you will be able to play your biggest rôle because of the experience you will have between now and then. With best wishes,

WYNN.

"Three minutes of my time and I wake up fresh as the dawn!"

Every one who has suffered from constipation—and who hasn't at one time or other—knows that dark-brown taste—that half-sick logy feeling—the blotchy complexion that come from constipation. But a harsh, jolting, "all-at-once" cathartic is not the remedy. FEEN-A-MINT, the delicious chewing-gum laxative, is the easy, pleasant way to clear your system of the ills of constipation. You chew it for three minutes while preparing for bed, and you wake up fresh as the dawn—there are no unpleasant after-effects, no cramps or other troubles. Let the whole family try it. How the children will love it. Costs only 15 cents and 25 cents for big family boxes.

Autumn Finds Film Colony Back at Work

Departure of Tourists and Humid Weather Brings Activity Into Swing.

THE termination of summer brings the stars back to Hollywood and a heavy season of work. The movie colony is teeming with typical activity coincident with the departure of tourists from the film capital and the respite from hot and humid days.

Fred Astaire is one of the topnotchers recently returned to the fold. The nimble footed Fred and his dancing partner, Ginger Rogers, will be co-starred again, this time in "Follow the Fleet," another song and dance opus.

Shirley Temple to Begin Work on "Littlest Rebel."

Shirley Temple has had her fill of being stared at in Honolulu. The juvenile star will begin work soon on her first dramatic rôle, the lead part in "The Littlest Rebel." Charles Bickford and John Boles will fill the principal masculine rôles, and Irving Cummings, Shirley's director for "Curly Top," will shape this latest picture for the little girl's admiring public.

Johnny Weissmuller is back in Hollywood, too, with his hair still unshorn and ready to scream his way through another Tarzan picture.

Bing Crosby is lending his charming personality to the movie scene again after a period of recreation on eastern race tracks. With two pictures completed but not yet released, Bing has begun work on a movie version of the stage hit, "Anything Goes." Ethel Merman, from the original "legit" cast, will support the crooner in this picture, which retains the original title of its long run before the footlights.

"The Milky Way," with Harold Lloyd," Now Is Being Filmed.

Harold Lloyd is sporting six new pairs of glassless specs. After long delay, due to the illness of Director Leo McCarey, "The Milky Way," the first Harold Lloyd film in years that the star hasn't personally produced, has gotten under way at Paramount. The studio is paying Harold a comparatively small salary, but a rather large percentage.

Nineteen year old Alice Moore now is employed on the M-G-M lot. Her stepfather, Clarence Brown, is a director for the same studio. The young player is said to resemble her mother, Alice Joyce.

Fred MacMurray will be Claudette Colbert's leading man again in her next picture, and Hollywood is happy to see Mae West back at work again.

Benefit Concert

JOSEPH BENTONELLI, who will be guest artist of the Alpha Gamma Delta benefit concert at Orchestra hall Oct. 28, has sung leading rôles in a number of world premières. In Rome on the occasion of the première of Refice's "Cecilia," in Trieste for the première of Smareglia's "Il Vasallo," and when the Philadelphia opera gave the first American performance of Gluck's "Iphigenie en Aulide," Bentonelli sang the leading tenor parts.

Prior to his return to America three years ago, Bentonelli had sung for eleven years in Europe, giving 512 performances of fifty different operas. For the last three seasons, including the current season, he has been singing with the Chicago opera companies.

Plays for Yokel

ALEX YOKEL, who produced "Three Men on a Horse," announces his plans for the new season. Three companies of this successful comedy will continue in performance. A fourth will be staged in Boston on Nov. 4. London will see the fifth company early in October, and Australia is already rehersing the sixth.

In addition, Mr. Yokel has four projects for Broadway. "Julie," a comedy by John Taintor Foote, from his own story of the same name, opening in Washington on Nov. 4; and "Tomcat," another comedy by Foote, taken from his story "The Play's the Thing," to open on New Year's eve. "Button, Button," a detective play by McElbert Moore, will open about Christmas time. A dramatization of Emanie Sach's novel "The Terrible Siren" is booked for Philadelphia in February.

New Romeo

MAURICE EVANS, the English actor who will play the rôle of Romeo to Katharine Cornell's Juliet this season, has had extensive experience in the "Old Vic" in London, where he was seen in such rôles as Hamlet, Richard II., Petruchio, and Benedick. He never before has appeared as Romeo, in which he makes his American debut.

Miss Cornell's search for a Romeo extended through America and England. Her husband and stage director, Guthrie McClintic, signed Evans for the rôle only one hour before Norma Shearer's management cabled him asking him to make a test for the part for Miss Shearer's forthcoming film version of "Romeo and Juliet."

O. K. by Censor

LORD CROMER, British stage censor, has passed upon "Three Men on a Horse" for production in London on Oct. 21. Williamson & Tait will be associated with Alex Yokel in this venture. Yokel was advised that the production has been approved by Lord Cromer with only minor changes in the bedroom scene, which was at first thought to be objectionable.

Lunt's Promotion

ALFRED LUNT has been added to the board of managers of the Theater guild. With the addition of Mr. Lunt to the guild board there are now two representatives of the acting profession in the personnel, the other being Helen Westley. Lawrence Langner, Theresa Helburn, Philip Moeller, Lee Simonson, and Maurice Wertheim complete the list.

New Works by Russ Writer; Music Events

Jooss European Ballet to Make Chicago Debut; Concert Schedules.

WHEN Sergei Rachmaninoff returns to the United States on Oct. 2 he will bring several new compositions on which he has been working at his home in Switzerland during the last summer. At least one of these may be included on the program which he will present in Chicago on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24, in Orchestra hall. He is keeping the nature of these new works a secret.

Rachmaninoff's tour will include twenty-eight appearances in eight weeks. Four of these will be with symphony orchestras—the Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis and Philadelphia orchestras.

The Harry Zelzer concert schedule for the 1935-'36 season includes three Chicago premières—the American Ballet, Nelson Eddy, baritone; and the Jooss European Ballet.

The complete program is as follows:

For October: Jascha Heifetz, violinist, Oct. 21, Orchestra hall; La Argentina, dancer, Oct. 26, Civic Opera house; Don Cossack Russian Male chorus, Serge Jaroff, conductor, Oct. 27, Civic Opera house.

For November: American Ballet [Chicago première], Nov. 8, 9, and 10, Civic Opera house, George Balanchine, director.

For December: Zalatko Balakovich, Jugo-Slavian violinist, Dec. 1; Winifred Christie, double keyboard pianist, Dec. 8; Tito Schipa, tenor, Dec. 16, Orchestra hall.

For January: Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy, conductor, Jan. 21.

For February: Lily Pons, soprano, Feb. 1, Orchestra hall; Jooss European Ballet [Chicago première], Feb. 2, Civic Opera house, Kurt Jooss, director; Nelson Eddy, baritone [Chicago première], Feb. 15; Ruggiero Ricci, boy violinist, Feb. 22.

Edith Lorand and her Hungarian orchestra, on their first American tour this season, are scheduled for a concert on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, at the Studebaker theater under the direction of Bertha Ott.

The program which this ensemble will present covers classical compositions, the dance music of various nations, Viennese waltzes, and the typical music of Hungary.

The Joseph Bentonelli concert in Orchestra hall on Monday evening, Oct. 28, is being sponsored by the Chicago Alumnae club of Alpha Gamma Delta, national sorority, to raise money for two camps for undernourished and underprivileged children which the organization has maintained for the last sixteen years. Isaac Van Grove will accompany Bentonelli for the concert.

The Cleveland orchestra will start its eighteenth season on Oct. 10 under the direction of Artur Rodzinski. Eighteen symphony programs will be played on Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons. Four productions of grand opera will be presented on Thursday and Saturday evenings. Fourteen children's concerts and as many popular programs as the schedule will permit will be directed by Rudolph Ringwall, associate conductor.

These visiting artists will be heard in the symphony concerts in the order named: Jascha Heifetz, violinist; Mischa Levitski, pianist; Emanuel Feuermann, cellist, and Dalies Frantz, pianist. The Cleveland Philharmonic chorus prepared by Griffith J. Jones will appear under Rodzinski in interesting choral works. Cleveland artists participating in the symphony concerts will be Severin Eisenberger, Arthur Loesser, Josef Fuchs and Victor de Gomez.

Three operas are already announced. Richard Strauss' "Rosenkavalier" will be sung on Oct. 31 and Nov. 2 with a cast headed by Lotte Lehmann, Greta Stueckgold, Emanuel List and Julius Huehn. "Carmen" in English is scheduled for Thanksgiving week, to be sung by Bruna Castagna, Armand Tokatyan, Albert Mahler and Abrasha Robofsky. In Holy week "Parsifal" will be presented with Paul Althouse, Dorothee Manski, Julius Huehn and Eugene Loewenthal in the cast.

The Civic Music Association of Chicago is taking over the sale of tickets and boxes for the second performance of the San Carlo's Chicago engagement at the Auditorium theater on Tuesday evening, Oct. 15, as a benefit. "Madame Butterfly" will be given with Hizi Koyke, Ina Bourskaya and Edward Molitore singing the principal rôles and Carlo Peroni conducting.

This organization conducts free children's choruses in the outlying districts and, in coöperation with the Orchestral association, sponsors the work of the Civic orchestra, a training school for orchestral players.

Chicago will be included in the first American concert tour of Madame Kirsten Flagstad, who is said to have added $100,000 to the box office receipts of the Metropolitan Opera house last season. She will visit this city on Oct. 20.

Free Drama

WITH the opening tomorrow night of Martin Flavin's play, "Amaco," which was postponed one week, the American Art Theater company enters its fourth week under the sponsorship of the Chicago park district. The performances, which are free of charge to the public, are given nightly from Monday through Friday each week in the Hamilton Park auditorium at 72d street and Eggleston avenue.

"Amaco" relates the struggles of a personality against a system. Included in the cast are Robert Shrewsbury, Richard McKenna, Arthur H. Peterson Jr., Charles Lum, Earl Driscoll, and William Yule.

[ADVERTISMENT]

Many Common Ailments Are Caused By Piles

Medical authorities are constantly warning their patients that many of the most common ills, including headaches, nervousness, faulty nutrition, loss of vigor, physical weakness, constipation and stomach and liver troubles, frequently are traced to a neglected case of piles or other rectal affliction. A new illustrated book which fully explains these treacherous diseases has just been published by the world's oldest institution specializing in the treatment of rectal disorders—where more than 46,000 men and women have been restored to health in the past 57 years. If you are suffering from piles or any rectal affliction, write today to Thornton & Minor Clinic, Suite 1160, 926 McGee St., Kansas City, Mo., for a free copy which will be sent you in plain wrapper, and without obligation.

Damascus Sums Up Near East for Cousin Eve

It's Quintessence of the Dreamy Orient, Peppered French Gayety.

By Cousin Eve.

BEIRUT, SYRIA

Damascus has a certain charm. It is the east. It lies in spring among flowering apricot trees, like a great pink pearl, in valleys and orchards carpeted with wild flowers. Lilies of the valley, violets, roses-of-Sharon, forget-me-nots, pink daisies. This is true also of the country 'round Tiberias, and of Samaria and Judea. The Holy Land is a paradise of flowers. Damascus is a riot of nightingales, of double jasmine scenting the air. Sparkling fountains splash in dreamy courtyards, peopled by white doves. Purple passion flowers cloud ancient walls.

Syrian women peep from grilles in lovely old palaces.

Then the paprika of France! Gayety, music, good cooking, good manners, bright lights, smart motors, even stream lines. We met sometimes, motoring, the president of Syria, an excellent old Moslem, once Turkey's minister at Washington. Enormously rich, he was made president after the war by the Syrians, who remembered doubtless a saying of Tiberius Caesar, that "An enriched governor is better than a new, rapacious one."

Street Where Judas and Ananias Lived Noisy, Shabby.

The things I liked best in Damascus were small things. One goes at once to "he Little Street called Straight," mentioned in Acts, Chapter IX. A paradoxical street, now neither straight nor little, being a continuation of the Grand Bazaar, partly roofed and two miles long. I was expecting a charming little thoroughfare something like Sutton court, with the house of Judas on one side and that of Ananias across the way. It proved noisy, narrow, and full of shabby shops. A mosque covers the house of Judas, where Saul waited for Ananias to come and heal his blindness. It was some distance down a cobbled lane to the house of Ananias, which is a sort of cave under a Christian chapel. Then there is St. Paul's gate, the East gate of Damascus, where the Franciscans have built a memorial window to replace that from which St. Paul was let down safely in a basket. We drove solemnly round and looked at this venerable wall and new window.

I wended my way by dark and narrow lanes to the tomb of Saladin, Sala'h-ud-Din, whom some great French philospher called "the greatest Christian of them all." It is in a little mosque with its own ancient garden, two flowering pink oleanders, a square, shallow pool. Over the mosque door this in Arabic: "O God, accept this soul and open to him the door of Heaven for which he hoped."

Kaiser Had Saladin's Tomb Made in Germany.

Saladin's high, massive tomb has a companion, that of his grand vizier. Both have at their heads huge green turbans of rich silk. On the tomb of the conqueror of the Crusaders was a parchment telling in few words the story of his life. Born in Kurdistan of simple people, he died in Damascus, king of Egypt and all the land east of the Euphrates. Saladin's tomb was of white marble with insets and patterns of colored marble, and it wasn't surprising to hear that it was made in Germany. Looked rather like the Neu-Palais at Potsdam. It seems that the ex-kaiser, going to Damascus before the war, felt when he visited the tomb of Saladin that he and the conqueror had much in common. So he offered to have the original wooden tomb encased in one of marble, to be made in Berlin.

That was not the only dent the kaiser made in the Holy Land. The beautiful old yellow crenellated walls of Jerusalem were cut into a wide passage at Jaffa gate for the kaiser to enter. A hole still gaping. "And," went on my intelligent guide, "if the German emperor had not started to build the Bagdad-Damascus-Istanbul railroad there would have been no great war!"

To a strange Arab cemetery, on a day of fierce sun. For some occult reason I am, on my travels, a hound for old cemeteries. Here was buried Fatima, daughter of Mahomet the prophet, under an uninspiring mosque. Nearby, in no especial glory, two of Mahomet's wives. There were acres of sunbaked tombs round these three, which had existed 800 years. And also many tall cages of green bronze, like giant parrot cages, which are the separate burial places of wealthy caliphs.

DASHING AND SMART ON HER WHITE HUNTER

No Women, No Social Life in Damascus.

There is no social life in Damascus. Chateaubriand said that nations that confine their women are unsocial, for women are the mainspring of society. My letters were all to important people in Beirut, so there were no parties. No dancing.

The shopping was not good. They make the most marvelous fruit preserves and Turkish paste in the world in Damascus. But who wants to eat it? There was lots of brass, but I don't happen to like brass.

So we continued our wild career of visiting mosques and went to the marvelous mosque of Omayad. This exquisite sanctuary is dedicated to John the Baptist. I was somewhat taken aback by this. The guide said that Moslems also loved John the Baptist and then led us to his tomb, grilled heavily in bronze and curtained and carpeted in superb fabrics and rugs. The church was built by Theodosius in 375 A. D. and "kneels" 25,000 people. On great fête days the vast outer side court fills up, too.

The entire floor is covered with magnificent votive rugs of great value and fat pigeons strutted among the sheeted Arabs lying lazily in cool shadows. There is a central dome of blue mosaic and a forest of tall white marble pillars reaching to the sky. The mosque is oblong. Absorbing all this welter of beauty in great gulps, I suddenly remembered that some Chicago friends of mine had been caught in this mosque in a riot. They were part of a cruising "caravane" and an idiot girl sightseer burst into giggles at a true believer rocking back and forth on his knees. Then the shooting began. The giggling girl was shot in the leg. I remembered this and kept my behavior excellent, never saying a word about John the Baptist or the pigeons, or the way Arabs used the glorious mosque for naps, also as a club.

French Forbid Dancing Dervishes Their Art.

Entering from the bazars we inspected an ancient Arab palace of several hundred rooms, taken over by the French as a musée as palaces are taken over in Paris. It had belonged to Azem Pasha and as a whole was rarely interesting, with an infinitude of oriental detail, inlay of pearl and shell, mosaic and metal. Persian rugs.

I did adore the court and its orange trees in full fruit. And its lemon trees, pink oleanders, and jasmine all making an exquisite whole. An oblong, shallow pool with yellow fish darting in and out of shadows. A yellow cat rolling gayly on his back in welcome.

Then to the Mosque of the Dancing Dervishes. Only the dervishes can't dance any more. The French, when they took over Syria, found that the dancing was political, not religious, and stopped their carioca. The four walls of the court are covered with small yellow domes like loaves of rising bread. There are slender pink marble columns, white doves all aflutter, a lovely pool with ducks, and a peek into the political mosque. Flowers. Honeysuckle. Bougainvillæa. Peace!

The Hotel Omayad was amusing. Every kind of fuzzy-wuzzy looking person was there, and being himself. Nabobs and royalties had favored it, and I saw printed matter saying that the empress of Abyssinia and royal infants were there last year. Also J. Pierpont Morgan, Alfonso the XIII., the archbishop of Canterbury, the duchess of Montpensier, earl and countess of Athlone. Bernard Shaw.

The dining room, large and pleasant, was manned by a crew of Sudanese and Abyssinians, under a giant black headwaiter, clad in ministerial frock and demonstrating a huge black moustache en brosse. His men officiated in long white nightgowns. They wore tight red belts at their perfect 72 waists, had red tarbooshes, broad grins, and were competent, friendly.

Sun Sets Like a Red Baseball.

Women seem to have rather a thin time in Damascus. The beautiful open air coffee houses full of music and men know them not. We drove daily to a bare, high, pink ledge of the Anti-Lebanons to see Damascus at sunset, when the sun suddenly drops behind the range like a red baseball. One evening an Arab man in striped silk gabardine and fez came up carrying a baby. Behind him trailed four little women all in black, and shrouded in black veils. Each carried an infant. Our chauffeur said that while he could not prove they were all the Arab's wives, "they seemed to be."

A long, long yen to see the ruins of Baalbec. So, leaving Damascus at seven of a fresh, young morning, we had the magnificent drive of a life time. Along the narrow Abana, principal river of Damascus, skirting the pink Anti-Lebanons, and among groves of young poplars and willows, are miles and miles of rural coffee houses. In trees, on river banks, in nooks they are sketchily set. Like old Persian prints. Already parties of men were arriving for picnics. Superb leisure has the Syrian. I yerned theoretically to be enjoying a coffee house picnic on the banks of the Abana, but instead went hairpinning up 6,000 feet over the pink mountains, and down again into the fertile Bokar valley.

We passed Maronite villages, exceedingly clean, fertile fields, and saw the distant country of the Druses. There are 60,000 of these wild looking people about whose religious rites there is tremendous, terrifying, mystery.

Baalbec in Ruin Is Colossal.

Here is the last stand of the camel, and there were thousands of the self-conscious creatures, grazing in great herds. Many little calf camels. Hundreds of tiny black goats. It was half-past nine when we dashed into Baalbec and drove straight to the ruins. The tarif is a Syrian pound, and another to the guide. Baalbec in ruin is colossal. It is hard to see, harder to describe. Its situation is marvelous. At the top of a fertile valley in groves of fruit trees, its gigantic columns of red gold granite have for back drop the pink and silver flanks of Mount Hermon, with its frosting of eternal snow.

Baalbec has been the scene of horrible sacrifices and crimes. Built originally for worship of Baal and Astarte, it later became Roman, then Arab, was overrun by Tartars under Tamerlane and seven times annihilated by earthquakes. Today the vast temple of Bacchus stands nearly perfect. College boys climb ninety steps to walk along its shaky parapet. The high temple of Jupiter has but six columns standing, and the smaller temple of Venus is apart. It is undoubtedly the most magnificent and gorgeous ruin on earth today. I wanted to see a certain Arab, said to be an authority on Baalbec. But he had left for a two days' journey with an American woman of large means, a Mrs. Allison, who had recently married a young Arab sheik from this region. They had gone across the Lebanons to see the last remaining grove of those famous cedars of Lebanon which King Solomon had looted so unceremoniously for his temple. Sixty or eighty cedars thirty feet in diameter still stand. They are of the pine family, with flat branches covered with cones.

Cousin Eve Foils Papa George, Baalbec's Ace Salesman.

The Arabs were all terribly set up over the marriage of one of their race with a wealthy American. The guides and shopkeepers were elaborately dolled up in white silk suits, and vastly impertinent. One elderly character called Papa George, arrayed gloriously in white, introduced himself on the hotel veranda, standing between me and the view of the ruins which I had traveled seven thousand miles to see. Papa George was all for having us take coffee after luncheon at his ancestral house, to meet also Mama George, as the empress of Abyssinia and Lady Alice Athlone had done before us.

Perhaps, overcome as I was by the boring conversation of Papa George, I would have fallen into his trap had a friendly whisper not warned me. Papa George's house was in reality a shop, and he considered himself the first salesman in Syria, one who always got his man. This was intriguing, for I am by way of thinking myself the greatest nonbuyer on earth. But I let Papa George watch me like a cat at a mouse hole. How I escaped his supersalesmanship is another story. But escape it I did, and our car zipped off toward Beirut climbing up and up into the Lebanons until it seemed we must reach heaven. Twice we hairpinned these brown pink rocks to 7,000 feet, and twice swirled into blooming valleys. Often it seemed while circling granite precipices we were riding off into space. No parapet, no little rim stood between us and eternity.

Syria's Sofar Proves Not So Good.

Over on our left, in a maze of mountain tops, the stronghold of Lady Hester Stanhope, beautiful and erratic niece of William Pitt, Lord Chatham, whose hostess she was at 10 Downing street. At 34, being disillusioned with London and love, she took up life here, and led her own troop of Arabs in wild forays. All this was 100 years ago, and I was mad to see her house, but there was no time, it was so remote.

On one tiptop pass, a lovely casino and many villas orientally exotic. It was Sofar, but not so good. For this is the Syrian Monte Carlo where the French permit the big gambling which attracts plutocratic Egyptians, Turks, Syrians from all over the middle east.

Finally we swung into the Syrian Grande Corniche. Then the Eastern end of the Mediterranean and marvelous, oriental Cote d'Or was spread out before our entranced eyes. There lay the road to Tyre and Sidon, great cities of the past, and beyond them Acre jutting into a sea as blue as if nature had spilled all her blue paint. I loved that strange little town, in a forest of palms, triple walled, with a granite front on the sea which had thrown back Napoleon. For an ancestor of mine had scaled that twelve feet thick wall in battle and had been knighted by Richard the Lionheart for his pains. Furthermore he had been smart enough to return to England and settled down. I climbed up and over the sea walls, now encircling a Moslem town, wondering if my forbear were good looking.

So we came into Beirut, a maritime town, and seat of government. The American college was en vacances, and President Robert Dodge and Mrs. Dodge and her mother, Mrs. Robert Bliss, formerly Miss Blatchford of Chicago, were en villégiature in the Lebanons. The college buildings looked simple but handsome, and I hear that their medical school is making important changes in the sanitation of the east. The acting high commissioner of Syria is Earnest La Garde of Paris, a most dashing, quite young executive from the minstère des affaires étrangères, who invited us to luncheon. I had heard in Jerusalem that he was an enormously hard working and brilliant man. His chief is Comte de Martel, who lingers in Paris. I don't exactly blame him. M. La Garde administers the business of the French mandate in Syria, and the difficult thing for him is, that while Syria is poor, Palestine is becoming exceedingly wealthy. And Syrians know it.

WORKS FOR BENEFIT

Mrs. Jacob Bischof finds that her very young son, Harrington, takes up quite a good deal of her time, but she still finds it possible to work for the Chicago Junior league. She is busy now selling tickets for the open house the league will hold at the Drake on Friday, Oct. 4. This will be the first large benefit the league has had in about fifteen years, and the finance committee, which planned it, hopes to realize a large sum for the charity budget which is in need of funds.

Autumn Brings Women's Clubs New Activity

Organizations of City Get Into Swing for Full Season of Work Ahead.

By Ruth DeYoung.

AUTUMN having made its official bow yesterday, the feminine world is ready to turn its mind from the country and the seashore to home and school and club programs that run the gamut from light opera to discussion of the international situation.

MRS. JOHN VAN WAKEMAN.

Most of the women's organizations in Chicago and its suburbs are getting under way this week or next on a distinctly social note. In the months to come study groups and philanthropy will receive their special emphasis.

The Cook County Federation of Women's clubs has invited all of its affiliate groups to an open meeting tomorrow in the Auditorium hotel that will introduce its 38th year of activity. As the federation's new president, Mrs. John Van Wakeman will receive and preside at the luncheon at noon. Special guests will include the speakers and artists to be presented at the morning and afternoon sessions, also Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, second vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. William F. Farrell, General Federation director; Mrs. Edward J. Lehman, president of the Illinois Federation; Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations, and Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the conference of club presidents and program chairmen.

Status of Education to Be the Major Discussion Topic.

Mrs. Frank M. Fulton, chairman of education for the federation, will present the morning program. Mrs. William S. Hefferan, member of the board of education in Chicago, will discuss the present status of educational affairs in Chicago, while Mrs. James Oldshue will tell of the interest which the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs has taken in education.

Continuing the emphasis on education, John A. Weiland, superintendent of public instruction in Illinois, and Noble J. Puffer, superintendent of schools in Cook county, will address the afternoon meeting. A musical program will be given by Paul Mallory, concert and radio tenor, accompanied by Amie Heilman and Beatrice Burgeson, radio artist and "Miss Sweden" of A Century of Progress.

MRS. HARRY A. KAHN.

A combined business meeting and tea will launch the 1935-'36 club year for the Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon at the Medinah - Michigan Avenue club. The business session will concern itself with the Jascha Heifetz concert which the organization is sponsoring the evening of Monday, Oct. 21, in Orchestra hall.

The concert will mark the only Chicago appearance of the world famous violinist before his departure for Europe. At the meeting tomorrow Mrs. Louis Golan will report on the box sale to date. Mrs. Harry A. Kahn is general chairman of the concert committee. Assisting her are Mrs. Benjamin I. Morris, Mrs. Milton Klein, and Mrs. Samuel L. Herman. Mrs. Harry J. Myerson, president of the Chicago section, is ex officio a committee member.

After the business meeting tomorrow Mrs. David Riff, chairman of the dramatic discussion group, will read the current New York stage success, "Awake and Sing." Oscar Chausow, former soloist with the Chicago Symphony and Civic orchestras, and now a member of the Salvi ensemble, will give a short musical program.

Traveler in Palestine Will Talk Before Chicago Hadassah.

At the opening meeting of Chicago Hadassah at 2 o'clock Tuesday at the Congress hotel Mrs. John Rissman will read a report on the World Zionist congress, and Miss Lillian Franklin will tell of the "real" Palestine, drawing her material from a recent trip abroad. A membership drive, under the direction of Mrs. S. H. Soboroff, will be announced. Preceding this program Mrs. Harry M. Fisher, Chicago Hadassah president, will conduct a memorial service for Mrs. Aleck Bernstein, former president of the south side district. A fund is being raised to commemorate Mrs. Bernstein's memory in some department of the Rothschild-Hadassah University hospital on Mount Scopus in Jerusalem.

Chicago Junior Hadassah is beginning its new year at 3 o'clock today with a fur fashion show at the Congress hotel. Recently this active young group has increased its membership 100 per cent. To appreciate the good that Junior Hadassah accomplishes it is necessary only to mention Meier Shfeyah, the children's educational school, and Pardess Anna, an agricultural colony in Palestine. These have become an integral part of Palestine and are dependent on Junior Hadassah for their existence.

New officers of the Chicago group to be presented Sunday include Miss Sara G. Turner, president; Miss Leah Matosoff, social chairman; Miss Reva Gananky, membership chairman; Miss Gertrude Raub, fund raising chairman, and Miss Julia Lewis, cultural chairman.

The Junior Auxiliary of Altenheim, the German Old People's home, will celebrate its sixth anniversary next Saturday with a fashion show and tea at the home of Mrs. Emil Dirks, 211 Central avenue, Wilmette.

PRESENTED ON A WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On the twentieth anniversary of the wedding of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore, Miss Frances Glore was presented formally to society at a tea at the Glores' handsome Lake Forest residence. Miss Glore will not spend her entire first winter "out" at home for she is leaving late this fall to study the rest of the winter in New York.

Conventions Interest Three Women's Clubs

Illinois Organizations Are to Gather This Week for Respective Meets.

FROM all over the country hundreds of women, most of them mothers and housewives, are gathering in the midwest this week for three conventions of national importance.

Joining forces with their husbands, the members of the American Legion auxiliary are opening their annual national convention tomorrow in St. Louis. With their newly elected leader, Mrs. William Glenn Suthers, hundreds of Illinoisans are going today by train, plane, and automobile.

The convention sessions, to be held in the Moolah Shrine temple, will continue through Thursday. Both the Illinois Legion and auxiliary will have their headquarters in the Jefferson hotel.

Illinois Presenting Candidate for President of National Body.

The local auxiliary delegation will be larger than usual, since Illinois is presenting Mrs. Melville Mucklestone as a candidate for the national presidency. Mrs. Mucklestone is opposed by Mrs. Thomas George Gammie of Ponca City, Okla. Illinois points out that it has rendered sincere and valuable service to the general organization, but never has had one of its members elevated to the presidency.

Mrs. Mucklestone is eligible to the Legion auxiliary through the service of her husband, a Chicago attorney, who served as a flying lieutenant during the world war. She has served the Illinois department as president and as national executive committeewoman. In 1933 she was official hostess to the national convention in session here. Nationally she also has served as chairman of the legislative committee.

Chicago Is Headquarters for Polish Women's Alliance Meet.

Five hundred delegates from most of the states of the Union are expected in Chicago today for the opening of the seventeenth quadrennial convention of the Polish Women's Alliance. The meeting will begin with a mass this morning at St. John of God church, Throop and 52d streets. The mass will be marked by a special ceremony in which Miss Emily Napieralski, president of the alliance, will decorate the banner of group fifteen, the group that raised the necessary quota for the alliance to obtain its charter many, many years ago. The organization now represents a membership of more than 60,000.

The highlight of the convention will come tomorrow evening with the banquet at the Hotel Sherman. Speakers will be Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Chauncey McCormick, who recently returned from a trip to Poland. The convention will continue through this week, with meetings at the Alliance headquarters, 1309 North Milwaukee avenue.

The third convention is that of Zeta Phi Psi national sorority. The meeting, which will come into session Wednesday at the Congress hotel, to continue through Saturday, will mark the fourteenth anniversary of the organization.

Miss Vivian Trudell of Pi chapter is to be installed as grand chapter master, having been reëlected to this office. Other officers who will assume their duties include Mrs. Evelyn Wright of Sigma chapter, vice grand chapter master; Miss Edith Mikkola of Mu chapter, grand treasurer; Mrs. Ann Stewart of Omicron chapter, grand corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ruth Ross of Xi chapter, grand recording secretary, and Miss Connie Brosnahan of Gamma chapter, grand master of ceremonies.

The convention will open with a business session and it will reach its climax Saturday in a cabaret dance in the Gold room of the Congress. Miss Helen Fazekas of Kappa chapter is the convention chairman.

Another national convention this week, but in the east, is the meeting of the American War Mothers at Washington, D. C. The delegates will convene Saturday to continue through Oct. 4. The formal opening will be preceded by a board meeting on Friday.

Illinois State Nurses' Group to Hold 34th Annual Meeting.

The 34th annual meeting of the Illinois State Nurses' association is to be held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday in Danville, with headquarters at the Hotel Wolford. A good share of the program will be devoted to small forums and committee meetings. At a general session at 3:30 Thursday afternoon the speaker will be Dr. Francis J. Certy, superintendent of the Cook County Psychopathic hospital in Chicago. There will be a banquet Thursday evening, at which Miss Harriet Fulmer, president of the Illinois State Nurses' association, will be the hostess.

Members of the board of managers of the Illinois congress of parents and teachers will meet next Friday at the Stevens hotel. The board meeting is called for 10 o'clock, but special committees that are to report will meet before that time. Mrs. Arthur R. Williams of Normal will preside.

Division Meetings Throughout State to Mark Season for the D. A. R.

Division meetings in various parts of the state mark the opening of the new year's work for the Daughters of the American Revolution. Representatives of D. A. R. chapters in nine Illinois counties comprising the fourth division will hold their annual meeting Wednesday in Aurora. Mrs. Samuel James Campbell, state regent, will bring the meeting to order at 10 o'clock at the Aurora Woman's club.

Special emphasis will be given to the work of the Americanism committee which is trying to grapple with the thousands of foreign born who are antagonistic to the United States government. Equal attention will be paid the approved schools committee which deals with the southern mountain schools, also the committee on national defense through patriotic education.

BACK FROM THE EAST

Miss Betty Forgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Forgan of Highland Park, spent the summer with her family at their summer home at Hyannisport, Mass. She has been at home several weeks and is busy with all the activities that occupy her time during the months she spends in Highland Park, including the Chicago Junior league, which will have a mammoth benefit open house at the Drake on Oct. 4.

Civic Music Work Keynote of Mrs. Yager's Career

Mrs. Louis E. Yager, Oak Park resident and president of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, returned from Europe a few weeks ago firm in the conviction that America has plenty of talent and artistry but not faith in its own people. "Only through civic and national support and promotion can America ever hope to establish an appreciation of its own musicians and their compositions," she said.

MRS. LOUIS E. YAGER.

The conviction is not new. It only has been confirmed, for the realization of this need is the reason why Mrs. Yager has been active for many years in music movements of a civic character.

As 11 year old Narcissa Harrison she embarked on an artistic career of her own. Living in Canton, O., with her parents, descended on one side from the English Harrisons and on the other from James Pollard Espey, founder of the weather bureau, she began taking voice lessons from Anna Meller Sheib.

Soon she was waving the baton for her little classmates in school and Sunday school. In the fifth grade she played marches on the foot organ. But her first real public singing was in the choir of Canton's First Methodist church, which President McKinley attended. Her first printed program recital was in 1888, at the home of Mrs. Jacob Miller, a sister of Thomas A. Edison.

Mrs. Yager well remembers the campaign in which President McKinley was elected. As the returns were coming in she was called upon time and again to break the tension with a song or two. Two weeks before President McKinley was assassinated he sent the following message to Mrs. Yager through a mutual friend: "Remember me to Bessie Harrison, and tell her never to give up her singing."

Later years, however, meant that she would give up her singing to do the far reaching public work in which she now is engaged. But before this she met Mr. Yager during the World's Fair of '93, was married, and was inspired to continue her study in Chicago, under the direction of Samuel Kayser. It remained for Max Heinrich to discourage her study of opera in favor of concert and oratorio works.

For two years Mrs. Yager was soloist in the Austin First Baptist church, for seven years in the First Presbyterian Church of Oak Park, and for five years in Unity temple. She sang at the dedication of the Memorial Continental hall in Washington, D. C. In fact, for seventeen years, while she reared three daughters, she kept up her public appearances.

In March, 1916, Mrs. Yager was invited to accept the chairmanship of the young American trained artists' contests. Through these the winners were given thirty engagements throughout the United States.

In later years Mrs. Yager became a founder of the American Opera society.

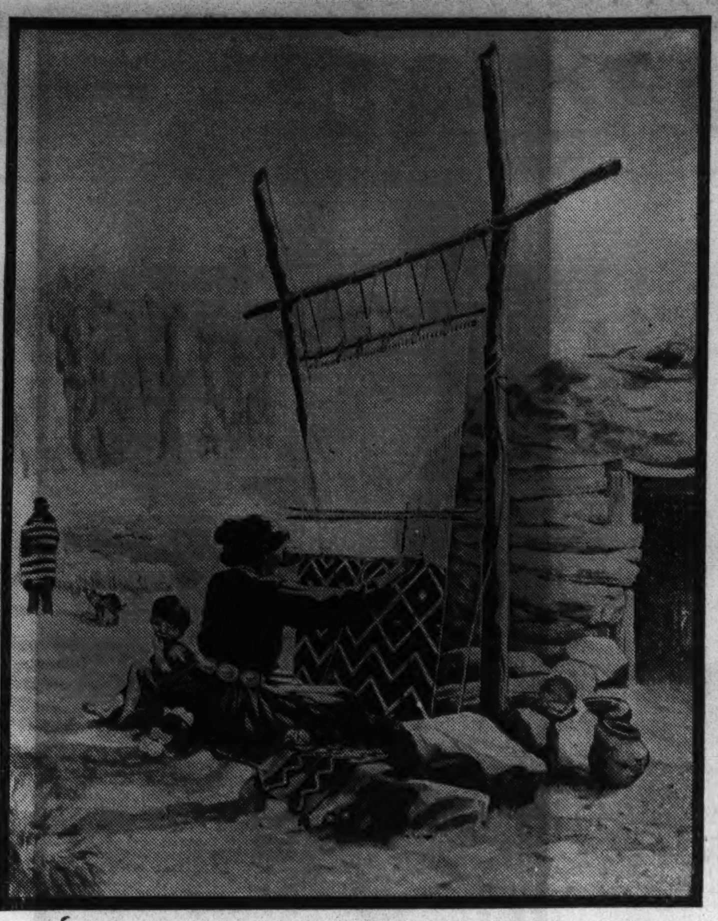
Chicagoan's Murals Placed in Beloit College

Frank Logans Give Winterberg's Indian Studies to Wisconsin School.

By Eleanor Jewett.

WORKING since June in a delightfully airy, high ceilinged room with windows opening on the lake, Elmer C. Winterberg, a youthful painter discovered by Mrs. Frank G. Logan, has just finished a series of impressive murals depicting the five Indian tribes of the southwest. These murals were placed Thursday in the museum at Beloit college, where already twelve gorgeous murals by John Norton are installed. Mr. Norton's work illustrates the evolution of man: the cave man, those who preceded and those who followed him, primitive man in the various cycles of time and climate to which God called him.

The John Norton murals were the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan to Beloit. Similarly Mr. and Mrs. Logan now are giving these five paintings by Mr. Winterberg. The Indian paintings have been executed with vim and dash. They are pictorial, decorative, vivid, alive, accurate, and intensely interesting.



THE SOUTHWESTERNERS

"Navajo Weaver," by Elmer C. Winterberg, one of five magnificent murals by this Chicago artist installed in the museum of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan are the donors of the murals to the museum, which also is their gift to Beloit.

Beloit Sends Expedition to Southwest Each Summer.

The museum is deeply concerned with the lives and circumstance of the early peoples of the southwest, and each summer an expedition is sent out under the leadership (for the last five years) of Prof. Paul Nesbitt. Its members search from one to six feet into the earth for what they may discover. They have made some marvelous findings. From their researches whole chapters in the lives of the early Indian tribes have been reconstructed. The expeditions include students of the college as well as the professors, and the whole dry subject of early man is transformed into an exciting, living pursuit.

The murals bring the five Indian tribes into focus, each illustrating a definite characteristic of that particular people. The Navajo and Apache were nomadic tribes, the Navajo peaceful and contented with weaving and sheep tending; the Apache were warlike, savage, and filled with the lust for raids. Mr. Winterberg has painted them in character. The Apache Indians mounted on running horses make a stunning composition; whether they are on the war path or merely hunting, the effect is of a rattling good ride, with thunderous hoofs beating a savage music across the sleeping desert.

Hopi Snake Dance Brings a Shudder.

The Hopi and Acoma tribes were sedentary or pueblo people. The Hopi are represented engaged in the snake dance, a yearly celebration lasting a week, in which the priests pray for rain. Mr. Winterberg has chosen the moment of the ritual dance for his painting. A tree is suggested to the right of the canvas, in the shade of which the snakes are kept cool before they are actually needed. In the center is a hole, from which the snakes are taken. A line of earnest dancers holds one in horror struck silence. Each alternate dancer has a wriggling snake held between his teeth; the intervening priest holds an eagle feather, with which, now and again, he strokes the rattlesnake held by the man ahead. The snake rears rigidly at the touch, the significance of which, in the Indian lore, is that the eagle is the conqueror of the snake.

From this colorful episode, strikingly painted, one turns to the gentle, cool lines of the Acoma Sky City; water carriers, women, climbing the steep ascent to the white pueblo high above, on the top of a towering rock. Indian lore gives this scene added interest. During attacks upon the Indians in, perhaps, 1560 the Spaniards tried to conquer this tribe by cutting off their water supply, which was a spring at the base of the rock. After a week's siege two men of the tribe dared to climb down the rock by night and succeeded in bringing back four bags of water. The next day the Spaniards tried again to climb the steep ascent in an active assault. The Indians, to prove their independence of water, threw the contents of the water bags in the faces of the attacking soldiers. In disgust the Spaniards gave up their attempt to conquer the pueblo, and this particular rock city never was captured.

Spanish Horses Changed Pimas' Habits.

The last of the murals depicts the Pima Indians, a semi-nomadic, semi-sedentary people. The Pima were a particularly peaceful tribe, and the artist has shown them gathering the fruit of the desert cacti. It is amusing to learn that the Pima were chiefly a sedentary tribe until the horse was introduced to them by the Spaniards, when, taking to that animal with gusto, they rode everywhere. They were careful of their horses and bred them wisely.

Beloit is only ninety miles from Chicago. The Logan museum is well worth seeing, holding as it does these Indian paintings and the great series of murals by John Norton.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

Sculpture by Walter Williams is on view in the Sherry hotel, 53d street at the lake.

The Chicago Academy of Fine Arts has engaged John Storrs, Chicago sculptor, to conduct an advanced class meeting Saturday afternoons, beginning early in November. Mr. Storrs is still is in Paris, where he went after his successful exhibition of modern sculpture in the Roullier gallery last season.

The jury for the tenth annual All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts exhibition, to be held at the Stevens hotel starting Nov. 16, has been announced as consisting of Adam Emory Albright, Eleanor Jewett, Julia Sulzer Griffith, Oscar D. Soellner, and Buell Mullen. The last day for return of entry cards is Saturday, Oct. 12. The jury will meet Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 10 a. m.

The special Sunday afternoon programs by Dudley Crafts Watson begin this afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, in Fullerton hall, with a stereopticon lecture, with music, on "The Art and Life of Italy." A similar setting will present "The Art and Life of Germany" on Sept. 29.

Daughters of Colonists to Open Year Saturday

Regents' Luncheon Program to Begin Activity of Fort Checaugou Group.

FORT CHECAUGOU chapter, Illinois branch of the National Society of Daughters of the American Colonists, will open its season with a regents' day luncheon and program next Saturday afternoon in the Republic building. Present and former regents of the state organization and its chapters will be introduced.

MRS. CHESTER TURNER. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

The Fort Checaugou chapter is the second oldest in the state, organized in 1929 by Mrs. Edward G. Snodgrass, then state regent. Mrs. T. Henry Green was the first regent. Mrs. Chester M. Turner, 7132 Crandon avenue, the present regent, was elected last May, to serve two years.

Members of the Daughters of the American Colonists must be lineal descendants of an ancestor who rendered civil or military service in any of the colonies prior to July 4, 1776.

The national society was formed in 1921 "for patriotic, historical, and educational purposes; to make research as to the history and deeds of the American colonists, and to record and publish the same; to commemorate the deeds of colonial interest; to inculcate and foster the love of America and its institutions by all its residents; to obey its laws and venerate its flag—the emblem of its power and civic righteousness."

National Society Holds Annual Assembly in April Every Year.

The national society, of which Mrs. Joseph Calfee of St. Louis is president, holds its annual assembly in Washington, D. C., in April of each year. At the last assembly a granite cross commemorating the landing of the first colonists was dedicated on the spot where they took the country in the name of God and king in Fort Story, at Cape Henry, Va.

Mrs. Charles T. Marsh of Rockford is regent of the Illinois state society. Officers of the Fort Checaugou chapter, besides Mrs. Turner, are Mrs. Robert S. Ogilvy, first vice regent; Mrs. Harry T. Tillotson, second vice regent; Miss Lillian M. Wilson, recording secretary; Miss Katharine K. Adams, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bert W. Crissey, treasurer; Miss Marion Wales, registrar; Mrs. Thomas J. Newbill, historian; Mrs. Luther J. Hiatt, librarian; Mrs. Francis E. Thornton, chaplain; Mrs. Greene, Mrs. John A. Briggs, Mrs. Robert J. Roulston, and Mrs. Daniel Taylor, directors.

Yearly, since its organization, the society has contributed toward the maintenance of a student at the Carr Creek Community school in Knott county, Ky., also in sending boxes of books, clothing, and useful gifts for children of the community.

Chicago Section of Jewish Juniors' Council Is to Hold Celebrity Tea.

A celebrity tea will open the 1935 membership drive of the Chicago section, National Council of Jewish Juniors at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. Among the guests will be Ben Aronin, playwright; Frank Wilson, radio performer; Frankie "Half Pint" Jaxon, and Naomi Soble, pianist.

Miss Clarice J. Richman, Miss Tess J. Newman, Miss Fritzie Zitman, and Miss Lassie Zar are arranging the tea. The council includes among its philanthropic activities social service work at the council camp for underprivileged children at Wauconda, Ill., and at clinics and hospitals. Drama appreciation, music appreciation, current events, art and literature study groups also are sponsored by the council.

The conference of Jewish women's organizations will hold a memorial meeting honoring Jane Addams at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the 22d floor of the Medical and Dental Arts building, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Miss Harriet Vittum will speak on "Jane Addams, Settlement Worker, Founder of Hull House." Miss Agnes Nestor will discuss "Jane Addams, Friend of Labor," and Dr. Curtis W. Reese, editor of Unity and dean of Lincoln center, will talk on "Jane Addams, a World Leader in the Peace Movement." Oscar Chausow, violinist, will play.

The Hull House Woman's club will hold a memorial to Jane Addams in the form of a luncheon and card party Thursday noon at 1320 North Pine avenue.

Social Schedule Leads British to Sports on Moors

LONDON

People who make social news in England live by an annual schedule which changes little from year to year. On a certain date society swarms to London. On a certain date it leaves London and goes to Goodwood. From there it goes to Cowes and now, conforming to "what is done," society is shooting in Scotland and taking a holiday.

Shooting is one of the most expensive sports. Thousands of pounds are paid for a few weeks' tenancy of a moor, and it takes thousands more to occupy it, so that numerically the number of people with moors is relatively small. However, one of the reasons for taking a moor is to have guests, and invitations are joyfully accepted.

One of the most important and most interesting events of the Scottish season are the Aboyne games, under the chieftainship of the marquess of Huntley. He is 88 years old and was this year assisted by his wife's son by a former marriage. The marchioness of Huntley formerly was Charlotte Isabelle MacDonald of Washington.

The games are held on the village green of Aboyne, and the most picturesque feature of the program is the parade of the pipers.

Dr. Arthur Pope in London While Working on Book

LONDON

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Upham Pope of Chicago have been staying at a house in Hill street, Mayfair, while Dr. Pope finishes his magnum opus on Persian art. Two volumes will appear later in the autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Pope expect to leave London soon for Leningrad, where Dr. Pope will oversee the great exhibition of Persian art which the soviet is conducting this autumn. They will return to London in October, and remain here until about Christmas time.

ART NOTES

The first important Art institute exhibition of this autumn will be the forty-sixth annual exhibit of American paintings and sculpture, to open Oct. 24 in the east wing galleries of the museum.

Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett has made possible a series of free weekly lectures on "Adventures in Art" at the Art institute. The talks, which are modeled on the highly successful series given experimentally last spring, will be presented at 6:30 on Thursday evenings in Fullerton hall. The topic is one voted by men and women who attended the course given last spring. Announcement of specific titles of lectures will be made later. The series will start on Oct. 3 and continue through the Art institute's 1935-'36 season.

When Chicago Was Young

The Elegant Eighties

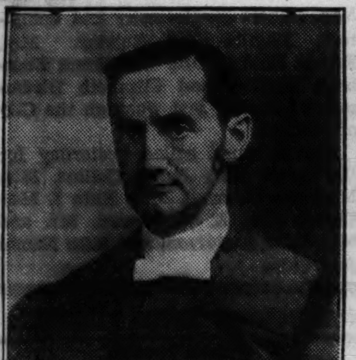
By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

DEAR JULIA: Sandy and Martha are formally installed in their new home on Dearborn avenue, near Chicago avenue. Last evening they gave a house warming for a small company of friends, and it seemed to me it was a really lovely occasion.

They wanted to have a little ceremonial, indicating that the house was to be not so much their castle as a place where friends should come often for diversion, pleasant converse, and comfort. Sandy and Martha are both so hospitable the new house will be full of company always, I know.

They had expected to have Dr. Stryker, their minister, preside at this simple ceremony, but he was called out of town suddenly. Sandy, being a Scotchman, feels that a function is not complete without a dominie, preferably Presbyterian, so he telegraphed young Rev. James G. K. McClure of Lake Forest, who was so obliging as to come in. He is much beloved and we often hear him preach out in that lovely suburb, when we visit there in summer. I think you would have liked his simple, genuine way of reciting some verses from Deuteronomy as he began his short talk. You know that interesting chapter, in which the children of Israel are blessed.



The Rev. Dr. James G. K. McClure, beloved Presbyterian minister of Lake Forest.

"Blessed shalt thou be in the city and blessed shalt thou be in the field.

"Blessed shall be thy basket and thy store.

"Blessed shalt thou be when thou comest in and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out."

Not in a preachy way, but like a gentle priest instructing his people Mr. McClure pronounced these blessings, reminding us that they were expressly conditioned on our walking in the paths of righteousness. He makes goodness attractive, as it should be. Then, the guests gathering close about the fireplace, Sandy took a wax taper, handed him by Martha, and lighted the fire, which had been carefully laid ready. He had first bidden all present to come often and warm themselves at this harth, and as he concluded his little speech and stooped to apply the taper there was a hush such as often falls on a group when the miracle of light begins to manifest itself. We all drew soft breaths, watching the tiny flame curl about the kindling.

It's not far from the sublime to the ridiculous. Standing in silence, we heard the front door open and then a loud, if somewhat thick, voice: "Will you tell Doc Macleod to come right over to Simpson's on Clark street? He'll understand. My wife she told the doc this afternoon that she'd prob'ly be needin' him tonight."

So frightfully distinct! Not a guest, I'm sure, missed the implication . . . that the Simpsons' already large family, which is being cared for by the Relief and Aid society, was about to be augmented.

The Simpsons always honor Sandy by choosing him to usher the newcomer into the world, and, as Will says, the infants invariably arrive by the midnight express.

Dear Mrs. George Dunlap was a guest this evening. The Dunlaps live at the northwest corner of Dearborn and Oak streets and have been so agreeable about the Macleods' coming into the neighborhood. She was a daughter of Mayor Rice, and is one of five charming sisters.

Do write soon, dear Julia.

Your loving friend,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Mayor Rice's daughters, besides Mrs. George Dunlap, were Mrs. Orson Smith, Mrs. William R. Odell, Mrs. James H. Kimball, and Mrs. Frances R. Smith. The last named is still living, a resident of Florida. William R. Odell of Chicago is a grandson; John R. Reilly of Winnetka and William R. Odell Jr. of Lake Forest are great-grandsons of Mayor Rice.

Mrs. James G. K. McClure, widow of the beloved minister whom Martha praised, lives in Lake Forest. Children of Dr. and Mrs. McClure are: James G. K. McClure Jr. of Fairview, N. C.; Mrs. Dumont Clark of Manchester, N. H.; Mrs. Douglas Stuart of Lake Forest; Nathan McClure of Geneva; and the late Archibald McClure.

Old Chicago Harthstones.

1000 N. Dearborn street.

(Requested by Agatha Thomson, Chicago.)

This fine old house at the northwest corner of Dearborn and Oak streets was built by George L. Dunlap, vice president and general manager of the Chicago and North Western railroad. It is typical of the architecture of the '70s. An engineering genius, Mr. Dunlap helped construct the old Galena and Chicago Union railway, the first link in the North Western system. Next, he went to Montreal and aided in building the Montreal and Quebec railway. On the completion of the Canadian road he returned to the United States and helped build the Wabash railroad. The Dearborn street mansion is now owned and occupied by a publishing house.

DOMESTIC TRAVEL

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

FOREIGN TRAVEL

In China They Smile, Gesture, and Say "Yes"

Guides and Interpreters Baffle and Sometimes Discourage Visitors.

By Mason Warner.

HANGCHOW, China.—I never did have much success with native guides and alleged interpreters. My experience with one in Hangchow completely discouraged me. He took me from the hotel to a small and uninteresting temple in the outskirts of the city. I asked him if it was a Buddhist or a Taoist temple. He did not know, but volunteered to get the information from a temple attendant.

The interpreter started his querying with an attention arresting sentence that was almost a vocal explosion. Then he turned on a stream of words, accompanied by energetic gestures, threw back his head, waved his hands, pointed north, south, east, west—stopped finally for breath.

The questioned attendant was all set, ready to reply. He did everything but dance. He paced forth and back, gestured, raised his voice, lowered it, pointed forward with fingers, and backward with thumbs over shoulders. He really got excited, but when out of breath he, too, suddenly ceased speaking.

"What did he say?" I asked.

"I have not asked him yet," replied my guide.

Then the animated performance was repeated. I asked again: "What did he say?"

With the smile of satisfaction that comes with the consciousness of duty well done, my guide replied:

"He say 'Yes.'"

Anyway, He Kept on Smiling.

Far away in the Hangchow hills is the Gem spring of dancing fish, inclosed in a pavilion. The spring is a pool of water, clear and sparkling, and when a person stamps his foot, or—better still—just jumps up and comes down heavy enough to jolt the stone border, tiny fish dart about and hundreds of iridescent bubbles come dancing to the surface.

I had not intended to go so far, but I was without guide or interpreter and my smiling rickshaw coolie did not understand one word of English. I had engaged him to take me to Ling Yin and return for $1, after having the hotel clerk instruct him where to go.

When I came out of Ling Yin I said: "Back to the hotel." He nodded his head. "Yes,"— smiled, picked up the shafts, and started. There were temples, pavilions, caves, grottoes, tombs, coffin houses, memorials, all along the way. He saw that I enjoyed viewing them. Every ten or fifteen minutes he would stop at some interesting sight. I would get out of the rickshaw and "look-see," come back, climb into the rickshaw, say: "Back to the hotel."

Stretching Trip to a Two Piece Affair.

He nodded, smiled, picked up shafts, and a few minutes later put me down at another temple or cave, or other "look-see." The hour grew late. I was hungry. I tried to indicate by pointing to the hands on my watch that it was past the dinner hour and I wanted to get to the hotel at once, quick, immediately, NOW!

The coolie smiled and nodded yes for perhaps the twentieth time, and off we went again. Some lengths of the road were so steep and rocky that he had to hire waiting coolies to help him get his rickshaw up and down, handing them a few coppers for their assistance. I walked at least a third part of the distance we traveled—which did not please my coolie at all. He did not like to have me walk past waiting rickshaw men, for there and then he "lost face." However, when he was ready, he brought me back to the hotel and, though the hour was late, I had seen so much that was truly worth seeing that I was not angry with him for having stretched his "one-piece" fare to a "two-piece" affair.

Wherever one goes in China he sees evidence that China is an old, very old country. In the heart of Hangchow there are tombs and memorials so ancient that the weather of the centuries has worn the stone statues and carvings to smooth surfaces. In the country are disintegrating walls inclosing what were once rich estates and imposing buildings, the ruins of which are overgrown with semi-tropical jungle.

Awaiting Auspicious Day for Burial.

The "coffin houses" along the paths in the hills, where repose the remains of the departed awaiting an auspicious day for burial, are in better condition than are houses of the living. These mausoleums are rows of twelve to twenty attached buildings, ten or twelve feet high, each having one room, with space for either one or two coffins. Sometimes the burial of husband or wife is postponed until the death of the survivor, and that occasions the waiting of one for the other in the coffin house.

For the peace of the departed soul and the good luck of the surviving members of the family, a day when all the elements of nature are in harmony in relation to the departed one must be chosen by a learned geomancer for interment in the earth. That is always difficult, for what would be a lucky day for one son might bring disaster to another. It is not unusual for a corpse to wait five, ten, or twenty years for burial. Very rich families have been known to wait fifty years for the right day to conclude the final act of a funeral.

I have learned that if a foreigner wants to get along happily in China, he can make his days brighter by taking notice of the babies and chilwants to get along happily in China treat the natives disdainfully. You need not pet or touch the little ones, but if you smile or wave at a baby in arms, the mother just beams and glows like the morning sun. The Chinese crave the passing attention of foreigners so keenly that it is pathetic. And it is easy to notice the babies in Hangchow, for they are cute, cunning, and clean, with shaved heads, and topknots of black hair left by which to pull them into heaven.

This is the twenty-seventh letter of a series descriptive of travel in Japan, China, the Philippines, Netherlands East Indies, Bali, Malaya, and Indo-China (Angkor Thom). Readers have been kind in their comment. Some have inquired if the series will be published in book form. That depends upon the number desiring the book. If you want the letters in a popular-priced edition, please say so on a postcard addressed to the Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I have been told that Montreal is closer than New York is to the northern European ports. Is this true?—M. M.

Yes. Although Montreal lies 1,000 miles up the St. Lawrence river, it is 315 miles closer to Liverpool than New York is. The distance from Montreal is 2,785 miles; that from New York is 3,100.

How can I get from my home in Peoria to Mexico City? —D. H.

One good way would be to take the Illinois Central to New Orleans, board a liner there for Vera Cruz, and make the rest of the trip by rail. There are other good routes by rail and by air, but the auto highway from Monterey to Mexico City is not recommended for easy travel.

It opened Sept. 11.

Where can we find the Spanish inns at which Cervantes is supposed to have stopped?—W. M.

Almost everywhere in Spain. They are as numerous as the New England beds in which George Washington is supposed to have slept.

Two of us are planning a short Carribean cruise out of New Orleans. What sort of clothing should we take along? —F. L. H.

Passengers on these cruises usually do not dress for dinner. The trips are very much "go as you please," and a cotton dinner dress would be appropriate. Sport clothes or light prints make good wearing apparel during the day.

What is the highest capital in the world? —C. S.

Caracas, Venezuela, claims that distinction.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

LUDWIG PLATE, Chicago manager of the Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd, received word yesterday that Commodore Fritz Kruse would command the steamship Reliance on its coming trip around the world. Commodore Kruse piloted the steamship New York last winter when that ship went to the rescue of the Sisto. He is said to know more trans-Atlantic travelers than does any other captain now sailing the seas.

South American travel will show an increase of at least 150 per cent this season over last. Eddie O'Connor of Thomas Cook & Son made this estimate last week following announcement that his agency would operate sixteen conducted tours to the southern continent. Last year there were only six.

J. V. Lanigan relates that the August sales of tickets out of Chicago over the Illinois Central were 22.34 per cent greater than those of August, 1934. Mr. Lanigan predicts that the business to Florida this winter will surpass everything else since the boom days of the late '20s.

With a background of seven trips around the world, in addition to numerous cruises to the North cape and the Mediterranean, Richard L. Murphy has arrived in Chicago from the Boston office of Raymond-Whitcomb, Inc., and will be stationed here in the future. So far he has been kept busy renewing the friendships he made in the course of his travels.

A telegram received by THE TRIBUNE last week from the German railroads' information office in New York related that foreigners visiting in Germany for a week or more would get a 60 per cent fare reduction on all lines until Oct. 31, 1936. This is an extension of the present concession, which would have expired on Halloween of this year.

"The American's insistence on freedom of action must account for the tremendous popularity of the American one class steamers," says W. C. Lancsweert of the I. M. M.-Roosevelt Lines. "On these ships one can travel economically, have the unrestricted use of decks and public rooms, and enjoy excellent food. The cost of transportation, stateroom, and meals is 3½ cents a mile."

Kenneth A. Cook of the Canadian Pacific said yesterday that the world cruise of the Empress of Britain this winter would differ from the previous ones in that a stop would be made at Barcelona. Like other cities along the Mediterranean, Barcelona has an overlapping district dating from ancient times. The night life there begins about 11 o'clock. As the crowd gathers, tables are moved outside, and dancers throng out into the streets until, at the peak of the festivities, the overflow has taken up the entire space and vehicular trafic has been diverted elsewhere.

Queen Mary to Make Maiden Voyage in June

GLASGOW.—May 21 next probably will be the day when, at the height of the spring flood tides, the Queen Mary, huge new Cunard-White Star liner, will leave the River Clyde, where she was built, and go down to the sea for her trial runs. The maiden voyage from Southampton via Cherbourg to New York will, in all likelihood, take place about a month later, but the time is still indefinite.

Work on the liner is somewhat ahead of schedule. From the outside the ship looks almost completed. The two smartly slanted masts are in position, as are two of the three funnels. Most of the deck planking has been completed.

Announce Tour of Virginia Churches

RICHMOND, Va.—The first organized church tours of the state of Virginia will include visits to 44 historic Episcopal churches, virtually all that remain standing of the original 250 colonial edifices of the commonwealth. The tours, on Sept. 29 and Oct. 6 and 13, will be a part of the Virginia autumn travelogue, a consecutive series of events beginning with the National Tobacco festival at South Boston on Sept. 25 and continuing through the anniversary celebration at Yorktown on Oct. 19. Gov. George C. Peery is chairman of the movement.

The Voice of the Traveler

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are invited. Please make them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

Kouts, Ind., Sept. 9.—To the Travel Editor—Your picture of Lake Tahoe in yesterday's paper drew my attention, and I can agree on the beauty of the lake, for I returned from there two weeks ago.

You mentioned that at the San Diego fair, the Midget village and Nudist colony were the attractive places, and your description of the gardens was not overdone.

Zorine is a beautiful model, and when I saw her she had on a green flimsy dress, and her attendants, in black, took her gown off, and she had nothing on. RAYMOND BENKIE.

David Darrah Returns to His Work in Europe

Many Chicagoans Travel Eastward for Autumn Vacations on the Continent.

DAVID DARRAH of the foreign staf of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE left Thursday on the City of Norfolk with Mrs. Darrah for London, where he will resume his work as correspondent. Departing on the same ship to visit relatives in England were Mrs. Juanita Brown and Mrs. Gwyneth Shaffer. Fellow passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Doenges and their daughter, Helen, of Connorsville, Ind.; Mrs. F. W. Lloyd and her daughter, Florence, and Mrs. Anna McSweeney of South Bend, Ind., and Frederick Suber of Indianapolis. P. J. Browne left last week on the American Shipper for a trip to Ireland.

Miss Margaret Bradley left Thursday on the Berengaria to spend the rest of September and October traveling through England, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and France. Gordon Loud took the same ship to join the Oriental institute's expedition at Iraq. Also aboard were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Morgan of Milwaukee.

Planning to spend an entire year motoring abroad, Miss Sue Maher took her automobile with her when she sailed Wednesday on the President Harding. In addition to motoring through the British isles, France, Spain, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy, Miss Maher will visit Egypt—if war does not upset her plans. Mrs. Russell Lord of Lake Forest also left on the President Harding with her daughters, Betty and Kathleen, whom she will enter in a French school.

Going Over for Autumn Vacations.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Goodman of Glencoe, who plan to leave Wednesday on the Normandie, are going over to visit relatives in England and to travel through Scotland, France, and Switzerland. Miss Leona Lendeman left yesterday on the Ile de France to make an extensive tour of Germany. She also will visit London and Paris. Fellow passengers were Miss Jean Handelman, who will visit relatives in London, and Thomas Coleman of Milwaukee.

Selecting Italy for their autumn travels, Miss Marion Getty, Mrs. Pauline Burk, F. W. Armstrong, Mrs. George B. Morrison, James C. Maloney, and Miss Gertrude Schonherr sailed last week on the Conte Grande. Mrs. Bessie Marischler and her son, Eugene, left on the same ship to visit her mother in Czechoslovakia. Also aboard the Italian liner were Dr. and Mrs. Adolph Bigge with their children, Adolph Jr. and Marie, and Raymond Reister, all of Lexington, Ky.

On the Queen of Bermuda when it left for Bermuda Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglass Cooper, J. J. Cuniffe, W. P. Bager, Miss Angela M. Reilly, and Miss A. Kennedy, all of Chicago, and the Misses Marion Kuhn and Alice Klein of Milwaukee. On the March of Bermuda were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Curry, Mrs. K. Broderick, and the Misses J. Knehr, Mary Carr, and Grace Phillipi, all of this city; Mrs. Thomas R. Fowler and Miss Elsie Fowler of Oak Park, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Hill of Robinson, Ill., and Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Chapman of Bay City, Mich.

Westbound Ships Bulge with Travelers.

Sailing on the Bremen at midnight Wednesday were Mrs. R. Dickinson, Taylor Wilson, Thomas Coleman, Dr. and Mrs. M. A. De Kock, and Vander Lely, all of Chicago, and Charles Nash Miller and Tupper S. Allen of Kenosha. On the Exeter were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Altman and Mrs. Grace Malcolm. On the Lafayette were R. W. Walholm and his family.

While crossing the Atlantic these European bound vacationists will pass numerous ocean liners steaming homeward with passengers all but bulging through the portholes. The Aquitania left European shores Wednesday with these Chicagoans aboard: Judge and Mrs. Evan A. Evans, Dr. Ernest McEwen, Dr. Mary McEwen, Harry Nugens, Mrs. Edith M. Ennis and daughter, Jane; Meyer Abrams, Mr. and Mrs. John U. Nef, Mrs. Donald Green, Mrs. W. C. Beaufort, Alexis Thompson, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ainsworth. The Georgic sailed two days later with Mrs. T. W. Englehart, the Rev. M. Hanley, Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Metzenburg, Mrs. D. M. Russell, Mrs. I. P. Louis and daughter, Babette; Mrs. John Stillwell, Richard Newcomb Stillwell, Miss Estelle de Vries, the Rev. J. L. Kearns, and Dr. M. F. McGuire.

More than fifty Chicagoans will debark from the Normandie in New York tomorrow. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. John V. Ryan Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Speigel, D. R. McLennan, Donald McLannan Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fox and daughter, Joan; Miss Jennie Nelson, Henry J. Patten, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Wallace and son, Robert; Mrs. P. J. Evans, Miss Jean Murray, Charles E. Meeks, Theodore C. Butz, Howard H. Butz, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Minas, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mead, Edward Katzinger, John B. Whitehead, Mrs. Blanche Seelman and daughter, Jacqueline; Mrs. A. Orsine and daughter, Mary; J. Leth, Bernard Lob, Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Ucitel and daughters, Viola and Evelyn; Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Mulford, Phillip G. Friend, Camiel de Kaiser, Frank Iltis, Miss Wilma Wilkes, W. S. Benser, Ray I. Kingbeil, Morris Bolkin, and Miss Matilda Fendberg.

Aboard the American Trader as she sails westward today are Mr. and Mrs. George Watson, Prof. and Mrs. E. D. Jordon and son, Roderick; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McClanahan, and Miss Mary Cory. Aboard the President Roosevelt are Mr. and Mrs. Anton Laadt, Mrs. Arthur Basse and daughter, Betty; Miss Bertha Paulsen, and Mrs. Robert N. Kolinsky and daughters, Phyllis and Shirley. Mrs. Frieda Heidritz and the Misses Elizabeth McCann and Elizabeth Biedermann returned last week on the City of Norfolk.

The Samaria sailed yesterday for the states with James Collins, Miss Mathilda Maxwell, Miss Kate I. Mathews, Mrs. E. W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Anderson, and Miss Naomi Anderson.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

THIS is the time of year when half the male population of the middle west turns its eyes toward Canada and its big game areas. All the way from Nova Scotia to British Columbia the moose, caribou, deer, and bear are getting ready to keep their rendezvous with the bullets of those hunters who can manage to get away for what is usually regarded as one of the greatest sports to be had on the North American continent.

In the three provinces—Quebec, Ontario, and Manitoba—closest to Chicago there are still millions of acres of game haunts. Ever since the early days the people have hugged closely to the main waterways, so that the bulk of the area has remained unexploited — great natural sanctuaries where the animals of the forest are unhampered and unharried except in the open season in the fall.

● South of the St. Lawrence river in Quebec the moose season opened Friday. North of the river it opened Sept. 10. In both cases it will remain that way until Nov. 30. This year the caribou is protected in that province except in the counties of Bonaventure, Matane, and Gaspe. Under this protection the caribou, native of the north, is gradually moving southward.

Along the fringe of civilization in Quebec the deer are plentiful. They are more frequently seen than is any other species of wild life. Another species, the black bear, has become so prolific in some parts of the province that a price has been put on his head. The season is open on both species now, and there appears to be little difficulty in finding them with a gun.

● The moose and deer in Ontario are protected until later in the fall. The season opens Oct. 25 this year in the region north of the Mattawa river, Lake Nipissing, and the French river, and Nov. 5 south of that line. Caribou and elk are protected, but the huntsman can fire away at a bear any time he wishes—provided he has the proper license.

In Manitoba the elk and antelope are protected at all times, but the deer, caribou, and moose are hereby warned that they must be prepared for the hunters' invasion beginning Nov. 25.

● It was twelve years ago that THE TRIBUNE published a story by Capt. Joseph Medill Patterson, with illustrations by John T. McCutcheon, on their jaunt into the wilds of Canada to get their game. The story carried the heading: "Bull Moose, Hunting a Lovesick Cow, Finds a Bullet." It attracted a lot of attention at the time, and those Chicagoans who hadn't known much about the sport learned about it then. A great many of them have been journeying northward every autumn ever since.

Wedding Again Preempts the Social Spotlight

Kellogg Fairbank Jr.-Dorothy Cornell Nuptials Rule Week's Festivities.

By Judith Cass.

LAKE GENEVA will be the destination of many fashionable folk next Saturday, for on that afternoon will be solemnized the wedding of Kellogg Fairbank Jr. and his charming young fiancée from New York, Miss June Cornell. The service will be read in the town's little Episcopal church, erected through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel K. Fairbank, grandparents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. George Sturgis, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dunlap, none of whom are now living, but all of whom were once prominent and loyal Lake Genevans.

Four o'clock is the hour set for the ceremony. Since the church is small and both the bride and bridegroom have large family connections in Chicago, the invitation list has been limited to relatives and a few intimate friends.

Reception at The Butternuts to Be Large.

The reception will be larger, however, for The Butternuts, the Kellogg Fairbanks' Lake Geneva residence, is large and noted for its hospitality. It was decided to have the wedding in Lake Geneva instead of in New York, where the bride and her mother, Mrs. John Francis Cornell, have been living because they moved to Gotham only a few years ago from Kansas City and still find their ties with the middle west stronger than those with the east. The bride's sister, Mrs. Stewart Harvey, lives in Chicago. It was while Miss Cornell was visiting her that she met Mr. Fairbank.

Miss Dorothy Williams, who has been associated with the bride at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, is coming west to be Miss Cornell's only attendant, and Benjamin Ayer Fairbank will serve his brother as best man. This week will be gay with parties for the bride and groom-to-be, who are spending this week-end at Lake Geneva, resting and preparing for the busy week ahead of them. Miss Cornell and her mother just arrived from the east and will be with the Harveys until the wedding.

North Avenue Day Nursery Will Give Headdress Ball.

One of the first of the many autumn benefits will take place next Saturday night at the Drake when the North Avenue Day Nursery gives its annual party. This year it is to be a headdress ball, and if it is as successful as the parties the young directors have planned the last few years it is sure to be one of the highlights of the social season from the standpoint of the young marrieds and unmarrieds who enjoy such affairs. Mrs. William D. Cox, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr., Mrs. Elliott Donnelley, Mrs. John H. Noyes, Miss Honor Merrell, Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr., Mrs. John Beadle, Mrs. John D. Ames, and Mrs. Theron Chapman are some of the young women active in managing the party.

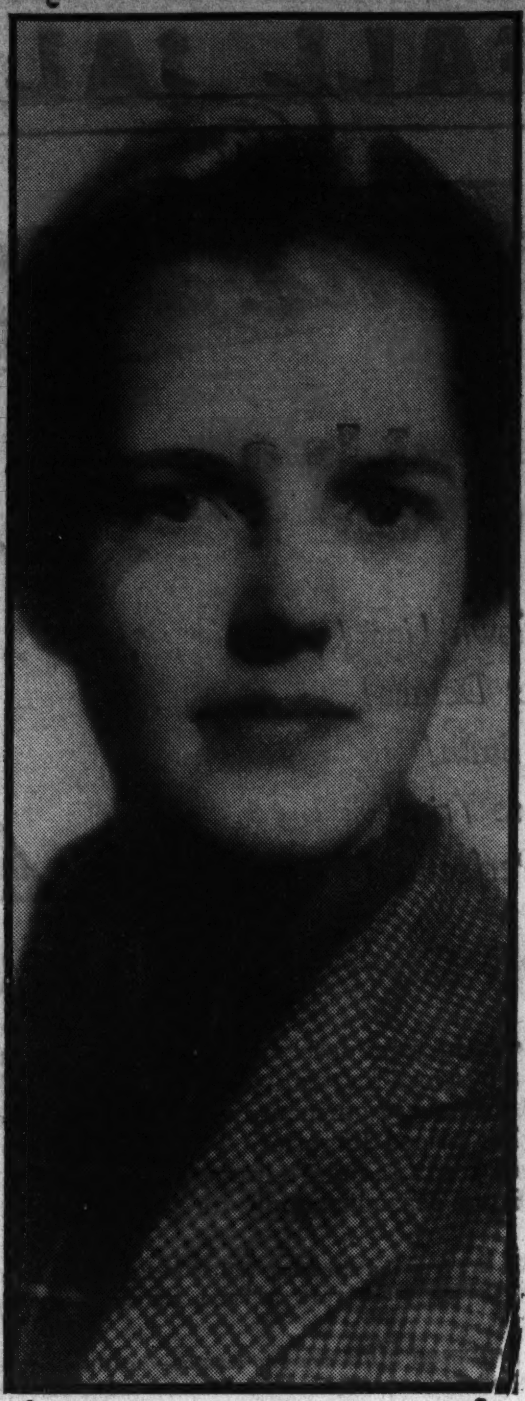
The women who are working under the capable direction of Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne to sell tickets for the Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts this season are as busy as bees these days trying to surpass their own efforts last spring, which brought such satisfactory results. They are making an intensive campaign for season ticket holders for the Thursday evening concerts, for the Friday and Tuesday afternoon ones. The children's concerts are already almost sold out. The season opens on Oct. 17.

Oberndorfers Again Give Symphony Study Classes.

The woman's committee again is sponsoring a program of symphony concert study classes, which the Marx Oberndorfers will conduct in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field's and in a private dining room of the Fred Harvey restaurant. These classes make the concerts more enjoyable and interesting. They were well attended last year. The classes at Field's will be on Friday and alternate Tuesday mornings at 10:45 o'clock, starting on Oct. 18, and the ones at Harvey's will be on Thursday evenings at 6 o'clock, commencing on Oct. 17. They are open to all season subscribers.

The subcommittees within the woman's committee and their chairmen are as follows: Boxes, Mrs. William M. Spencer, Mrs. Edison Dick, and Mrs. Emanuel F. Rosenbaum Jr.; north side, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, Mrs. William W. Dixon, Mrs. William J. Stenson, and Mrs. J. Harry Selz; south side, Mrs. Horace B. Horton, Mrs. Josiah Pegues, Mrs. Raymond H. Gifford, and Mrs. Frank L. Sulzberger; La Grange, Mrs. Thomas Peck; Evanston, Mrs. Herbert Alden Seymour and Mrs. William Barnes; Winnetka, Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, and Mrs. William S. Hay; Kenilworth, Mrs. Amuel B. Spach; Wilmette, Mrs. Robert Zimmermann; Highland Park, Mrs. Werner Wieboldt; Lake Forest, Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell; Oak Park, Mrs. Telfer MacArthur; schools, Mrs. Bradley Downing; clubs, Mrs. H. B. Vanzwoll; publicity, Mrs. Louis Skidmore.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham is honorary chairman of the committee, the vice chairmen of which are Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. John Paul Welling, and Mrs. Karl Meyer.



WILL ATTEND VASSAR

Miss Lydia Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland T. Hastings of Highland Park, will be going this fall to Vassar, where her mother, the former Ruth Beebe, her aunt, Mrs. Charles P. Blaney (Helen Beebe) of New York, a great aunt and a grandmother all went to college. The Chicago and North Shore Vassar clubs awarded their joint scholarship of $500 to Miss awarded their joint scholarship to Miss Hastings.

Historic Racing Event Holds Interest of Eastern Society

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK The last Saturday in September means only one thing to the sporting gentry on Long Island's north shore. It's the day when all fashionable fellows and their sturdy steeds get together on the F. Ambrose Clark estate in Westbury for the annual running of the Meadow Brook cup. No other race meet in society is as eagerly anticipated as the historic steeplechase on the picturesque pastures of Broad Hollow house. Ever since the Meadow Brook was first run back in 1883 it has been one of the Four Hundred's favorite sporting events.

There'll be no automobile within horn honking distance of the race course when the horse loving gentry assemble at the Clark acres come Saturday. Tallyhos and rigs of all descriptions may drive right up to the edge of the hunting enclosure, but modern vehicles that make ugly horse-disturbing noises are politely but firmly barred.

The Cornelius Vanderbilt [Sonny] Whitneys, the Charles E. F. McCanns, the William Goadby Loews, and the Clarks can be counted on to bring out their coaches, all scrubbed and polished for the occasion.

Pete Bostwick's Wife to Race Under Own Colors.

One of the most colorful sights on the scene will be Host Clark patroling the course in gray bowler and fancy tweeds. Unless we miss our best guess, 'Brose will be snug in the saddle of his favorite dappled gray pinto, a horse short enough for Mr. Clark to dismount without flexing a muscle.

The Clarks' favorite nephew, George H. [Pete] Bostwick will naturally be in the competition next Saturday. But what is more interesting is the fact that his pretty blonde wife, the former Laura Curtis, is racing under her own colors.

Somehow or other Mrs. Pete Bostwick has managed—without fanfare—to acquire a small steeplechase stable of her own.

Fugitive, the fast timber topper Laura purchased from Adelaide Durant, has been entered by his pretty young owner in Saturday's meet. Pete will let his wife do all the racing for the coveted Meadow Brook cup. He's contented himself with subscribing to the Hayes Memorial cup, an event added to the Meadow Brook program two years ago.

The meet will start at 11:30 a. m. instead of noon this year. The Clarks, as usual, will spread their scrumptious festive board for several hundred guests after the races. The Clark luncheon will be served on the sweeping lawns of the estate, with the strains of the 7th regiment band as musical background.

Dozens of Great Sportsmen Enter Their Bangtails.

Dozens of other great sportsmen in society have entered their bangtails and will rally round to see them run. The Meadow Brook steeplechase also has Mrs. T. H. Somerville, Raymond Guest, Johnny Schiff, Thomas B. Gay, Mrs. Vadim Makaroff, and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan as subscribers.

Entries in the Wheatley Hills cup have been nominated by Mrs. Somerville, the Johnny Schiffs, Robert B. Young, R. K. Mellon, 'Brose Clark, Liz Whitney, Mrs. Garvan, M. B. Metcalf, and Mrs. Frank M. Gould.

Gladys Whitney, Mrs. William Goadby Loew, Mrs. Harold E. Talbott, and Tommy Hitchcock have entered their jumpers in the Hayes Memorial race.

Titled Britons Return from Air Tour of Europe

LONDON Sir John Lavery and Lord Semphill recently returned from an air trip over nearly all of Europe. These two men are bound by the common sorrow of losing their wives. Lady Lavery, the former Hazel Martin of Chicago, died after a lingering illness, and Lady Semphill, Sir John Lavery's daughter, died suddenly at her Hampstead home. Sir John Lavery recently received the honor of the "freedom of the city of Dublin" in appreciation of his gift of an important historical group of his pictures to the city. They were given in memory of his wife, who was instrumental many times in effecting important political conferences.

British Transport Ministry Seeking Accident Causes

LONDON

The ministry of transport is trying to classify the "accident prone" motor drivers who, as the statistics show, have repeated accidents and are responsible for the vast majority of the heavy casualties on the roads.

Present indications are that they are under 23 years of age and over 60, but the spokesman for the ministry says that further tabulation may alter the year groups somewhat.

The insurance companies also have been compiling figures showing the districts which have the most accidents, but it is not clear whether their unenviable record is due to their having the highest percentage of "accident prones" or merely bad trafic traps which lead to accidents.

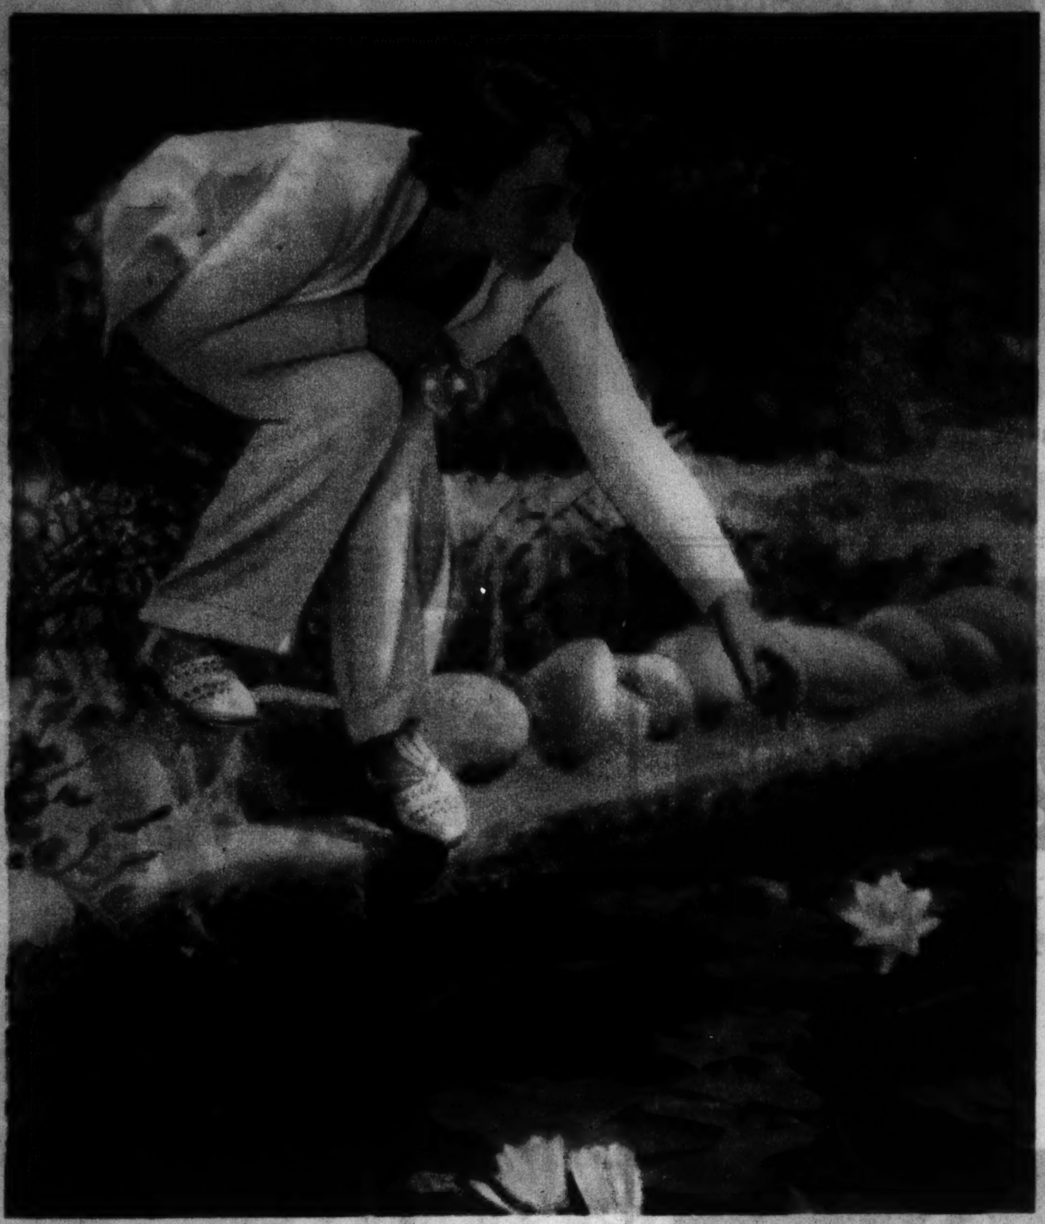
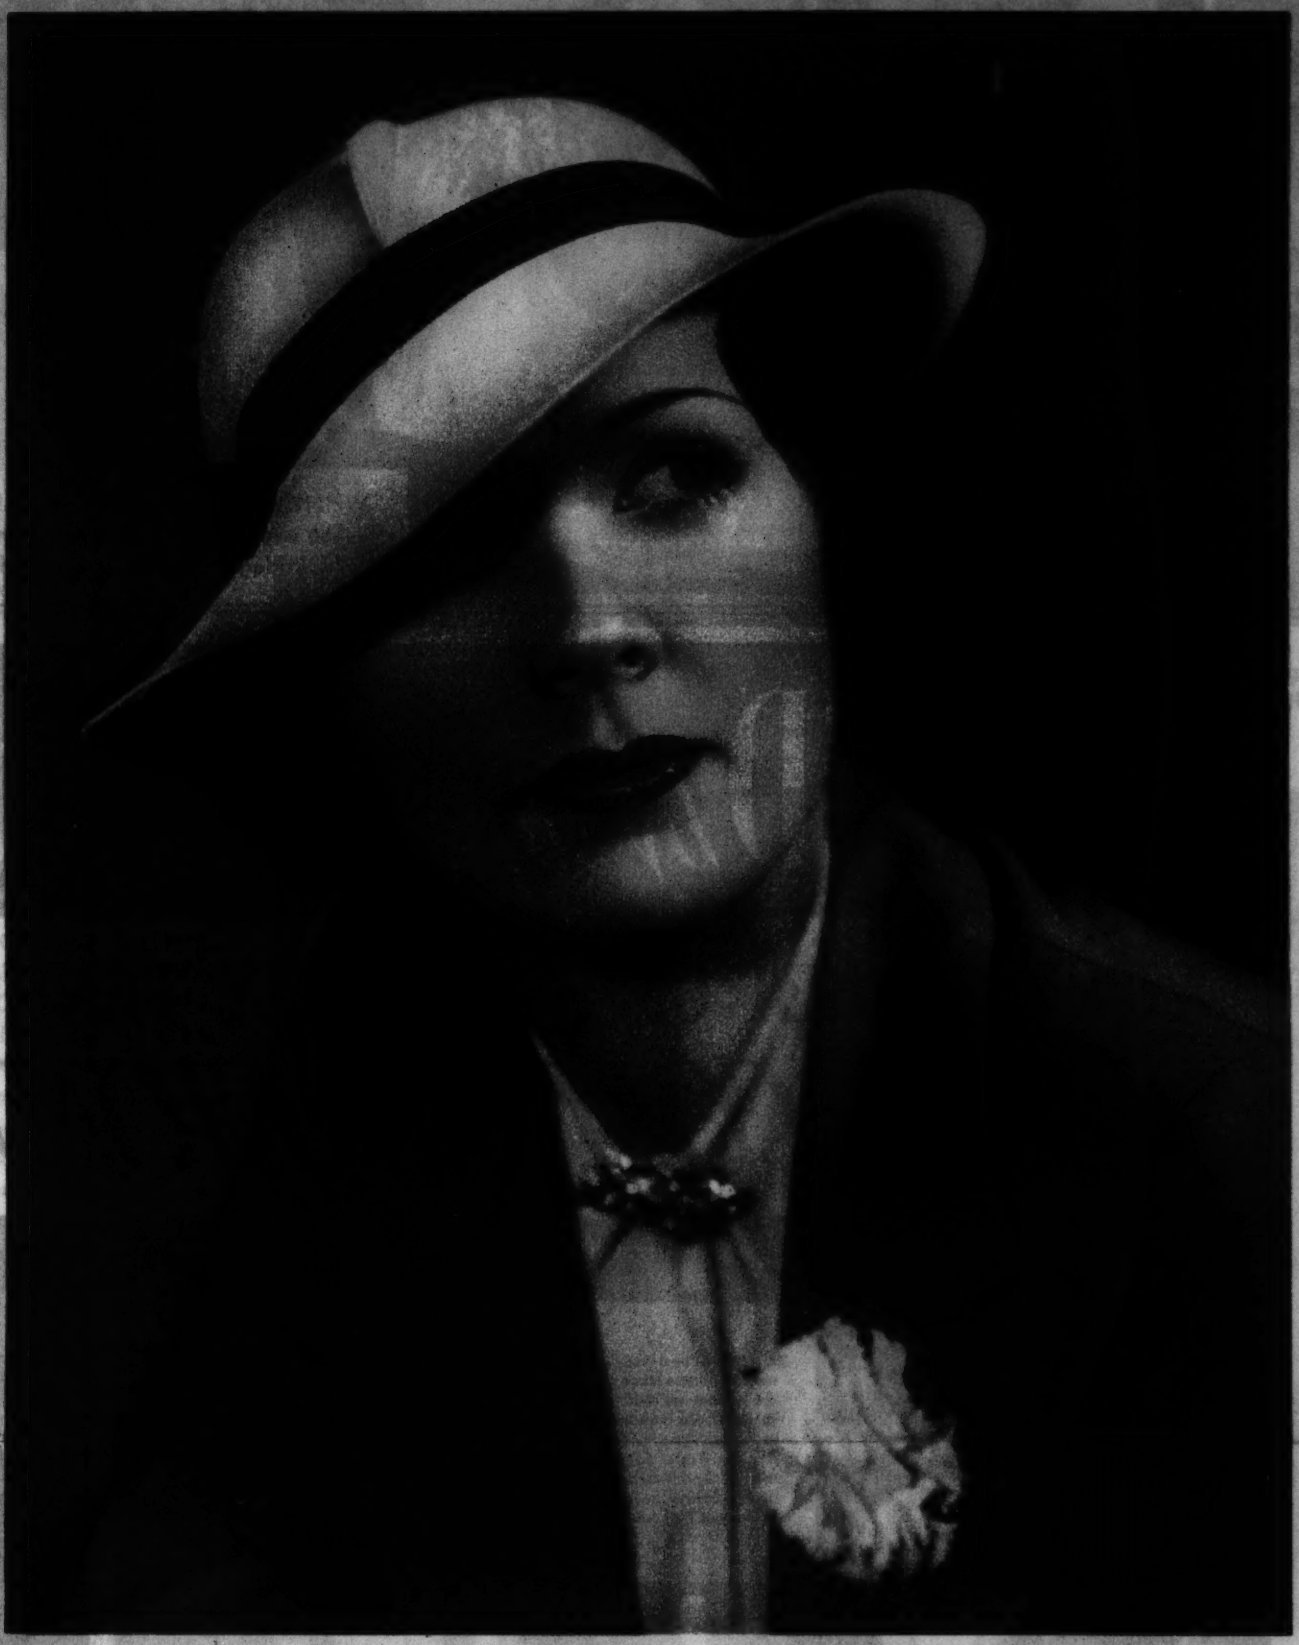
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

September 22, 1935

STARS OF THE SCREEN: A FOURSOME OF RADIANT CHARM



A LINGUISTIC PRODIGY FROM VIENNA—Within two months after Luise Rainer had come to America, with no knowledge of English, she had mastered the language! (We have the press agent's word for that.) Petite. Elfin. Eyes that enchant.



MAGIC IN HER TOES—A Pavlowa of tap dancing is Eleanor Powell, blue-eyed brunette from Springfield, Mass. She is under contract for seven years with the movie makers, but of late has been on furlough to the New York stage.

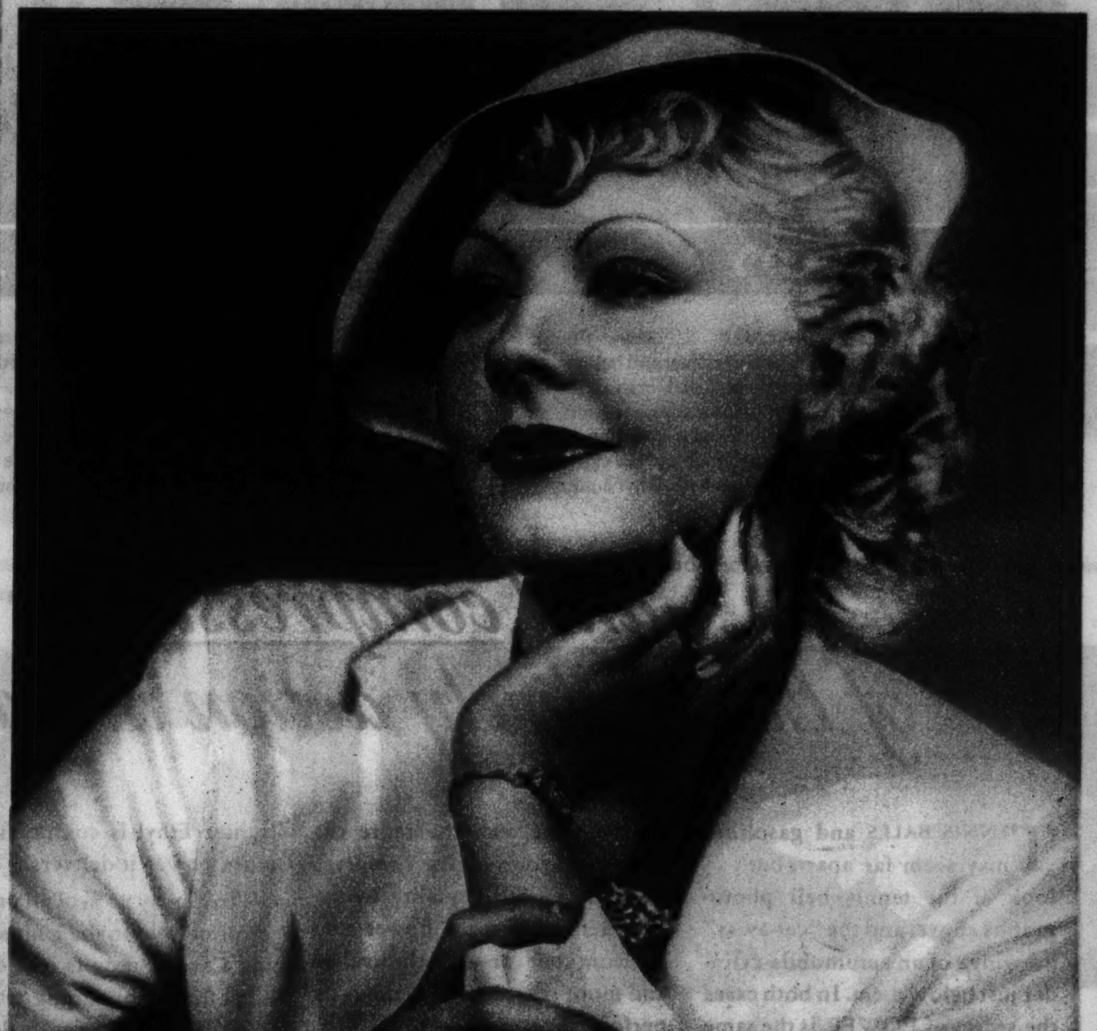
ANOTHER CHARMER OF THE DANCE—Previously admired for beauty and charm, slim Ginger Rogers has become quite as renowned for the talent of her twinkling feet since she has been co-starred with Fred Astaire.



A CHILD PRODIGY OF THE FOOTLIGHTS, behind which she began her career at the age of seven, June Knight has been in the movies but three short years. Propitious years, though, during which blonde Miss Knight has had success after success.

THE SECRET OF THE LIVELY TENNIS BALL IS

Unretouched stop-motion photos taken at the almost incredible speed of one hundred thousand shots a second, by Profs. Edgerton and Germeshausen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

READY . . . Above: Photo shows racquet and ball about to meet. Left: Drawing based on photo shows piston in cylinder of car engine starting up to compress vapor of gasoline with Ethyl fluid.

GO! Above: The ball leaps away from the racquet. Left: The piston goes down with full power because combustion has been made smooth and even—free from knock—by the action of Ethyl!

–and compression is the secret of Ethyl's lively action in your car's engine!

TENNIS BALLS and gasolines may seem far apart, but . . . look at the tennis ball photographs above, and the "cut-away" drawings of an automobile cylinder just below them. In both cases the secret of POWER is the same —compressibility.

Take a lively tennis ball—of championship quality—for instance. The harder your racquet hits it, the more it compresses; and the more it compresses, the more power you get in your stroke.

In the same way, the more the pistons of your engine compress gasoline of Ethyl quality in the cylinders, the more power you get from your car—and the livelier and more responsive becomes its performance.

Gasoline containing Ethyl fluid has this quality of compressibility more than any other motor fuel. It doesn't break down, knock, and waste power under the terrific squeezing of modern high compression engines. Instead, the tighter Ethyl is compressed, the more power it delivers.

That's why 95% of all premium gasoline sold in the United States and Canada now is treated with Ethyl fluid (containing tetraethyl lead). That's why car dealers say: "Modern high compression cars need Ethyl to deliver their full performance." To get all the power and pleasure from your car investment, always stop at the Ethyl pump! Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, New York City.

ALWAYS LOOK! Only gasoline sold from pumps bearing the Ethyl trademark on globe or body contains sufficient Ethyl fluid to bring out the full performance of modern high compression cars.

To get ALL the power of your car.. NEXT TIME GET ETHYL!

THE BROWN BOMBER VS THE CLOUTING CLOWN

... and only RIT offers
FAST COLORS WITHOUT BOILING

CHANGE the color—and you change the dress—make it new, modish, flattering again!

Unless you've tried Rit recently, you've no idea how easy it is. Rit contains a patented ingredient that makes the color soak in deeper, set faster, and last longer—WITHOUT HARSH BOILING THAT WEAKENS FABRICS, and tires you out.

Rit is a blessing too for curtains, draperies, lingerie, children's clothes, linens—bringing bright, cheery color to anything at such small cost.

Rit is a concentrated wafer, quick-dissolving, scored for easy measuring—won't sift out of the box. Not like other home dyes because patented. Be sure you get RIT. At all stores—15c and 10c.

THEY BOTH EXPLODED
...WHEN THE TRUTH CAME OUT
TALK ABOUT MY BAD BREATH, BOB WARD! YOU'RE GUILTY YOURSELF! I'LL NOT HAVE YOU...
JUST LIKE A WOMAN—GETTING HYSTERICAL BECAUSE I TOLD YOU THE TRUTH!
BOB CAN'T BE RIGHT...WITH ALL THE CARE I TAKE TO AVOID BAD BREATH! I'LL PROVE IT BY ASKING THE DENTIST!
THE TROUBLE IS, BETTY—MOST PEOPLE DON'T REALLY GET AT THE CAUSE OF BAD BREATH. MOST OF IT COMES FROM IMPROPER CLEANING—FROM FOOD DEPOSITS BETWEEN THE TEETH, WHICH ORDINARY DENTIFRICES FAIL TO REMOVE.
THEN BOB WAS RIGHT!
BOB TOO, WENT TO HIS DENTIST
YOU SEE, BOB, YOU MUST USE AN ACTIVE CLEANER. I SUGGEST COLGATE DENTAL CREAM BECAUSE ITS PENETRATING FOAM GETS INTO THE CREVICES WHERE BAD BREATH STARTS.
THAT MAKES SENSE TO ME. I'LL DO AS YOU SAY!
DR. WEBB WAS RIGHT! COLGATE'S SURE LEAVES YOUR MOUTH FEELING CLEAN AND FRESH!
MY! HOW QUICKLY COLGATE'S HAS BRIGHTENED MY TEETH!
SO TWICE A DAY AFTER THAT
LATER

Most Bad Breath Begins with the Teeth!

WHY risk bad breath? When it is so easy to get at the most common cause—improperly cleaned teeth! Use Colgate Dental Cream! Its penetrating foam removes the decaying food deposits that lodge in the hidden crevices between your teeth—where ordinary cleaning methods fail to reach.

At the same time, a soft, grit-free ingredient gently, safely polishes the enamel—makes teeth sparkle. Get Colgate's today! And be sure that your teeth are always sparkling . . . that your breath is purer and sweeter!

Kotex
Same price as regular Super
Kotex
Wondersoft Kotex

Now 3 TYPES OF KOTEX

to suit different women—and for different days

REGULAR KOTEX
in the blue box

For the ordinary needs of most women, Regular Kotex is ideal. Combines full protection with utmost comfort. The millions who are completely satisfied with Regular will have no reason to change.

JUNIOR KOTEX
in the green box

Somewhat narrower—is this Junior Kotex. Designed at the request of women of slight stature, and younger girls. Thousands will find it suitable for certain days when less protection is need.

SUPER KOTEX
in the brown box

For more protection on some days it's only natural that you desire a napkin with greater absorbency. That's Super Kotex! It gives you that extra protection, yet is no longer or wider than Regular.

Each type offers the three exclusive Kotex features★

CAN'T CHAFE

CAN'T FAIL

★ The Equalizer center. This exclusive feature gives greater protection because it distributes moisture in channels lengthwise. Thus, you gain security without added bulk. Then, too, danger of roping and pulling is reduced to a minimum.

CAN'T SHOW

NOW a way has been found to give you greater comfort at times when comfort means so much. There are certain days when you require more protection than on others. That's why the Kotex Laboratories developed three different types of Kotex . . . the Regular, the Junior (slightly narrower), and Super which offers extra protection.

Select Kotex, day by day, according to your own personal needs, perhaps one type for today, another for tomorrow. Some women may need all three types. Discover for yourself what a difference this can make in your comfort and protection.

TRY QUEST—the Positive Deodorant Powder for Personal Daintiness. The perfect deodorant powder for use with Kotex . . . and for every need! Quest is a dainty, soothing powder, safe to use. Buy Quest when you buy Kotex—only 35c.

The Knit-tex Coat $25

THIS is an actual photograph, not a glorified artist's drawing. It shows a regular Knit-tex Coat on an average man and that is the way the coat will look on you.

It is drizzle proof and due to the special construction of the cloth, it is so light in weight you will hardly know you have a coat on your shoulders; yet it is warm enough for all but the coldest days of Winter. It never wrinkles, seldom needs pressing and outwears two average topcoats. The price is $25.

THERE is also the Angora Knit-tex Coat at $30. Angora is one of the softest and most luxurious of natural fibres. It is the hair of the Angora goat which is raised in mountainous regions where the days are hot and the nights very cold. The hair covering of the animal must therefore adapt itself to these two climatic extremes.

That is the reason why these soft luxurious Angora Coats are so seemingly weightless on mild days and yet so snug and warm on colder days.

Go to the Knit-tex store in your city and try on one of the many new Fall Knit-tex styles. You will find that store listed in the column at the left.

WINS IN SEWING SPEED CONTEST—Mrs. George Maxim, shown here receiving the blue ribbon in a recent sewing machine race, reveals her secret, "Of course, I've been sewing a long time, and that gives you speed. But the real reason I won—and I may as well tell you—is that I was using J. & P. Coats best 6-cord thread, and it seldom breaks. You'd be surprised at the time you can waste, because of a snapping thread!"

MORE THAN 5,000 DISHWASHINGS . . AND STILL

Her Hands Stay so Beautiful!

Mrs. George Werdann, 43-09 47th Street, Queens, N. Y.

Only Super Suds could protect Mrs. Werdann's hands, keep them smooth and soft through 5 years of daily dishwashing. Read here why.

"THERE'S nothing like Super Suds for keeping your hands lovely in spite of daily dishwashing!" That is the advice of Mrs. Werdann and the millions of other women who have used this remarkably different soap for as many as 7 years.

For Super Suds is a new form of soap—created specially for dishwashing. Made in tiny hollow beads, it dissolves instantly, completely! Unlike the average, slow-dissolving soap, it leaves no undissolved particles . . . no impurities that irritate tender skin and give hands that red, ugly, "dishwashing" look!

And because Super Suds dissolves so quickly, so completely, it makes dishwashing far quicker and easier. It leaves no gummy, undissolved particles to streak or mar dishes or glasses. Just a quick rinse and they come sparkling clean in a jiffy.

The newest THING IN POULTRY STUFFING

2 minced onions
½ cup melted butter
2 cups sliced Brazil Nuts
Salt and pepper
Sage or other herbs
8 cups soft bread crumbs

Mince onions and cook two minutes in the butter. Mix nuts and seasoning with bread crumbs and stir into butter. Cook two minutes more, stirring constantly. If a moist stuffing is desired, add a little water. This amount of stuffing is enough for a ten-pound turkey.

Incorporate Brazil Nuts in muffins, cookies, cakes, breads. Use in sandwich fillings, and slice over salads. Buy Brazils shelled or in the shell. At all grocers, nut shops and food departments.

The makers of GULISTAN RUGS Announce Amazing New Luxury Values

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

Prices everyone can afford!

RUG ILLUSTRATED IS GULISTAN 5152, CHINESE RENAISSANCE DESIGN

In seven years the famous Gulistan Rug has done something unique in the history of rugs. It has made millions feel they must have a luxury rug in their homes. For every family that bought Gulistan there were twenty more that longed for it and often said so, but could not afford it. • The makers of Gulistan determined to meet this popular appeal and during the depression actually expanded plant and invented loom improvements to do it! • "There must be a quality rug at every price worthy to be labeled a member of the Gulistan family..." that was the object. • Eight months of urgent public demand for these popular price rugs have now gone by. Today, hundreds of additional retailers are selling them to thousands of new customers! • What does it mean to you? It means that even if you wish to pay sixty or ninety dollars LESS than the price of the Gulistan Rug you will find there is a real quality rug at that price from the same maker and that he is proud enough of it to put his label on it! • The long generations of monotonous floor coverings are at an end. Finer making and finer styling are penetrating to all the rugs you can afford... and from the true Oriental source! • Persian and Chinese handwovens, glorious Gulistan reproductions, luxurious Wiltons, Axminsters such as were never made before, beautiful Broadlooms, fascinating Texture Rugs, glowing Plain Shade Carpets—they all come now with the Gulistan label guaranteeing fine origin. • See them for yourself! Identify them by the label illustrated below. This is not just another rug season. It is a new rug era.
